THE HIGH SCHOOL JOB.

That the Board of Education not only intends to protect itself in the future, but also the creditors of contractors who may do school work has been made evident by the attitude adopted in making plans for the completion of the High School building. The lesson of the P. J. Exner Company failure is one that will not soon be forgotten, and the Board will be on its guard in the future.

We understand that in Bound Brook a contract was recently let for a new school building, and in addition to giving a bond for the completion of the work to the satisfaction of the Board of Education the contractor was compelled to give a second one which protects every creditor with whom he does business. Reputable contractors would have no trouble in getting bonding companies to guarantee them in such a case, while those who have shady reputations would be unable to procure responsible surety. This would prevent them complying with the terms of the contract and thus keep irresponsible persons from bidding.

The High School addition has brought serious loss to many creditors of the Exner Company. As we understand it the Board of Education has about $59,000 still in its possession which has not been paid for work already done. The figures submitted to complete the work are $46,700. That leaves a little over $12,000 to be divided between the creditors of the Exner Company, whose claims are said to be about $30,000. In other words the plan adopted by the Board of Education will give the creditors about forty per cent. Had the surety company been called upon to complete the job, the creditors would not have received a cent. It is therefore a matter for congratulation that the plan which has been adopted was decided upon. It is also gratifying to know that local contractors were given the chance to complete the work, after the Exner Company failed.

PUPILS AND BUSINESS.

Reference has been made several times of late to the effort on the part of William Jeffery, president of the Board of Trade, to learn whether or not the graduates of our local grammar and high schools are being properly fitted for business. In answers to queries sent out by Mr. Jeffery, some of the local business men reported that they do not think the graduates nowadays are properly prepared for a business life. Evidently the same complaint has been made in other cities, for we frequently read of plans which are being worked out to make better business men and women of the high school and grammar school pupils.

Up in Boston a score of seniors from the high school recently took letters of introduction from the Chamber of Commerce and visited business men and merchants of the city to get ideas upon the best kind of preparation for pupils expecting to enter commercial ranks after graduation. The investigation, which was originated by the public school department but was carried out by the commercial men's organization, will result in information upon which may be based a practical program of study.

The same educational procedure is one which Plainfield may consider with profit. It has been usual for educators to proceed to outline a study after theories gained from conventions, normal schools, colleges or books. Has it been any wonder that the results have been a failure in many cases, particularly along those lines of study proposing to fit students for life after commencement week? It is not to be wondered at that the New York Board of Education went to the business men, the employers of their pupils, to learn what has been wrong; nor was it strange that the head of the Minneapolis schools asked merchants and employers to submit lists of words most used and usually misspelled by students entering commercial tasks.

Boston advances a step beyond either New York or Minneapolis; it is sending its pupils out to gather the data essential for making more nearly perfect the preparation of school children for after life. These pupils are backed by the schools and the business men; they return with information gathered by future employes from employers, for whom the schools are seeking to render mutual benefits.

It will be a good thing for educators, pupils, Board of Trade and business men to combine to do what Boston is doing. Boston, the city of books and theory, turned to a city with schools for practical life preparation. The plan promises to bring about beneficial changes in the old center of learning and culture; it would work close to a revolution in the local schools, it would bring about the evolution, much sought, of practical education of the youth and interest them by enlisting them in it.

THE FORUM.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

May I add a word to Miss Lawrence's criticism of Mrs. Blatch's reply to Mayor Mitchell? Mrs. Blatch, it seems to me, was singularly unfortunate in the example she chose for refuting the Mayor's statement that the women will get the vote when enough women wants it.

She pictured a number of railroad men discussing the acceptance of an air brake for trains, Presumably this air brake came well recommended, but would not any sane railroad men insist on a practical demonstration of its work, and if it did not prove more effective than the brakes already in use, would they not, in the interest of the public refuse to go to the risk and expense of a change?

Has equal suffrage been so successful as to call for a change which seems to so many not only needless but dangerous?

In answer to this question let me quote from a letter to the New York Times. The writer begins by referring to the prominence given to Colorado by the Suffragists quoting a "Suffragist of national reputation" as asserting "that the women of Colorado have taken her government firmly in hand and may now be said to run that great State," and then goes on to say:

"But suddenly, in a most dreadful and dramatic manner, Colorado stands revealed as a State in which government has completely broken down. So inept and inefficient has she shown herself that she has been compelled to admit that she cannot enforce her own laws and to go to the humiliating lenght of begging for Federal aid. Now, either the information disseminated by the Suffragists is erroneous or the women voters are largely responsible for this sad condition of affairs."

Again the writer quoted, says:

"Since the days when Edward O. Wolcott and Henry M. Feller gave Colorado a standing in the United States Senate out of all proportion to her general importance there has been a steady and marked deterioration in the character of her public servants. Other States have purified their elections, but Colorado's remain corrupt * * * * * * She elected Guggenheim to the Senate in the same year that New Jersey dropped Dryden. The 'great leaders' of whom she now boasts are men like Judge Lindsay, who, undoubtedly sincere and well meaning, are so lacking in balance and judgment that they frequently injure the excellent causes they espouse."

Would it not be wiser to test the suffrage "air brake" somewhat longer where it is already installed before extending its use?

ELIZABETH B. SYKES.

ENDRESS SAYS AUTO TRUCK IS HUMANITARIAN AGENT

In the opinion of Mr. Fred Endress of the Reo Motor Car Co., the automobile truck is the greatest humanitarian agent the world has known.

"The Auto Truck," said Mr. Endress, "has done more to eliminate animal suffering than any other invention of which I have ever heard. I hope the time will come when it will be a criminal offense for any business concern to use horse-drawn commercial vehicles. If the truck were a luxury, solely within the reach of the large business establishments, there might be some excuse for retaining horses in commercial service, but it has been actually proven that a truck can be purchased and operated more cheaply than a horse or tram and wagon. I, for one, will certainly pray for the complete emancipation of these dumb brutes from the slavery of commerce."

HONOR HEROES TODAY

Members of the citizens' committee—Nicholas Murray Butler, Joseph H. Choate, Robert Fulton Cutting, A. Barton Hepburn, Seth Low, Herbert L. Satterlee, General Anson G. Stokes, H. Fairfield Osborn, St. Clair McKelway and Isaac N. Seligman.

Officers from Governors island.

Officers from the navy yard.

Officers of the national guard—Lieutenant Colonel B. Foster Walton, Lieutenant Colonel Cornelius Vanderbilt and Colonel Daniel Appleton, Seventh regiment; Colonel H. H. Rogers, First Field artillery.

Officers of the naval militia.

Members of the board of aldermen committee.

Spanish-American war veterans.

Carriages carrying floral wreaths.

President Wilson and the distinguished guests occupied the stand which had been erected in front of the marine barracks on the parade grounds in the navy yard. Trestles were placed in front of the stand, and upon them were the flag draped coffins.

Back of the president sat Dock Commissioner Smith, Surgeon General Braisted, Rear Admiral Fisk, Dr. Grayson, the president's physician; Secretary Tumulty, Lieutenant Commander Jones and the three officiating clergymen.

On the left of the president's section of the stand and in the front seats was the congressional committee. Behind it the representatives of the state assembly and back of them the aldermen. The next section back was reserved for the relatives of the dead, the citizens' committee, the officers of the national guard and the naval militia. Further back were the officers of the United States army, the officers of the navy yard and beyond a section for special guests.

In the left hand section of the stand, beginning in front in the order given, were the United States senate delegation, state assembly and senate, naval officers of the escort and aids, aldermen, relatives of the dead, the citizens' committee, officers of the navy yard and special guests.

The ceremonies were brief and simple, consisting of a hymn by the band, a prayer by Chaplain Cassard of the navy, an address by President Wilson, a prayer by Rabbi Wise and benediction by Father John B. Chidwick, formerly a chaplain in the service.

Secretary Daniels said: "Mr. President, I have the solemn honor of presenting to you the names of the nineteen sailors and marines, who baptized the flag of the nation in their blood. They were young men. The oldest was thirty-nine and the youngest nineteen. These men with a willingness and a devotion which merits our praise gave all that they had and all that they hoped for in our country.

"I hand them to you, Mr. President, so that they may be preserved in our national archives."

President Wilson, with the list of the dead sailors and marines in his hand, said in part:

"I know that the feeling which characterizes those that stand here and the whole nation is not to be expressed in oratory or eloquence. It is far too deep for ordinary speech. For my own part I have a singular mixture of feelings. The feeling that is uppermost is one of profound grief that these lads should have to go to their death and yet there is mixed with that grief profound pride that they should have gone as they did, and if I may say this out of my heart a touch of envy of those who were permitted to quietly, so nobly, to do their duty. Have you thought of it, men, here is a roster of the navy. The list of men, officers and enlisted men and marines, and suddenly there swim nineteen stars out of the list—men who have suddenly gone to a firmament of memory, where we shall always see their names shine. Not because they called upon us to admire them, but because they served us without asking any questions and in the performance of a duty which is laid upon us as well as upon them.

"Duty is not an uncommon thing. Men are performing it in the ordinary walks of life all around us all the time, and they are making great sacrifices to perform it. That which gives men like these peculiar distinction, is not merely that they did their duty, but that their duty had nothing to do with them or their own personal and peculiar interests. They did not give their lives for themselves. They gave their lives for us, because we called upon them as a nation, to perform an unexpected duty. That is the way in which men grow distinguished and that is the only way by serving somebody else than themselves. Ars you sorry for these lads? Are you sorry for the way they will be remembered? Does it not quicken your pulses to think of the list of them. I hope to God none of you may join the list, but if you do you will join an immortal company.

"So while we are profoundly sorrowful, and while we have the deepest sympathy for the friends and relatives of these lads, who for the rest of their lives shall mourn them, though with a touch o pride, we do not go away from this occasion cast down, but with our heads lifted and our eyes upon the future of this country, with absolute confidence of how it will be worked out.

"War is a sort of dramatic representation, a sort of dramatic symbol of a thousand forms of duty. I never went into battle, I was never under fire, but I fancy there are some things just as hard to do as to go under fire. I fancy that it is just as hard to do your duty, when men are sneering at you, as when they are shooting at you. When they shoot at you they can only take your natural life, when they sneer at you, they then can wound your heart, and men who are brave enough, steadfast enough, steady in their principles enough to go about their duty with regard to their fellow-men no matter whether they are hisses or cheers, man who can do what Rudyard Kipling, in one of his poems wrote, 'Meet with crime and disaster, and treat those two imposters just the same,' are men for a nation to be proud of.

"When I look at you I feel as if I also and we all were enlisted men. We are expected to put the utmost energy of every power that we have into the service of our fellow-men, never stirring ourselves, not condescending to think of what is going to happen to ourselves, but ready if need be to go to the utter lengths of complete sacrifice. As I stand and look at you today, and think of these spirits that have gone from us, I know that the road is clearer for the future. These boys have shown us the way, and it is easy to walk on it because they have gone before and shown us how. May God grant to all of us that vision of patriotic service, which here in solemnity and grief and pride is born in upon our hearts and pockets."

At the conclusion of these ceremonies the firing party, consisting of the marine company of the United States steamer Texas, marched in front of the stand and, facing south, fired three volleys. Taps sounded on the bugle concluded the ceremony.

The caskets were then forwarded by the naval authorities to the next of kin of the deceased.

EDWARD COLFAX HELD ON CHARGE OF THEFT

Arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, charged by Robert Kirkwood, of 147 Randolph road, with having taken $20 from a bureau in the latter's home, Edward Colfax, of South Plainfield, was held to await the action of the Grand Jury in bonds of $200 which were furnished by Patrick Kaine. The complainant alleges that Colfax, who was a visitor at the Kirkwood home on the night of April 17, entered one of the living rooms on the second floor and took the money from a pocketbook which laid in the drawer. His testimony was corroborted by Harold Kirkwood, a thirteen-year-old brother, who claims that he saw the defendant take the money.

On the stand the defendant denied having taken the missing money, but admitted that he was with one Tony Rogers, of Newark, when the latter stole the $20. He testified to having seen the Newarker open the drawer and get away with the pocketbook. Colfax told conflicting tales in his story, however, and the court decided that the evidence of the thirteen-year-old witness for the prosecution was sufficient to hold the prisoner for the Grand Jury.

BRIGGS IS HELD IN $200 BAIL FOR TRIAL

John Briggs, colored, of 611 West Fourth street, a self-confessed gas meter thief, was held in $200 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury when arraigned for a hearing before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning. Briggs, who admits he is notorious in Philadelphia police circles was apprehended by Detective-Sergeant John Flynn and is the first one arrested in the city on that specific charge who has made admissions.

William R. Causbrook, of the Public Service Gas Department, appeared against the prisoner in police court. Through the efforts of Flynn, who has cross-examined the colored man, the local police have ascertained some valuable information that may assist them in solving other petty robberies in this section during the past year. It is believed he has operated extensively among houses having gas meters since coming here from Philadelphia. The complaint charges him with stealing $1.25 from meters in the houses located at 611 and 639 West Fourth street.

CHARGED WITH THEFT OF RIG VALUED AT $300

Arraigned on two charges of larceny, Thomas Johnson, colored, was held to await the action of the Grand Jury when he appeared before City Judge W. G. DeMeza, this morning. Johnson, who was employed by Jacob Sklarew, proprietor of the Surprise Store on West Front street, is alleged to have taken a horse valued at $150 and a two-seated carriage of the same value, from his employer's barn Friday night. The accused was apprehended in Newark, Saturday morning by the police of that place and turned over to Chief Kiely. He is said to have sold the outfit for $30.

Since his arrest another complaint has been lodged against the defendant by Thomas Deleveer, of 200 West Front street, who alleges that Johnson took a set of harness from his stable the same night. The accused waived examination on both charges, being held in $200 bail for horse stealing and $100 for the larceny of the harness.

RUNYON SHINES IN BIG EVENTS

DID BRILLIANT WORK

Alfred Day, Also of Plainfield, Adds a Point in One Mile Run, Coming in Fourth—Runyon Sacrifices One Medal by Flip of Coin.

Ralph Runyon's two first places and a fourth netted by Alfred Day totaled up ten points for Plainfield High School and placed that institution in a tie for fourth place among many contenders in the annual interscholastic games of the Princeton Club, of Newark, conducted on the Academy Field Saturday afternoon. Runyon displayed his best form of the season in this meet and gave a pretty exhibition of pole vaulting. He made nine of Plainfield's points taking first in the pole vault and tying for the top notch position in the running high jump with Lyle Hutchings, of Central High School. A gold medal was offered as first prize in the event and when tossed for by the dead-locked opponents the Central High School man called the lucky turn and Runyon had to go unrewarded.

Although not extended to his best efforts in the pole vault Runyon cleared the bar at nine feet ten and three-fourths inches in copping the gold medal. Lasser, of Central High was second, and Erskine and Walthew, of Newark Academy were tied for third place. In the high jump the competition was close and out of a large field of contenders the fighting gradually narrowed down to Hutchings and Runyon who cleared five feet, five inches.

In the one-mile run, Alfred Day romped home in fourth position with the ever victorious Charles Boughton, of Central High, in first place. Boughton has been Day's rival in a number of mile runs during the past inter and and the local boy has always found the Newarker too speedy for him. Stanley Daggett, of East Orange High School, was second; and Charlie Allen, of Central, was third. The winner covered the route in four minutes, forty-four and three-fifth seconds.

Westfield High School, with five entries, scored but one place which netted it two points and ninth position? In the junior 300 yard run, C. Ewing, of Westfield, was third, covering the distance in 38 1-5 seconds.

Representatives of sixteen schools competed in the games. In addition to the point trophy, which went to Central High School, of Newark, with a total of 52 1-5 points, medals were awarded the first three men to finish in each event. The winning of the meet gives Central the first leg on the new trophy donated by Ronald Ross.

BEATTY TOTALS 8 POINTS.

Russell Lawrence Beatty of this city, captain of the Columbia University track team, took first place in the 16 pound shot event and second place in the 16-pound hammer throw in the dual track meet between Columbia and Syracuse at the latter place Saturday afternoon. Beatty threw the iron ball 45 feet, 7 inches for the first place. Columbia won the meet by the score of 59 to 58.

LOCAL MAN WINS.

R. W. Poucher, of this city, took second for Yale in the mile-run held in connection with the Yale-Princeton track meet at New Haven, Saturday afternoon. The event was won by J. D. MacKenzie, of Princeton in 4.24 3-5. Yale overwhelmed the Tigers in the point scoring tallying 87 2-5 to 16 3-5.

PLAINFIELD TEACHER IN GIANT'S UNIFORM

Carl Johnson May Become a Regular Member of McGraw's Catching Staff.

Carl Johnson, formerly manual training instructor in the local public schools who resigned to join the Jersey City team of the International League, has come under the wing of Manager McGraw, of the New York Giants and during the next couple of weeks will don a Giant's uniform for a tryout with that aggregation. On the southern trip of the Skeeters Johnson did the bulk of the backstop work but was injured shortly after the team's return to the North and had been laid up until two weeks ago.

Since his recovery he has been doing the regular practise work with the International Leaguers but the Jersey City club's big corps of backstops put him out of his job while he was hurt. Manager McGraw's attention was attracted to the former schoolteacher's work last week and he borrowed the catcher for the game against West Point Saturday afternoon which the Giant rookies won by a count of 7 to 2. Johnson's debut in a Giant "rookie" uniform was so auspicious that it now seems possible that McGraw will make efforts to get the Jersey City manager to turn him over for a tryout with the big leaguers.

In Saturday's game Johnson handled the cross-fire of Williams and upheld his end of the battery work in excellent fashion. Those who saw the game herald the Plainfielder as a coming leaguer and it would not surprise many to see him in a Giant uniform among the regulars before the season gets far under way. The Jersey City Club has a surplus of catching talent and will probably consent to the player's release.

THREE DOUBLE PLAYS, TWO HITS, 27 PUT OUTS, ETC.

Albin Carlstrom, formerly shortstop on the Plainfield Pets, has won a permanent place for himself at first base on the Buffalo team of the International League through his clever fielding and hard hitting. In Saturday's double header against Baltimore he was the bright star of his team's two brilliant victories.

In the first, a 3 to 2 verdict for the Bisons, he cracked out a two bagger, scored one run, and made eleven putouts and one assist. He also figured in two double plays. In the second game, which went for thirteen innings and was won by Buffalo by a count of 1 to 0, Carlstrom registered a hit and sixteen putouts. He also figured in his third double play of the day. The former local boy has yet to make his first fielding error of the season and his work is the object of much interest to fans along the league's circuit.

REVERSIBLE BATTERY TRIMMED SCHOOLBOYS

Leal School Aggregation Fell to Alumni After Running up Early Lead.

Leal School players sprang another surprise Saturday afternoon when they turned the unexpected in holding the fast traveling Alumni aggregation to a 10 to 9 score in a well played game. The pick of former school teams returned for the big match of the year on Crescent Oval and the old timers were given a good run for their hard earned victory. Faber and Voorhees twirling for the undergraduates, held the slugging come-backs to ten scattered bingles, while the schoolboys managed to face the deliveries of Tilney and W. T. Glenney for a dozen hard swats.

The 1914 team rang up a big lead in the first two rounds of play and apparently had the game sewed up until the stretch stanza rolled around when the graduates got their willows working and poled out enough bingles to account for five dents in the home platter. Stevenson, VanDeventer and Faber weilded the willow with telling effect for the Leal crew while R. Schoonmaker, Daniels, Tilney and Dumont did some healthy clouting for the winning club.

Eight errors charged up to the losing side gave the opposition loop holes in which to spring rallies on numerous occasions while the graduates played air-tight ball in a majority of the sessions, holding the error column down to four.

SECOND ONE-HIT, NO-RUN EXHIBITION FOR JENNINGS

Harry Jennings twirled his second one-hit, no-run game of the season Saturday afternoon for the Rutgers team on the New Brunswick diamond against the New York University aggregation, whitewashing the opposition with a count of 4 to 0. He also has a no-hit, no-run game to his credit. Jennings pitched the N. Y. U. game in a downpour of rain and the solitary bingle came in the ninth, and was a two-bagger from the bat of Parlische.

Jennings, who has become the sensation of the college pitching world, is a protege of Manager Dorflinger, of the local team, and pitched several clever exhibitions on Parker Field last year. In Saturday's game he caused eleven Metropolitan sluggers to whiff the air on strikes and allowed two free tickets to first.

ROD AND REEL

Reports of striped bass catches over on Great Kills, Staten Island, have come in during the last few days, and some of these gamey warriors have been caught by Jersey fishermen at Keansburg.

Several Plainfield anglers who like to battle with the "stripers" are now at Maryland points, and it would be good news to others to learn that the fish have struck in nearer home.

Trout of good size are plenty in Sullivan County streams in New York, according to a letter received by a local enthusiast.

Ling are running good at Long Branch and some big flounders and eels are running at the coast resorts in that section.

Expert fly wielders are hooking many trout in New Jersey streams that are under the legal size and as a consequence many large catches are minimumized by the number thrown back into the water.

Many flounders are being caught off Freeport, the fish running from a half pound to a pound and a half. Several Plainfield fishermen anchored off Gildersleeve's yesterday and came back with 124 fine specimens.

New Jersey motorists are becoming enthusiastic over the trout prospects in the Northern part of the State and many parties go out daily for the speckled beauties that are plentiful in that section.

Plenty of the nice sized trout can be found in the brooks in the vicinity of Hackettstown. This place has recently become a mecca for anglers and many flock there every day.

Two local men returned home last night with forty-two good sizer trout after a two day's trip in Monmouth County.

Some fine mackerel are running in Corson's Inlet just at present and several weighing eight and ten pounds have been hooked.

There is good reason for having the closed season on black bass in the spring. Bass do most of their spawning in April and early May, and at this time of year are laying close in shore, especially in lakes, where they seek beds of rushes in which to lay their eggs. Anglers have frequently picked up bass during the early days of the season that were full of spawn. As the female fish are ravenously hungry at this time of the year and are also so near in shore, it is a very simple matter for the caster, standing on the land, to catch numbers of bass if the water is at all well stocked. It is manifestly taking the fish at a disadvantage, and were there no law, conditions would mean the destruction of many millions of unlaid spawn. Also the fish are at spawning time of rather poor quality for food.

CHRISTY MATHEWSON MAY OFFICIATE HERE

As the result of a meeting held in the home of Dr. Ben Hedges, Saturday night, those in charge of the lawyers-doctors ball game to be played on Parker Field Saturday afternoon, June 1, will start practise in real earnest during the next few days and all of the recruits have been ordered to get into fighting trim. Efforts are being made to secure Christy "Big Six" Mathewson, the peerless twirler of the New York National League Club, to officiate at the all-important Plainfield diamond session and present indications look pretty bright for his appearance in the Queen City on that date. "Big Six" is a brother-in-law of Dr. Cregar, one of the enthusiastic promoters of the coming event, and the latter holds out high hopes for the engagement of the biz fellow on that date.

Other features have been arranged that will tend to make the affair the biggest event of its kind ever arranged for a Plainfield audience and a number of committees are busy working on the proposition among thsee being the following: Committee on stunts, V. W. Nash, Jr., chairman; committee on grounds, Dr. F. C. Ard, chairman; committee on publicity, City Judge William G. DeMeza; treasurer, Dr. Murray.

V. W. Nash, Jr., will captain the lawyers' team and Dr. Anthony has been elected to head the pill chasers combination. The proceeds of the affair will be devoted to the work in Muhlenberg Hospital.

CIRCUS WOMEN LEAD CONTENTED AND PROTECTED LIFE

"Granny" Talbot the Circus Grandmother

Lillian Wallace the Circus Baby and Eva an Infant Leopard

It is gypsying on a grand scale, is Barnum & Bailey "circusing," and the women and children of the big institution are gypsies on a salary, but probably the healthiest, happiest, most generous, most interesting nomads in creation. They predominate in the personnel of the tented amusement colossus. There are little ones by the score and mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts almost innumerable.

When one sits in a circus seat and watches some boy or girl scarcely bigger than a minute performing a hair-breadth feat, one perhaps may wonder what they do when they are not driving a tentful of spectators to the verge of hysteria; where they come from; who are their parents, and what fathers and mothers are doing while their off-springs are courting death and laughing in its face.

The spectator who grows very grave over the thought that these children earn their daily bread and butter in this fashion does not guess that the parents are almost invariably circus performers themselves; that it is more than likely that the man who is tossing the youth in the air is his father, or that the woman who holds the miss suspended a hundred feet in the air is her own mother, and that these children are so tenderly cared for as is any boy or girl who sleeps every night in a real bed instead of in a sleeping car berth.

Mrs. Emma Talbot is the "mother" of the Barnum & Bailey circus. Her life is devoted particularly to the welfare of the women and children performers under tents. Her official duty is matron of the women's dressing rooms. She supervises their wardrobes, mends sudden breches in the tarlatan and bespangied skirts, and cares for her charges in case of illness or accident. In short, she is a general chaperon, hospital nurse, friend and counselor alone. Men and women go to her with the petty troubles that are bound to occur in the uncertain and strenuous existence they lead.

It is in the dressing room tent that one may obtain a glimpse of the real life of the circus women. If there is to be no parade on account of low trolley wires, or torn-up streets, or weak bridges, or tardy arrival, or a downpour of rain, the women of the circus pass the time in delicious indolence or in the execution of the most domestic of duties until luncheon. A bareback rider, Ella Bradna or Laura O'Meers, or Victoria Davenport, may be busily engaged at her hand sewing machine taking stitches in her "second costume." Mrs. Talbot is arranging for the cleaning of a hundred spectacle gowns. A troup of Russian, German or French women acrobats are playing chess on a trunk or reading. Quips and jests fly about the tent. The best of good nature prevails everywhere. Perhaps one of the Russian women may produce her samovar and everybody will take tea, though this pleasant function is more often reserved for the respite allowed the circus women betwen the end of the afternoon performance and dinner time, a period given by the men of the show to baseball or checkers.

The circus woman is modest and good. No women could live more protected lives. The performance is not over until 11 o'clock, and all must be in the cars of the circus train by midnight, when the train is usually locked for the night.

Many of the Barnum & Bailey women acrobats, equilibrists, aerialists and equestriennes who will be here next Friday are foreign. They have homes abroad, and work industriously in leisure hours to beautify them. Bird Millman is trying this season to complete an entire bed set of renaissance lace, cover and pillow shams. Emily Silbon, twitted for her economy, is wont to reply: "Well, it is another brick in my house—every dollar I save." She is buying a home for her mother and sister.

Anyone who witnesses the performance of these femal athletes must marvel at the strength, skill, nerve and endurance that a woman is capable of. They like their business. They have no special dietary. They eat when they feel like it; eat heartily, too, and of everything they crave. Their renumeration varies from $50 to $350 a week, with maintenance. The best of them and, of course, the few, command the latter sum.

BRIDAL COUPLE SURPRISE FRIENDS

Mrs. Joseph Vance and Dr. J. A. Miles Interrupt Church Service to Be Married.

The congregation which gathered at Holy Inocents Episcopal church, Dunellen, yesterday afternoon, was considerably surprised, when just prior to the recessional, a bridal party walked down the aisle to the altar and met the rector, Rev. J. A. Pheltz, who was called upon to officiate at the service.

The bride was Mrs. Joseph Vance, of Center street, Dunellen, and the bridegroom was Dr. J. A. Miles, of Denver, Col. W. H. Brokaw, of Philadelphia, a brother of the bride, gave her in marriage. Miss Rita Brokaw, a sister, was the maid of honor. The ring ceremon ywas used. The couple will reside on Senter street, Dunellen, for the present.

Dr. and Mrs. Miles met in Denver a year ago, when the bride was taking a trip across to California. A corespondence began which soon resulted in an engagement and the marriage yesterday. Dr. Miles arrived in the borough a month ago, to arrange for the wedding. The bride conducted a boarding-house at Dunellen for several years. Only a few intimate friends knew of the approaching wedding, hence the surprise when the bridal party walked into the church yesterday. After the ceremony congratulations were offered.

WALPOLE HELD IN $1,000 BAIL AS A FUGITIVE

Lynus Walpole, Jr., was arraigned in the city court this morning to answer to an indictment found by the Federal authorities in New York under the Mann White Slave Act and held under an additional $1,000 bail as a fugitive from Justice in New York State. He has been out on $1,000 bonds pending trial before the Union County Grand Jury on an indictment found in this State and was re-arrested Saturday afternoon.

John P. Owens, counsel for the prisoner, is making efforts to raise the necessary bonds and Walpole anticipates liberation this afternoon. The New York authorities have indicted the local young man on three seperate counts and applications for extradition papers will be made by Governor Glynn, of New York State, to Governor Fielder.

FIGHTERS ARE GIVEN A SEVERE REPRIMAND

Charged with fighting on Park avenue near East street Saturday night, John Widner and Albert Sanderson, the latter colored, were arraigned in police court this morning. It is alleged that Widner struck Sanderson and created a generally disturbance in that neighborhood, causing a crowd to gather.

Both admitted having taken part in the fistic encounter and were severely scored by City Judge W. G. DeMeza, who took occasion to announce his intention of breaking up the practise of loitering in the public streets. Offenders will be dealt with severely when apprehended, according to the court. Widner was given a suspended sentence and Sanderson was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or serve sixty days in the county jail which was later suspended.

WOMAN AND SON SHOT

Mrs. Stiles remained conscious during the interval between the shooting and the arrival of the ambulance and in a statement to Chief Kiely accused Phillimore of doing the shooting. She denied having any knowledge of his presence in the house until he appeared in her room shortly after 8 o'clock and alleged that he had come there for the express purpose of killing her. Phillimore, with a bullet in his brain, was removed to the hospital shortly after the shooting but never regained consciousness.

News of the triple tragedy was soon heralded about the central portoin of the city and the house was surrounded by hundreds of spectators while the police were conducting their investigation.

That Phillimore's crime was premediated seems a certainty. Before going to the Stites home Saturday night the man visited his sister, Mrs. Thomas Kane, at 403 Berckman street. He appeared to be irrational at the time and leaving his personal effects with his relative went from the house declaring that he would never return alive. Other carefully planned details indicate that the deed was not committed as the result of an instant's passion on his part.

Louis Stites' escape from instant death was little short of miraculous. Standing only three feet from his intended victim Phillimore aimed at the young man's heart and the torn flesh directly over the vital organ remains as evidence of the accurately aimed shot. The bullet struck a bone near the elbow and was removed at the hospital yesterday. His injury is not serious and he was discharged last night.

As a result of the wounds in her head, Mrs. Stites lost considerable blood and when removed to the hospital her condition gradually grew critical.

THE DAILY PRESS IN DUNELLEN will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Edward Pennock, druggist and newsdealer.

MOTORCYCLISTS ENJOY A SEVENTY-MILE RUN

The Plainfield Motorcycle Club enjoyed a seventy mile run, yesterday during which a stop was made at Morristown, where dinner was had at the Mansion House. The riders went to Morristown by the way of Summit, returning home by another route. There were no accidents to mar the trip, as was the case a week ago. The roads were found to be in excellent condition as the result of Saturday's night rain.

Those in the party were Miss Ball, Miss Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horner, E. S. Bird, Warren Groff, Clarence Giles, Bert Coddington, Ralph Auerbach, Paul Fellows, Morris Latzko, Harold Scarlett, Clarence Scarlett and J. J. Moore.

TO GIVE A LAWN TEA.

The Plainfield Association of Mothers will have a lawn tea at the home of Mrs. H. G. Phillips, of Kensington avenue, during the afternoon of May 20, in honor of those who have aided and rendered service in conducting the lunches in the Bryant School. Those who desire to attend this social event should notify Mrs. Samuel W. Clark, of 121 West Fifth street who will forward the invitations.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

IRIS DESIGN FOR A TABLE-COVER

An artistic table-cover may be made of tan, blue, green or brown linen, rep, Monk's cloth or crafts canvas and embroidered in the iris design, No. 14216. This border is 5¼ inches wide and 3 yards are contained in the pattern. It is also suitable for use on curtains, towels, bedroom linens, and luncheon cloths, as well as waists and dresses. The flowers and leaves may be developed in heavily padded solid work, eyelets or large French knots. This design may be carried out in one or more colors with mercerized cotton or filo silk.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price, 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

This design No. 7434 is a plain house dress which may be suitably made of chambray, gingham, linen or serge; one of the new materials for this purpose is cotton poplin, which washes well, does not fade and comes in many pleasing colorings; some of these poplins show a pin stripe of silk, others a faint plaid.

This dress buttons from the throat to the hem, which makes it very easy to launder. In choosing buttons for wash dresses, the cheaper grade of pearl are apt to break and split in washing, so a good bone button is more practical. These come in attractive shapes and almost any coloring. This dress is made with a Gibson plait over each shoulder, a full length sleeve set into a normal armhole and three-piece skirt with just a slight fullness in the back. The small round collar may be of eyelet embroidery or a contrasting material if desired, and the sleeves would be attractive finished with a cuff of embroidery.

Whereas this dress is eminently suited to the house, if developed in a dark serge or poplin, it is quite as appropriate for street wear or a shopping trip. It may be made in size 36 with 5 yards of 36-inch material.

Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34 to 44.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

STRAWBERRIES AND WHIPPED CREAM.

WITH strawberries served in any form, whole or made into fancy creams or frozen, serve a delicately flavored cake. A simple sponge or angel cake or a light, not too rich, butter cake being preferable. Molasses cakes and gingerbread do not belong with strawberries.

Chilled Desserts.

Strawberries With Cream.—Take the stems from ripe, fresh strawberries; place a layer in the bottom of a large glass dish, sprinkle with sugar; put on another layer of fruit and sugar. Whip one pint of thick cream with the whites of two eggs; put over the berries and set on ice to chill.

Iced Strawberries and Cream.—Take one pint of cream, one-half box of strawberries, one cupful of granulated sugar and vanilla to flavor. Wash and drain the fruit, let it stand in three-quarters of a cupful of sugar for one-half hour. Crush before adding to the cream. Whip the cream, add vanilla, quarter of a cupful of sugar and mix in the berries. Put into a mold, cover with wax paper before putting on the cover and pack in ice and rock salt for three hours. Use three times as much ice as salt. This will call for a mold of one and one-half quarts capacity.

Shaped In a Mold.

Strawberry Cream Mold.—Whip one cupful of thick cream. Chop one pint of berries into bits with a silver knife and stir into the cream. Soak one tablespoonful of gelatin in one-fourth cupful of cold water. Dissolve in one-fourth cupful of boiling water. When a little cooled add to the berries and cream, with three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. When it begins to thicken pour in a wet mold and let it harden.

Strawberry Cream Cakes.—Stir one cupful of flour into one cupful of water, add half a cupful of butter, boiling together. When the mixture leaves the sides of the pan turn into a bowl and beat in three eggs, one at a time. Pour the mixture by the dessertspoonful on a buttered sheet and bake about fifteen minutes. When done split open and fill with sweetened whipped cream mixed with crushed strawberries.

They Began to Speak to the Boy.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

When the Wooden Lions Talked Aloud.

DADDY had never forgotten a dream he had had when he was a little boy. He asked Jack and Evelyn if they would like to hear it, and, of course, they were delighted at the prospect of hearing one of daddy's childhood dreams.

"As a little boy," began daddy, "I greatly admired lions. Whenever I went to the zoo I would spend almost all my time looking at these animals.

"One day I had been to the zoo, and, of course, had spent all my time watching the lions. When I got home late in the afternoon I was very sleepy.

"In our house there was a table which was held up by four wooden lions with shields. They sat very straight upon their haunches, and their shields they held straight out in front of them.

"Perhaps these lions had heard me talk about the live lions in the zoo and had meant to talk to me for some time. They saw that I fell asleep in the big chair beside them before going up to my own room and going to bed.

"I couldn't have been long going to sleep, for almost immediately the four wooden lions began to talk to me. They stood just as straight as ever, but they talked with a great deal of energy.

"'You think,' one of them began, 'that those lions up in the zoo are so wonderful. Why, they don't compare with us wooden lions! Now, we do something worth while, while they only sleep and eat and roar just to make people think they are impressive and fine.

"'You never hear us saying how fine we are. What would your daddy do if we didn't hold up this table? And what would become of all the books and papers that are always kept on this table?

"'Oh, yes, we do get quite disgusted when we hear you come home and rave about those lions who simply roar and eat, and the more we think of those other lions the more you can realize how much better we are. It doesn't cost any one money to feed us, and, as to roaring—well, we think that is very common. It is so common, we think, to draw attention to ourselves.

"'But quietly, I am sure, we are appreciated by your family, even if you do prefer the real lions. If you brought home four of your real lions, do you suppose they would hold up this table all the time? No; they would probably pull everything off the table and make a great commotion.'

"Now, of course, they were trying to make me feel very bad. I felt so very sound asleep that I could just listen to them without trying to argue with them, for I would have liked to have explained to them that wooden lions were good for holding tables perhaps, but that real lions gave pleasure to little boys and were ever so much nicer because they were real!"

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

CHAPTER XXII.

A Wedding Ring.

THE snow had come. It had begun to fall softly and steadily at the beginning of the week, and now for days it had covered the ground deeper and deeper, drifting about the little red brick house on the hilltop, banking up against the barn and shrouding the sheds and the smaller buildings.

There had been two cold, still nights; the windows were covered with silvery landscapes whose delicate foliage made every pane of glass a leafy bower, while a dazzling crust bediamonded the hillsides, so that no eye could rest on them long without becoming snow blinded.

Town House hill was not as well traveled as many others, and Deacon Baxter had often to break his own road down to the store without waiting for the help of the village snow plow to make things easier for him.

Many a path had Waitstill broken in her time, and it was by no means one of her most distasteful tasks—that of shoveling into the drifts of heaped up whiteness, tossing them to one side or the other and cutting a narrow, clean edged track that would pack down into the hardness of marble.

There were many "chores" to be done these cold mornings before any household could draw a breath of comfort. The Baxters kept but one cow in winter, killed the pig—not to eat, but to sell—and reduced the flock of hens and turkeys, but Waitstill was always as busy in the barn as in her own proper domain.

Her heart yearned for all the dumb creatures about the place, intervening between them and her father's scanty care, and when the thermometer descended far below zero she would be found stuffing hay into the holes and cracks of the barn and henhouse, giving the horse and cow fresh beddings of straw and a mouthful of extra food between the slender meals provided by the deacon.

It was 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and a fire in the Baxters' kitchen since 6 in the morning had produced a fairly temperate climate in that one room, though the entries and chambers might have been used for refrigerators, as the deacon was as parsimonious in the use of fuel as in all other things, and if his daughters had not been hardy young creatures, trained from their very birth to discomforts and exposures of every sort, they would have died long ago.

The Baxter kitchen shone and glittered in all its accustomed cleanliness and order. Scrubbing and polishing were cheap amusements and nobody grudged them to Waitstill. No tables in Riverboro were whiter, no tins more lustrous, no pewter brighter, no brick hearths ruddier than hers. The beans and brown bread and Indian pudding were basking in the warmth of the old brick oven, and what with the crackle and sparkle of the fire, the gleam of the blue willow ware on the cupboard shelves, and the scarlet geraniums blooming on the sunny shelf above the sink, there were few pleasanter places to be found in the village than that same Baxter kitchen.

Yet Waitstill was ill at ease this afternoon; she hardly knew why. Her father had just put the horse into the pung and driven up to Milliken's mills for some grain, and Patty was down at the store instructing Bill Morrill (Cephas Cole's successor) in his novel task of waiting on customers and learning the whereabouts of things; no easy task in the bewildering variety of stock in a country store, where pins, treacle, gingham, epsom salts, Indian meal, shoestrings, shovels, brooms, sulphur, tobacco, suspenders, rum and indigo may be demanded in rapid succession.

Patty was quiet and docile these days, though her color was more brilliant than usual, and her eyes had all their accustomed sparkle. She went about her work steadily, neither ranting nor railing at fate, nor bewailing her lot, but even in this Waitstill felt a sense of change and difference too subtle to be put in words. She had noted Patty's summer flirtations, but regarded them indulgently, very much as if they had been the irresponsible friskings of a lamb in a meadow.

Waitstill had more than the usual reserve in these matters, for in New England at that time, though the soul was a subject of daily conversation, the heart was felt to be rather an indelicate topic to be alluded to as seldom as possible. Waitstill certainly would never have examined Patty closely as to the state of her affections, intimate as she was with her sister's thoughts and opinions about life. She simply bided her time until Patty should confide in her.

She had wished now and then that Patty's capricious fancy might settle on Philip Perry, although, indeed, when she considered it seriously, it seemed like an alliance between a butterfly and an owl. Cephas Cole she regarded as quite beneath Patty's rightful ambitions, and, as for Mark Wilson, she had grown up in the belief, held in the village generally, that he would marry money and position and drift out of Riverboro into a gayer, larger world. Her devotion to her sister was so ardent and her admiration so sincere that she could not think it possible that Patty would love anywhere in vain. Nevertheless she had an instinct that her affections were crystallizing somewhere or other, and when that happened the uncertain and eccentric temper of her father would raise a thousand obstacles.

While these thoughts coursed more or less vagrantly through Waitstill's mind she suddenly determined to get her cloak and hood and run over to see Mrs. Boynton. Ivory had been away a good deal in the woods since early November chopping trees and helping to make new roads. He could not go long distances like the other men, as he felt constrained to come home every day or two to look after his mother and Rodman, but the work was too lucrative to be altogether refused.

With Waitstill's help he had at last overcome his mother's aversion to old Mrs. Mason, their nearest neighbor, and she, being now a widow with very slender resources, went to the "Hurry up and don't make me stan' here all winter!"

Boyntons' several times each week to put the forlorn household a little on its feet.

It was all uphill and down to Ivory's farm, Waitstill reflected, and she could take her sled and slide half the way, going and coming, or she could cut across the frozen fields on the crust.

She caught up her shawl from a hook on the kitchen door, and, throwing it over her head and shoulders to shield herself from the chill blasts on the stairway, ran up to her bedroom to make herself ready for the walk.

She slipped on a quilted petticoat and a warmer dress, braided her hair freshly, while her breath went out in a white cloud to meet the freezing air; snatched her wraps from her closet, and was just going down the stairs, when she remembered that an hour before, having to bind up a cut finger for her father, she had searched Patty's bureau drawer for an old handkerchief, and had left things in disorder while she ran to answer the deacon's impatient call and stamp upon the kitchen floor.

"Hurry up and don't make me stan' here all winter!" he had shouted. "If you ever kept things in proper order you wouldn't have to hunt all over the house for a piece of rag when you need it!"

Patty was very dainty about her few patched and darned belongings; also very exact in the adjustment of her bits of ribbon, her collars of crocheted thread, her adored coral pendants and her pile of neat cotton handkerchiefs, hemstitched by her own hands. Waitstill, accordingly, with an exclamation at her own unwonted carelessness, darted into her sister's room to replace in perfect order the articles she had disarranged in her haste. She knew them all, these poor little trinkets—humble, pathetic evidences of Patty's feminine vanity and desire to make her bright beauty a trifle brighter.

Suddenly her hand and her eye fell at the same moment on something hidden in a far corner under a white "fascinator," one of those head coverings of filmy wool, dotted with beads, worn by the girls of the period. She drew the glittering, unfamiliar object forward and then lifted it wonderingly in her hand.

It was a string of burnished gold beads, the avowed desire of Patty's heart—a string of beads with a brilliant little stone in the fastening. And, as if that were not mystery enough, there was something slipped over the clasped necklace and hanging from it, as Waitstill held it up to the light—a circlet of plain gold, a wedding ring!

Waitstill stood motionless in the cold, with such a throng of bewildering thoughts, misgivings, imaginings, rushing through her head that they were like a flock of birds beating their wings against her ears. The imaginings were not those of absolute dread or terror, for she knew her Patty.

If she had seen the necklace alone she would have been anxious indeed, for it would have meant that the girl, urged on by ungovernable desire for the ornament, had accepted a present from one who should not have given it to her secretly. But the wedding ring meant something different for Patty—something more, something certain, something unescapable, for good or ill.

A wedding ring could stand for nothing but marriage. Could Patty be married? How, when and where could so great a thing happen without her knowledge? It seemed impossible. How had such a child surmounted the difficulties in the path? Had she been led away by the attractions of some stranger? No, there had been none in the village. There was only one man who had the worldly wisdom for the means to carry Patty off under the very eye of her watchful sister, only one with the reckless courage to defy her father, and that was Mark Wilson. His name did not bring absolute confidence to Waitstill's mind. He was gay and young and thoughtless. How had he managed to do this wild thing, and had he done all decently and wisely, with consideration for the girl's good name?

The thought of all the risks lying in the train of Patty's youth and inexperience brought a wail of anguish from Waitstill's lips, and, dropping the beads and closing the drawer, she stumbled blindly down the stairway to the kitchen, intent upon one thought only—to find her sister, to look in her eyes, feel the touch of her hand and assure herself of her safety.

She gave a dazed look at the tall clock and was beginning to put on her cloak when the door opened and Patty entered the kitchen by way of the shed—the usual Patty—rosy, buoyant, alert, with a kind of childlike innocence that could hardly be associated with the possession of wedding rings.

"Are you going out, Waity? Wrap up well, for it's freezing cold. Waity, Waity, dear! What's the matter?" she cried, coming closer to her sister in alarm.

Waitstill's face had lost its clear color, and her eyes had the look of some dumb animal that has been struck and wounded. She sank into the flat bottomed rocker by the window and leaning back her head, uttered no word, but closed her eyes and gave one long, shivering sigh and a dry sob that seemed drawn from the very bottom of her heart.

Our Leaders Are Responsible for Our General Conditions As a Race

And if we will follow the same old policy which our leaders have outlined for us it will take a hundred years. And we will be in the same old rut. We must change our policy in all matters to help the general conditions of the Negro. A cut through the woods will bring peace and prosperity to our race in three to five years. The white race is not against the colored race, but we are against ourselves. We have the same rights as the white race, but we fail to see this problem as it confronts us as a race today.

If we will learn to spend our money in our race it will help the general conditions and bring us to better times in a short period. The beautiful tracts of land in and around Westfield means money on short notice to those who are trying to help their condition.

BOARD SPLITS ON EARLEY QUESTION

North Plainfield Principal to Be Reappointed Providing He Waives Tenure.

LEGALITY IS IN DOUBT

Members of Board of Education Divide Into Two Factions on Subject—Sign Carrying Motion Scored by Defeated Opponents.

Reconsidering its action of the previous week, the North Plainfield Board of Education authorized the reappointment of Albert Earley as principal of the Borough High School for the term of 1914-15, at an adjourned meeting held in the Somerset School, last night. At the May session of the body a resolution deposing Mr. Earley from office was unanimously carried, it being declared that another year of service would place him under the protection of the Tenure office act and he would then be the permanent holder of the position for a period of ten years. In taking up the matter a second time the Board split into two factions and considerable discussion took place prior to the casting of a ballot which endorsed the present principal by a vote of 4 to 3.

Although he will be reappointed Mr. Earley will have to waive all rights to the Tenure Act and his contract for next year at a salary of $1,400 will become valid only after he has signed articles releasing the Borough Board from all obligations under that act. A copy of the agreement will be forwarded to the State education authorities. It is understood that Mr. Earley is willing to waive his rights and his presence at the head of the High School again next year is a certainty. Last night's action was prompted by the numerous communications from North Plainfield taxpayers and from the principal personally that have been brought to the attention of the Board and there are considerable sentiment expressed on both sides regarding the reappointment.

It was the consensus of opinion among the anti-Earley faction that the Board was arriving at a too hasty conclusion and several members suggested that more time be allotted for consideration. When the matter was brought up by the Teacher's committee last week the main reason assigned for Mr. Earley's disposition was the Tenure Act. Had the proposed action been taken to retire him from the borough faculty he would have had to be removed prior to the completion of the present term as he will finish his third year in the borough in June. The fact that he has been three years in the Board's service would give him protection under the Tenure Act. His removal prior to the ending of the term would excite considerable confusion in the routine of work being carried during graduation time and this was one of the principal reasons assigned for taking up the matter again.

Mr. Van Mater had in his possession last night a resolution signed by several hundred parents of North Plainfield pupils and the pupils themselves who came under Mr. Earley's supervision, which had been aranged as a testimonial to the retiring principal and Mr. Van aMter had consented to make the presentation when the time arrived. In view of the fact that he has been re-engaged it is probably that this lengthy document will be destroyed. No petitions were presented at the meeting asking that the re-appointment be brought up again.

In speaking of the reappointment of Mr. Earley this morning, former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, who is a member of the board, said that in his opinion asking the principal to sign articles to waive his rights would be a direct violation of the law. A number of others interested in the matter have also questioned the legality of the proposition and when forwarded to the State authorities there is a possibility that the agreement will be returned as void.

In reviewing the action this morning an authority on the subject stated that the Supreme Court had handed down a decision making such a step null and void in the courts. He further declared that the action would reflect on the Board of Education, prompting it rather on the individual and there is a possibility that complications may develop. Although Mr. Earley will probably consent to waive his rights the step will be a mere formality and will in no way protect the municipality, according to the authorities views on the subject. It was further stated that in the event of action being taken to remove Mr. Earley at any time after June and a subsequent protest on his part would undoubtedly be upheld by the higher courts.

FREDERICK SANDFORD DIES IN 48TH YEAR

Well Known Plainfielder Passes Away After Long Illness from Heart Trouble.

Frederick Sandford, aged forty-eight years, for many years a well-known citizen of the city and borough, died at midnight last night at his home, 39 Sycamore avenue, the borough, following a long illness with heart trouble. As has often been his custom he went south last winter with Mrs. Sandford and a party of friends on a hunting and fishing trip, and while there was taken ill. His condition became so serious that he was brought home and never left the house afterward.

Mr. Sandford was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sandford. His father died several years ago, but his mother is still living. He was born on the Sandford farm at Greenbrook and always lived in this city and vicinity. He possessed a genial disposition and had a happy faculty for making friends. He was a man of leisure, going to Maine in the summer and south in the winter. For several years he was connected with the Watchung Spring Water Company. His only lodge affiliation was with Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., and that organization, at Mr. Sandford's request, will have full charge of the funeral.

Mr. Sandford is survived by his wife, his mother, Mrs. Amelia Sandford, a brother, Percy Sandford, who is now in Paris; two sisters, Mrs. Fred Metcalf, of this city, and Miss Emily Sandford, of Philadelphia, and the following cousins: William M. Sandford, Joseph W. Sandford, and Mrs. George Van Nest, of this city; Mrs. Henry D. Brewster and Mrs. William J. Roome, of New York; Charles W. Sandford, of New Mexico, and Mrs. Pauline S. Yule, wife of Captain E. H. Yule, U. S. A., now in San Francisco.

The funeral will be held at the late residence on Sycamore avenue, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be private.

UNITED HEBREW CHARITIES FORMED

Organization Starts With a Charter Membership of Seventy-five.

The United Hebrew Charities' Organization was formed last evening, at Sebring's Auditorium, where a large number of representative Hebrews of the city gathered and reviewed the workings of similar societies in other cities. Short addresses were made by several of those present, outlining the possible scope of the work for the coming year. Much interest was shown in the new movement, and the work was given a most enthusiastic start. About seventy-five charter members signed the original roll of the organization, including representatives of all the various Jewish congregations of the city.

The officers elected for a term of one year are as follows: President, William N. Newcorn; first vice-president, Herman Scnwed; second vice-president, Jacob Sachar; third vice-president, Morris Abrams; secretary Miss Rosenson; treasurer, Hyman Adelberg. A membership committee composed of the following was appointed: Hyman Adelberg, Morris Abrams, Lois Shiff, Jacob Sklarew, Henry Rosenbaum, Kinman Rothberg, and Jacob Tepper. The constitution and bylaws of the organization and other matters necessary to complete the organization will come before the next meeting of the organization.

PLAINFIELD WOMEN ATTEND TRI-COUNTY BANQUET

Suffragettes of Union, Morris, and Essex counties gathered at Summit last evening, 150 strong, to the tri-county banquet of the organization. Addresses were made by Miss LaFollette, Miss Louise Connelly, and George Middleton. The purpose of the gathering was to bring the workers of the three counties into closer touch, in order that the State-wide campaign which is to extend over the next sixteen months might be carried on with the accomplishment of the greatest possible results. Among those present from this city were Mrs. Frank Hyde, Mrs. J. K. Meyers, C. L. Reilly, C. W. Moy Alexander Miller, and Mrs. and Mr. E. F. Feickert.

STORE WILL BE CLOSED.

Joseph W. Gavett's store on West Front street will be closed until Friday morning on account of the death of his father, William L. Gavett.

PIONEER BUSINESS MAN SUCCUMBS

PROMINENT LOCALLY

William L. Gavett, one of Plainfield's oldest and best known citizens, passed away at the home of his son, Andrew J. Gavett, at 312 West Fifth street, late yesterday afternoon. Mr. Gavett had been failing rapidly during the last year and infirmities due to advancing age are assigned as the cause of death. Had he lived until next July Mr. Gavett would have celebrated his ninetieth birthday anniversary, having been born in Boston, Mass., in 1824.

The octogenarian was widely acquainted in this city and until his last illness made frequent trips about town visiting his favorite centers in the business section. Since retiring from active work in the commercial field he has resided with his son on West Fifth street. A lover of nature and a believer in fresh air, he spent as much time as possible out of doors and assigned this custom as a reason for his remarkable physical condition for a man of his advanced years.

Mr. Gavett came to Plainfield from Boston in 1862 establishing a crockery business on West Front street, which he disposed of to his son, Joseph W., when he retired from business life. The store in question is now being conducted by the son and has become one of Plainfield's flourishing centers for this particular line of merchandise. Born in Boston he was educated in the Boston public schools and was graduated from the Franklin School in that city. He enjoyed the unique distinction of being the winner of the Benjamin Franklin medal for efficiency in scholarship in the graduating class.

Following the completion of his school work Mr. Gavett learned the brass worker's trade in his brother's foundry in Boston. He was connected with that concern when it manufactured what is believed to be the first bronze statue.

At the age of twenty-four he enlisted in the Boston City Guards and soon rose to an official rank. He served during the time when the old-fashioned muskets were in vogue and delighted in relating reminiscent stories of well known Bostonian events.

Mr. Gavett was a Mason and was first a member of Jerusalem Lodge, of which he became worshipful master. He later united with Anchor lodge and became its high priest and was a Knight Templar, in which order he was prelate for some time.

Surviving him are two sons, Andrew J., Plainfield's street commissioner, with whom he has made his home, and Joseph W., and one daughter, Mrs. Henry W. Rankin, of Central avenue. He has five grandchildren, Leonard and Weston Gavett, sons of Andrew J. Gavett, and Theodore O., Joseph W., Jr., and Robert Malcolm Gavett, sons of Joseph W. Gavett. His wife died several years ago.

The funeral services will be held at the All Souls' church Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., will conduct the ceremonies.

"HISTORIC ENGLAND."

"Ladies' Night" was observed last evening by the members of the Men's Club of the Congregational church, at which time an illustrated lecture on "Historic Sites of England and Scotland" was given by George F. Bently, of New York. The inclement weather was instrumental in keeping the attendance small. Mr. Bently used a large number of slides made from photographes taken by himself.

MEETING POSTPONED.

The meeting scheduled to be held at the Mt. Olive Baptist church last night, in the interests of the proposed colored Y. M. C. A., has been postponed until next Monday evening, at which time the committee on making a canvass of the city for financial support of the movement will make a report. The committee are attempting to secure subscriptions covering a period of two years.

MUST SETTLE TODAY.

Charles Nichols, of this city, who was arraigned before Judge Thomas Snape, of the borough, last evening, was given until today to settle with Mrs. Fannie Olden, from whom he obtained $5.25 under false pretenses during March. Nichols also has to pay the costs of the court.

FORMER LOCAL MAN GROUND TO PIECES

Thomas Hyland Walked Into Engine During Rainstorm Last Night.

Walking along the tracks of the South Branch Railroad shortly after 7 o'clock last night, his view abstructed by an umbrella, Thomas Hyland, well known here, was struck and instantly killed by the train bound for Flemington. Hyland, who has been making his home in Somerville, walked into the front of the engine, in charge of Engineer Beck, and his body was hurled sixty feet down the tracks.

Stopping the train, members of the crew walked down the tracks and found the body lying in a mangled condition below the embankment. It was cut into a number of pieces and considerable difficulty was experienced in securing identification after it had been removed to the Somerville morgue. County Physician William H. Long viewed the body this morning and granted a burial permit.

The victim was twenty-five years of age and has been employed for some time as a janitor in Germania Hall, Somerville. He was formerly employed at Brown's Mills and was a nephew of Thomas Hyland, who at one time conducted a milk route in this city. His death comes as a sudden shock to many.

He is survived by two sisters, the Misses Mayme and Katie Hyland, with whom he lived.

FINE WATCHUNG MAN AND OTHERS EACH $250

Publication of Whitman's Address Before Delivery to Jury Costs Globe $1,000.

George T. Hughes, city editor of the New York Globe, a resident of Watchung, was one of the four who were fined $250 each for contempt of court in publishing prematurely in the Globe, the address of District Attorney Whitman to the Becker jury. The address was printed last Saturday, from copy furnished in confidence to the Globe, although Mr. Whitman did not deliver it until yesterday. In addition to the address, the Globe also printed an imaginary account of how Charles Becker and his wife were affected by the address.

Refusing to accept the plea that the Globe made an honest mistake, Justice Seabury, after a severe commentary on the episode fined the Globe company $250, Henry John Wright, the editor of the newspaper, $250; Mr. Hughes $250, and Charles T. Brodhead, the reporter at the Becker trial, $250.

Justice Seabury pointed out that the real contempt lay not so much in the premature publication of the District Attorney's address as in the imaginary story of how Becker and his wife were affected by the address.

"The person writing that statement," continued Justice Seabury, "and causing that statement to be set up in type and printed in advance of the delivery of the address of the District Attorney must have known that that statement had no basis in fact."

PLAN TO BUILD NATIONAL SHRINE

Meeting of Catholic Women Held at Home of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Kenney.

PROJECT IS EXPLAINED

Plainfield Chapter Organized to Further Movement to Erect Costly Church in Washington—Several Addresses Followed by a Tea.

For the purpose of furthering interest in the nation-wide movement to build a church in honor of the Immaculate Conception at the Catholic University, Washington, which was started recently in New York city by a body known as the National Organization of Catholic Women, a meeting of unusual interest was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David T. Kenney, at 12 Rockview avenue, North Plainfield.

There was present at the meeting Mrs. Francis Burrall Hoffman, Mrs. Michael J. Mulqueen, vice-presidents of the national society, and Mrs. William F. Claire, all of New York city; Father Bernard M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's church, and Mrs. David T. Kenney, Mrs. A. K. Brennan, Miss Anna Slevin, Mrs. M. J. Whelan, Mrs. F. J. Hughes, Mrs. J. H. Leary, Mrs. A. J. Rajotte, Mrs. Cormick McDonough, Mrs. Charles J. Ward, Mrs. T. H. Sullivan, Mrs. J. T. McElroy, Mrs. J. S. Slevin, Mrs. D. Clinton Mackey, Mrs. W. H. Dunkinson, Mrs. W. F. Hamilton, Mrs. F. J. Blatz, Miss Mary O'Conner, Miss Marie Kenney, of the city and borough, and Mrs George McCormick, Miss Margaret Daly, Miss Kathleen Howley and Mrs. William Macom, of New Brunswick.

Following interesting addresses by Father Bogan, Mrs. Hoffman and Mrs. Clare, in which the objects and purpose of the movement was explained, Plainfield Chapter of the society was organized by the election of these officers: Chairman, Mrs. David T. Kenney; vice-chairmen, Mrs. A. K. Brennan and Miss Anna Slevin.

This movement has the hearty endorsement of Cardinals Farley and Gibbons, from whom letters were read at yesterday's meeting, and Bishops McFaul and O'Connor. The project of raising a fund for the erection of a large and beautiful church on the grounds of the Catholic University at Washington, has thus far met with great success and the various States are taking it up with much enthusiasm, New Jersey being among the first.

It is the plan of Monsignor Shahan and the women under whose direction this praiseworthy project has been undertaken that eventually the church to be erected at the university will become the national shrine of the Immaculate Conception. It is also planned that the church shall contain, in a commodious crypt, a reproduction of the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, to which devout Catholics will make pilgrimages from all parts of the country.

Following the meeting yesterday at Mrs. Kenney's, tea was served by the hostess, and a delightful social hour enjoyed. Mrs. Kenney was assisted in serving by Mrs. A. K. Brennan and her daughter, Miss Marie Kenney. Mr. and Mrs. Kenney recently attended a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Francis Burrall Hoffman, of 58 East 79th street, New York, where the movement was given considerable support. The Plainfield Chapter plans to hold another meeting in the near future. Father William H. Miller was unable to be present on account of illness.

WOMEN' LEAGUE HELD A SUCCESSFUL EUCHRE

Members of the Women's League of St. Joseph's church conducted a successful euchre in Debele's Hall last night, a large number of those active in church work attending the affair. The interior of the auditorium was appropriately decorated for the occasion and card playing was the principal feature of the evening's entertainment.

The program consisted of a number of vocal and instrumental selections rendered by the members of the league. Refreshments were served by a committee of women.

WALPOLE COMMITTED FOR REQUISITION

Young Man Will Be Extradited to New York State For Trial.

Unable to raise the necessary $1,000 bail pending the signing of requisition papers for his extradition from this State to New York for hearing before the Federal authorities, Lynus Walpole, Jr., was taken to Elizabeth, this morning, by Detective-Sergeant Flynn. Efforts of his counsel, John P. Owens, to secure bail, were futile. He is at present under bonds of $1,000 to appear for trial before the Union county authorities.

His indictment and subsequent arrest on the New York charge precludes any possibility of his being prosecuted in this county. Evidence shows that he did not violate a New Jersey statute and the matter is entirely within the jurisdiction of the New York courts. The case was presented to District Attorney Charles S. Whitman by Chief Kiely, of this city, and the secret service men, with the result that Walpole was apprehended a second time.

The construction put upon the Mann act during the Caminnetti trial in California, showed that only continued detention of women for immoral purposes, or transporting them from one State to another for immoral purposes, constituted a violation of it. Walpole committed neither of these offenses. He took the girl to New York and returned with her as far as Westfield. She admitted that the only money he gave here was for carfare.

BOOKER WASHINGTON SPEAKS HERE TONIGHT

Noted Negro Educator to Address Meeting at Crescent Avenue Church.

Booker T. Washington, the famous negro educator, is in Plainfield today, and will address a public meeting tonight at the Crescent avenue Presbyterian church. The meeting will be held at eight o'clock, and during the evening an offering will be taken to be used in the splendid work being done at Tuskogee Institute, of which Dr. Washington is the head.

The committee for the meeting tonight will consist of former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, E. M. Cave, President George S. Clay of the City Council, R. Henry Depew, Leslie R. Fort, George H. Frost, Charles W. McCutcheon, Walter M. McGee, Alexander Millar and Secretary Herbert E. Parker of the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Washington addressed a meeting of the colored residents of the city at the Washington School this afternoon.

MRS. STITES' CONDITION IS SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

The condition of Mrs. Catherine Stites, who was shot in the head by James Phillimore, a jealous suitor in her home on West Third street, Sunday morning, was reported as being slightly improved at the hospital this noon and chances are now entertained for her recovery. The woman received two bullet wounds in the head. One of the leaden missles has been removed but the physicians in charge of the case will wait until the woman gains in strength before operating for the other.

The second bullet lodged in the top of the head fracturing the skull. Louis Stites, the twenty-five-year-old son, who was shot in the arm by the enraged assailant, is able to be about again and it is thought that he will suffer no bad effects from the wound. Although improved, Mrs. Stites' condition is still critical and it will be some time before she is fully out of danger.

KILLED AMERICAN, BURNED HIS BODY

Report, Which is Credited, Says Mexicans Shot Samuel Parks.

WAS OUTSIDE U. S. LINE

Kerosene Poured on Body—Constitutionalists Will Demand Evacuation of Vera Cruz if They Take Tampico, It is Reported.

(Special from Central News.)

Vera Cruz, May 12.—Samuel Parks of the 28th Infantry, captured by Mexicans under General Maas just outside the American lines last week was executed and his body burned according to reports received and credited here today.

Parks was mounted and had ridden a mile or so beyond the furtherest American outpost when five Mexican troopers rode him down. One of them struck him across the base of the spine with the butt of his rifle. Parks fell from his horse, and was taken to Tejoria, where a Federal major and a file of twenty soldiers were waiting to take a train for Mexico City. Parks was shot at sunrise and kerosene put on his body, which was cremated. The Mexicans are endeavoring to conceal their crime.

Laredo, Texas, May 12.—If the Constitutionalists are successful in taking Saltillo, San Luis Potosi and Mexico City, Carranza will demand that the United States evacuate Vera Cruz. This it became known today, is the plan of the rebel Generals, who are preparing to strike many blows in different sections against the Federals.

General Villa and General Carranza have mapped out a campaign whereby they expect to take possession of several cities south of their present line, and they will keep pushing on towards the capital. It is believed a formal demand for Vera Cruz will be made if the rebels take Tampico. They are anxious to obtain a foothold at the latter place, fearing the United States may occupy it.

Vera Cruz, May 12.—Lieutenant P. N. Ballinger and Ensign Walter G. Camonte took the first series of reconnaisance photographs from a flying boat C 3 at an altitude of 1500 feet. A complete survey of the Mexican position was obtained. The films have been sent to Washington. The flight extended for fifty miles and the boat was up for fifty minutes.

Washington, May 12—In response to a cabled inquiry from Secretary Garrison, General Funston today telegraphed the War Department that there appeared to be no danger of the Federal troops cutting off the water supply of Vera Cruz. There has been no movement of Mexican troops to indicate that such action was contemplated, the cablegram stated. General Funston attributed a report to that effect to a statement made by General Maas which was misinterpreted.

The Huerta delegates to the Niagara Mediation Conference who arrived in Vera Cruz Sunday are reported to have sailed on the steamer Kronprinzessin Cacilie. Word was received today by the South American mediators that the steamer had sailed for Key West.

Mail to and from Mexico City is still held up. More than two hundred sacks consigned to Mexico City are reported lying beside the railroad tracks near the Federal lines outside of Vera Cruz.

Consul Alger, who has been the State Department representative at Mazatlan, arrived in Washington today, and submitted valuable information of conditions on the West Coast to Secretary Bryan.

Mr. Alger said that a force of approximately fifteen thousand rebels was gathered outside of the West Coast port, and were trying to wear the Federal garrison down by their tactics. A thousand men are kept always on the firing line, he said, the fighting continuing without any let-up day or night. The Federal's still are holding many vantage points, however, and are returning the fire.

Vera Cruz, May 12, from Alfred J. Torke, Central News Correspondent.—Official advices that have been received by Rear Admiral Badger's flagship from the U. S. S. Connecticut, stationed at Tampico, reporting that the firing has ceased, indicating that the rebels have been temporarily beaten off by the defending Federals.

Portsmouth, Eng., May 12.—The British cruiser Bristol has been ordered to proceed to Tampico at full speed and will leave here at the earliest possible moment.

The road over which Washington marched on the route from Princeton to Morristown entered Somerville north of the present Somerville Stove Works crossed Peters' brook between the Central Railroad and Main street, and crossed Main street at Hamilton street and continued north, crossing the site of the present Somerset Hotel and continuing over the site of the present Somerset County Court House, and then turned north back into the present Grove street, which was then the main thoroughfare leading to Morristown.

OUR CORSETS REPRESENT CORSET PERFECTION

In our quest for the correct thing in Corsets, we painstakingly proceeded to locate models that measured up to the specifications we established. Our insistence was along specific lines—lines arbitrarily established by the attributes of health and happiness.

These fundamentals inspired a thorough investigation of a great number of reputedly good makes, each with a just claim on some one or more clauses in our specification.

However, but a few of the many considered embodied all the specified requirements. These we selected and now offer in an all-embracing variety of styles and sizes with the assurance that they approach the ideal in corset manufacture.

NO APPEAL IN HURDY GURDY AIRS FOR THEM

Business Men Say 'Harmony' Does Not Add to Pleasures of Life.

Inclement weather interfered with the meeting of the Business Men's Association, which was scheduled for last night, a quorum not being present. A number of matters were informally discussed by those attending, and it was decided to leave formal action to the trustees of the organization. The papers of incorporation of the organization were presented by the committee in charge.

It was decided to hold a special meeting on Thursday night of this week.

A protest against the great number of hurdy gurdies and hand-organs about the streets of the city was made by several of the merchants present, it being the concensus of opinion that they should be licensed in such a way that there would be a decrease in number. The trustees of the association will be asked to request the Common Council to pass an ordinance licensing streeting musical instruments. A simliar resolution will be presented to the Council of North Plainfield.

A resolution opposing the licensing of the auto buses which run from this city into the suburbs or limiting them to certain streets was als drawn up and will be presented to the Common Council.

The constitution and by-laws of the organization will undergo extensive changes by the Board of Trustees who are no wat work revising the document.

The discussion of Saturday closing was laid over for the present, as it was far from settled as to just which closing plan would work to the best advantage of all concerned.

FAVOR HALF-DAY CLOSING SATURDAY

Number of Merchants Agree to Plan if Majority Will Follow Suit.

The movement for the Saturday afternoon closing, inaugurated by the civic committee of the College Club, of this city, is meeting with success from all sides, merchants and shoppers alike endorsing the plans for giving the clerks a half holiday, acording to the members of the club.

The petitions calling for this innovation, which are being circulated by Miss Catherine Ball, chairman of the committee, have been signed by at least 1,500 of the shoppers of the city. Twenty of the merchants have agreed to keep open Friday evenings and close Saturdays at 1 o'clock during the month of August, providing a majority of the merchants in the business section of the city do likewise. Some of these merchants, however, have been in the habit of closing Saturday afternoons during the past few years, and in all probability would continue to do so this summer, regardless of what attitude the other store-keepers may take in connection with the matter.

Several of the merchants, however, are strongly in favor of closing all day Thursdays during two months (July and August), thus giving their employes a chance to enjoy the various excursions which go from this city to Asbury Park on that day. This would give the clerks nine whole holidays covering two months, instead of five -half-holidays during one month. This arrangement meets with a more general approval of the merchants although several have signified their intentions to close Saturday afternoons during August, providing the majority decide in favor of that arrangement.

Among those who have signed the agreement for closing Saturdays are A. E. Force & Company, M. C. Van-Arsdale, Tepper Brothers, Schwed Brothers, Samuel Rothberg, Woolworth & Company, Kresge & Company, Powlison & Jones, DeMeza & Blimm, J. C. Hansen, H. P. Greenwood, George W. Pope, Roth & Company; Trabilsky, Bonn & Company, Woodhull & Martin Company, J. W. Gavett, A. M. Griffen Company, H. E. Gayle and Fred Kirch.

JOHN S. DAHL GETS CONTRACT FOR WORK

Local Bidder Will Complete High School Addition for $46,726.73.

John S. Dahl, of this city, was awarded the contract for the completion of the work on the new addition to the Plainfield High School at a meeting of the Board of Education held in the High School last night. His bid of $46,726.73 was the lowest submitted for the work. The other bidders were Alexander Milne and John Abbott, both of this city.

The contract is being drawn today, and as soon as it has received the approval of Gilbert Collins, counsel for the board, work will begin at once.

The building is promised for the first of September, and the contractor will make every effort to complete the auditorium in time for the commencement exercises.

Before the end of the week it is anticipated that a full gang will be on the job, and once started, the work will be pushed to a rapid completion. In addition to putting up a bond for the full amount of the contract, Mr. Dahl furnished conclusive evidence that he has an ample cash capital now on hand to complete the work.

The action of the board in allowing the local creditors to nominate the man to complete the job will, it is thought, result in saving between $10,000 and $15,000 for the Exner creditors, besides enabling the local contractors and mechanics to share in the completion of the work.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ARE CELEBRATING GOLDEN JUBILEE

The twentieth district, in which the local lodges are a part, will run a special train, leaving the North Avenue station at 7:15. The committee in charge include Thomas Calleen, Charles Hartfelder and Samuel J. Robinson, of Perseverence Lodge, No. 74, and Charles DeGraw and Jeremiah VanWinkle, of Unity Lodge, No. 102.

SIX OF STEAMERS CREW DIE WHEN BOILER EXPLODES

Six others were injured, two of them probably mortally, and another man who is missing is believed to have jumped overboard. The steamship immediately after the explosion raced back to this port to seek immediate assistance for the wounded. The dead are all members of the fireroom crew. The Jefferson after seeing the injured cared for sailed for New York.

"NATIONAL HORSE DAY" TO BE OBSERVED HERE

The Plainfield Branch of the S. P. C. A., at its monthly meeting at the Y. M. C. A., yesterday afternoon decided to observe "National Horse Day," in Plainfield on Monday, June 1. This will be the first time that the day has been observed in this city and it is proposed to make it a worthy celebration.

The society will offer for sale buttons, to be worn by drivers of horses, and tags to be placed on horses, the proceeds to be used in furthering the interest of the society. It is the belief that the value of the horse has been gradually passing from people's minds, and the coming observance, it is thought, will serve to stimulate interest in these animals. Mrs. S. G. Van Hoesen, local agent, was at the meeting and explained the plans for the coming celebration.

STOPPING GAMBLING "CLUBS."

Any gambling scheme for the sale of merchandise is illegal, and in addition creates unfair competition. The attention of the Daily Press has been called several times in the past few days to a club being conducted in this city, and the police have taken steps to stop it. The matter is one by which a number of men are urged to pay one dollar the first week, two dollars the second, and so on, until at the end of twenty-five weeks some have paid twenty-five dollars. The first week there is a drawing, and the person whose name is drawn gets certain merchandise valued at twenty-five dollars for the single dollar he has paid. The second week it is procured for two dollars, and so on until the twenty-fifth when all who are left get the article of merchandise at the full figure.

The plan, on the face of it is gambling, and contrary to the law. In addition to that it affects legitimate business and prevents the merchant who runs an honest store from being able to compete with the fellow willing to take a chance. It is as clearly illegal as the dozen or more baseball pools being conducted in this city, to which attention was called in the Press last year, and which have been running again since the opening of the baseball season.

Chief of Police Kiely and his able corp of assistants have already taken steps to stop the scheme, and in so doing they know that the grand jury, and every respectable business man and citizen of Plainfield will back them up.

ROAD INSPECTION.

Systematic inspection of the country roads about Plainfield is lacking at the present time, and as a result many bad spots develop before the Freeholders of Somerset and Union counties realize it. It is then necessary to spend large sums to rebuild the roads, when comparatively small amounts would have repaired the damage when it first occurred.

It is reported that a ruling has been made by the post office department by which arrangement can readily be made by the authorities for road supervisors or commissioners to accompany the rural carriers upon any date they choose, when the road officials are actually engaged in the performance of their duties in connection with the inspection of the highways. This would afford an economical and methodical manner of seeing that all of the roads nearby Plainfield are kept in first class order at all times. It can readily be seen what a great advantage it would be to the officials to inspect many miles of road without going to the expense of horse and auto hire.

Out of Plainfield the principal country roads are traversed by the rural mail men. Few highways escape these representatives of the Federal government on their daily rounds to rural patrons. These patrons, the carriers and the government are vitally interested in better roads. In the future, they will have no blame upon themselves if a highway is in bad condition and the local authorities are not cognizant of the fact. The cities and towns as well, are interested in improving the roads and the matter is clearly put up to inspectors, supervisors and commissioners with the added inducement of free transportation.

It is to be hoped that advantage will be taken in this county of the postoffice department's offer, if it is correctly reported. Local officials must continue ever vigilant; here is a chance for them to be so. Highways and their condition must be kept in mind always if their maintenance is to be conducted knowingly and systematically, and the government is showing its anxiety and willingness to do its part. Put the rural mail wagon to work at once to aid better road construction and maintenance.

NEWSPAPER FAKES.

A New York newspaper which boasts about its honesty in conducting its advertising columns and its high position in the Metropolitan field, printed a deliberate fake on Saturday in connection with the Becker trial, and as a result the paper, and three employes have been ordered to pay $250 each, a total of $1,000, for contempt of court. The mad rush to "beat" others has made this journal look ridiculous, and undoubtedly will tend to increase the feeling, which is now so prevalent that "you cannot believe anything you see in the papers."

In the case in question the paper printed District Attorney Whitman's address to the Becker jury on Saturday and it was not delivered until yesterday. That much of the error may have been excusable, in the rush to print the news first, but unfortunately the story went further, and told all about the attitude of Becker and his wife while Whitman was grilling them, thus emphasizing the fact that the whole matter came from the imaginative brain of a yellow journalist.

There is no excuse for faking newspaper stories. Time and time again papers are imposed upon and print articles which would not appear had it been possible, in the rush of getting to press, to investigate the sources of information. But when a newspaper, with every opportunity to get the true facts publishes fakes in an effort to "beat" another paper to the street with the news, that paper loses the confidence of the public, an dall of the explaining that is done will never fidence of the public, and all of the restore it. The lesson taught by the New York jurist in imposing the maximum fine is a splendid one, and may have a tendency to modify some of the stories about the Becker trial. It is too bad that similar fines cannot be imposed on some of the metropolitan papers for the wild stories they are printing about the war in Mexico.

Another group of lusty lunged and offensive young men from a New York evening paper made life miserable for the residents of Plainfield on Sunday afternoon, shouting war extras, which contained nothing new. This is the second time such a thing has happened, and the police should put a stop to it at once. Citizens can help matters by phoning police headquarters whenever such men appear in their section of the city.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

Believing that the following notice will receive more attention in this forum than as a news item, I beg the courtesy of your space for it. The regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, will hereafter be held at the Library the second Wednesday in each month at 10:30 a. m., instead of the first Tuesday as formerly. This change was deemed advisable, as the regular monthly meeting of the State association at Trenton, is held on the second Monday, and it is important that reports, etc., should be received promptly by the local branch.

There will be a meeting tomorrow morning (May 13) as above, and a large attendance is desired. Thanking you for permitting me this method of reaching the members of our branch,

Yours truly,

HUERTA ENTERS STRONG PROTEST

Accuses the United States of Bad Faith.

MEDIATION HOPE DWINDLES

Consul Silliman Is Still In Jail Despite Bryan's Protest—Dictator Says That Washington Officials Violated Armistice Agreement—Situation Is Acute.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN MEXICAN SITUATION.

Two developments caused the mediators' hope of a satisfactory settlement of the Mexican situation to dwindle.

The first was the receipt of a strong protest from General Huerta against the occupation of Lobos island, on the gulf coast. This the dictator denounced as a violation of the armistice.

The second development which is giving United States officials much cause for worry is the fact that American Consul John R. Silliman, who was imprisoned by the federals at Saltillo, has not yet been released despite strong representations made by the state department. It is feared that the consul has been murdered.

Washington, May 12.—The slender thread of hope for the success of the Niagara falls mediation conference was strained anew by two developments. One was the receipt of news that General Huerta had failed to carry out his promise for the release of United States Consul John R. Silliman, held a prisoner at Saltillo. The other was a formal complaint by Huerta to the mediators that the United States had violated the armistice by taking possession of Lobos island on the gulf coast near Tampico.

While these charges of bad faith were passing back and forth between Huerta and the United States, preparations were going forward in the war department, which had anything but a peaceful significance. Secretary Garrison was in conference with members of the general staff and the officials having charge of the militia. It was acknowledged by Mr. Garrison that the conference was considering the conditions created by the newly passed volunteer army bill. The belief in Washington was that preparations were being made for a call for volunteers at a moment's notice.

The situation in regard to United States Consul Silliman came to a head when the Brazilian minister at Mexico City, Senor Cardoza, cabled to the state department that Silliman was still held under arrest by the federals at Saltillo. Steps were immediately taken by the United States to demand his release, and the belief here is that the communication of the United States goes so far as to threaten a reopening of hostilities unless Huerta yields.

Why United States Seized Lobos Light.

Washington, May 12.—That Lobos island lighthouse, one of the principal navigation guides along the east coast of Mexico, was seized by the American naval forces to prevent a repetition of the Maine disaster was admitted by officials of the navy department.

Information received here was to the effect that the commanders of American warships passing back and forth from Tampico to Vera Cruz had several times reported to Rear Admiral Badger, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet at Vera Cruz, that Lobos light was extinguished. This beacon is one of the most powerful in the world for the reason that the shoals it marks are among the most dangerous along the coast.

Ever since the American forces landed at Vera Cruz and the American war vessels have been patrolling the coast the one dominant fear in the breasts of administration officials has been that some disaster would occur which, inflaming public opinion throughout the United States, would force President Wilson to hurl the entire army into Mexico.

The memory of the Maine explosion in Havana harbor and of the consequences which it brought about, precipitating, as it did, the war with Spain, is vivid in the mind of President Wilson. Each day he and his advisers have anxiously scanned the dispatches from Badger and Funston fearful of what they might contain.

What effect this action would have in embarrassing the mediators was a matter of secondary consideration when Washington gave its approval to Admiral Badger's request for permission to seize the light. The immediate thought was to prevent the destruction of one of the United States warships. It was hoped that explanations for the seizure of the island could be devised later.

TEACHERS INVITED TO ATTEND MEETING

Borough Board of Education Will Grant Hearing to Dismissed Teachers.

Frederick B. Moore, manual training instructor in the Glen Ridge public schools, was present at the adjourned meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education last night as an applicant for a similar office in the Borough High School that will become vacant at the expiration of the term. The members of the Board put the teacher through an oral questioning and his application will be taken into immediate consideration by the Teachers' committee to whom it was referred.

The following resignations were received by the Board from the borough school teachers: Miss Sarah Dwight, Miss Helen Westcott, Miss A. C. Bratton, Miss Margaret Faulkenberg and Miss Agnes Boxald. Miss Boxald leaves to take a similar position in the schools in Bernardsville. Several of the teachers who were dismissed by the Board at the May meeting have applied for a hearing before the teachers' committee and this will be granted Friday night of this week. Charges of insubordination have been filed against certain ones who were not reappointed and they will be asked to answer the allegations at that time.

The insubordination in two cases consists of failure to report for duty at the proper time in the morning and as a remedy against further trouble along this line, R. C. Campbell made a suggestion to provide time clocks for use in the Somerset schools. This announcement failed to meet with a general response from the Board as a whole, but it was the consensus of opinion that some method of keeping tract of the teacher's hours should be inaugurated. Nothing definite was done in the matter at last night's session.

The matter of reappointing Principal Albert Earley and Miss Van Arsdale, a teacher, was taken under consideration again and both were reappointed with certain conditions. Miss Gertrude Conover of North Plainfield, was engaged to teach in the borough schools next year at a salary of $700 and Miss Davorgen was also given a contract at $650 a year. Both are now acting as substitutes, the former taking charge of Miss Westwood's classes and the latter for Miss Dugan, recently resigned.

The board authorized the final payment on the new laboratories in the Somerset School to W. Townley & Brother and also passed a resolution for the issuance of a contract for replacing certain ceilings to the same firm.

BRIDGE AND TUNNELS WANTED FOR TRAFFIC

Inter-State Commission to Meet Representatives of Five Counties.

The passage by the New Jersey Legislature of a bill that will make possible a thorough investigation into the project of building a bridge across and tunnels for vehicular traffic under the Hudson River connecting the Northern section of New Jersey with both Upper and Lower New York city, has caused a new interest to be taken in this plan. The result of this has been that the New Jersey Inter-State Bridge and Tunnel Commission has arranged to meet representatives of the five counties in the northwesterly section of the State for a conference on the afternoon of May 21.

The invitation has been sent to the Boards of Freeholders of Union, Essex, Hudson, Bergen and Passaic Counties and they have been asked to have three of their members and their county counsel at the office of the Commission, 115 Broadway, New York city, for the conference. At this discussion the whole matter will be taken up and the situation will be thoroughly canvassed and it is believed that a better understanding for all concerned will result. Responses have been received from some of the counties and delegations from all five are expected to attend the conference. The understanding is that the conference will in no way be binding upon the counties represented.

It is estimated that the actual cost of a bridge spanning the Hudson would be $29,000,000 and that $13,000,000 in addition to this would be needed for real estate damages, real estate and interest upon the investment during construction. The cost of the twin tunnels for vehicular traffic each providing two roadways, would be about $11,000,000. One-half of the cost would be borne by New York State.

THE PRUDENTIAL FIRST IN BIG STATES

| The Prudential Has Held 1st Place for | State | Insurance issued and Revived in 1913 |

| 16 yrs— | New Jersey | $46,455,660 |
| *3 yrs— | New York | 96,645,161 |
| 15 yrs— | Pennsylvania | 76,285,845 |
| 7 yrs— | Ohio | 32,426,356 |
| 13 yrs— | Indiana | 21,051,592 |
| 6 yrs— | Illinois | 39,676,734 |
| 2 yrs— | Michigan | 10,888,521 |
| 8 yrs— | Delaware | 2,780,568 |
| 4 yrs— | West Virginia | 4,647,575 |
| 6 yrs— | Kansas | 5,715,497 |
| 5 yrs— | Minnesota | 6,031,452 |
| 5 yrs— | Colorado | 4,262,574 |

*Years 1909, 1910 and 1913.

The Company also attained second place in many other States, and since the close of 1908 has added to the insurance in force on its books nearly a billion dollars, making a greater net gain that that of any other company in the world.

The complete program for this year's series of religious conferences and summer schools at Northfield has been issued by Albert C. Moody, of East Northfield, Mass., who has general charge of preparations for all the gatherings. The formal call is signed by William R. Moody, son of Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, who started the conferences thirty-two years ago. In his call, Mr. Moody extends a hearty invitation to Christian people of all denominations to meet in the various gatherings during the coming summer, and tells them frankly in plain words just what brand of religious teaching they will hear there.

"The Northfield platform," he says, "continues loyal to the truths for which it stood a generation ago. ## ONE BALL AND TWO STRIKES

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Yougottahandit to those doctors and lawyers for pulling the original stuff along the advertising line. "Big Six" Mathewson's appearance on Parker Field will prove a big feature as a side-show. The girls are just crazy to get a look at the hero who has drawn envious glances from people of all nations and it is one safe bet that there will be a pretty healthy sprinkling of both sexes to root for the professionals who will cavort about the ball park on June 20. Bill Nash has a sleeve full of original stunts to spring at the proper time and intends to call a practise of the lawyers as soon as he can locate a stray glove. Better get a basket Bill, doncherknow.

Plainfield High School's work in that Princeton meet Saturday reflects with credit on the advancement the local institution is making in athletic circles. It is not difficult to recall the time when track athletics were unknown to P. H. S. students but their sudden introduction has been met with a burst of popularity such as baseball and football always claim. In Runyon the red and blue has the makings of a real champion and before he gets ready to lay aside the text book we anticipate seeing some clever stuff pulled off by the youngster.

If you gave the array of talent Manager Jimmy Montross has on his roster the "once over" you surely noticed the presence of several familiar handles in the lineup. The most conspicuous was that of Bennie Rosenson, captain of the P. H. S. team this year. Bennie has been putting up a clever all around game for the schoolboys and his advent into the semi-pro pastime will no doubt be auspicious to a degree. Here's hoping, Bennie.

There's one cause for regret to be found in Montross' preliminary announcements, however, and that's the appearance of Joe Alberts' "John Hancock" in the summary. Joe's advent into Dunellen baseball means that there will be none of the pastiming at the 'Plains this season and without our old Sunday afternoon games we'll surely be lost. The good people of the little old Scotch village have much to be thankful for this year. There'll be no Sunday baseball and the customary nap will be uninterrupted by the crazy bleacherite.

Wielding the brassie and niblock has become a popular diversion for Christy Mathewson. "Big Six" balks at playing baseball on the Sabbath but makes no bones of batting around a rubber center sphere with a queerly shaped bat. Now we'd like to know the difference between baseball and golf as far as Sunday is concerned.

Albin Carlstrom is going great guns in a Buffalo uniform just at the present time. Taking charge of a couple of bushels of putouts in a double-header and at the same time keeping the error lid clamped on tight is a pretty good day's work. Thus far not a single error has escaped from the lid held tight by Carlstrom.

Now that those P. H. S. athletes have removed the cares of minstrelsy from their fatigued brains we look forward to a little better baseball than has been forthcoming of late.

If you happen to spy one of your lawyer friends swinging an umbrella viciously at the atmosphere, don't be alarmed. He's probably only trying to work up a good "swing" in preparation for that Muhlenberg Hospital slaughter that is going to be served up.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Will you kindly interpret "He gave unqualified satisfaction"?—N. B. F.
Answer—It means he gave satisfaction in every way.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Is there any reason why Plainfield should not have mounted policemen?—H. S. E.
Answer—The city authorities evidently are of the opinion that mounted policemen are not needed or we surely would have them.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Another fellow and I have put two fires out in the woods on the Watchung mountains. Both were burning pretty rapidly and would have resulted seriously if we had not taken the action we did. What is the reward for catching somebody setting fire to the woods?—J. G. T.
Answer—There are signs posted throughout the Watchung hills and the rewards vary. In this section the fee is $100 for arrest and conviction of such a person.

Query—Does a hunter's license give me permission to carry a revolver in a holster in the city during the hunting season?—G. S. A.

NEBRASKA LEAGUE OPENS.

York, Neb., May 12—With club owners and managers optimistic over the outlook for a successful year and an interesting pennant race, the eight teams of the Nebraska State Baseball League lined up today for the start of the league's fifth season. The schedule called for Kearney to open at Hastings, Grand Island at Superior, Columbus at Beatrice, and Norfolk at York. Norfolk is a newcomer in the league, having the franchise held last year by Fremont. The magnates have prepared for a season of 112 games, with September 1 as the closing date.

N. P. H. S. WALLOPS BOUND BROOK HIGH

Swatfest on Defeated Team's Diamond Boosts Boroughites' Averages.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team had an easy time deplace yesterday afternoon by the score of 8 to 2. The result of the game was never in doubt after the local boys showed their hitting ability in the first inning. The Bound Brook pitcher had absolutely nothing on the ball and the local swatters placed the pill all over the lot for six rounds and then the heaver was replaced by Heagney who fared a little better. "Ernie" Stahl went the entire distance for the boroughites and pitched fine ball only allowing five singles in the nine innings.

Van Mater started the game by striking out and Abrams was out on an assist. With two down the assault began. Dunning drew four balls and went home with the first run when Townley doubled into deep center field. Burner and Dilts each singled on the first ball pitched and the former scored after Townley. This gave the visitors a three run lead. The home team was blanked for the first two innings and scored in the third when Mason was hit and went around on a single and a passed ball. In the third the "Canadians" scored two on clean hits and repeated their feat of the opening inning in the fourth, scoring three runs making a total of eight. Stahl was effective at all times and was especially strong in the pinches. Three times the home team had men on second and third but did not score.

The borough team played in the best form that they have showed this year and despite the bad infield, only made two errors. They scored twelve hits from the opposing pitchers, Van Mater leading with a triple, a double and a single. Townley, Dilts and Conroy each pounded out two hits. In the seventh inning, Day Denny and Newkirk were sent to the outfield positions. The score:

LIDGATE IS SOLD TO TRI-STATERS

Fanwood Youth Lands Permanent Berth on York Team.

MOVE IS WELCOMED

Has Been Catching Regularly Since His Transfer — Opportunities With Baltimore Were Limited—York a Strong Contender.

Eugene Lidgate, the Fanwood baseball player, who has been a member of the Baltimore team of the International League since the training season opened, has been sold by Manager Dunn to the York team of the Tri-State League. Since joining the new aggregation Liddy has been working as first string catcher and to date has played the full nine innings in every game since his introduction to the new environment. In yesterday's game Lidgate's team lost a hot fight by a score of 2 to 1, the local player handling the shoots of Millman in a finished style.

George M. Graham, sporting editor of the Philadelphia North American, is the president of the Tri-State League, and this organization is one of the most flourishing minor leagues in the country. It wound up its tenth championship race last season and its seventh annual campaign as a member of the organized ball family. Last year the Wilmington club early assumed the lead on the six-team circuit and by mid-season the race was merely a procession as far as the pennant was concerned. The battle for second place was always close and uncertain between the remaining five teams, in fact, the position was not settled until the last day of the season, when Lidgate's present club members won out.

The Fanwood player's removal to the Tri-State League is a welcome action as it will give him an opportunity to display just what he can do behind the bat. The acquirement of McAvoy by Johnny Dunn from the Philadelphia Athletics ousted Lidgate from any chance of landing the berth on the Orioles. McAvoy, a man who has had wide experience as a pennant chaser came to Baltimore several weeks ago and since that time has been playing regularly. Dunn has a big squad of backstops and Lidgate is one of the kind who do not relish warming the bench. In York he is the regular catcher, and barring injuries he will be the regular performer from now on. Since going to that league Liddy has shown his best form, getting into every game and clouting the ball in a whirlwind fashion. His throwing has been accurate and his fielding of first-class calibre.

PRELIMINARY MATCHES FOR FEMININE CHAMPIONSHIP

In the preliminary matches for the girls' tennis championship of the Plainfield High School played yesterday afternoon, Miss Florence Alpaugh defeated Miss Marjory Henwood by the score of 6-4, 6-2.

NOVEL ATHLETIC TESTS.

Princeton, May 12—C. H. Dickerman, halfback on last year's football team, won the accuracy drop-kicking contest held on Osborne Field yesterday.

The kicks were made from the twenty-five-yard line. The punting contest was won by "Hash" File, 1915, with an average of six kicks of 52.2 yards. Gile and Shea tied for the forward passing prize.

POLICEMEN MAY NOT USE PARKER FIELD

Inability to Secure Rendezvous on Certain Afternoons the Cause.

Owing to the inability to secure Parker Field for practise purposes on afternoons when wanted the policemen's baseball team, now in the progress of organization, is negotiating for other quarters during the training season. The management of the team made application for permission to use Parker Field for practise purpose next Thursday afternoon but was informed that the Plainfield High School Athletic Association had secured first choice and for that reason it would be impossible to grant the coppers any definite schedule until after the present school term closes.

It appears that the red and blue management has leased Parker Field for the year and it is impossible for another team to get a whack at the public center during that time. Although the bluecoats contend that they have as much right to dispute this matter as high school has to monopolize the field, the management does not propose to create any unpleasantness in local athletic circles and announced this morning that they would look elsewhere for a field.

Crescent Oval is one of the sites in view and there is a strong possibility that the Leal School team, the present leasee, will grant the coppers the use of the diamond certain afternoons in the week for practice purposes. Hope Common is another place being considered but the present condition of this field is not what is required for baseball.

PUBLIC SERVICE MAY ENTER S. S. LEAGUE

Named as Possible Franchise Holders to Succeed Trinity Ball Tossers.

Efforts are being made by the management of the Public Service baseball team and those in charge of the Sunday-School Baseball League, to have that aggregation fill the place recently vacated by the Trinity nine. In the event of the admittance of the gas workers it is probable that the name of the league will be changed to the City Baseball League. This is a minor factor, however, and it is understood that such a change is favored generally.

The league season is scheduled to open next Saturday afternoon and some disposition of this matter will have to be made prior to that time. The Trinity ball tossers have withdrawn their franchise and a majority of the league officials are said to be in favor of taking in the Public Service crew in order to get the games under way at once.

The Public Service team is a fast one and would prove an excellent addition to the present array of fighters who are ready to take up hostilities Saturday afternoon. At that time Hope Chapel is scheduled to lineup against Monroe and the First Baptist team is without an opponent as the result of Trinity's withdrawal. Although the present league has had its title for three years there will probably be no objection to changing it as it now appears to be a matter of "life or death." There are no other Sunday-school teams in the immediate vicinity of Plainfield that desire to enter the race and it will be practically impossible to conduct a three-team race.

ROD AND REEL

Sunday was the best day for weather we have had this spring, and still the boys didn't seem to make any attempt to get their boats overboard. The bicycle races and the baseball games were large attractions and took the attention of the boatmen from their work.

The fishing colony of Water Witch came up from that place Sunday night, loaded down with fine big eels. We know they were fine, as a package was left for us and later converted into a stew that was great. The largest of the eels are taken on set lines down that way, while the smaller ones are caught in pots.

Every boat that went out to the fishing banks Sunday brought back a happy lot of fishermen, as they all caught plenty of fish. Ling, blackfish, cunners, hake and whiting were scattered all over the boats, and even a few codfish were taken from the boats that went out as far as the Cholera Banks.

There is no change in the pickerel law over that of last year. An attempt was made to have the season open with that of the black bass, so as to have them uniform, but it was defeated. The pickerel season will open on May 2 and close on December 1. The anglers are looking forward to this day, as pickerel fishing is indulged in more in New Jersey than in any other State in the Union.

Flounder fishing is good all along the Shrewsbury river. Quite a few fishermen were out after them Sunday and some of the catches made near the dike went up as high as fifty to a boat. The fishermen first dug their clams for bait and then fished them for flounders. That is one place where a bait dealer would starve to death, as few of the fishermen think of buying any kind of bait.

SOME SECRETS OF CIRCUS RIDING

Ella Bradna, Equestrienne Star in Barnum and Bailey Circus.

"Why are the riding acts in the circus interrupted at intervals by the clowns?"

That is the query most frequently put to riders with the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth. One interrogator confidently believes it's to give the performer a respite, another guesses its purpose is to relieve possible monotony. Both are wrong.

The horse gets dizzy.

The standard circus ring has a diameter of 42 feet and the average equine makes a lap in 23 lopes. After a few minutes' ambling around the circuit his head begins to reel and his steps to falter. That is why the band stops and the chalk-faced cut-ups begin their nonsense. A minute later when the ringmaster cracks his whip and the nimble rider shrilly calls "Hep! Hep!" the mount has steadied himself.

Another incident of the ring that puzzles on-lookers is the substitution of horses near the close of an act. The reason is that the second or "finish" horse is a lighter and fleeter animal. The first horse must needs be a broad-backed beast with sure, swinging gait adapted to somersaulting, carrying and other feats requiring grace, equilibrium and poise. His successor is chosen for the so-called "whirlwind finish," such as hurdling and exhibitions of equestrianic celerity.

The somersault a-horse is a spectacular achievement and man or woman performing it successfully is in the front rank of circus equestrianism. But the highest test of ability is the pirouette, requiring a complete revolution of the body, perpendicularly. The slightest miscalculation will cost balance. Few riders perform it with certainty and grace.

Why are the horses of the circus ring invariably white in color? To conceal the rosin with which their backs are powdered. The substance materially assists the rider in maintaining firm footing and its use is universal. It is quite as necessary an adjunct to the exploits on trapeze or bar.

P. H. S. AND N. P. H. S. MAY BE DEADLOCKED

Outcome of Battle Tomorrow May Put Interesting Aspect on Saturday Scrap.

Leals and North Plainfield will open negotiations tomorrow on Hyde Oval, when they meet for the first time in the Interscholastic Baseball League. Leals has lost one game to the city school team this year and expects to take its revenge out on the boroughites but the boys from across the brook think differently and anticipate a victory which will even matters up for the big clash on Saturday with Plainfield. Faber will probably work for the private school team and Stahl will twirl for the "Canadians." The lineups for the two teams follow:

| N. P. H. S. | | LEALS. |
|---|---|---|
| Smalley | Catcher | Schneider |
| Stahl | Pitcher | Faber |
| Burner | 1st Base | Stevenson |
| Conroy | 2d Base | Lyon |

P. H. S. RACQUET WIELDERS FAILED TO PLACE FOR TITLE

Harold Throckmorton, one of the Woodbridge High School racquet wielders who was put to rout by the Plainfield High School team in the recent match between the two schools won the twenty-second annual Princeton interscholastic tennis tourney Saturday. Plainfield was represented in the big schoolboy event but the local men failed to qualify.

By winning the New Jersey title the Woodbridge youth earns a chance to compete with the winners of the Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania and Columbus interscholastic winners for the National Schoolboy championship during the week of the All-Comers tournament at Newport in August.

LOCAL BOYS GUESTS OF PRINCETON CLUB

Schoolboys Visited University and Were Spectators at Annual Boat Race.

Members of the Princeton University Alumni Association living in this city conducted the annual outing for local schoolboys to the university Saturday a record number of Plainfield youths taking advantage of the opportunity offered to inspect the campus and other features of the prominent New Jersey institution of learning. The trip was conducted under the supervision of the Plainfield-Princeton Club's committee consisting of O. H. Fleming, Benjamin Aken, E. C. R. Laidlaw, J. P. Stevens, T. A. Ransome and W. H. P. Veysey. The delegation met at the Crescent Avenue church and made the trip to Princeton in ten large automobiles, twenty-nine boys composing the party.

During the morning the college buildings and campus were inspected and the noonday meal was served in the Commons. The boys were conducted on a tour of inspection through the college rooms and several of the fraternity buildings.

In the afternoon the annual boat race on Carnegie lake was the leading attraction and the local boys had the pleasure of seeing the Tiger crew win two out of the three scheduled events. The return trip was started at 7 o'clock and supper was served at Hotel Klein in New Brunswick.

BANKERS ON PROGRAM.

Decatur, Ill., May 12—Several hundred well-known bankers and financiers were in attendance here today when the twenty-second annual convention of the Alabama Bankers' Association was called to order by President Michael Cody, of Montgomery. The exchange of greetings and the reports of officers and committees occupied the opening session. At the subsequent sessions, which will continue over tomorrow and Thursday, the association will listen to addresses by prominent bankers of New York, New Orleans and several other cities.

SIMPLE DESIGNS SUITABLE FOR EMBROIDERING A BABY-CARRIAGE-COVER

Durable baby-carriage covers may be made of piqué or heavy white round-thread linen and finished with a firmly padded scalloped edge. The plain scalloped border, No. 14301, which is ¾-inch deep, would make a strong finishing for the edge of the cover. It may also be used on towels, sheets, pillow-cases and luncheon cloths, as 6 yards are given in the pattern for 10 cents.

The dainty wreath is from pattern No. 14491. It is 5 inches in diameter and suitable for enclosing a 2-inch initial on baby-carriage-covers, large towels, pillow-cases, napkins, tray-cloths and tea-cloths. These wreaths may also be used to form borders for trimming lingerie waists, dresses and negligees. The flowers and leaves may be developed in solid work and eyelets combined or alone. There are two designs in the pattern and 6 transfers of each for 10 cents.

The Old English "B" is from alphabet No. 14040. This pattern contains a complete alphabet in one-inch, two-inch or three-inch size. Any one size may be obtained for 10 cents. These letters which are appropriate for marking baby-carriage-covers, bed-linens, towels and table linens, may be heavily padded and covered with fine white mercerized cotton.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfers will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

A very simple, quaint design for a child of from four to twelve years is shown in number 7750, which is a one-piece dress in long-waisted style. It closes at the back, has an inset yoke, elbow length sleeves, and an inverted plait on either side of the skirt. As illustrated it is developed in plain voile and trimmed with stamped muslin in which there are several harmonious shades. This dress is excellent for play or school and displays the looseness which spells comfort and coolness for summer days. It is a design that may be cut and finished in an afternoon.

For the child of eight, this dress requires 2¼ yards of 30-inch material with ½ yard of embroidery for trimming.

Pattern is cut in five sizes, 4 to 12.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size, passing the tape around the fullest part of the breast, well up under the arms.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKES.

SUPPER.

Welsh Rabbit. Toasted Waters.
Sandwiches. Olives.
Preserves. Strawberry Shortcake.
Coffee.

At this season when strawberries are available and the strawberry shortcake is the dessert most in demand, these recipes for making them in various ways may be useful.

Tempting Desserts.

Shortcake With Pie Crust.—Make paste as for pie crusts, but do not roll as thin as for pies. Bake a light brown, sweeten one quart of berries, spread them on the crusts and put these together. Make a meringue of the whites of two eggs and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Set in the stove and brown slightly.

Graham Shortcake.—Take a pint of buttermilk, add one even teaspoonful of baking soda and beat well. Stir in half a teaspoonful of salt and graham flour to make a batter stiffer than cake batter. Shape into two thin cakes and bake. Have ready strawberries sweetened and mashed. Pull the cakes apart, butter and spread the fruit between and on top. Serve with rich, sweetened cream.

With Whipped Cream.

Buttermilk Shortcake.—Sift one pint of flour with one-half teaspoonful of soda and rub into this two tablespoonfuls of lard. Add one teacupful of buttermilk and bake in a round pan. Split and butter while hot. Arrange the layers with fresh berries uncrushed, covered with powdered sugar, and serve with stiff whipped cream.

Sour Milk Shortcake.—Mix four tablespoonfuls of white sugar with three tablespoonfuls of butter, a large cupful of sour milk and a pinch of salt. Add the yolk of an egg and a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little hot water; then pour in a quart of water and the beaten white of the egg. Roll the paste thin and sprinkle with flour. Lay one sheet of the paste on another and bake. When done take from the oven, separate the sheets of pastry and lay small whole berries between the two layers and on top, generously sprinkling with sugar. Whipped cream or strawberry sirup may be served.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Clever Little Sallie Kept Cool.

She Named the Dolly.

It had been a very warm day—almost summery—and it reminded daddy of the story of a little girl named Sally.

"Sally," began daddy, "one warm day wondered what she could do to get cool. Her mother had told her she mustn't take off her coat, and Sally was, oh, so warm! She was playing with her dolls."

"Did she have many?" inquired Evelyn.

"Yes," replied daddy; "she had a great many and of all varieties. She had rag dolls, china dolls and dolls that were stuffed with sawdust.

"She talked to her dollies and asked them if they felt warm, and they agreed with her that it was a very, very, very warm day—much too warm for early spring. But then they didn't really know what they could do about it, for they were only dolls and hadn't much influence over the weather man. So a bright idea came to Sally.

"'I know what I'll do. I've never given myself a make believe name for playing. But now I'll call myself Mrs. Cucumber-Green. Doesn't that sound delightfully cool?' she said.

"The dollies looked as if they thought it was a wonderful name, and Sally said that she would call them the Cucumber-Green children.

"Sally decided it was a very lucky thing on her part to have thought of that name before the hot summer came, for she had a fine cool name for the long summer, and it did make playing so much nicer to have a pretend name.

"She thought she would call her dolls extra names for the very hottest days. One she called Silver Brook Cucumber-Green, another she called Mossy Dell Cucumber-Green, another Woodland Stream Cucumber-Green, and yet another she called Cool Breeze Cucumber-Green.

"She was quite delighted with the new names. Of course on the ordinary days they would be called by their ordinary names, but for the very hot days these cool names would be just the thing. And Sally was very glad there had been a warm spring day, for it had made her think of arranging all this before the summer, for, as you may be able to guess, Sally didn't like the intense heat. But now she knew she would not be bothered by it, thanks to her new name of Mrs. Cucumber-Green.

"She was sure, now, that she would not suffer so with the heat, for all she would have to do would be to say the lovely cool names, for so much of it was thinking about it, she decided.

"For hadn't she played the whole afternoon and been perfectly happy, although she still had on her warm winter coat? She had forgotten all about it."

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

CHAPTER XXIII.

The Confessional.

"WAITY, I know what it is—you have found out about me! Who has been wicked enough to tell you before I could do so? Tell me—who?"

"Oh, Patty, Patty!" cried Waitstill, who could no longer hold back her tears. "How could you deceive me so? How could you shut me out of your heart and keep a secret like this from me, who have tried to be mother and sister in one to you ever since the day you were born?

"God has sent me much to bear, but nothing so bitter as this—to have my sister take the greatest step of her life without my knowledge or counsel!"

"Stop, dear, stop, and let me tell you!"

"All is told, and not by you, as it should have been. We've never had anything separate from each other in all our lives, and when I looked in your bureau drawer for a bit of soft cotton—it was nothing more than I have done a hundred times—you can guess now what I stumbled upon—a wedding ring for a hand I have held ever since it was a baby's. My sister has a husband, and I am not even sure of his name!"

"Waity, Waity, don't take it so to heart!" and Patty flung herself on her knees beside Waitstill's chair, "not till you hear everything. When I tell you all you will dry your eyes and smile and be happy about me, and you will know that in the whole world there is no one else in my love or my life but you and my—my husband!"

"Who is the husband?" asked Waitstill dryly as she wiped her eyes and leaned her elbow on the table.

"Who could it be but Mark? Has there ever been any one but Mark?"

"I should have said that there were several in these past few months."

Waitstill's tone showed clearly that she was still grieved and hurt beyond her power to conceal.

"I have never thought of marrying any one but Mark, and not even of marrying him till a little while ago," said Patty. "Now do not draw away from me and look out of the window as if we were not sisters or you will break my heart.

"Turn your eyes to mine and believe in me, Waity, while I tell you everything, as I have so longed to do all these nights and days. Mark and I have loved each other for a long, long time. It was only play at first, but we were young and foolish and did not understand what was really happening between us."

"You are both of you only a few months older than when you were 'young and foolish,'" objected Waitstill.

"Yes, we are—years and years! Five weeks ago I promised Mark that I would marry him. But how was I ever to keep my word publicly? You have noticed how insultingly father treats him of late, passing him by without a word when he meets him in the street? You remember, too, that he has never gone to Lawyer Wilson for advice or put any business in his hands since spring?"

"The Wilsons are among father's aversions, that is all you can say. It is no use to try and explain them or rebel against them," Waitstill answered wearily.

"That is all very well and might be borne like many another cross, but I wanted to marry this particular 'aversion,'" argued Patty. "Would you have helped me to marry Mark secretly if I had confided in you?"

"Never in the world—never!"

"I knew it," exclaimed Patty triumphantly. "We both said so! And what was Mark to do? He was more than willing to come up here and ask for me like a man, but he knew that he would be ordered off the premises as if he were a thief. That would have angered Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and made matters worse. We talked and talked until we were hoarse; we thought and thought until we nearly had brain fever from thinking, but there seemed to be no way but to take the bull by the horns."

"You are both so young you could well have bided awhile."

"We could have bided until we were gray. Nothing would have changed father, and just lately I couldn't make Mark bide," confessed Patty ingenuously.

"He has been in a rage about father's treatment of you and me. He knows we haven't the right food to eat, nothing fit to wear, and not an hour of peace or freedom. He has even heard the men at the store say that our very lives might be in danger if we crossed father's will or angered him beyond a certain point.

"You can't blame a man who loves a girl, if he wants to take her away from such a wretched life. His love would be good for nothing if he did not long to rescue her!"

"I would never have left you behind to bear your slavery alone, while I slipped away to happiness and comfort—not for any man alive would I have done it!" This speech, so unlike Waitstill in its ungenerous reproach, was repented of as soon as it left her tongue. "Oh, I did not mean that, my darling!" she cried. "I would have welcomed any change for you and thanked God for it, if only it could have come honorably and aboveboard."

"But, don't you see, Waity, how my marriage helps everything? That is what makes me happiest; that now I shall have a home and it can be yours.

"Father has plenty of money and can get a housekeeper. He is only sixty-five, and as hale and hearty as a man can be. You have served your time, and surely you need not be his drudge for the rest of your life. Mark and I thought you would spend half the year with us."

Waitstill waived this point as too impossible for discussion. "When and where were you married, Patty?" she asked.

"In Allentown, N. H., last Monday, the day you and father went to Saco. Ellen went with us. You needn't suppose it was much fun for me! Girls that think running away to be married is nothing but a lark do not have to deceive a sister like you nor have a father such as mine to reckon with afterward."

"You thought of all that before, didn't you, child?"

"Nobody that hasn't already run away to be married once or twice could tell how it was going to feel. Never did I pass so unhappy a day. If Mark was not everything that is kind and gentle he would have tipped me out of the sleigh into a snowbank and left me by the roadside to freeze.

"I might have been murdered instead of only married by the way I behaved, but Mark and Ellen understood. Then the very next day Mark's father sent him up to Bridgton on business, and he had to go to Allentown first to return a friend's horse, so he couldn't break the news to father at once, as he intended."

"Does a New Hampshire marriage hold good in Maine?" asked Waitstill, still intent on the bare facts at the bottom of the romance.

"Well, of course," stammered Patty, somewhat confused, "Maine has her own way of doing things and wouldn't be likely to fancy New Hampshire's. But nothing can make it wicked or anything but according to law.

"Besides, Mark considered all the difficulties. He is wonderfully clever, and he has a clerkship in a Portsmouth law office waiting for him, and that's where we are going to live, in New Hampshire, where we were married, and my darling sister will come soon and stay months and months with us."

"When is Mark coming back to arrange all this?"

"Late tonight or early tomorrow morning."

"Where did you go after you were married?"

"Where did I go?" echoed Patty in a childish burst of tears. "Where could I go? It took all day to be married—all day long, working and driving hard from sunrise to 7 o'clock in the evening. Then when we reached the bridge Mark dropped me, and I walked up home in the dark and went to bed without any supper for fear that you and father would come back and catch me at it and ask why I was so late."

"My poor, foolish dear!" sighed Waitstill.

Patty's tears flowed faster at the first sound of sympathy in Waitstill's voice, for self pity is very enfeebling. She fairly sobbed as she continued:

"So my only wedding journey was the freezing drive back from Allentown, with Ellen crying all the way and wishing that she hadn't gone with us. Mark and I both say we'll never be married again so long as we live."

"Where have you seen your husband from that day to this?"

"I haven't laid eyes on him," said Patty, with a fresh burst of woe, "I have a certificate thing and a wedding ring and a beautiful frock and hat that Mark bought in Boston, but no real husband. I'm no more married than ever I was. Don't you remember I said that Mark was sent away on Tuesday morning? And this is Thursday! I've had three letters from him, but I don't know till we see how father takes it when we can tell the Wilsons and start for Portsmouth.

"We shan't really call ourselves married till we get to Portsmouth. We promised each other that from the first. It isn't much like being a bride never to see your bridegroom; to have a father who will fly into a passion when he hears that you are married; not to know whether your new family will like or despise you and to have your only sister angered with you for the first time in her life."

Waitstill's heart melted, and she lifted Patty's tear stained face to hers and kissed it. "Well, dear, I would not have had you do this for the world, but it is done, and Mark seems to have been as wise as a man can be when he does an unwise thing. You are married, and you love each other. That's the comforting thing to me."

"We do," sobbed Patty. "No two people ever loved each other better than we, but it's been all spoiled for fear of father."

"I must say I dread to have him hear the news," and Waitstill knitted her brows anxiously. "I hope it may be soon, and I think I ought to be here when he is told. Mark will never understand or bear with him, and there may be trouble that I could avert."

"I'll be here, too, and I'm not afraid!" and Patty raised her head defiantly. "Father can't unmarry us; that's why we acted in this miserable, secret, underhanded way. Somehow, though I haven't seen Mark since we went to Allentown, I am braver than I was last week, for now I've got somebody to take my part.

"I've a good mind to go upstairs and put on my gold beads and my wedding ring just to get used to them and to feel a little more married. No, I can't after all, for there is father driving up the hill now, and he may come into the house. What brings him home at this hour?"

"I was expecting him every moment," and Waitstill rose and stirred the fire. "He took the pung and went to the mills for grain."

"He hasn't anything in the back of the pung—and, oh, Waity, he is standing up now and whipping the horse with all his might. I never saw him drive like that before! What can be the matter? He can't have seen my wedding ring, and only three people in all the world know about my being married."

Waitstill turned from the window, her heart beating a little faster. "What three people know three hundred are likely to know sooner or later. It may be a false alarm, but father is in a fury about something. He must not be told the news until he is in a better humor!"

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful— all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Adv.

is a fatal word. People who always put off things "until tomorrow" never succeed in life.

There are many people who are convinced that our store is the one best place to buy on credit—that travel as far as they may they cannot do better in terms, prices or goods.

NEGRO EDUCATOR ADDRESSED 1,200

TOLD OF UPLIFT WORK

Famous Colored Man Delivered Eloquent and Humorous Remarks, in Which Wonderful Work at Tuskegee Was Fully Described.

Booker T. Washington, the noted negro educator, and head of Tuskegee Institute, spoke to an audience which filled every available seat in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night. His remarks were filled with eloquence, such as has made his great reputation, punctuated with humorous anecdotes about colored people with whom he has come in contact during his many years in his work.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart presided at the meeting, which was attended by fully 1200 people, introducing the speaker as "a distinguished citizen of the country who has struggled from ignorance and poverty to a position where he leads in the uplift of the colored race." On the platform with the Mayor and Dr. Washington were Alexander Millar and Secretary Herbert E. Parker of the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Washington after humorous opening remarks said that in these bustling times few stop to think that this is a nation within a nation. There are more colored people in the United States than the entire population of Canada, and enough to equal those in the Republic of Washington. The speaker added that if things continued in Mexico for a few weeks longer as they are now progressing, there would be more negroes in the United States than there are Mexicans in that country. The negro question constitutes one to enlist the sympathy and aid of all the people of the United States.

"The negro race is the only one that ever came here on an emphatic and special invitation," continued the speaker. "In fact we were sent for, and our passage paid. It has been said that we ought to be sent back to Africa, but I am quite sure that this is a great enough Christian nation to permit us to live here side by side with the whites."

Dr. Washington then launched into a detailed description of his life, which began, so near as he can tell in 1858 or 1859. He told about the difficulties which confronted his mother and himself when they were freed and how he went to work in the coal mines of West Virginia as a boy. He overheard two miners talking about Hampton Institute, and made up his mind that he was going to get an education there. He studied at night, and finally walked to the Hampton school, reaching there with fifty cents in his pocket. He said that his entrance examination consisted in showing how skilful he was in sweeping and dusting a room.

After graduation from Hampton he taught school, and then went to Tuskegee in 1881 where he started his school in an old shanty with 30 pupils. It has now grown to one of 1600 pupils from 36 states and 17 foreign countries, and has 197 officers and teachers. The institution owns 3,000 acres of land with 97 buildings, counting large and small, valued at $1,500,000, and there is not a mortgage of any kind on the property.

When the school was started it was the ambition of the older blacks to have their children learn from books and get away from hard work. They were disappointed when they found that Tuskegee, as it grew, took up farming, the building and mechanical trades, as well as teaching books and the bible. They opposed the institution for a time, but finally have come to learn that the method of instruction adopted is the best for the colored people. Dr. Washington then told of the practical way in which things are done at the school, and how the future leaders of the colored race are taught to work.

The point has been reached where prejudice against the school has disappeared, and while there is nothing tangible to indicate it, there has been a change of spirit toward the work. The boys and girls are being taught to be just as happy in the kitchen and on the farm as anywhere. The negro, it was declared, is just blazing the way, and they are still a young race. The strutting negro, with his fancy clothes is typical of the race thirty years ago. "Our people now live in their own communities in modesty, simplicity, earnestness and service," said Dr. Washington.

He then described the various courses of practical instruction, and told how at commencement the essays are prepared on such practical topics as how to raise turnips, how to cook a simple meal, to illustrate how book education is being articulated into the practical life of the

FRIENDLY BOUT MAY RESULT SERIOUSLY

Nine-year-old Boy in Hospital and Amputation of Leg May Be Necessary.

Because of a friendly wrestling match, in which he participated ten days ago, John Coffey, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coffey of South Second street, may suffer the loss of his right leg. The boy is now at Muhlenberg Hospital where he has been for the past week, while doctors have been making every effort to save the limb. At the present time the outlook is not at all favorable.

Young Coffey was playing with Leo Wilson son of former Councilman W. W. Wilson, in the latter's barn on West Third street and the two tried to see which was the best wrestler. In their backward and forward movements Coffey fell from the upper loft to the floor below, striking his right knee a heavy blow in the descent. It pained him badly for an hour or more but he made no mention of the fact to his parents until several days later when he found himself unable to walk. A physician was called and found that the entire knee cap had become infected from the bruise inflicted by the fall. It was seen at once that the limb was in serious condition and he was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital where every effort has been made to avoid amputation. All attempts to stop the decay of the bone had proved useless and it will be known within a day or two whether or not amputation will have to be resorted to as a means of saving the boy's life.

KORULIMO SOCIETY CONCERT A SUCCESS

Cantata "Rebekah" Given in a Pleasing Manner Before Large Audience.

The Korulimo Choral Society, of the First Presbyterian church, gave its spring concert in the church auditorium, last night, before an audience of two hundred people. The chorus was composed of fifty voices and it rendered Joseph Barnby's cantata, "Rebekah." This work contains choruses, solos, duets and trios, all of which were sung in excellent style. The solo parts were taken by Miss Ruth Sadler, of this city, soprano, as "Rebekah"; Robert W. Holden, of Newark, tenor, as "Isaac," and Joseph Porter, of Montclair, basso, as "Eliezer." The cantata took up the entire first part of the program.

In the second part, the ladies' chorus sang two songs, and the soloists each sang twice. The program was as follows: Part one, Barnby's "Rebekah"; part two, "Songs My Mother Taught Me,' ladies' chorus"; "Mother Machree" and "Little Grey Home in the West," Mr. Halden; "Elysium," "Tell Me Why" and "To You," Miss Sadler; "Requiem" and "Vulcan's Song," Mr. Forter, "Bridal Chorus" from the Rose Maiden, ladies' chorus.

The leader was Tom Daniel, of Newark. Miss Helen Whitton presided at the piano and Herbert J. Harold, was at the organ. The executive committee was composed of the following: Fredein L. Palmer, chairman; Mrs C. E. Herring, Mrs. Charles E. Steiner, Miss Mildred C. Beard, Miss Ruth Sadler, Miss Carrie M. Davis, Miss Marion Englehardt and Miss A. Casette Bratton. This concert closes the first season of the society which has been a very successful one and it will reorganize under the same leadership next fall.

WARDEN DAVID ROSS REMOVED

Alleged That He Failed to Use Entire Appropriation to Feed Prisoners.

NAME NEW OFFICIAL

James P. Major Appointed for a Five Year Term—Somerset Freeholders Contract for Oiling County Roads.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders, at a meeting yesterday, decided not to engage Warden David Ross, of the Somerset County jail, whose term expires next month, and appointed James P. Major to succeed him for a term of five years at a salary of $75 a month. It is alleged by the freeholders that Warden Ross had received $117.90 over the actual cost of feeding the prisoners last month and the Board decided that the appointment of a new man would mean a saving of about $100 a month. Thirty-five cents a head is allowed for the maintenance of prisoners and it is claimed that Ross failed to use the money entirely for this purpose.

The board passed a resolution to authorize the oiling of the county roads, the work to be done under the direction of Road Supervisor Gibson by the Standard Oil Company. This concern has agreed to do the work at $70 per mile and it is estimated that the expense to the county will be approximately $8,000 there being 112 miles of road. A test of a dust preventative will be made on one section of the county road and for this purpose the freeholders decided to purchase ten barrels at the rate of thirteen cents a gallon. Several repair jobs to county bridges were discussed at the meeting and it was voted to rebuild the bridge near the Kinsey farm, Somerville, and the structure on Pluckamin road.

P. J. Koechlin appeared before the body and asked the county to reimburse him for damage done to his tractor and engine when they went through a bridge near Peapack, but the freeholders appeared to be more inclined to furnish him with a bill for damages to the bridge and the matter was left unsettled.

The finance committee reported that the total receipts for the months had been $1,812.38 and the expenditures $39,300.68. County Collector Allen was authorized to borrow as needed $30,000 in anticipation of taxes.

PAINTER KILLED BY FAST FREIGHT

Isaac Rink, of This City, Struck While Painting Fence at Netherwood.

BODY BADLY MANGLED

Victim Died in Station Before Arrival of Ambulance—Survived by Wife and Four Children—Had Lived Here Ten Years.

Isaac Rink, of 966 West Fifth street, a painter in the employ of the New Jersey Central, was struck by a fast freight at the Netherwood station shortly before noon today and died fifteen minutes later while lying on an emergency stretcher near the scene of the fatality. The victim was engaged in painting the iron fence that divides the east and westbound tracks at the station and did not notice the train until he found himself trapped between the fence and the engine.

Efforts on the part of the engineer to warn the man of his perilous position were futile and he was struck by the forward end of the engine. His body was buffeted back and forth between the fence and the first three cars of the train before the train was brought to a halt and when found by the train crew it was lying close to to the rails. The train was traveling west.

A cushion from the cab of the train was converted into a stretcher and the man removed to the station pending the arrival of the ambulance. In the meantime Dr. J. C. Anderson appeared and upon examination pronounced life extinct. The body was removed to Cole's morgue and later taken to the home.

He is survived by a wife, two daughters, Stella and Ethel, and one son, Charles. The man was forty-eight years of age and has been employed by the railroad for a number of years. He has been a resident of this city for about ten years, coming here from Roycefield. He was a member of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

BORO SCHOOL PUPILS HAVE HIGH AVERAGES

Estes Small and Miss Jennie Sears Named as Leaders in Scholarship.

The students of the North Plainfield High School were given a surprise this morning when Principal Albert Earley announced the winners of the senior class honors. It was made known that the averages were so close that the faculty had a difficult time in making the decisions. Estes Small will be the valedictorian and Miss Jennie A. Sears the salutatorian.

Small has a four year average of 93.181 per cent. and Miss Sears' average is just 93, less than two-tenths of a point under the first honor. Both of the winners will graduate under the classical course.

Because of the great competition, Principal Earley announced that there might be an honorable mention at commencement. There were seven other members of the class with total averages above ninety, which is considered excellent work for one class. The faculty is greatly pleased with the averages of the entire class. The final averages of the first nine members of the class are as follows: Estes Small, 93.181; Jennie Sears, 93; Aline Giddes, 92.66; Mary Bennett, 92.1; Charles Beckman, 91.9; Mary Martin, 91.7; Lucille Ewart, 91.65; Helen Woodruff, 91.59, and Ashley Burner, 90.4.

FATALLY INJURED IN TRAIN CRASH

Engineer Trapped in Cab When Freight Hits "Dead" Train Near Aldene.

FIREMAN'S BRAVE ACT

Extricates Himself and Rescues Engineer C. H. Hunt From Debris—Cause of Accident a Mystery—Plainfielders on the Scene.

Traveling in a westerly direction on the New Jersey Central at an early hour this morning, a fast freight train smashed into a string of passenger coaches at the siding near the Aldene station, injuring the engineer so that he had to be removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital for treatment. The cause of the collision remains a mystery, those near at hand at the time claiming that the switch had been left open and others stating that the passenger coaches had been left standing too far out on the tracks.

The two trains came together with a terrific impact and splinters of wood and glass were strewn about the freight yards for a distance of a hundred feet. The accident occurred as the westbound passenger train, due in this city at 2:08 this morning was passing the spot and the latter train was brought to a sudden halt. Many Plainfielders were aboard and together with the train crew flocked to the scene of the mishap on track No. 4.

Those first to arrive witnessed the fireman's efforts to extricate himself and finally free his companion, Engineer C. H. Hunt, of Phillipsburg. Pinned under a pile of debris Hunt remained conscious and directed the rescue work, although suffering great pain. Taken from the tangled mass of iron and wood he was rushed to the Elizabeth General Hospital where it was said today that he had slight chances of recovery. He is suffering from a compound fracture of the left leg below the knee, a broken thigh and an injured scalp. Physicians at the institution this morning said that the victim was probably injured internally, but the exact extent of his wounds cannot be ascertained at the present itme.

The smash resounded for a long distance and attracted a large crowd of spectators. The "dead" passenger car on the siding was completely demolished by the impact and the engine of the freight train was considerably damaged.

EARLE CEASERO WAS ONCE A COW-PUNCHER

Talented Singer Who is to Appear Here Had Eventful Career.

The song-recital to be given at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium tomorrow evening, by the celebrated young tenar, Earle Ceasero, promises to be one of the musical treats of the season for Plainfield. This being the first appearance of the tenor in this city, there will be an especial interest attached to the event. Ceasero comes to Plainfield widely known as a great singer—after triumphs in the West and Middle West.

Possessed of a rich, robust tenor voice of beautiful texture, wide range and flexibility, together with a perfect control, a great crtic, writing of the work of Ceasero, has acclaimed it "Triumphs of diction, finesse of style, the climax of vocal art." With a splendid sense of poetic values, his art has the quality of sympathy, which communicates itself to his audiences through his subtle refinement—an artist and a gentleman, with a charm all his own. Born in the eastern part of Pennsylvania, and educated entirely in this country, Ceasero stands forth as a splendid example of Americanism in art.

One of the interesting facts concerning the tenor (though little known), is that he was at one time a cow-puncher in the West, and also served the State of Wyoming as a deputy sheriff, in which position he had many interesting adventures. Ceasero will offer a most interesting program at his recital tomorrow evening, and will be assisted by the Misses Marguerite VanZandt and Helen George, pianistes of this city, and by Wendell C. Glover, Plainfield's popular young accompanist. No admission fee will be charged.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 47 degrees; 11 a. m., 47 degrees; 1 p. m., 48 degrees.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR AGED RAILROAD MAN

John Ackerman Fell From Eastbound Train Near North Ave. Depot.

While passing from one coach to another as the 7:55 train, bound for New York pulled into the North avenue station this morning, John Ackerman, an aged man, was jolted from the platform of the train to the ties sustaining a severe scalp wound. The train was going slowly at the time and the fact that the train was stopped within a short distance of the spot where he fell probably saved the victim's life.

Askerman was picked up by commuters nearby at the time and his blood covered countenance led many to believe that he was fatally injured. The aged man was stunned by the blow but soon revived and refused to go to the hospital in the ambulance that had been summoned. He was taken to his home 303 Central avenue and was reported as resting comfortably this afternoon.

The victim is a demurrage checker in the employ of the New Jersey Central and as was his usual custom he went as far west as Rock avenue this morning and was returning to the freight house when the mishap occurred.

RUMOR TAMPICO HAS FALLEN

Mexican City, Says Unconfirmed Report, Has Been Taken by Pancho Villa.

BATTLE RAGING ALL DAY

Mexican General Has Loaded Train With Provisions and Levied Money Tribute From Merchants of City.

Washington, May 13.—A report was received here this afternoon that Tampico has been taken by the Mexican Rebels under General Villa. It is unconfirmed but the fall has been expected hourly.

Vera Cruz via. Gavelston, May 13. (from A. J. Rorke, Central News Correspondent.)—Fighting between the Rebels and the Federals at Tampico proceeded fiercely during the night. About 200 Americans including 60 Pierce oil employes arrived here today from Mexico City.

Despatches received here this morning said that Federal Commander Zaragosa was preparing to evacuate Tampico. It was said that Zaragosa had two engines and a large number of cars loaded and in readiness to rush him to San Luis Potosi. The messages said that Zaragosa had levied tribute to the extent of 150,000 pesos on merchants in Tampico. Those who are unable to pay their share in cash contributed merchandise. It was apparent that Zaragosa intends to leave little behind him. Federal army stores arrived at Saltillo today.

Washington, May 13.—Tampico is tottering to its fall. Word to this effect was received today from Admiral Mayo who reported to the navy department that the Constitutionalists were closing in on the city which appeared to be doomed. The despatch added that the besieging forces expected to occupy Tampico before nightfall. Admiral Mayo expressed his opinion that the Constitutionalists stood a good chance of realizing their object. The firing has been incessant since midnight and the fort is reported now to be rimmed with smoke and flame.

A record was established in the sending of Admiral Mayo's message. It required just 23 minutes to send it from the flag ship by wireless to Rear Admiral Badger at Vera Cruz, thence from that port to Washington by cable and telegraph lines. The record is considered remarkable.

Thus far the casualities have been very heavy, Admiral Mayo reported. Instructions have been sent to him to communicate twice daily with the Navy Department on conditions there and the progress of the fighting.

It became known today that the Navy Department had refused permission to several American oil men to return to the oil field above town on board an American gunboat. Fear is expressed for the consequence following upon the appearance of an American gunboat in the Panuco river and the department has made every effort to discourage refugees from returning and resuming work at the oil wells.

Secretary Bryan has sidestepped the responsibility for the complications arising between the United States and the Mexican Federal Government as a result of the forcible seizure of Lobus Island.

The Secretary of State disavowed any knowledge of the note given the light keeper on the island by the commander of the destroyer Fanning, certifying that the island and the light house had been taken from the keeper by force.

The monitor Ozark, it became known definitely today will remain at Lobos Island. This has been the intention of the Navy Department since the Monitor left New York. Instructions for the seizure of the light had been given to the destroyer fleet commander more than a week ago.

It is believed that the island will be utilized as a naval rendezvous because of its advantageous position. The matter of the seizure of the island has been fully explained to the A B C mediators by Mr. Bryan. The matter was laid before them in its most pleasant aspect, it is understood the secretary assuring them that the only reason for this action was in order to prevent a discontinuance of the light which is a most important one to coastwise vessels in the Gulf of Mexico.

The attitude of the mediators cannot be ascertained.

Army operations in Mexico have cost the country $6,368,932 more than was appropriated for the army for the present year and that sum comprises nearly the total of the urgent deficiency appropriation bill reported to the House today.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON HERE

"From an educational point of view, you can hardly realize the conditions in poverty stricken districts in the south. There is one county which I visited recently in which $22.56 is spent annually for the education of the white child and $1.20 for the negro. That pays too high a compliment to the intelligence of the negro child. We do not need or crave sympathy because of our race. All we want is help. Personally I thank God for the opportunity to have a part in the uplifting of the colored people."

Dr. Washington then told of the success of colored people as land owners, farmers, grocers, druggists, bankers, and in scores of other ways. He said that they had a hard time keeping up with the American white man, because the latter progresses faster than the citizens of any other nation, but in spite of the fact 69 per cent. of the negroes today can read and write, as compared with three per cent. fifty years ago. The changing relationship between the races in the south is making progress better. The relations today are more rational. "I have never seen a more cordial spirit exhibited toward the colored people by the white men in the south than is the case today," said the speaker. "We are at last exerting an influence, lynchings are becoming less frequent, and our people are being treated as human beings as they become more intelligent."

Dr. Washington then told of the need of money for operating expenses at the school, which costs $275,000 a year to run. There is an endowment fund of $2,000,000, and other revenues bring in with it a total of $125,000 annually, so that there is left each year $150,000 to raise to keep the 1,500 students. Students pay tehir own board in labor and cash, and provide their own clothes, books and traveling expenses, but are wholly unable to pay $50 required for tuition. Dr. Washington called attention to the fact that it costs the government several millions annually to support the Indians, but the negroes have never asked for a cent from that source. He said that every dollar received was devoted to teaching the fundamentals.

Mayor Stewart announced that a collection would be taken for the work, and when this was done the meeting closed. The amount received was $282, and it included a check for $100 from a well-known Plainfield woman.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL MEETING

Addressing an audience of five hundred colored men and women, Booker T. Washington, a leader of his race, was given a remarkable ovation at the Washington School, yesterday afternoon, when he spoke prior to attending an evening meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, where he was heard by an aundience that filled that edifice.

Members of the Public Recreation Committee present included Mayor Percy H. Stewart, Dr. Henry M. Maxson, G. Stuart Simons, Walter H. P. Veysey and Herbert E. Parker, all of whom gave words of welcome and appreciation. T. H. Karney, from the committee of colored people named to reeive Mr. Washington, presided and introduced the speaker.

When Mr. Washington arose, the large audience stood and applauded him for several minutes as a mark of appreciation. "We are not so down-trodden as many seem to think," said the speaker. "We must advertise our successes more and our failures less. In the south, our people are establishing more rational relations with the white people, and in the north the negro is improving."

Mr. Washington's address was full of encouragement, sympathy and marked by good humor for which he is noted. He held the close attention of everyone present, and at the close an opportunity was given those in the audience to meet the man who has done so much for the colored race. Proper recognition was given John R. Gates, president of the Dunbar Club, and to the committee which assisted him, for efforts made to bring Mr. Washington to this city.

A HEAVY BURDEN.

A Bad Back Makes Life Miserable for Many Plainfield People.

A backache is a heavy burden.

A burden at night when bedtime comes,

Just as bothersome in the morning.

Ever try Doan's Kidney Pills for it?

Know they are for kidney backache—and for other kidney ills?

If you don't, some Plainfield people do.

Read a case of it:

Mrs. Anthony Wahl, R. F. D. No. 1, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I had such distressing pains in my back that I could hardly stand and it was out of the question for me to stoop. I was all crippled up and I knew perfectly well that my kidneys were the cause of the trouble. A neighbor recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to me and on her suggestion, I used them. They gave me almost immediate relief and three boxes changed me from a chronic sufferer to a healthy woman. I still take Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally, when a cold settles on my kidneys and they act as a preventive of any serious trouble. You may publish this account of my experience for the benefit of other kidney sufferers."

EPWORTH LEAGUES WILL OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

In many parts of the world this week the Epworth Leagues of the Methodist Episcopal church will celebrate their twenty-fifth anniversary. The Epworth League superseded the Oxford League and was formulated into a society in the city of Cleveland, Ohio. The local chapter of the First M. E. church has the distinction of holding Chapter No. 1, which was obtained through the instrumentality of Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, who was living in this city at the time.

Plans are under way for an anniversary social to be held in Vincent chapel tomorrow evening. On this occasion it is expected that practically all of the members of the first cabinet will be present to share in the festivities. Grace church and Monroe Avenue church leagues have been invited to attend and they will take part in the program. Miss Helen Joy, chairman of the social service department, is in charge of the program.

ROD AND REEL

The kingfish are coming up the coast and a few of them have been caught in the surf during the past few days. A fishing enthusiast of that place says that the first one of the season was taken at Long Beach Sunday, while he was fishing the surf. This is good news for the surf fishermen, who usually wait for just such information before they get ready for the summer fishing.

"Sea bass! Sea bass! Here they are, boys!" was the cry that swept along the decks of the Taurus Sunday while that boat was anchored at the Klondike Banks. Twenty-five sea bass were caught during the day and they made the fishermen feel as though a good season was ahead of them. It is a strange thing, but there is a certain class of fishermen that go out to the fishing banks and would rather catch two sea bass than a dozen blackfish or even a codfish. Last Saturday a number of fishermen were looking for the bass, but the best they could do were codfish and blackfish.

Every person above the age of fourteen who wishes to go fishing will have to take out a license which will cost him $1.15. The law was made at the last session of the Legislature, but will not go into effect until January 1, 1915. The license when taken out will permit a person to hunt with the same license.

The shad which came up the Raritan river a few weeks ago is running in much larger numbers now than any previous time this season, and the fishermen who were discouraged by the slimness of their catches in April are hopeful of some big hauls to swell their profits before the season closes in June.

The many fishermen of this city who fish around the Highlands, will be glad to hear that flounders are plentiful in and around the Highlands. The flounders are also plentiful up the Shrewsbury river.

Sea bass will be caught at the fishing banks Sunday if the weather is fair. A large number were caught in the pound nets during the past week.

A law has recently been passed eliminating the spearing of all fish. The law went into effect on April 9. Many of the foreigners as well as citizens of the city and county have made a habit of going spearing for suckers, carp, etc., at Weston's Mill and vicinity.

The fishing season for pike will be opened on Wednesday, May 20, while the season for bass will not open until June 15. The anglers of the city will get their rods ready for the opening day which always means the big catch. Pike and bass is plentiful in the Weston's Mill pond. The local anglers will find the pike and bass more plentiful than ever in this pond.

BASEBALL NOTES

Jacksonville and Savannah are putting up a hot fight for leading honors in the South Atlantic League.

The Davenport team got the jump on the other Three-I League members by winning nine of the first ten games of the season.

With the exception of Sam Crawford and Joe Jackson, the American League heavy stickers have not shown anything worth while with the war club.

Christy Mathewson says the Pirates are going to be dangerous contenders for the National League pennant. Past records show they always have been.

The fast work of the New Orleans team has caused quite a surprise in Southern League circles. Last year the Pelicans were outdistanced and finished in the cellar.

The Pittsburgh Pirates belong to the western division in the National League, while the Pittsburgh Federals are registered in the eastern division of the new organization.

"Miner" Brown's St. Louis Federals seem to have a genuine catcher in Chapman. He is regarded as a better thrower than either of the other backstops—Hartley or Simon.

Outfielder Jack Dalton evidently means to stick with the Brooklyn Superbas this time. Since his return from Newark, Jack has clouted the pill well over the .300 mark.

Young Acosta, the Cuban, is making a fight for the right field job with the Washington team. Moeller is a great fielder, but the Cuban, it is said, is a better batter.

Del Gainor, the Detroit first sacker, says he would welcome a trade that would land him with the Boston Red Sox. If young Burns continues his brilliant work for the Tigers it is likely that Del's wish will be gratified.

It is said that Pitcher Ray Caldwell, of the Yankees, has cut out the bright lights and is beginning to take his work seriously. Caldwell has the goods and will prove to be a wonderful slabster if he keeps himself in condition.

P. H. S. ATHLETES TO COMPETE IN A MEET

Interclass Competition Scheduled for Next Week by Manager Day.

Manager Alfred Day, of the Plainfield High School track team, has arranged an inter-class field meet for Thursday and Friday afternoons, May 21 and 22. Every boy in the school will be eligible to compete.

There will be no entrance fee for individual rewards, but a banner will be presented to the class winning the most points. The events scheduled to be competed for on Thursday are: 100 yard dash (senior); 100 yard dash (junior); half mile run (senior), and one mile relay race.

The events which will be held on Friday are: 220 yard dash (senior); 440 yard dash (senior); pole vault, mile run.

AFTER LOCAL ATHLETE.

Ralph Runyon, the local High School pole vaulter, received a letter yesterday inviting him to join the Irish-American Athletic Club. Runyon has been cleaning up in all the Metropolitan school meets. He recently joined the Pastime Athletic Club so will probably be unable to consider the Irish club's offer.

ELEVENTH HOUR GAME.

Manager Williams, of the Plainfield High School baseball team, arranged a game with Woodbridge at noon today, to be played on Parker Field this afternoon.

HENRY SIEGEL.

Indicted Merchant Who Left Secretly For Europe.

SIEGEL AGREES TO RETURN ON OLYMPIC

Sends Wireless to Pacify the District Attorney.

New York, May 13.—Henry Siegel, indicted merchant, whose secret departure on the steamship Olympic on last Saturday has roused the district attorney, promised to return to this country on the same ship on which he sailed away. That will give him about five days in London with his daughter and grandchildren, to see whom was the only purpose, he says, of going away under cover.

If Siegel does not debark from the vessel at Plymouth on Friday, as he says, but instead goes on to Cherbourg and there leaves the vessel, he will be placed promptly under arrest. If he does hurry from the ship at Plymouth he will be under the constant surveillance of Scotland Yard men, who have been requested already by District Attorney Whitman to keep constantly in touch with every movement of Siegel while in England. So long as Siegel remains in England and makes no move that is suspicious he will be free from arrest, but at the same time he must be true to his promise as to the day of his return.

John R. Stanchfield and Lemuel E. Quigg, both attorneys for Siegel and for Frank E. Vogel, Siegel's partner, succeeded yesterday in making such an arrangement with District Attorney Whitman so that Siegel will have a few days with his daughter. The district attorney was not inclined to be so lenient with Siegel, because of the suspicious manner in which he left the country, but both Stanchfield and Quigg gave every personal assurance of their belief in Siegel's return.

WOMEN DYNAMITED IN ROOM.

Mother and Daughters Victims of Mysterious Explosion at Kingston.

Kingston, N. Y., May 13.—Mrs. Darwin Hinckley and her two daughters were seriously injured here by the explosion of three sticks of dynamite thrown mysteriously into their bedroom. The mother's injuries may result in blindness.

Mrs. Hinckley and her daughters were aroused by a noise in their room. They arose to investigate, and a blinding explosion hurled them to the floor.

SURGERY TAMES WILD MAN SLAYER

Brain Operation Gives Vicious Brute New Character.

DISPOSITION NOW THE BEST

Described as a Human Being of the Lowest Order When Put In Prison, Undergoes Magic Transformation and May Get Pardon—Blow Held Responsible For Condition.

At the direction of the New Jersey court of pardons a full investigation is being made into the strange case of Jonas Szikely, confined in the state prison at Trenton, and as a result it is possible that at the next term of court the man may receive a pardon. The account of the operation on Szikely's brain a few months ago caused a sensation in the medical world. The story is best told in the official report:

"The case of Jonas Szikely, who is serving a sentence of thirty years from Oct. 10, 1910, for murder, is one of extraordinary interest. It is reported to us that when he was brought to the state prison he seemed little more than a giant brute, with a savage, forbidding countenance, uncouth habits, grabbing his food, spilling it over himself while eating, and in general of about as low an order as it seemed possible for a human being to be.

Blow on Head Caused Injury.

"He had received a terrible blow on the back of his head near the top, which had been inflicted, as the prison authorities understood, in the struggle during which the murder was committed.

"During nearly three years after being received at the prison he was kept under close guard, and, while he seemed never to have exhibited any disposition to injure any one, he looked and acted like such a typical brute that the authorities never felt disposed to take chances with him. During all of this time the prisoner would frequently and suddenly cry out, although he gave no other indications of having any localized pain.

"About six or eight months ago the visiting physician, Dr. Martin W. Reddan, decided to operate by removing part of the skull to see if there had been a splinter of bone driven in at the time he received the blow on the head so that it pressed upon the brain. The operation was performed, the splinter of bone was found and removed, thus relieving the pressure, and as the patient was coming out of ether the attendants were astounded to hear him utter fragments of the English language, which, since he had come to prison, no one had ever heard him speak, and upon his entirely coming out from the influence of ether and recovering the surgeon and all the prison authorties were wonderfully surprised to find that, instead of the brute features and expression of before the operation, the man now exhibited a bright, kindly, humane countenance, quite intelligent, and has since shown one of the kindest dispositions to be found anywhere.

Ignorant of Subsequent Events.

"He is constantly helping everybody, doing little things for the other prisoners' comfort and working with perfect obedience and cheerfulness, so that everybody, prisoners and authorities alike, have become particularly fond of him.

"He has no recollection of anything which has happened since he had the impression, as he was going home from his work, that he was being 'held up' until he came out of the ether after the operation.

"He knows nothing of his trial, nothing of the struggle at the time the murder was committed, never heard the name of the man who was killed, does not know how many men took part in the struggle nor anything about the events of his arrest, trial, conviction and incarceration.

"From the representations made by the surgeon and by the prison authorities, your committee think it was quite possible that this man may, by the blow received at the time the struggle commenced wherein a man was killed, have been at once transformed from a conscious, responsible human being into the irresponsible condition under which he has existed up to the time of the operation and that while in that condition may have killed a man and been tried and convicted without any one realizing his mental irresponsibility. If this is so, of course, no murder was committed, and now that the man has been restored to himself he should receive a full pardon."

A School For Storekeepers.

A "school for storekeepers," consisting of a three day course of lectures and demonstrations, has been opened at the University of Kansas, with several hundred country merchants from all parts of the state in attendance. The course was arranged by Professor D. C. Croissant to give the small town and country storekeepers new ideas in business, advertising and store management.

Congress Adds to National Forest.

Nearly 17,000 acres have been added by congress to the Caribou national forest, Idaho. This is one of the first of such additions through congressional action and is the largest so far made by direct legislation.

CENSOR THE SONGS

Several newspapers and magazines in New York have recently begun an agitation for a censorship of popular songs, which is daily growing stronger. More power to the movement! The wonder is that the people who make it their business to protect the public morals did not protest long ago. The authorities lost no time in getting censors for moving pictures and plays, but it seems as though all of them have tin ears when it comes to the so-called popular song. The composers have been getting boider and bolder, until at the present time the lacivlousness is almost akin to defiance.

Questionable phrases are set to catchy choruses that induce young people to repeat them everywhere, without the least sign of blushing, because it is a song. If they repeated the words, without the music, in a public place, the people would consider them an insult. Vulgarity seems to pervade every ballad brought out recently, and the question arises, "when are they going to stop?"

There is an old saying about giving some people an inch and they will take a mile. The 1914 song writers are in this class and the sooner a board of censors is appointed, the better it will be for the community at large. There is plenty of good music available at all times, and for all purposes, without harmonizing indecency and forcing unwilling ears to listen to it. Let the censorship come, and let it come quick.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES CHANGENG.

Where once women's clubs were organized exclusively for personal culture, study of art or music or literature and, in special cases, for some special line of charity among the destitute, the predominating object of these bodies of women today is the promotion of the community beautiful and the city serviceable. While retaining the original idea of the cultivation of theory, the women are working more and more through their clubs and their club committees for playgrounds, parks and parkways, clean up observance, care of lawns, tidiness of streets and alleys, vacant lot cultivation, vocational education, school and home gardens, neighborhood and school social centers, beautification and municipal improvement in general. Even the city government is receiving their attention.

This transformation is to be seen in Plainfield as well as in other communities. Here it may be said that the women's clubs and women individually have ceased to discuss and debate matters of ancient history and far-off races to consider action at home. They have to a great degree supplanted the men in community improvement work after tiring of the latters' good intentions tempered by delay. It is true, also, that these women are accomplishing many things of importance for their communities.

Nor is this interest of the women without reason. Woman's chief concern is her home. She has discovered that she helps make her home better for herself, her husband and her children by making the city better and more beautiful. She has learned that home cannot be perfect in an imperfect city, so she sets about to make the city more nearly perfect. City administrations generally have accepted her services as a valuable asset and they are ever ready to collaborate with the club movements.

By accepting their new duties along the line of civic wakefulness the women have lost nothing, for they have retained their literary departments as formerly conducted. They are but enlarging their activities and it is pleasing to note what they are doing throughout the country to advance the community and social welfare of their cities.

TUTTLE'S PLAN.

From time to time the Daily Press has called attention to the wasteful methods of the government, particularly in the distribution of free seeds, which so often are sent out to constitutuents, without regard to whether or not they really do any good, or are even wanted. It has been suggested that the seeds be turned to good use, and sent to school children and others who really could get some good from them, instead of persons who have not the slightest desire for them.

Congressman Tuttle has adopted a plan for seed distribution which is in keeping with the other progressive and effective things that able representative has done. He distributes practically all of his quota through the schools of the district, some of which have school gardens. The latter are becoming an interesting feature of school work, especially in the rural communities, and might well be copied here. Certainly they encourage interest in the flowers and vegetables on the part of the children. The Congressman also makes it a rule to send seeds only to citizens who ask for them. It is gratifying to learn that at least one representative turning to good use what many others throw away.

The death of William L. Gavett takes from the city one of its best known and oldest inhabitants, a man of unusually fine character, and one who until very recently was identified in an active and influential way with the growth of Plainfield.

Small boys and their bigger brothers, to say nothing of the sisters, fathers, mothers, uncles, aunts, and all the rest will lay aside all other & Bailey circus will on that day pay its first visit to Plainfield in eighteen years.

One of the younger lawyers in the city will be the contributing editor for Saturday. He will write about a phase of legal work which is of interest to the layman.

Both aeroplanes were speeding at a tremendous rate over the parade ground of the famous army post and smashed together with a terrific crash.

Both machines were completely wrecked and came tumbling to the ground from the great height.

The writer regards the record as one of which any navy might be proud.

The general order of Secretary Daniels abolishing the wine mess for officers of the United States navy is to become effective July 1.

DEMONSTRATES A NEW FIRE RESISTING PREPARATION

The value of a patent preparation made by the Gibralter Fire-Resisting Paint Company, as a preventive against the destruction of property by fire, was demonstrated on Watchung avenue, near East Front street, by W. T. Runyon, of Newark, treasurer of the company. At that time a minature house, built for the purpose, and covered inside and out with the patent paint, was set on fire. It burned twenty minutes and went out without a drop of water being used. Thirty-five minutes were consumed in burning the pine columns, the blaze finally going out of its own accord.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane was present and gave a brief talk of interest in which he endorsed the preparation as a safe prevenative against the ravages of fire, and he pointed out the special merits of the paint, as did also Mr. Runyon. The minature house is now on exhibition in the window of Woolston & Buckles shop on oNrth avenue, where the preparation can be secured and its value explained.

TRACY & SWARTOUT'S DESIGN ACCEPTED

Will Build Costly George Washington Memorial Auditorium.

The jury of award of the George Washington Memorial Association has accepted the design of the New York architects, Tracy & Swartout, for the construction of the $2,000,000 auditorium to be erected as a George Washington Memorial in Washington, marking the culmination of an effort which began over four years ago. With the acceptance of the design and the fact that Congress has already made a grant of the site for the structure, the future looks bright for the raising of the additional amount of money required and the early completion of the great work.

Tracy & Swartout, the former Evarts Tracy, of this city, were one of thirteen competing firms, of which five were from New York. McKim, Mead & White also entered the competition. The successful firm's drawings depict a fine Colonial building, with pillared front, and square ground plan. The main interior feature feature will be the great auditorium, seating 6,000 people, artistically arranged in the form of an ellipse, with the stage at one end and a deep balcony encircling the whole. The architects prefer to call their design American in type, instead of Colonial, although in general appearance it presents the feature of a dignified and inspiring.

BOILER EXPLODES, 9 KILLED.

Meet Death on Board the Jefferson of the Old Dominion Line.

Norfolk, Va., May 13.—Nine men are dead and two are seriously injured as the result of an explosion of the after starboard boiler of the Old Dominion line steamship Jefferson, five miles inside Cape Henry, as she was leaving this port for New York. Eight coal passers and firemen, two of them white men, were instantly killed and an oiler died while the steamship was hurrying back to Norfolk for medical help.

As soon as the explosion occurred and it was found that the Jefferson was still able to proceed under her own steam, Captain Catherine turned the vessel back to Norfolk to obtain medical attention for the injured. Mr. Portlock and Mr. Smith were taken to the Sarah Leigh hospital. Olsen died before the vessel reached the pier.

CAVALRY DASH TO CAPITAL NEXT; REFUGEES TELL THRILLING STORIES

Tentative Plan of the War College For Advance on Mexico City.

Another Revolt, Led by Velasco, Now Threatened. Yucatan Aflame.

WAR department officers in Washington, who have been working on a cavalry plan of advance against the City of Mexico, believe they have perfected an arrangement by which they can force the Mexican troops under General Maas to abandon their defenses along the Mexican and International railways. The accomplishment of this plan would be followed, in the event of the Mexicans making a stand at the City of Mexico, by the use of artillery in laying siege to the Mexican capital.

The scheme as it now stands would require the use of six regiments of cavalry, contingents of the signal corps, with wireless telegraphy field outfits, and an aviation squadron. Having tentatively worked out this idea, the military authorities have called Brigadier General James Parker, commanding the First cavalry brigade, to Washington from the Texas frontier.

As now contemplated the cavalry movement scheme would comprise a series of detours from the railroad by the cavalry in its movement westward from Vera Cruz, but always with the view of closing in upon the City of Mexico after forcing the retirement of the Mexican federals along the two lines of railway. It is believed by army officers that, despite what General Maas has done, the Mexican troops can be forced back on the City of Mexico with the loss of comparatively few men by the Americans.

Build Railroad En Route.

The plan under consideration and tentatively worked out entails the reconstruction of the railroad by the American army as it forges ahead, with the aid of the cavalry flanking movements, so as to have the railroad available for use in handling heavy artillery. It also calls for special arrangements with reference to the use of wireless telegraph field outfits for communication with the advance base at Vera Cruz.

The war department has obtained reports that special field apparatus used on the Texas border has produced extraordinary results. With this apparatus messages have been sent as far as 150 miles under "ordinary conditions along the border."

The signal corps has been trying out a new field wireless outfit on a specially built heavy automobile truck. Officers developed the special apparatus so as to be able to send messages, in a pinch, 200 miles.

Under such an arrangement the army could go 200 miles from its base at Vera Cruz and still be able to communicate with the base without relay. Under the arrangement thus tried the same power that operates the automobile truck would be utilized in operating the radio apparatus on the truck. These trucks, army officers believe, can be used in a country as rough as that between Vera Cruz and Mexico City.

On the Texas border there are portions of seven regiments of trained cavalry that could be drawn upon at once for use in such a cavalry movement. None of these cavalrymen has been on the border more than a year, and reports to the department show that they are all in fit condition.

New Rebellion Expected.

The outbreak of another military revolt in Mexico, headed by General Jose Refugio Velasco, who was recently driven out of Torreon by Francisco Villa, would not cause any great surprise in the federal capital, according to conservative observers among returning refugees.

General Velasco is said to be grievously discontented concerning the failure of the government in Mexico City to support him properly in the defense of Torreon, and he is declared to have stated that he would never again lead a column of troops against the rebels.

The fall of Torreon and the subsequent disaster to the federal troops are asserted by General Velasco to have been entirely due to the failure of the war department to heed his appeal for ammunition at a time when he says it was perfectly feasible for it to have reached him.

American Women Attacked.

Shocking stories of the ill treatment of American women by Mexican soldiers were told by refugees from the GENERAL VELASCO, WHO MAY HEAD ANOTHER REVOLT IN MEXICO.

Medina agricultural colony arriving at New Orleans. About 100 Americans were isolated there in danger of death or torture until they were rescued and finally brought to this country by the Monterey and other ships.

Henry M. Pierce of Canton, Tex., told a story of a Mexican crime, which he said was typical. He said:

"William H. Shope lived in Medina with his wife and two daughters, aged nine and eleven. Shope was shot dead by Mexicans, and his wife and daughters were treated with extreme brutality. Rescued finally, they had to be taken to the Tierra Blanca hospital. Nothing was done to bring the offenders to justice. The mother finally escaped from the country with her children and got on a ship that went to California. This happened before the Tampico affair."

Mrs. A. F. Meissner and her eight children were among the refugees brought by the Monterey. She said that she and the children were thrown into a foul prison at Cordoba and kept there two days practically without food. Their clothing was taken away. When they boarded the Monterey at Vera Cruz they had no shoes and their clothing was pieces of rags sewed together.

Mobs' Passions Inflamed.

There were about twenty missionaries among the refugees brought by the Monterey, including representatives of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian denominations.

The Rev. George H. Brewer of New York was accompanied by his wife and two children. He was in charge of the Baptist missions in Mexico, with headquarters in Mexico City.

"Yes, thank God, we managed to escape," he said, "but he only knows what has happened to the friends and co-workers left behind us. There are many good people in Mexico, but they are incited to riot by the military leaders, who profit by their patriotic display.

"When the Vera Cruz news reached Mexico City we were driven to take shelter in a hotel. Here we hid ourselves while the howling mobs swarmed the streets, cursing and yelling 'Death to the Gringoes!'

"When we finally managed to get to the coast we discovered that Misses Hayes and Wheeler, two American girls doing missionary work in the republic, were missing. I have every reason to believe that they were incarcerated in the jail at Saltillo."

Tortured, Bought Release.

Case H. Harwood, an American financier of Aguascalientes, one of the recent refugees to reach Galveston, Tex., says that with $6,000 in gold he purchased the release of his wife and himself from Mexican bandits. His cattle and stock were confiscated, and his home was burned. He was awakened in the night by bandits, and he and his wife fled. They soon were captured, he said, and then he purchased freedom for his wife and himself.

"I was tied to a tree half a mile from home," said Mr. Harwood. "Mexicans blindfolded me and told me to prepare to die. I could hear the cries of my wife. She begged for my life. As they were measuring off paces intending to shoot me I told them that I would give the money. I was released and conducted them to the place where my money was hidden. After they obtained it I was told to leave the country at once and did."

Peril In Yucatan.

G. L. Germon, former acting American vice consul at Progreso, who reached New Orleans, says that the Americans in Yucatan are in a perilous situation. According to Mr. Germon, circulars have been distributed in Progreso ordering Americans to get out of the country.

Conditions forcing the departure of Americans from Mexico after the taking of Vera Cruz are described in a letter received by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions in New York from the Rev. J. T. Molloy.

"Peaceful Yucatan went wild at the report of the taking of Vera Cruz, and the cry of 'Death to the Americans!' was attended with such demonstrations as to make all feel that the only prudent thing to do was to flee without delay," wrote Mr. Molloy. "Our presence in Merida or in Progreso not only endangered our lives, but exposed our people to attack on our account. In an anti-American demonstration murmurings against our religion were mixed with cries of 'Death to the Americans!'

"The home of a well known business man was approached by a mob crying 'Death to the Americans!' They tore off the top of an auto that was standing at the door, turned the machine over, shot into the house, broke in the door and but for the arrival of the police would have demolished the house.

The family escaped by going upon the roof.

"There was no communication with Mexico City, no chance to send a wire to any part of the world; there was no way out but to take an English freight boat bound for Mobile, and we gladly took it.

"I think it is only fair to the people of Yucatan to say that, left to themselves, they would have behaved well, but the people were inflamed by false reports. Extras were got out one after another, bogus telegrams were circulated, such as 'Vera Cruz has fallen bathed in blood, but she fell bravely; even women slew Americans;' 'the blond faced brutes are marching for the center of the republic;' 'Mexicans, now as ever let us cry "Viva Mexico."' One thing was clearly seen—the whole uprising was brought on by officials."

An American Heroine.

How an American woman, the wife of the American printer at Monterey, carrying an American flag, rushed past the federal outposts and through the rebel forces, reviled and insulted as she passed, and fought her way to the American consulate seeking a physician for her husband, who had been wounded by a federal shell at their finca just outside of Monterey, was told by one of the first refugees to reach Washington. Her husband, J. S. Carnahan, pictured the heroic daring of this frail little American woman, clinging to her United States flag at a time when the flag of her country was a signal for attack.

The Carnahans have lived in Monterey for more than fifteen years. They were both under fire during the two battles at Monterey.

Mrs. Carnahan said they had been forced to surrender their horses and automobiles when the rebel leader, General Gonzales, took the city.

Mrs. Carnahan saw the flag of the United States dragged in the mud and torn by the Banda de Guerra, led by General Massieu, in company with the mayor of the city and his officers and the governor of the state, Salome Botella, who rode about the town of Monterey proclaiming that the United States was going to invade Mexico and calling upon all citizens to take up arms against the invaders.

CLOWN ARMY COMING WITH CIRCUS

A perfect horde of clowns is coming to this city next Friday with the Barnum & Bailey circus, the glad assurance is given, and side-splitting hilarity will prevail during the performances. To the boy and the older boy, his father, there is nothing in all the varied catalog of the circus that quite compares with the crude and genuine mirth the white-face cut-ups provide.

The clown is an inherent part of man's attitude toward life. There have always been clowns in the past; there will always be clowns in some form. The circus clown as we know him in the days of youth is slowly passing. What is left of him are scattered and impersonal remnants of the old individual jester. He has become a medley, a multitude of abstracts, a whirlwind of unidentified comedy.

The fun of the modern clowns lies in their original conceptions, their grotesque costumes and their mechanical effects, and it is quite effectively and spontaneously uproarious as that in the days of the one-ring tent. Dogs, pigs, goats, roosters and even a kangaroo are their allies; aeroplanes, fire engines and patrol wagons give aid; they dress like policemen, rubes, dudes, young and old women, Suffragettes, Highlanders and giraffes; giants and midgets walk side by side.

Barnum & Bailey have ransacked the world for its cleverest and most original clowns. Their comicalities are a ceaseless joy of creation and burlesque. Jim Rutherford, Art Jarvis, Jim Rossi, Pierre Kerfeyser, Flatiron and Scrapiron, J. Jerome, Denver Darling, Hart Brothers, Pat Valdo, Butch Siegrist and Ernest Anderson are among them. Their names are synonymous of mirth unrestricted wherever the circus is known.

SUNDAY BASEBALL IN CENTRAL NEW JERSEY.

What number of people favor Sunday baseball in this section is indefinite, and would be difficult to asertain. Taking the crowds that attended Sunday games in Scotch Plains last year as a criterion they are considerable. On the other hand it is easier to judge the number against Sunday baseball and other forms of Sabbath desecration, easier because they have at various times taken a definite stand against it. The indications in Plainfield are that Plainfielders do not want Sunday baseball, but there are some who would like to have it in some nearby town easy to reach. Many have asked us to advocate the reorganization of the Scotch Plains team, but that is practically out of the question for this year at least. Sunday ball has always been a paying proposition at the 'Plains, but the only move that will result in the formation of a team this year will be the selection of a new manager, for Joe Alberts has definitely stated that he will not conduct Sunday baseball at that place again. New Brunswick, therefore, is the nearest place to Plainfield which encourages the Sunday recreation and local fans who really require a certain amount of the sport can find it at the little town on the Raritan any Sunday afternoon during the next five months.

A GOOD MOVE FOR LIDGATE.

Eugene Lidgate's removal to the York team of the Tri-State League was an exceedingly good one for the Fanwood youth, for it gave him an opportunity to break into the sport regularly. Manager Johnny Dunn, of the Baltimore Orioles, probably figured this all out before he let the youngster go. Liddy has the makings of a leaguer in him and the Tri-State circuit is just the place to draw everything he has to the surface. Since going to York he has been putting up a crackerjack article of baseball and his performance has been so good that he has already displaced his predecessor. Daily work is what Liddy needs and now that he is getting it we expect to see him rise to the Class A circuit.

A victory for North Plainfield this afternoon, and things look pretty dubious for the Leal nine, will mean a first place tie on the Interscholastic League calnedar. A deadlock this early in the season should lend interest to the race and the game between Plainfield and North Plainfield Saturday afternoon will have a little added interest injected into it if this situation comes through as anticipated. Local fans are waiting for this opportunity to size up the two schoolboy aggregations and the contest Saturday presents conditions entirely favorable to good workouts.

In the spring, when green begins to show its welcome color on the lawns; when buds swell and burst on bush, vine and tree; when the robin's song is heard and his red breast is seen about our homes, the young (and old) man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—fishing. And who is there with sufficient courage to criticize this typical fancy of the true sport? There are plenty of local anglers of the thirty-second degree variety in this city and many of them are taking advantage of the abundance of the finny tribe in this section.

RAHWAY HAS GREAT TEAM.

East Orange High School's team was obliged to taste defeat at the hands of the Rahway High School nine in a game of baseball played at Ashland Field, East Orange, yesterday afternoon, the final score reading 9 to 1. That the Rahway clan can play real baseball was proved in convincing style to the handful of loyal fans who braved the cold to see the contest. The visitors fielded almost faultlessly, a bad heave by the shortstop being the only error chalked up against them; they batted well, getting eleven safe bingles, and in all showed good baseball.

RIFFERT MAKING GOOD.

Jack Riffert, one of the best all-around athletes in the Plainfield High School in 1910, has earned a regular's berth on the Swarthmore College team and has been putting up a great article of the pastime for that aggregation. In yesterday's contest with Delaware College he accounted for two of his team's six safe hits and played an excellent game in the field. Riffert formerly performed in right field for Plainfield High School baseball teams and was also a clever football player, holding down the quarterback job. He lives in Bound Brook.

The Waldorf team in the Elks' Club Bowling Tournament annexed another clean sweep in its wild race for the club championship on the Watchung avenue alleys, last night, the Kiely outfit falling victims to the prowess of the conceded champs. Captain Waldorf appeaerd to be in fine fettle for the series and was ably assisted by his four helpers who spasmodically set up scores that boosted the game tally in each case to a winning point.

Fourteen counters separated the rivals in the curtain raiser, Pope, Nash, Sr., and Kiely being responsible for the losing side's god fight, while Swalm, Woolston and Waldorf performed well for the winners. A 187 finish by the No. 3 anchor man gave the Waldorf herd a four-pin verdict in the second, although Kiely set up a double century which boosted his side's record considerably.

The winning side put a grand finale on the evening of pinning i the final match by swamping the rival clan. A margin of 110 pins separated the two teams at the completion of the fight, a 210 by Waldorf, the high individual score of the evening, putting the opposition to rout.

SUNDAY BASEBALL LEGAL IF PROMOTERS DO NOT BENEFIT

It is not unlawful to play baseball on Sunday if the promoters do not realize any profit by the venture, according to a decision rendered yesterday by Magistrate Joseph Fitch in a New York police court, when he discharged three members of the Bushwick baseball nine who were charged with violating the Sunday law by playing baseball on May 3 and 10.

It was shown that scorecards were placed on sale at 50 cents each, but the police admitted that patrons were not obliged to purchase them and that many had entered without charge.

The magistrate said: "I realize that it costs money to play baseball, and these men, I have been informed, have to pay $1,000 for the use of the field. There are other expenses and I don't see how it is a violation of the law to accept voluntary contributions."

The Bushwicks last year were known as the Ridgewoods, and officials of that nine were summoned to court seventy-six times. All the magistrates held them for the Court of Special Sessions. In the first case four men were fined $50 each. The others got suspended sentences. The attorneys for the team appealed and the higher court sustained the Court of Special Sessions. The men last year were charged with selling tickets at the entrance to the grounds, but alleged that any bona fide members could witness the games.

VOORHEES HIGH MAN IN TWO-MAN EVENT

Parker and R. Braun Combination Leading Dunellen Tournament.

Arthur Voorhees, with an individual average of 168 is leading the pinners in the Dunellen Two-man Tournament now well under way on the Baraca alleys in that place. In twenty games he has toppled over 3,356 pins and has performed in a consistent fashion with his teammate, Russell Brakeley, who has totaled 2,405. This makes a total of 7,657 credited to the team that is at present occupying fifth place in the tourney. George Voehl, having competed in sixteen matches, has split 2,628 pins for an average of 164.

The Parker and R. Braun combination is leading the pack with thirteen victories and a trio of reverses with a percentage of .812. C.Braun and Hodge are second in the running and Mann and Zink are running third.

PARKS NOT TO ENTER S. S. LEAGUE RACE

Churchboy Team Met Last Night and Decided to Arrange Schedule.

The Park Avenue Baptist baseball team met in the church parlors last night, to organize for the coming season and it was decided at that time not to enter a team in the Sunday-School League race this season. Efforts have been made by the league authorities to induce the Parks to reconsider their early season action in dropping out of the league, and to take the franchise handed in by the Trinity team last week. A schedule of games has been arranged and is due to start Saturday afternoon, and it was thought possible that the Park team would consent to substitute for Trinity.

A large amount of routine business was disposed of by the management of the aggregation at last night's meeting and the combination is now ready to open the season with an independent schedule. Jack Ricketts has been elected to captain the team and he will assist the manager in drawing up a good schedule of independent matches with local and out of town teams.

To date the management of the Park team has been unable to secure a suitable playing field on which to stage its home battles. Several are in view and a definite choice will b arrived at within the next few days. The church boys has designs on Parker Field but the Plainfield Baseball Club has since leased that field making it necessary for the amateur team to look elsewhere for a lot.

WESTFIELDERS ARE PLANNING FOR BASEBALL REVIVAL

Westfield will be represented by one of the fastest semi-professional teams this season that has performed on a Mt. Ararat lot for some years if present plans are carried out as proposed. An entertainment held in Westfield Theatre, Monday night, netted the athletic association over $100 which will be expended for paraphernalia to equip the nine. The team will be in a class with the Plainfield, Dunellen and Somerville aggregations and home and out of town contests will be arranged.

Many prominent business men of that place have enlisted their services in the cause and a complete revival of the pastime is planned for the village.

The officers and members of the Westfield Athletic Association are as follows: President, L. G. Venn; vice-presidents, George Worth and Alexander Hunt,Jr.; secretary, Ford Douglass; treasurer, R. D. Green. The members are: A. H. Clark, C. N. Codding, Jr., H. Cowperthwaite, George Cruttenden, H. Cruttenden, George Eldridge, P. Ketcham, Ed McMahon, F. W. MacDonald, G. H. Triplett, George Valleau, H. L. Wahl, R. Williams, G. W. Young, C. Himmelberger, Charles Kimball; G. R. MacDonald and Donald Pearsall.

Both teams scored freely in the first few innings, but the pitchers finally tightened up and allowed but few runs in the latter part of the game.

The field was in poor condition, the diamond being muddy and the outfield very slippery.

High individual score of the evening went to Voorhees in the final game and the high team score was set up by the Mann and Zink team with a tally of 349. # NEW BLOW FOR MEDIATION PLAN

Huerta Has Proof of Labos Seizure.

ISLAND TAKEN BY FORCE

Dictator Has Document Signed by Commander of United States Destroyer to That Effect—Seeks Every Pretext to Embarrass Mediators.

HUERTA HITS PEACE PLANS NEW BLOW.

Hope for a successful outcome of the mediation proceedings received another setback when it was learned that Huerta has in his possession a document signed by the commander of the United States destroyer Fanning certifying that Lobos island was seized by force.

State department officials have repeatedly asserted that the island was not seized and that the United States forces were merely operating the light, which had been abandoned by its Mexican keepers.

General Huerta has already notified the mediators that he considers the seizure of the island a violation of the armistice.

Washington, May 13.—The Mexican situation is in a worse muddle than at any other time since the mediation proceedings began. The new embarrassments came chiefly through the disclosure that Huerta has in his possession a paper signed by the commanding officer of the United State destroyer Fanning certifying that the light on Lobos island, off the gulf coast of Mexico, was taken by force by the United States.

This remarkable development, following Huerta's protest to the mediators that the seizure of Lobos island constituted a violation of the armistice, was a shock to the state department. Secretary Bryan has denied that there was any seizure of the island and had contended that the United States had merely maintained the light after it had been deserted by the Mexican keepers.

Mr. Bryan was explaining to the mediators that this extraordinary certificate merely represented an act of courtesy and that it was in no way to be construed as an acknowledgment that the naval forces had seized the island. It meant merely that the commanding officer of the Fanning had insisted that the machinery necessary for operating the light be left behind by the keeper.

Huerta, with his present disposition to push charges of bad faith against the United States, is certain to make the most of this incident. While morally the United States was justified in taking possession of the light, authorities here doubt whether technically they had the right to do so.

On top of this controversy has come another note from Huerta's government to the mediators adding to the perplexity of the United States. Huerta has called attention to the fact that five of the snipers at Vera Cruz who have been arrested and are about to be put on trial for their lives are not Mexican subjects, but citizens of South American countries.

Huerta Blocking Mediators.

Washington, May 13.—While the diplomatic representatives here of the A, B, C powers are preparing to leave Washington for the mediation conferences at Niagara Falls, Canada, administration officials are becoming convinced that Huerta is seeking every pretence to embarass the mediators.

Consequently, although the administration has selected its delegates to the conference and is preparing to carry through its part of the program, war plans are going steadily ahead.

Outside of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan there are few officials who do not expect to see the American army advance into the interior of Mexico within a month.

Charges of bad faith are flying back and forth between Mexico City and Washington. The mediators, who are the mediums for these complaints, are perplexed beyond measure.

While Huerta is complaining bitterly that the seizure of the Lobos Island lighthouse on the east coast by Rear Admiral Badger is in violation of the armistice between the United States and Mexico and because of it is threatening to recall his delegates to the peace conference, the state department is demanding the immediate release of Consul John R. Silliman, imprisoned at Saltillo.

10,000 REBELS AT MAZATLAN

Keep Up Continuous Fire on Town In Relays, U. S. Consul Reports.

Washington, May 13.—Ten thousand Constitutionalist soldiers are fighting the federal garrison at Mazatlan, according to W. E. Alger, consul at Mazatlan.

"Five hundred federals in ordinary warfare could hold the city indefinitely," Alger said. "The rebels have adopted an attack to tire out the federals by keeping a continuous fire with relays of 1,000 men. I think the city will not be taken for at least three weeks."

Alger said only two Americans have been murdered during the last four years in the Mazatlan district.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—Referring to an article in your Paper of May 6th, by R. A. Lawrence in which the writer takes exception to a cartoon showing the appreciation of certain interests for the splendid efforts the Anti-suffrage Association is making to protect them from the wrath of the good women of the country, by trying to keep the women from using the most effective weapon for suppression of these interests—the ballot. No decent interests have ever been hurt by the enfranchisement of women, and none need fear Equal Suffrage. The women who do not want to vote and mix up in politics will have the same privileges as the men regarding the use of the franchise. The only interests that have been hurt by Equal Suffrage and have any real cause to dread it are the vicious interests so splendidly represented in the cartoon referred to and so ably described by your correspondent of May 6th.

While there is some diversity of opinion amongst good people on the subject of Votes for Women, the enemies of the home and good government are practically unanimous in the opinion that "Votes for Women" would be bad for their business, and so are constantly and intensely opposed to it.

Congressman Taylor of Colorado, speaking on the Alaska Bill in Washington, April 24th, 1912, said: "Everyone who knows anything about Woman Suffrage or about human nature, or who has had anything to do with public affairs or politics, knows that the vicious and criminal vote is always cast solidly against equal rights for women. All those who thrive upon the violation of the law in any way or upon corruption in politics are the bitterest opponents of Woman Suffrage. Every gambler, every ballot-box stuffer, every political thug, every dive-keeper, every depraved denizen of the red-light districts and all their associates, everyone who is opposed to public decency, every professional debaucher of public morals and every conceivable variety of crook in the world is viciously and desperately opposed to women being enfranchised, and they never cease exhausting their vocabulary cursing Woman Suffrage. Equal Suffrage is a failure with some kind of people."

Mrs. Lucy S. Blanchard (State President Southern California W. C. T. U.) says: "Woman's Suffrage carried in the face of the opposition of the liquor men and their allies."

Michigan papers generally attributed the defeat of Woman Suffrage in that State to the liquor interests.

The Detroit Journal said. "The liquor interests made an intense and thorough campaign against Suffrage."

The Detroit Times said: "The breweries didn't want it, and the saloon didn't want it; the political boss and the political crook didn't want it. The breweries, the saloons, the political crook and the political boss won—with the aid of the militants in England."

The official organ of the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association in Wisconsin bears the inappropriate name of "Progress." It fought Equal Suffrage bitterly all through the campaign of 1912, and afterwards boasted editorially of having helped to defeat it. Wisconsin has the city that was made infamous by a certain brand of booze.

Mrs. Maud Wood Park, who took part in the Ohio Campaign of 1912 says she never saw anything like the ferocity of the fight the liquor dealers put up against it. She brought home some samples of the Anti-Suffrage cartoons that were hung up in the barrooms.

The above testimony could be multiplied ad lib., but why give more. The Women are the enemies of the home. The enemies of the home are the most bitter enemies of "Votes for Women."

Billy Sunday says "I love everything the devil hates, and hate everything the devil loves."

The W. C. T. U. with 300,000 members in this country stands for Equal Suffrage. Practically all of the large organizations that are working for better moral and social conditions favor equal suffrage.

A set of questions was lately sent to prominent people in Suffrage States by an investigating committee of twelve prominent Englishwomen. Of 63 replies received only four were definitely hostile. One question was "Q. Where did the strength of the movement and the opposition to it lie?" "Ans. Strength mainly came from 'moral' influence and Woman's Clubs; opposition from Saloons and Machine Politicians."

About the only organization that makes any claim to respectability that is definitely opposing Equal Suffrage is the Anti-Suffrage Association; and when you consider that there are about fifty per cent. more enrolled Suffragists in New York city alone than there are enrolled members in the Anti-suffrage organization in the whole United States, and that there are no Anti-Suffrage organizations in the Suffrage States, only personal prejudice can in any way explain their opposition to Votes for Woman. Regarding the effects of Woman Suffrage in Suffrage States it must be remembered that the males very largely outnumber the females, especially amongst the foreign born population.

The following table is taken from the U. S. Census of 1910. The first column gives the date the women were enfranchised, the second the number of males to 100 females, and the third the number of foreign born males to 100 females.

| Illinois, | 1913 | 106.8 | 127.[illegible] |
| Alaska, | 1913 | | |

It can easily be seen that women can only hold the balance of power in these States. In order to show how they have used this power I will give a few of the good results that have been accomplished largely by the women in the line of moral reform.

There are 16 men in Chicago who aspired to be aldermen, who were opposed by the friends of good government, who are convinced that women should not vote. About 70 per cent of the women of Illinois who voted on the saloon question voted "dry." In smaller towns and rural districts the woman's vote was overwhelmingly against the saloon.

The New York Mail says: "By this action the women voters of Illinois have served notice on all the States that Equal Suffrage means a death-grapple between the home and the saloon with no manner of doubt as to which will be vanquished. Suffrage has challenged the saloon. Even more bitter will be the opposition to the extension of the franchise in States where Amendments are now pending. But Equal Suffrage will gain new supporters for every enemy it makes."

R. A. Lawrence tried to make out that Equal Suffrage had hindered instead of helped temperance work in California and that the women had voted in the saloons in several dry towns. The Anti-Saloon League Year book for 1914 says that no place that was "dry" has voted wet in California since the women have been enfranchised.

In California when the women were enfranchised there were about 200 "dry" towns. Today there are 690 "dry" towns. The red-light district in San Francisco has been abolished. Judge Weller was recalled by the women's vote. More moral and reform laws, and laws for the protection of women and children and the home were passed by the California Legislature in the first session after the women were enfranchised, than were ever passed by any Legislature, in any State of the Union at any one session. In Washington the woman's vote was responsible for the moral house cleaning that has taken place in quite a number of cities, also for the enactment and enforcement of the most effective laws for the suppression of the "White Slave" traffic and the "Black Scourge."

In Wyoming, inmates and frequenters of houses of ill-fame are disfranchised, and gambling is prohibited.

Utah is comapratively free from gambling, drunkenness and veneral diseases, the whole State is nearly "dry." Idaho has a County option law and in twenty-eight counties option elections twenty counties have voted "dry." The saloons have been reduced from 900 to less than 200. Very strong laws for regulating the liquor traffic have been passed.

In Colorado, where there are almost 60,000 more men than women of voting age, Judge Ben. Lindsey has been twice elected to the Juvenile Court of Denver, by the women's vote, after he had been turned down by both the old political parties and special interests were working for his defeat. The old corrupt political ring that used to run Denver has been turned out and Commission Government has been established. The "Red Light" district has also been abolished.

George Creel says: "Under male suffrage there were three "dry" towns in the State of Colorado. Under Equal Suffrage a local option law was put on the Statute books and there are now fifty "dry" towns and twelve "dry" counties.

Congressman Taylor, of Colorado says: "No one can justly criticize Woman Suffrage because it has not made Colorado a prohibition State. When we consider the conditions now and what they were before Equal Suffrage was adopted we have an opportunity of seeing the very great beneficial effect of the ballot in the hands of the women."

In New Zealand before the women were enfranchised, the death rate amongst children was the highest in the world. It is now the lowest in the world, except Queensland, Australia, another Suffrage State.

A New Zealander in England was asked to sign a suffrage petition and replied in his characteristic way: "Not much! In New Zealand if you thrash your wife you get six months for it; here you can do it for ten shillings."

In England a man was convicted of criminal assault upon a little girl and was fined a few shillings; in Australia a man was convicted of White Slavery and the Judge said: "That as it was his first offense he would be lenient with him" and gave him ten (10) years. In Australia the penalty for criminal offenses against women and girls runs from five to fifty years, with flogging according to the offense. There is no white slave traffic in Australia. Compare that with Male Suffrage States. In most of the Suffrage States and Countries the "age of consent" is 18 years. I know of none in which it is less than 16 years. In very few of the Male Suffrage States is it as high as 18 years and in none as low as 10 and 12 years. The western Equal Suffrage States have lately shipped east two cars of foreign-born white slavers and their women to be deported. It was called the "White Slave Special."

The interests of working women and children are much better looked after in a majority of the Equal Suffrage States and Countries than in Male Suffrage States. Four or five of the Equal Suffrage States are to vote on State-wide prohibition this fall. I would like the readers of the Press to carefully compare the statements made by both sides, and also to compare the interests that are lined up on both sides of the question in order to form a true idea of the merits of the question of Votes for Women.

Respectfully,
EDYTHE M. CURRIE,
County Associate Pres. W. C. T. U.
Cranford, New Jersey.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

It is astonishing that in Plainfield where the standard of morality is presumably so high, so many horses and others or of the lower animals are abused.

When the street commissioner and Councilmanic street committee employ teams to be driven behind tank wagons containing hot tarvia, which splashes over their bodies, burning and lacerating them in a fearful manner, as was the case with J. H. Schmidt's team, it is high time to consider the need of a woman's tender quality of mercy in the administration of street affairs. A woman would never permit such atrocities.

"An injury to the lesser animal is an injury to ourselves," destroying the finer instincts and lowering the moral tone of a community.

Some men are veritable cowards when they themselves have to suffer, yet stand by unmoved at the suffering of others or of the lower animals. It is apparent that Plainfield needs a woman's services in the street department.

Do Your House-cleaning With a Vacuum Cleaner

$3.80 Down----$3.80 a Month

OUR terms on vacuum cleaners are so easy that every housekeeper having electric service can afford to own a vacuum cleaner.

Without dust.

And without the hard exhausting work of sweeping.

THE fact that periodically you need to have a house-cleaning time,

Need to have your rugs taken out and beaten,

Is proof that sweeping can not remove the fine dirt and grit that works down into the warp of a carpet,

If the dirt is not removed, the fine soft threads that form the nap are ground between the grit and the hard heels of many shoes.

Thus, the nap is cut off and the carpet worn out.

A vacuum cleaner sucks out of the warp of a carpet all of the grit and dirt.

The disagreeable work of cleaning is done by machinery,

The house is kept in a wholesome, sanitary condition all the time,

And the housekeeper is saved the strain of exhaustive physical effort.

FOR four years we have been making careful tests of the various makes of vacuum cleaners. Some of the approved makes which we offer were among the first cleaners put on the market.

Therefore, they are out of the experimental stage.

WE offer these tested cleaners as follows:

Light weight cleaner, without tools
$38.00—$3.80 down—$3.80 month.

With complete set of tools.....$48.50
$4.85 down—$4.85 a month.

Large sweeper-type cleaner, without tools $75
$7.50 down—$7.50 a month.

With complete set of tools.....$90.00
$9.00 down—$9.00 a month.

5 per cent. discount on either cleaner if bought on spot cash basis.

Either cleaner can be operated from any lamp socket at a cost, for current, of less than one cent an hour.

Phone or write our nearest office now.

And we will demonstrate your choice of cleaner in your home.

GUILTY OF KILLING HIS YOUNG WIFE

Chuba Convicted at Somerville of Shooting Bride.

CRIME DONE NOV. 30, 1913

No Eyewitnesses to Slaying at Manville, and Prisoner Said Revolver Accidentally Discharged—Wife's Antemortem Statement Combined With Telltale Pistol That Convicted Him.

Somerville, N. J., May 13.—Alec Chuba was convicted of manslaughter in the Somerset court here for killing his young wife. Chuba shot his bride of two weeks on the morning of Nov. 30, 1913, in their home at Manville. There were no other eyewitnesses to the shooting, and Chuba declared that the revolver had been accidentally discharged.

He made this statement right after the shooting, when his bride was unconscious and was expected to die, but Mrs. Chuba rallied and lived until Jan. 3 of the present year, and in the interval she made an antemortem statement. It was this antemortem statement combined with a telltale revolver that convicted Chuba.

Mrs. Chuba stated that her husband told her several days before the shooting that he was going to murder her so that he could go with another woman. On the morning of the shooting Chuba, she said, confronted her with a revolver. He told her not to be afraid and that the gun would not kill her. She said he pulled the trigger twice, but it failed to shoot. The third time he pulled the trigger the bullet entered her body.

The revolver taken from Chuba after the shooting was exhibited in court. It contained three shells, two of these had been punctured, but had failed to explode. The third was empty. This verified Mrs. Chuba's dying statement of the shooting.

Chuba neighbors, who entered his house directly after the shooting, testified that they found his wife lying on the floor and that he coolly rolled a cigarette and smoked it and said, "What I have done to my wife I now expect to have done to me."

FIRE AT FUNERAL SERVICE.

Organist Burned Trying to Extinguish Blaze—Excitement Prevails.

Camden, N. J., May 13.—Candles surrounding the casket containing the body of Thomas Fizone, who was buried from his home here, set fire to draperies during the funeral service. The organist was burned about his hands while trying to extinguish the blaze.

Women and children rushed to the street in great excitement. A policeman was attracted by their cries and hurried to the house. He held the flames in check until the firemen arrived.

C. A. Rogalski, 1033 Liberty street, was at the organ. When the services were nearly over some one accidentally pulled a pair of curtains over the lighted candles. Rogalski leaped from his seat and attempted to smother the flames. When he found he was unable to extinguish the blaze he placed the lid over the casket. His burns were treated at Cooper hospital.

BOY KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE.

Perth Amboy Lad Was on His Way to School—Driver Is Held.

Perth Amboy, N. J., May 13.—Charles J. Bach of Newark, a driver for the Wagner Pastry company of 22 Johnson place, Newark, ran over and instantly killed Hyman Levy, four-year-old son of Philip Levy, of 216 Hall avenue. He is held here on a charge of manslaughter.

Bach had just left the Levy store, in Hall avenue and started toward State street when the accident occurred. The Levy child was on his way to a candy store before going to school. The machine hit the lad and the wheels crushed the little body.

Chief of Police Burke arrested Bach. He almost collapsed as a result of the accident.

CONDENSED STATE NEWS.

By the will of the late Joseph E. Keene of Bloomfield a bequest of approximately $35,000 in property, real and personal, is given to the Job Haines Home For Aged in Newark.

The body of Anthony Carusow, a farm hand, twenty-seven years old, was found in a field on George Berry's farm in Hammonton. He seemed to have been struck by lightning.

While chopping wood in the rear of his home Michael Mahoney, seventy years old, was stricken with heart disease and dropped dead. He had lived in Ogdensburg alone for years.

A suit for $25,000 was begun by Frank V. Wilkinson of West Caldwell against the Erie Railroad company for injuries sustained on March 24, when a wagon on which he was riding was struck in Bloomfield.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by the Herring-Wakefield company of Newark in the United States district court at Trenton showing liabilities of $56,314.48 and assets of $50,128.18. The company has been in the furniture business.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

Fancy white aprons are always welcome gifts to a bride-to-be also to the church fair, as they find ready sale at bazaars of all kinds. A dainty apron, such as this one, is suitable for wear at a chafing-dish party or sewing bee. It may be made in any shape of fine lawn, plain swiss, batiste or handkerchief linen and embroidered by hand. The edge may be finished with lace, hemstitched hem or a plain scalloped border.

The sprays in pattern No. 14679 may be separated and adapted in any way desired, to aprons, waists, dresses and negligees. The flowers should be developed in solid work, the leaves in solid work or eyelets and the dots in large French knots, white mercerized cotton should be used in developing this design.

Guaranteed, hot iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers for 15 cents.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CRISP YOUNG DANDELIONS.

THE housewife who lives in the country or has a lawn may draw on these for her supply of spring greens. In the cities blanched cultivated dandelions are sold in the markets.

The young leaves are suitable for salads, while for cooking the older plants may be used.

Gather in the morning while fresh from the dew. Wash thoroughly; then let stand in cold water for an hour or two to crisp and freshen.

With Milk Sauce.

Dandelions With Vegetables.—Put in a saucepan a pint of well washed dandelions, half a dozen medium sized potatoes (sliced), three onions, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, a carrot chopped into dice and a little celery. Cover with a quart of boiling water and boil rapidly for half an hour; then season with salt, pepper, a tablespoonful of butter and a cupful of good milk.

Stewed Dandelions.—Wash and drain. Cover with boiling salted water, cook until tender, drain, chop fine, add a tablespoonful of melted butter, a tablespoonful of rich cream and salt and pepper to taste. Heat until quite smooth and return to the fire until hot; then serve at once.

Cooked With Meat.

Dandelions With Bacon.—Clean thoroughly half a peck of dandelions and put over the fire with boiling water to cover. Cook ten minutes, drain, return to the vessel and cover with fresh boiling water. Add a pound of bacon, two onions chopped, some salt and a bit of red pepper. Cover and boil until tender. Take up the dandelions and arrange in a mound on a hot dish surrounded with bacon sliced thin.

Dandelions With Eggs.—Cut off the roots of the plants, wash the leaves, putting them in a saucepan full of boiling water, and let boil for an hour. Then drain the leaves out of the water, put them in a frying pan with butter, salt and pepper and stir the mixture till thoroughly heated. Serve with sliced hard boiled eggs.

A Savory Concoction.

Dandelions and Pork.—Gather the dandelion leaves when they are young and tender. Wash them thoroughly in two or three waters; then put them into a granite kettle and cover with boiling water. Add a piece of soda the size of a pea, let them come to a boil and then drain off the water. Cover them again with boiling water, add a small piece of fat salt pork and cook from one to two hours. When the leaves are tender remove the pork and drain in a colander, chop them into fine pieces, add salt and pepper to taste and a little melted butter. Garnish with hard boiled eggs.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Fairies' Spring Flower Hunting Trip.

She Was Given the Hyacinth.

WHEN daddy came home that evening he thought he'd surely have to tell Jack and Evelyn about the fairies' spring flower hunting expedition.

"Would you like to hear about the afternoon when the fairies had a contest as to who should find the greatest number of spring flowers?" he asked.

"Oh, we'd love to hear about it!" said both the children delightedly.

"It was a most beautiful spring afternoon," commenced daddy, "when the fairies started off on their flower hunt. The air was soft and warm. They knew they were going to find lots of flowers, but to the fairy who found the greatest number of different kinds of flowers the fairy queen was going to award a prize of a purple hyacinth.

"What kind of flower baskets did they have?" asked Evelyn.

"They had baskets which they'd made themselves," replied daddy, "especially for this occasion. Each basket was made of moss, and the outside was covered with twigs twined together to make the basket strong. The handle of each basket was made of still stronger twigs.

"Of course the fairies expected they would find just quantities of flowers to put in their baskets.

"They wandered through the woods, into the fields and beside the brooks, each going to what he or she thought to be the best spot.

"They gathered many flowers. They found, oh, so many white and purple violets, anemones, stars of Bethlehem, bluetts, ladyslippers, wild columbines, trilliums, wild honeysuckles and quantities of others.

"At 5 o'clock they all went back where the fairy queen was waiting for them.

"Then it was discovered that little Fairy Silver Heels had found one more flower than any of the others. It was a little yellow violet.

"So she was given the choicest of the fairy queen's hyacinths, and such a fragrant, sweet one as it was! And such a gorgeous shade of purple too!

"Then Fairy Silver Heels was invited to stand in the center while all the other fairies twined their flowers into garlands and danced around her, singing their song about the woods in the spring.

"It certainly was a lovely, happy afternoon, and, of course, once more—oh, for the thousandth time at least—they had to thank the fairy queen for suggesting it, and for the millionth time they felt how lucky they were to have such a fairy queen."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Various Opinions Past and Present Relating to Women and War.

The war rumors of today make us regard with special interest woman's point of view with reference to war and her status as a citizen when it comes to fighting.

Looking over an old number of a popular household monthly I came across the following paragraph:

"Women may say what they please but the whole present state of the civilized world shows that force, physical force, armed with the most deadly inventions known to the brain of man, is what each modern State in the long run and in the last resort depends on for its national existence. We may lament that it is so; we may look forward to a time when the world will be really ruled by arbitration; but that day is a long way off. And meanwhile women have no right to claim full political power in a State where they can never themselves take the full responsibility of their actions, because they can never be called upon finally to enforce them."

This is simply putting into words the time old confusion of mind concerning bullets and ballots. But it seems strikingly incongruous that Mrs. Humphrey Ward, a fellow-countrywoman of Florence Nightingale, could hold and frame such a statement regarding woman's status as a citizen and the dependence of that status upon her ability to bear arms.

When Florence Nightingale reached Scutari she found the hospital death rate 42 per cent.; she reduced it to 2 per cent. And yet Mrs. Ward would have us believe that the right to full citizenship rests upon the ability to bring death and disease to the 42 per cent. and should be denied to the woman who could save the 40 per cent. A more unreasoning, inhuman and senseless basis for the bestowal of the rights of government it is impossible to imagine.

The antis at a meeting of their New York State Association unanimously agreed that when it came to a decision as to peace or war they—in the popular phrase—would "let George do it," their reason being that "when it comes to a decision of war, women would be apt to be too much influenced by their emotions to have clear judgment as to national policy." Some of us who "remember the Maine" and the jingoism that was rampant at the outbreak of the Spainsh war have a notion that the judgment of even the men of our nation may be over influenced by their emotions.

But one of the good results of all this war talk pro and con is that for the time being at least it has made us forget our animosities as Suffragists and antis. It has disclosed a real bond; we are all peace women, and we send in protests from both sides against war; moreover, at heart we are all loyal, and ready to help in any capacity in which the government sees fit to use us. Ida Tarbell and Charlotte Perkins Gilman worked together to get up the big protest meeting in New York on April 24. Mrs. Henry Villard presided, and among the speakers were Mrs. Gilman, Mary Shaw, Harriet Stanton Blatch, Florence Kelley and Miss Helen Todd.

Years ago Lucy Stone said:

"Some woman risks her life for her country every time that a soldier is born into the world. For years she does picket duty by his cradle, and later she is his quartermaster and gathers his rations. And when that boy grows to a man, shall he say to his mother, 'If you want to vote you must first go and kill somebody?' It is a coward's argument!"

Olive Schreiner's inspired words are especially fitted at this time:

"Women of every generation have faced suffering and death with an equanimity that no soldier on a battlefield has ever surpassed and few have equalled; and where war has been to preserve life, or land, or freedom, rather than for aggrandisement and power, unparasitised and laboring women have in all ages known how to bear an active part, and die.

"It is not because of woman's cowardice, incapacity, nor, above all, because of her general superior virtue, that she will end war when her voice is fully and clearly heard in the governance of States—it is because, on this point, and on this point alone, the knowledge of woman, simply as woman, is superior to that of man; she knows the history of human flesh; she knows its cost; he does not.

"It is especially in the domain of war that we, the bearers of men's bodies, who supply its most valuable munition, who, not amid the clamor and ardor of battle, but singly, and alone, with a three-in-the-morning courage, shed our blood and face death that the battlefield might have its food, a food more precious to us than our heart's blood; it is we especially who, in the domain of war, have our word to say, a word no man can say for us. It is our intention to enter into the domain of war and to labor there till in the course of generations we have extinguished it."

Apropos of this matter of women and war here is a little object lesson on the side:

"More than 300,000 babies die in the United States every year from preventable causes. The Federal Children's Bureau, under Miss Julia C. Lathrop, was established to promote child welfare, and to save these babies if possible. It began its work on August 23, 1912, with an appropriation of only $25,640. Its first annual report, which covers the period down to June 30, 1913, shows a remarkable amount of good work done on wonderfully little money. Four bulletins have been issued, (1) on the need of birth registration, (2) on the baby-saving campaigns in some of our cities, (3) on prenatal care, and (4) a child census. Others are ready, one of particular value on infant mortality; another, a summary of American child labor laws. Miss Lathrop has asked of Congress, under the direction of the Secretary of Labor, an additional appropriation of $139,000—and has been refused."

It is estimated that a war with Mexico would cost a million a day.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

An excellent model for dark blue serge, linen or one of the new heavy cottons is shown in No. 7652. It is a peasant dress, closing at the side-front with a gathered vest, an elbow-length sleeve and a four-gored, slightly draped skirt. Silk poplin is another suggestion for a dress of this description. If it were used with this design in one of the darker tones, the vest would be effective fashioned of a figured silk, bringing out some of the new bright colors which are being used so much for trimming purposes just now. The collar is a square sailor effect and the opening at the throat may be V-shaped or round, as preferred. Novelty buttons are another effective trimming for dark materials. In this instance, they could be used to hold down the tabs on skirt and bodice. This dress may be made in eight sizes, with 7½ yards of 36-inch material. The pattern is cut in five sizes, 34 to 42.

Be sure to give right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

CHAPTER XXIV.

Patty is Shown the Door.

DEACON BAXTER drove into the barn and, flinging a blanket over the wheezing horse, closed the door behind him and hurried into the house without even thinking to lay down his whip.

Opening the kitchen door and stopping outside long enough to kick the snow from his heavy boots, he strode into the kitchen and confronted the two girls. He looked at them sharply before he spoke, scanning their flushed faces and tear stained eyes; then he broke out savagely:

"Oh, you're both here; that's lucky. Now stan' up and answer to me. What's this I hear at the Mills about Patience—common talk outside the store?"

The time had come, then, and by some strange fatality when Mark was too far away to be of service.

"Tell me what you heard, father, and I can give you a better answer," Patty replied, hedging to gain time and shaking inwardly.

"Bill Morrill says his brother that works in New Hampshire reports you as ridin' through the streets of Allentown last Monday with a young man."

There seemed but one reply to this, so Patty answered tremblingly: "He says what's true. I was there."

"What!" And it was plain from the deacon's voice that he had really disbelieved the rumor. A whirlwind of rage swept through him and shook him from head to foot.

"Do you mean to stan' there an' own up to me that you was thirty miles away from home with a young man?" he shouted.

"If you ask me a plain question I've got to tell you the truth, father. I was."

"How dare you carry on like that and drag my name into scandal, you worthless trollop, you? Who went along with you? I'll skin the hide off him, whoever 't was!"

Patty remained mute at this threat, but Waitstill caught her hand and whispered: "Tell him all, dear. It's got to come out. Be brave, and I'll stand by you."

"Why are you interferin' and puttin' in your meddlesome oar?" the deacon said, turning to Waitstill. "The girl would never 'a' been there if you'd attended to your business. She's nothin' but a fool of a young filly, an' you're an old cart horse. It was your job to look out for her, as your mother told you to. Anybody might 'a' guessed she needed watchin'!"

"You shall not call my sister an old cart horse! I'll not permit it!" cried Patty, plucking up courage in her sister's defense and, as usual, comporting herself a trifle more like a spitfire than a true heroine of tragedy.

"Hush, Patty! Let him call me anything that he likes. It makes no difference at such a time."

"Waitstill knew nothing of my going away till this afternoon," continued Patty. "I kept it secret from her on purpose, because I was afraid she would not approve. I went with Mark Wilson, and—and I married him in New Hampshire because we couldn't do it at home without everybody's knowledge. Now you know all!"

"Do you mean to tell me you're gone an' married that reckless, wuthless, horse trottin', card playin' sneak of a Wilson boy, that's courted every girl in town? Married the son of a man that has quarreled with me and insulted me in public? By the Lord Harry, I'll crack this whip over your shoulders once before I'm done with you! If I'd used it years ago you might have been an honest woman today instead of a"—

Foxwell Baxter had wholly lost control of himself, and the temper, that had never been governed or held in check, lashed itself into a fury that made him for the moment unaccountable for his words or actions.

"Put down that whip, father, or I'll take it from you."

Waitstill took a step forward in front of Patty. "Put down that whip, father, or I'll take it from you and break it across my knee!" Her eyes blazed and she held her head high. "You've made me do the work of a man, and, thank God, I've got the muscle of one. Don't lift a finger to Patty, or I'll defend her, I promise you! The dinner horn is in the side entry and two blasts will bring Uncle Bart up the hill, but I'd rather not call him unless you force me to."

The Deacon's grasp on the whip relaxed, and he fell back a little in sheer astonishment at the bravado of the girl, ordinarily so quiet and self contained. He was speechless for a second and then recovered breath enough to shout to the terrified Patty: "I won't use the whip till I hear whether you've got any excuse for your scandalous behavior. Hear me tell you one thing. This little pleasure trip o' yourn won't do you no good, for I'll break the marriage! I won't have a Wilson in my family if I have to empty a shotgun into him, but your lies and your low conduct are so beyond reason I can't believe my ears. What's your excuse, I say?"

"Stop a minute, Patty, before you answer, and let me say a few things that ought to have been said before now," interposed Waitstill. "If Patty has done wrong, father, you've no one but yourself to thank for it, and it's only by God's grace that nothing worse has happened to her. What could you expect from a young thing like that, with her merry heart turned into a lump in her breast every day by your cruelty? Did she deceive you? Well, you've made her afraid of you ever since she was a baby in the cradle, drawing the covers over her little head when she heard your step. Whatever crop you sow is bound to come up, father; that's nature's law and God's as well."

"You hold your tongue, you readin' the law to your elders an' betters," said the old man, choking with wrath. "My business is with this ruthless sister o' yourn, not with you! You've got your coat and hood on, miss, so you jest clear out o' the house, an' if you're too slow about it I'll help you along. I've no kind of an idea you're rightly married, for that young Wilson sneak wouldn't pay so high for you as all that. But if it amuses you to call him your husband go an' find him an' stay with him. This is an honest house an' no place for such as you!"

Patty had a good share of the Baxter temper, not under such control as Waitstill's, and the blood mounted into her face.

"You shall not speak to me so!" she said intrepidly, while keeping a discreet eye on the whip. "I'm not a—a caterpillar to be stepped on. I'm a married woman, as right as a New Hampshire justice can make me, with a wedding ring and a certificate to show if need be. And you shall not call my husband names. Time will tell what he is going to be, and that's a son-in-law any true father would be proud to own!"

"Why are you set against this match, father?" argued Waitstill, striving to make him hear reason. "Patty has married into one of the best families in the village. Mark is gay and thoughtless, but never has he been seen the worse for liquor, and never has he done a thing for which a wife need hang her head. It is something for a young fellow of four and twenty to be able to provide for a wife and keep her in comfort, and when all is said and done it is a true love match."

Patty seized this inopportune moment to forget her father's presence and the tragic nature of the occasion and, in her usual impetuous fashion, flung her arms around Waitstill's neck and gave her the hug of a young bear.

"My own dear sister," she said. "I don't mind anything so long as you stand up for us."

"Don't make her go tonight, father," pleaded Waitstill. "Don't send your own child out into the cold. Remember her husband is away from home."

"She can find another up at the Mills as good as he is or better. Off with you, I say, you trumpery little baggage, you!"

"Go, then, dear; it is better so. Uncle Bart will keep you overnight. Run up and get your things;" and Waitstill sank into a chair, realizing the hopelessness of the situation.

"She'll not take anything from my house. It's her husband's business to find her in clothes."

"They'll be better ones than ever you found me," was Patty's response.

No heroics for her; no fainting fits at being disowned; no hysterics at being turned out of house and home; no prayers for mercy, but a quick retort for every gibe from her father, and her defiant attitude enraged the deacon the more.

"I won't speak again," he said, in a tone that could not be mistaken. "Into the street you go with the clothes you stand up in or I'll do what I said I'd do."

"Go, Patty! It's the only thing to be done. Don't tremble, for nobody shall touch a hair of your head. I can trust you to find shelter tonight, and Mark will take care of you tomorrow."

Patty buttoned her shabby coat and tied on her hood as she walked from the kitchen through the sitting room toward the side door, her heart heaving with shame and anger, and above all, with a child's sense of helplessness at being parted from her sister.

"Don't tell the neighbors any more lies than you can help," called her father after her retreating form, "an' if any of 'em dare to come up here an' give me any of their imperdence they'll be treated same as you. Come back here, Waitstill, and don't go to slobberin' any goodbys over her. She ain't likely to get out o' the village for some time if she's expectin' Mark Wilson to take her away."

"I shall certainly go to the door with my sister," said Waitstill coldly, suiting the action to the word, and following Patty out on the steps. "Shall you tell Uncle Bart everything, dear, and ask him to let you sleep at his house?"

Both girls were trembling with excitement. Waitstill, pale as a ghost, Patty flushed and tearful, with defiant eyes and lips that quivered rebelliously.

"I s'pose so," she answered dolefully, "though Aunt Abby hates me, on account of Cephas. I'd rather go to Dr. Perry's, but I don't like to meet Phil. There doesn't seem to be any good place for me, but it's only for a night. And you'll not let father prevent your seeing Mark and me tomorrow, will you? Are you afraid to stay alone? I'll sit on the steps all night if you say the word."

"No, no, run along. Father has vented his rage upon you, and I shall not have any more trouble. God bless and keep you, darling. Run along!"

"And you're not angry with me now, Waity? You still love me? And you'll forgive Mark and come to stay with us soon, soon, soon?"

"We'll see, dear, when all this unhappy business is settled, and you are safe and happy in your own home. I shall have much to tell you when we meet tomorrow."

* * * * * * *

Patty had the most ardent love for her elder sister, and something that resembled reverence for her unselfishness, her loyalty and her strength of character, but if the truth were told, she had no great opinion of Waitstill's ability to feel righteous wrath, nor of her power to avenge herself in the face of rank injustice. It was the conviction of her own superior finesse and audacity that had sustained Patty all through her late escapade. She felt herself a lucky girl, indeed, to achieve liberty and happiness for herself, but doubly lucky if she had chanced to open a way of escape for her more docile and dutiful sister.

She would have been a trifle astonished had she surmised the existence of certain mysterious waves that had been sweeping along the coasts of Waitstill's mind that afternoon, breaking down all sorts of defenses and carrying her will along with them by sheer force, but it is a truism that two human beings can live beside each other for half a century and yet continue strangers.

Patty's elopement with the youth of her choice, taking into account all its attendant risks, was indeed an exhibition of courage and initiative not common to girls of seventeen. But Waitstill was meditating a mutiny more daring yet—a mutiny, too, involving a course of conduct most unusual in maidens of Puritan descent.

She walked back into the kitchen to find her father sitting placidly in the rocking chair by the window. He had lighted his corncob pipe, in which he always smoked a mixture of dried sweet fern as being cheaper than tobacco, and his face wore something resembling a smile—a foxy smile—as he watched his youngest born plowing down the hill through the deep snow, while the more obedient Waitstill moved about the room setting supper on the table.

Conversation was not the deacon's forte, but it seemed proper for some one to break the ice that seemed suddenly to be very thick in the immediate vicinity.

"That little Jill-go-over-the-ground will give the neighbors a pleasant evenin' tellin' 'em 'bout me," he chuckled. "Aunt Abby Cole will run the streets o' the three villages by sunup tomorrer. But nobody pays any 'tention to a woman whose tongue is hung in the middle and wags at both ends. I wa'n't intendin' to use the whip on your sister, Waitstill," continued the deacon, with a crafty look at his silent daughter, "though a trouncin' would 'a' done her a sight o' good. But I was only tryin' to frighten her a little mite an' pay her up for bringin' disgrace on us the way she's done, makin' us the talk o' the town. Well, she's gone, an' good riddance to bad rubbish say I! One less mouth to feed an' one less body to clothe. You'll miss her jest at first on account o' there bein' no other women folks on the hill, but 'twon't last long. I'll have Bill Morrill do some o' your outside chores so 't you can take on your sister's work, if she ever done any."

This was a most astoundingly generous proposition on the deacon's part, and, to tell the truth, he did not himself fully understand his mental processes when he made it, but it seemed to be drawn from him by a kind of instinct that he was not standing well in his elder daughter's books.

SIMPLE FROCKS FOR EARLY SUMMER

Frills of Silk Tulle with Lace Make a Dainty Dancing Dress

Cotton Crepe Lends Itself To A Three-Tier Skirt

FROM the simplest morning frock to the elaborate afternoon dress and summer evening gown, some sort of cotton material is the chosen fabric. Fashion has cleverly adopted exquisite loom fabrics of this kind for costume purposes which formerly only silken products served. Models sent from Paris, and those designed here mingle two or more kinds of goods in fascinating effects such as appear on this page. Voiles, plain, embroidered, striped, checked and flecked with heavier threads, spoken of "rice flakes": also cotton crêpes with the same distinguishing variations vie with one another in extremely plain frocks and those beruffled and befrilled. Of the newer goods having enough body to hang well without lining are ratines in one color, or in combinations; and a chiffon golfine showing a soft velvet rib as beautiful as chiffon velvet or plush.

The colors, which enter so largely into the unusual attractiveness of this season's clothing are a story in themselves, for Paris designers have taken still greater liberties with the combinations of colors and tints started with the introduction of Eastern and Oriental effects in French and American dress.

Rose colored cotton voile with small figures embroidered in silk of the same shade is the material of the model shown on the left of this page (8104). It is made with three slightly circular bands bound with taffeta of the same shade, which makes the bands ripple gracefully on the foundation skirt of two pieces only, and slightly gathered in at the waist. The kimono overblouse shows the new Japanese collar folded a little in the back, and a surplice front of embroidered batiste in ecru color. There is a shaped girdle rounded up in the front with a pleasing and becoming effect. This is one type of summer dress which everyone will not only admire, but want in one material or another. It is adaptable for gingham, ratine, duck, pique, or silk; and is not too fussy to be laundered easily.

Prices of New Fabrics

Material such as that used in the original dress ranges from $1.25 to $2.50 per yard, forty-two inches wide. Cotton crêpe comes in widths varying from twenty-seven to forty-two inches, and ranges from twenty-five cents to two dollars or over. An excellent wearing piece in white or colors may be had for fifty cents. Such a piece in pink and white check made the dainty model having the appearance of a three-tier skirt, and rounded blouse showing a separate lace guimpe (7997). A change of frills and one or more crush girdles may be used to vary this little dress for many occasions.

Old blue, also known as Labrador and Delft, is a favorite color for this season's wash frocks, and particularly good in striped cotton crêpes. The afternoon dress in the upper right corner (blouse 8129, skirt 8177) is made of this, with a crush girdle and embroidered revers of plain blue silk. The blouse has raglan sleeves, and another version of the Japanese collar; also long sleeves which will be practical for some dresses in this summer's wardrobe. The two-piece skirt with its pointed tunic, may be reproduced from pattern No. 8177 which has also a double tunic.

Of the many filmy frocks designed for summer dances, and evenings, the one illustrated (8056) has been selected both for its beauty and its comparatively little cost. Silk or cotton net, which comes in double widths, is made in frills, hemstitched on the edge and plaited by machine. At the head of the foot frill holding in the fullness of the skirt, is a band of lace insertion. Another heads the top frill of the three; and finishes the neck. A simple old blue crush velvet girdle is the contrasted color with this girlish frock of cream net and lace. Ready-made frills in black or white may be used, thus simplifying the work on such dresses for the girl who wants to make many.

To make one's own frills, allowance of ten cents per yard for hemstitching; and of three for plaiting must be made. Ruffling ready-made can be had from twenty-five cents up, according to quality and width. Gowns like these are attracting attention in city shops; but they are obviously so simple to make, that many will undertake the task for the sake of saving money for others. Each pattern is 15 cents.

THE color craze started by the Balkan and Bulgarian designs, then followed by the Futurist and Cubist art fads has taken on more beautiful expressions this season in dress materials, ribbons, millinery and all sorts of accessories. Embroidered batiste, delicate net ruffles, and chiffon banding, to be plaited or gathered, have colored embroidered edges and small designs in flowers or conventions.

Hand embroidered stitches in simple but effective borders are also noticed as the individual touch on blouses of silk or wash materials.

Here is shown a collar and cuff set designed for either a dress or a coat. It is madeion white canvas, or ratine, with the design worked out in two shades of blue, browns, or with yellow for the third color, sparingly used. The design, with which this set can be reproduced, is No. 14643. The pattern ready to stamp is 15 cents.

Whether one is planning summer fancy work to take away to some resort, or for the spare minutes at home; or yet, some inexpensive gift that will be appreciated by a June bride, the hand embroidered towels loom up as one of the most satisfactory things to do, for there never can be too many of them on hand. Two especially effective borders with scallops are shown on this page (14634). Both designs may be had together for 15 cents.

COLONIAL pumps in black, and combinations of two kinds of leather are the latest style in spring footwear. A small tongue stands up in the front of one model which has a rounded strap and a steel clasp, separating the patent leather forepart from the other of gray ooze, white calf or buff cloth.

Odd shape black silk, moire and suede bags; and many styles in navy, and brown shades are daintier than ever with fittings, and delicate linings. These accessories are quite small, and are not at all on the order of shopping handbags.

A German novelty on sale in most large department stores is a papier-maché ring to hold candles at the base of a birthday cake. They come in three sizes, the largest holding three candles. If one wants to put candles on the cake, there are small rose holders with stiff pins to stick into the icing. These may be had in white and several colors. In place of the holders, a hot hatpin or knitting needle can be stuck into the end of each candle, and before the wax hardens, take out the pin and insert a toothpick.

Black ribbon which looks like oilcloth; and another kind having a dull surface, known as "stove polish" are the latest millinery trimmings among ribbons. Ostrich tips and aigrettes, which have had the down taken off the flues with acid, are described as "burnt ostrich," and are very pretty with masses of filmy tulle on dressy hats. Hats of fine Milan with a lacquered finish are known as "liseré" braids.

Ribbon and velvet girdles with embroidered or beaded designs on round or pointed ends are offered among novel accessories worth a good deal as a finishing touch for silk and wash dresses. Flowers or conventional figures are often worked in the simple darning stitch. Novelty brocaded ribbons showing tinsel threads are used for the modish Japanese collars. Attachable girdles with ruffled and plaited tunics of satin and moire ribbon are also a new offering in the ribbon departments.

Useful Hints for House and Larder

MOST housewives find it frequently necessary to remove stains from table linen. For this purpose it is wise to keep javelle water on hand. The linen should first be wet with water, then the spot should be immersed in a small quantity of the liquid, and as soon as the spot disappears, (it should be almost instantly) plunge the article into cold water, and repeat until every trace of the strong alkali shall have been rinsed out.

Javelle Water for Spots

To make javelle water, dissolve one-half pound of washing soda in one pint of boiling water, and add to it one-quarter of a pound of chloride of lime dissolved in a quart of boiling water. Stir well and when the mixture is cool, pour off the clear liquid, bottle and cork tightly. Put it into a dark glass bottle or keep it in the dark place. Be sure to label.

To Clean Jet Trimmings

Now that jet has become so fashionable, many persons may have some of earlier years which could be used if it did not look rusty. To brighten it, clean with alcohol, which may be slightly diluted with water. Apply with a soft cloth or a small stiff brush, like a tooth brush. The latter will also freshen black net on which some passementerie is made.

COLD chicken or veal, or both together may be made into a delicious mock terrapin, suitable for a luncheoen dish, or for supper. Make a white sauce of one tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, and one cup of milk. Add two well beaten eggs to the hot sauce, and about two cupfuls of the chicken and veal, cut into dice. As soon as thoroughly hot add a wineglassful of sherry and a dash of Cayenne pepper

A lily salad will make an attractive dish for an Easter luncheon or dinner. Cut one hard boiled egg into slices, remove the yolk, season it with salt and pepper and chop it fine. Put three or four lettuce leaves together with a hollow centre, and slip a ring of the white of egg over the bottom. Into the hollow put chopped beets and the yolk, and serve with French dressing. Canned beets will have to be used at this season.

Small tubs made of boiled carrots, cut off at the end, so that each portion will stand upright on a plate, are scooped out and filled with French peas when one wants to serve a particularly attractive vegetable course. It also adds a distinctive color note to the table.

Carrot balls may be made from four or five large carrots put through a ricer, mixed with white sauce, and seasoned; and then molded into a dozen small balls. Cook in deep fat, like croquettes.

GOVERNING PLUMBING, DRAINAGE, AND VENTILATION.

Section No. 1. The Board of Health shall appoint at the first meeting in February of each year or as soon thereafter as possible a Plumbers' Examining Board, which shall consist of a Plumbing Inspector employed by the Board of Health, a Master Plumber, and a Journeyman Plumber, whose duty it shall be to examine all applicants as to their qualifications to become Master Plumbers, and report results to the Board of Health.

Sec. No. 2. This Board may, by resolution, grant licenses as Master Plumber, to such persons as it may deem qualified, which licenses shall be written or partly printed and partly written, bearing the date on which the same is issued and shall be under the seal of this Board and signed by its President and by its Secretary. But no such license shall be granted by this Board until after the applicant therefor shall have offered himself for examination as to his qualifications by the examining board above provided for.

Sec. No. 3. No person shall engage in the business of Master Plumber in the City of Plainfield, or do or undertake to do any work as such in said City, without having such license as aforesaid as Master Plumber from this Board or from the Board of Health of some other municipality of this State.

Sec. No. 4. Every Master Plumber shall, when so requested by any member of the Board of Health, or by the Inspector of Plumbing, exhibit his said license, and upon his failure so to do shall be deemed an unlicensed Master Plumber.

Sec. No. 5. The Board of Health shall have the power to revoke any license as issued to any Master Plumber as aforesaid for violating any provisions of this act.

Sec. No. 6. Before any portion of the Plumbing and Drainage System of any new or old building shall be constructed or reconstructed, there shall be a plan filed at the office of the Board of Health and approved by the Plumbing Inspector and signed by the Plumber, showing the said Plumbing and Drainage System entire from its connection with the Sewer or Cesspool throughout the entire building, together with the location of all fixtures, traps and ventilating pipes. No portion of the work shall be executed until the plans have been approved by the Plumbing Inspector of the Board of Health and the name of the Plumber, who is to do the work, has been affixed to the said plans. Before any existing system is altered or added to or any change made to the fixtures in any new or old building, a permit must first be obtained, and in such case an Inspection will be required.

Sec. No. 7. With every plan for a new plumbing system to be installed in the City of Plainfield, a fee of Two Dollars ($2) shall be paid to the Board of Health.

Sec. No. 8. The Board of Health shall be notified by the Plumber when ready for an inspection or test, and the following tests must be made in the presence of the Plumbing Inspector, viz:—the water test and the smoke test before any final certificate can be granted. All defects disclosed must be removed before the granting of such a certificate.

All inspections and tests shall be made during business hours as soon as possible after such notification.

Any such system put in and covered before inspection by the Plumbing Inspector of the Board of Health must be uncovered for inspection.

Sec. No. 9. Except where the Board of Health expressly prescribes otherwise, the following provisions must be observed and any violation or departure therefrom shall be punishable as a breach of this ordinance:

(a) Before laying the drain from the building to the sewer or cesspool, and after the trench is graded, the bottom of the trench must be carefully rammed to avoid settling of the drain. After the pipe is laid, as the trench is filled, the earth must be tightly rammed as near as possible to its original compactness. Tunneling is prohibited. When the ground is made or filled in, the pipe extending from the sewer or cesspool to the foundation wall must be extra heavy cast iron pipe of not less than four inches diameter; such pipe must be laid with the joints properly caulked with lead.

(b) Where a building is to be connected with a sewer or cesspool it must be connected by a drain not less than four inches in diameter of extra heavy cast iron pipe, having a fall of not less than one-quarter of an inch to the foot.

(c) Where there is no sewer in the street in which the building faces, and it is necessary to construct a private sewer to connect with a sewer on an adjacent street or avenue, it must be laid outside the curb under the roadway of the street and not through yards or under houses.

(d) All horizontal sewer drains extending from any building to a point where the City Sewer terminates shall be of extra heavy cast iron pipe not less than four inches in diameter with caulked leaden joints or wrought iron screwed joints, and shall be so located as to be readily accessible for inspection with cleanouts located every fifty feet. The house drain within buildings shall be either cast iron or galvanized wrought iron and shall be securely hung on the cellar wall properly suspended from the cellar ceiling unless this is impracticable, in which case it must be laid at a uniform grade upon a bottom of hydraulic concrete. The house drain shall have a fall of at least one-quarter inch to the foot, and more if possible. Said drains shall be provided with openings for cleaning purposes, the same to be closed by gas-tight brass cleanouts placed just inside the foundation wall.

(e) All cast iron pipes and fittings must be sound, free from flaws and sand holes and when laid underground shall be known as grade "Extra Heavy." The weight of such pipe per lineal foot must be as follows:

2 inch pipe to weigh 5½ pounds.
3 inch pipe to weigh 9½ pounds.
4 inch pipe to weigh 13 pounds.
5 inch pipe to weigh 17 pounds.
6 inch pipe to weigh 20 pounds.

All cast iron pipe and fittings above cellar bottom shall be "Extra Heavy" or "Medium" untarred. Pipe known as "Standard Pipe" and fittings shall be prohibited. The weight of "Medium" pipe per lineal foot must be as follows:

2 inch pipe to weigh 4 pounds.
3 inch pipe to weigh 6 pounds.
4 inch pipe to weigh 9 pounds.

All cast iron traps and fittings shall correspond in quality, weight and finish with the above specifications.

All wrought iron or steel pipe shall be lap welded pipe and properly tested at the pipe mills. The weight of wrought iron or steel pipe shall be not less per lineal foot than the following:

1½ inch pipe to weigh 2.731 pounds.
2 inch pipe to weigh 3.678 pounds.
3 inch pipe to weigh 7.616 pounds.
4 inch pipe to weigh 10.889 pounds.
5 inch pipe to weigh 14.810 pounds.

All wrought iron or steel pipes and fittings shall be galvanized, and such fittings below the water line, and the highest fixtures, shall be those known in the trade as galvanized drainage fittings.

Lead pipe shall be of the best quality drawn pipe of the grade known in the trade as "d" and shall weigh, per lineal foot, as follows:

1½ inch pipe to weigh 3 pounds.
2 inch pipe to weigh 4 pounds.
3 inch pipe to weigh 6 pounds.
4 inch pipe to weigh 8 pounds.

Lead traps shall be of the same weight as specified for pipe.

(f) All brass pipes for waste and vent pipes must be thoroughly annealed, seamless drawn brass of standard iron pipe gauge. Connection with brass pipe and traps, or between brass pipe and iron pipe must not be made with slip joints or couplings. Threaded connections on brass pipe must be of the same size of pipe and be tapered. The following average thickness and weights per foot will be required:

| Diameter | Thickness | Weight per lineal foot |
|---|---|---|
| 1½ inches | .14 inches | 3 pounds |
| 2 inches | .15 inches | 4 pounds |
| 2½ inches | .20 inches | 5.83 pounds |

(g) All waste, drain, soil, vent and supply pipes shall be as direct and concentrated as possible, protected from frost and readily accessible to inspection and convenience in repairing.

(h) Every soil, waste and ventilating pipe must extend up with the pitch of roof in the building and terminate at the ridge of roof, except in a flat roof house in which it shall extend at least six feet above the roof, excepting in all cases of an addition or extension to a building, the vent pipes must be returned back in to main building and thence extended up to the ridge. Each length shall be securely fastened, and each line of soil or waste pipe shall rest at its foot on a pier or foundation to prevent settling. All joints in cast iron drain, soil or waste pipes must be so filled with oakum and lead and hand caulked as to make them gas-tight.

Soil pipe shall be run as nearly vertical as possible, and in all cases horizontal pipes shall have a fall of at least one-fourth inch per foot. No short quarter bends or short offsets, except long sweep bends, will be permitted, and when the direction is necessarily changed, Ys, ⅛ bends or long sweep bends must be used. No Ts shall be used, and T-Ys may be used on vertical lines only.

(i) Every plumbing system when connected with a sewer or cesspool shall be provided with a ventilating pipe which shall in every case extend up to the ridge, and the upper opening must be at least eight feet above or twenty feet from any window or door of the building, or adjoining buildings and this ventilating pipe shall be clear, and not less than four inches in diameter throughout its entire length from the cesspool or street sewer. The vertical soil or waste pipe may be used as a ventilating pipe, but if so used it must be clear and unobstructed by trap or otherwise.

(j) The least diameter of soil pipe permitted is four inches, except in cases of necessity, a three inch galvanized wrought iron pipe may be permitted. A vertical waste pipe into which a line of kitchen sinks discharges must be at least three inches in diameter, if receiving the waste of five or more sinks, and shall have two inch branches.

(k) All connections with lead or iron soil, waste, or vent pipes must be made with a brass ferrule of the same size as the lead pipe, to connect with the hub of the branch of the iron pipe and caulked with lead. The lead pipe must be attached to the ferrule by a wiped joint.

(l) Every water closet, urinal, sink or slop sink, basin, wash tray, bath and every tub or set of tubs, and hydrant waste pipe must be separately and effectively trapped. Urinal platforms, if connected to drain pipes must also be properly trapped and a supply of water so arranged as to maintain the seal of said traps. In no case shall the waste from the bath tub or other fixture be connected with a water closet trap.

(m) Traps must be placed as near the fixtures as practicable, and in no case more than two feet from the fixture. Each and every trap shall be ventilated by a special vent pipe except as hereinafter provided, as per following scale:

No vent shall be less than 1½ inches inside diameter. For more than one 1½ inch vent not exceeding four, it shall be increased to 2 inches inside diameter. For more than four it shall be increased to 3 inches inside diameter. Where a P or ½ S trap is used within four feet of a ventilating soil pipe it shall be considered a vented trap, in which case a two inch pipe shall be used with a 1½ inch trap, and not having more than ¼ inch fall to the foot. Water closets without vent from crown of bend are not allowed more than four feet from a ventilating soil pipe. All additional closets over four feet from ventilating soil pipe shall have a two inch vent.

(n) The use of rubber connections to back vents of water closets is prohibited. In all cases vent pipes must be of lead, cast, or wrought galvanized pipe, and have a continuous slope to avoid collecting by condensation.

(o) Vent pipes must extend up to the ridge of the roof.

(p) Overflow pipes from fixtures must in each case be connected on the inlet side of the trap of the same fixture.

(q) No safe under any fixture shall be provided with any drip, waste, or notice pipe. The waste pipe from refrigerators shall in no case be connected directly with any soil or waste pipe or with any drain or sewer, but must in all cases discharge into a receptacle properly trapped before entering sewer.

(r) The connection of sediment pipes from kitchen boilers with the sewer is prohibited.

(s) Water closets must never be placed in an unventilated room or compartment. In every case the compartment must be open to the outer air or be ventilated by means of a shaft or air duct with an area of not less than 144 square inches. Water closets will not be permitted in cellars unless ventilated as above.

(t) All water closets within the house, of a type requiring a tank, must be supplied with water from a separate tank or cistern, the water of which is used for no other purpose. Provision shall be made for amply flushing each closet whenever used. A group of closets on the same floor may be supplied from one tank. Water closets that do not contain a sufficient amount of water to cover the center of the bowl with an area of water at least six inches in diameter are prohibited, also pan and plunger closets.

(u) All outside water closets shall be supplied with water and so arranged as to be conveniently and adequately flushed and all water supply pipes and traps of such water closets must be protected from freezing. The compartment of such water closets must be properly ventilated.

(v) Earthen, or iron water closets or slop sinks having traps above the floor, using lead connections must have a brass floor flange not less than an eighth of an inch thick, soldered to the lead bend and bolted to the trap or slop sink, the joint made air-tight with red lead putty.

(w) The use of saddle hubs and the tapping and threading of soil or waste pipes is prohibited.

(x) Rain water leaders must never connect with sewer pipe, nor be used as soil, waste or vent pipe, nor shall any soil, waste or vent pipe be used as a leader.

(y) No steam exhaust, blow-off, or drip pipe from a steam boiler, engine, or radiator, shall connect directly or indirectly with the sewer.

(z) No person shall place or deposit in any water closet, or waste, soil or ventilating pipe, refuse materials, large pieces of paper or other substances likely to clog the pipe or trap.

(aa) All pipes provided for in this article shall be measured by their inside diameter, and all measurements given in this article shall refer to inside diameters.

(bb) All lead pipes and bends provided for in this article must be of the same thickness and weight as their corresponding pipe branches.

Sec. No. 10. In cases where a building is found to be in an unsanitary condition through defective plumbing or otherwise, the directions of the Board of Health concerning changes and repairs shall be complied with within such reasonable time as may be designated, under a penalty of ten dollars a day thereafter until such work is done, not exceeding one hundred dollars in any one conviction.

Sec. No. 11. Any person who fails to comply with or who violates or offends against any provision of this article or any section thereof, shall on conviction, pay a penalty of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each and every offense.

STRONG EVIDENCE AGAINST BECKER

Jack Rose and Shapiro Tell of Murder.

TESTIMONY IS UNSHAKEN

Chauffeur Who Drove the Car Delivers Smashing Blow at Defense—Name of Former Police Lieutenant Linked With the Crime Throughout.

New York, May 13.—The most decisive period in the Becker trial has been reached—that is, as far as the state's case is concerned—and the evidence produced by District Attorney Whitman was very strong against the former police lieutenant.

The jury heard from the man who drove the gunmen to the murder of Rosenthal and sped them from it what was denied the jury in the first trial—the point blank testimony that the gunmen were shouting to the night that Becker had the police fixed and that everything was all right.

It was Shapiro, driver of the gray car, a witness unshirched from complicity in conspiracy or assassination, who delivered this smashing blow at the defense and who furnished the first untainted corroboration so urgently demanded by the court of appeals of Rose's story linking Becker with the killers.

Not even the reappearance of Rose himself, that singular being who might have been imagined by H. G. Wells say, as a chance visitor from a planet whose inhabitants went hairless and dispensed with nerves and his unfaltering repetition of why Becker wanted Rosenthal, "that dog," killed and how Becker arranged for the killing could minimize the importance of Shapiro's unshattered testimony, for Becker's lawyer couldn't shatter it. The jurors bent forward and cupped their ears as Shapiro plodded on stubbornly

Rose Undisturbed.

That, with Rose's fidelity to the damaging points of his former story, and the impression that Rose was testifying not from a close study of his own previous testimony, but from the memory of real happenings, were the features of the case that compelled attention and that remained in the mind after the multitude of details, the color and the minor dramatics had faded. It is true that this mild mannered family man, who knew where man killers were to be had for pay or fear or favor, amplified his former testimony here and condensed it there, that he left out some things he had said before and that he added quite new incidents and conversations, that there were even striking points of difference, but in no high essential was there a contradiction or a variance. He did not repeat parrotlike the verbiage of the story he told the first jury, but he repeated the big points from the time that Becker told him there were people down at headquarters who would pin a medal on the man that put Rosenthal off the earth until the time after the murder that he saw Becker, pale as a ghost, in headquarters, Becker's eyes burning into him, as he Jack Rose sat with Commissioner Dougherty.

One of the most interesting parts of Rose's fresh testimony, a part utterly new to the court, was that the bitterness between Becker and Rosenthal and the resultant tragedy was very largely the outcome of Rosenthal's mistaken notion that Becker was to blame for all of the misfortunes that fell to the Forty-fifth street gambling house Rosenthal, hotheaded, suspicious of everybody, loving the sound of his own voice, worked himself into a passion over the closing of the house at 204 West Forty-fifth street and the posting of uniformed men there and laid it all to Becker, although the lieutenant wasn't to blame. Headquarters—Commissioner Waldo—had decided to squelch Rosenthal for good and all. But Rosenthal flew to Whitman with tales against Becker—tales of graft and oppression, of partnership in gambling or unbelievable duplicity, and Becker, seeing ruin ahead, came into the open arrogantly and contemptuously and ordered the death of the squealer.

QUIET NOW IN COLORADO.

Peace Reigns In All Mining Districts Where Federal Troops Are.

Washington, May 13.—Quiet was reported in all the Colorado mining districts where federal cavalry have been sent to prevent outbreaks between the striking operators and the mine guards. In the district near Louisville, Erie, Lafayette and Frederick seven rifles, seven shotguns and seven revolvers have been surrendered to the troops without trouble in addition to those already taken from them.

Major Symmonds, commanding the troops in the northern part of the state, reported that as soon as additional troops arrive the collection of arms would be greatly hastened.

—You find the "short road" to employment when you tell what you can do—interestingly, frankly—in a want ad.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

SEEK PART OF FAIR MILLIONS

Another Step Taken in Legal Fight Over Division of $10,000,000 Estate.

WANT SPECIFIC DATA

Attorneys Ask That Plaintiffs Set Forth in Detail Bill of Complaint—Court Allows Submission of Briefs and Reserves Decision.

Another step was taken yesterday in the legal fight over the estate of Charles Fair, brother of Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., when in the Supreme Court of New York, John M. Bowers, of Messrs. Bowers & Sands, attorneys for Mrs. Oelrichs and the other defendants, made a motion before Justice Blanchard to compel Theodore W. Lefler and George E. Lefler, formerly of New Market, but now of Newark, and Mabel E. Towle, of Concord, N. H., to make more specific their complaint in a suit brought by them against the Fair estate for their share of the estate of Caroline Smith Fair, who, they contend, survived Charles Fair, her husband, in the automobile accident in France fourteen years ago.

Philip Carpenter argued in opposition to the motion for further particular, saying that in the answer of the defendants they had consumed more than 500 printed pages and must be familiar with every phase of the situation. He said that each of the three plaintiffs wished his forty-second share of the $10,000,000 estate left by Charles Fair, viz., that each had a claim of $240,000 against the estate, or an aggregate of $720,000. Mr. Carpenter was assisted by H. M. T. Beekman and by Henry L. Sprague of Stetson, Jennings and Russel, of New York city.

In support of his motion Mr Bowers said that the executors of the estate of the late Charles Fair had already paid Mrs. Hannah A. Nelson, next of kin of Caroline Fair, nearly $400,000 in settlement of the estate for all the heirs and that in the case of the present three plaintiffs who were infants at the time of the settlement, the executors had receipts from their guardians that were "proper satisfactions in law."

Mr. Carpenter then went into the details of the case, stating that on the very day that both Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair were killed in France, the Fair heirs wired Mrs. Nelson to hasten to San Francisco and there they gave her $125,000 to settle the case.

"The Fair heirs selected San Francisco for the probate of the will," continued Mr. Carpenter, "merely because they had a law out in California that in case of any doubt as to the time a husband and wife died in an accident it should always be presumed in law that the husband survived the wife—which did not happen in this case, as the facts were that Mrs. Fair survived her husband, and hence, under her husband's will all his millions went to her, and therefore to her heirs, and not to his heirs at law.

"We shall further show on the trial—something that has never been brought out before—that Charles Fair and his wife were really residents of New York county at the time of their death, and hence the will should have been probated there.

"We will further show that these three infant heirs never received any of the settlement money that was paid to their grandmother in two installments, first the $125,000 in San Francisco, and the $267,500 that was subsequently paid to her for distribution."

FUNERAL OF MRS. MILTON O. CRAFT IS HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Milton O. Craft was held at the late home on Kensington avenue, yesterday afternoon, being largely attended by relatives and friends, including members of the Benevolent Band of the King's Daughters, of which Mrs. Craft was the vice-president. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, of which Mrs. Craft was a member, officiated.

During the service a quartet comprising Miss Etta Raybert, Miss Grace Carroll, William Holmes and William Tallamy sang "My Faith Looks up to Thee," and "Asleep in Jesus." The interment took place today in the family plot at Glen Cove, L. I.

CHANCE FOR SICK CHILDREN TO SEE CIRCUS PARADE

W. L. Smalley has asked the Daily Press to find for him from twelve to fourteen sick children who otherwise could not see either the circus or the parade tomorrow, that he may be able to convey them to the grounds, to see the tented city. Mr. Smalley will have two automobiles at his disposal, and will personally call for the children and return them to their homes at the conclusion of the trip. Those who may know of any youngsters who would be able to take in this trip, are asked to notify the office of the Daily Press. A call for 'phone 1300, or a postal giving name and address of the children, addressed to this paper and dropped into the postoffice not later than 9 o'clock this evening will serve the purpose.

WILL ASK FOR $8,500 INCREASE

School Board Thinks That $109,000 Will Be Needed This Year.

AN EIGHT POINT RAISE

Amount Will Be Reported to Board of School Estimate for Final Action—May Drop New School Project.

The Plainfield Board of Education at a special meeting, last night, after careful consideration, practically decided on the amount of money thought to be needed to maintain the public schools for the coming year, to be raised by local taxation, and a report of the same will be made to the Board of School Estimate at its meeting Tuesday night. While no official figures have been given out as yet, it is believed that the sum of $109,000 will closely approximate the amount needed. This is an increase of $8,500, an eight point raise. Last year the schools received $100,500.

The Board was informed last night that owing to some change in the method of appropriating State school funds to local schools, the Plainfield schools will receive about $3,000 less this year than last, and the Board feels as though it is justified in asking for the additional $8,500.

On this basis plans for another new school the coming year will have to be abandoned, although the Board feels reluctant to drop the project, feeling that there is an urgent need for a new school in the Evergreen avenue section of the city, where a site has been secured for a building. It is possible, however, that after the budget is passed upon there may be some way eventually of adopting plans whereby the new school can be erected.

The Common Council has adopted its budget on two readings, and as soon as the Board of School Estimate settles on the amount to be raised for school purposes, it will be made a supplement to that ordinance. Similar action will have to be taken regarding the amount needed for county purposes when the county authorities certify its figures to the Council. After that is done, the Council will be able to determine the tax rate for the year.

The local Board of Assessors are working steadily on the local assessments and the city will be able to benefit to some extent from its work as well as that of the special assessment commission appointed some time ago by Mayor Percy H. Stewart. That commission has made substantial progress throughout the city, although it will probably be some time before its work is completed.

COLLEGE HONOR FOR BOUND BROOK BOY

Roy M. D. Richardson Elected Editor-in-chief of the Targum.

Roy M. D. Richardson, of Bound Brook, has been elected editor-in-chief of the Targum, the weekly publication of Rutgers College. Richardson was chosen at a special election Friday, at which all subscribers to the paper were permitted to vote. Richardson received the majority of votes over two opponents on the first election, an unusual tribute to his popularity.

Richardson, besides being a student of exceptional ability, is business manager of the Scarlet Letter, the year book of Rutgers, and is also a member of the varsity gymnasium team. He was the logical choice for intercollegiate champion in the club swinging event, but was robbed of the honor because of illness.

DEMENTED MAN MISSING.

The local police have been requested to be on the lookout for H. L. Lack, of New Brunswick, who has been missing from home since yesterday morning. He is forty years of age, about six feet in heighth and cleanly shaven. His features are irregular, a long nose being a conspicuous characteristic. When last seen he wore a light suit of clothes and a straw hat. Relatives of the man say he is slightly demented.

SCHOOL DISTRICT MUST PAY.

Assistant State Commissioner of Education J. Brognard Betts ruled today that a school district must bear the entire cose of tuition and transportation to the High School of another district, if there is not a High School within the district itself. The decision is the result of a dispute arising in Center township, Camden.

BARNUM CIRCUS HERE TOMORROW

Great Show to Visit City for First Time in Eighteen Years.

PROMISE FINE PARADE

Eighty-five Cars Necessary to Transport Aggregation, Which Includes Largest Menagerie in Country Today.

FACTS AND FIGURES FOR "CIRCUS DAY."

Performances—2 p. m. and 8 p. m. Doors open an hour earlier. Biggest tent 680 by 300 feet, accommodating 16,800 persons.

Street parade—Leaves show grounds about 10 o'clock and moves west through Second street to Liberty, to Front and east on Front street to show grounds.

Tickets—On sale all day at E. A. Laing's book store, West Front street and at show grounds.

The Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth will burst upon an expectant city tomorrow, over-topping in magnitude, in merit, in splendor, in novelty, in fun and in breath-taking feats, its representatives avow, any and all former circus achievements. It has even surpassed the mightiest efforts of its own unequaled past, is the promise. It will be the first time the show has visited Plainfield in eighteen years.

Acres of tents, a parade three miles long, a 110-cage menagerie, forty elephants, three droves of camels four giraffes, 750 horses and ponies, a gorgeous spectacle employing more than one thousand persons and a colossal ballet; the pick and pride of the world's acrobats, gymnasts, equestrians, aerialists and equilibrists, and dozens of clowns are coming.

The circus will arrive in and on eighty railroad cars early tomorrow from Trenton. The young boy and the old boy will be on hand to meet it and witness the picturesque scenes of detrainment and the march of man and beast to the show grounds at East Front street and Raymond avenue. Four long trains are required to transport the big enterprise. The first, bearing the preliminary essentials to the encampment, is expected by daybreak. The others will not be far behind.

Advance representatives reached Plainfield this morning. In a talk with a Daily Press reporter, one of them said:

"The public has little conception of the outlay in money and effort represented in the visit of the Barnum & Bailey circus here tomorrow. Wintering alone costs $140,000. Each day of the tour imperatively demands at least $7,500. The equipment for this season's show could not be replaced under $,500,000. The parade paraphernalia means nearly $1,000,000. 'The Wizard Prince of Arabia' spectacle went into a sum of money in six figures. We figure our horses and their accoutrements at $340,000, and the menagerie worth $720,000.

"We have bought in this city, for consumption tomorrow, seven tons of hay, two hundred bushels of oats,

BUSINESS MEN TO DISCUSS DECORATION DAY CLOSING

So that the question of whether or not to close on Decoration Day, which falls this year on Saturday, may be finally settled, a special meeting of the Plainfield Business Men's Association has been called for tonight, to be held in the rooms in the Frost building. President Force of the organization is particularly anxious to have a full attendance at the meeting, so that there can be no criticism of any action taken by those who do not attend. In speaking about the matter this morning he said:

"The matter of closing or not closing on Decoration Day, which falls on a Saturday this year, is of such importance that we hope to have all business men present, whether they are members of our organization or not. I hope there will be a large turn-out, and that the matter will be frankly and fully discussed, and then settled for all the merchants of the city.

SUBURBAN ROUTE TO COST $60,000

Witness for So. Plainfield Extension Petitioners Estimates on Improvement.

DISCARDS ONE PLAN

L. W. Serrell Advocates the Usage of Fourth Street Proposition—Engineer Who Laid Out Other Plainfield Lines.

Appearing as a witness for the petitioners in the South Plainfield trolley extension matter before the Public Utilities Commission in Newark this morning, L. W. Serrell, of this city, estimated that $60,000 would cover the cost of providing for the improvement requested as the result of action on the part of the Plainfield and South Plainfield Boards of Trade. Mr. Serrell's testimony made a strong impression in showing the conditions favorable to the extension being based on expert investigation he has personally conducted.

On the stand this morning Mr. Serrell advocated the abandonment of the proposed Arlington avenue route leading through Cedarbrook as he thought this would entail the greatest expense. He declared that the laying of this route would necessitate 12,400 feet of road construction, and would cost approximately $66,000.

The witness said that laying tracks along what is designated as the Fourth street route would call for the laying of 11,000 feet of construction work and the cost would be about $60,000. He suggested that the latter plan be adopted as it would in the end prove most satisfactory to all concerned and could at the same time be brought about at a minimum cost. On the stand the witness declared that 12,000 people who would use the trolley between the suburbs and Plainfield would yield the Public Service Corporation a revenue of $6 per capita. In conclusion Mr. Serrell reviewed his experience in laying the other trolley lines in Plainfield and similar work done in other parts of the State. He said his experience made him a competent judge of cost and routes.

L. D. H. Gilmour, counsel for the Public Service Railroad Corporation, conducted a cross-examination of the witness beofre he was dismissed his main idea being to ascertain where Mr. Serrell secured his information on the question. In answer to a query as to where he had taken his mileage figures Mr. Serrell stated that they had not been compiled from estimates on Public Service records.

The hearing is still going on in Newark this afternoon and will probably be concluded tonight. The case was brought up this morning as the result of an adjournment on Thursday, April 30 when representatives of the Plainfield and South Plainfield Boards of Trade appeared as witnesses for the petitioners. There is apparently no question among the Plainfielders concerning the necessity of the extension but there seems to be a doubt as to whether or not the proposition could be made a paying one on a five-cent basis. The people interested in the extension plans have no quarrel with the Public Service as evidence by the general feeling exhibited in court today and their only desire seems to be to secure up-to-date transit facilities.

COUNCILMAN J. A. BABCOCK HELPS TO CONVICT FORGER

Councilman Juan A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, returned this week from Kansas City, where he was called to testify in a Government suit which was the result of a forged bill of lading in a shipment of goods. He was obliged to spend nine days in the western city, waiting to give his testimony. During his enforced stay he witnessed several baseball games, and he says that the Federal League clubs are drawing the biggest crowds in that part of the country.

One of the defendants in the suit was sentenced to two years in State Prison, and another one who turned State's evidence, and helped to convict the former, was re-arrested and sent to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury at some future time.

VICIOUS DOG AT LARGE.

While riding through West Seventh street on a bicycle at 7:30 o'clock last night, Abraham Baum was attacked by a vicious dog that ran out into the thoroughfare from the property of Duncan Taylor, 455 West Seventh street. The canine tore the rider's clothes but was beaten off before he could do further damage. Baum notified the police and when acquainted with the circumstances, Mr. Taylor, the owner of the dog, agreed to settle with the victim.

A. M. COLLENS IS ELECTED TREASURER

Succeeds Edward V. Cox as Member of Muhlenberg Hospital Board.

Edward V. Cox resigned as treasurer of the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, at the monthly meeting of the board this week, and Arthur M. Collens, who was elected a member of that body, was chosen treasurer to succeed Mr. Cox. The latter resigned because his health is such as to make it necessary for him to give up all business responsibilities for several months to come, and it was with regret that the board acepted his resignation. During the brief time that he has held the office he has been diligent in attending to the duties of it and the board feels as though it was losing a valuable member.

At the same time the board feels fortunate in being able to secure for its treasurer a man of the type of Mr. Collens, as it means considerable time and sacrifice for anyone taking the office and Mr. Collens is said to be well qualified for the place. As is always the case at the May meeting the board elects eight governors for a term of three years to succed those whose terms expire.

Six of the present governors were re-elected as follows: James W. DeGraff, Henry L. Hall, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Percy H. Stewart, Samuel Townsend and John M. Whiton. In addition Henry L. DeForest and Sherman B. Joost were elected governors to serve for three years.

WILLIAM F. ARNOLD CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Plainfield Savings Bank Elects Officers and Adopts Resolutions of Condolence.

Officers were elected and resolutions adopted expressing sorrow over the death of David T. Titsworth, a most respected associate, at the annual meeting of the board of managers of the Plainfield Savings Bank held yesterday. At the same time the resignation of James C. Pope as secretary and treasurer was accepted with regret. Mr. Pope retires on account of illness. He has been associated with the bank for many years, and has been succeeded by his brother, Howard A. Pope.

These officers were elected: President, William F. Arnold; vice-president, Albert C. Stebbins; secretary and treasurer, Howard A. Pope; assistant secretary and treasurer, Harry B. MacDonald.

Mr. Titsworth, who died recently, was a director of the Plainfield Savings Bank for many years and closely identified with its successful management, and the resolutions adopted, yesterday, a copy of which will be sent to the family, expressed the high appreciation of the directors for Mr. Titsworth and his faithful service.

HIGH SCHOOL HONORS FOR CARTER GOODRICH

Selected as Valedictorian of 1914 Graduating Class in Local Institution.

Announcement was made this morning by Principal Lindsey Best, of the Plainfield High School, that Carter Goodrich has been selected as the valedictorian of this year's graduating class and Miss Ellen Sandberg will be the salutatorian. The honors are decided on scholarship records established by the various pupils during the four years' course in the High School, Goodrich having the highest record and Miss Sandberg the next highest.

This year's salutatorian is taking a commercial course in the High School and is one of the few selected in the history of the school from this special department. She has maintained an excellent standing throughout her entire course. Mr. Goodrich is taking a classical course and has been a leader in scholarship work in both the High School and Grammar School. Graduating from the Stillman School he was awarded the George Babcock prize for American history.

FORMER OFFICERS HERE.

Captain and Mrs. Samuel Hewitt at present in Newark, but formerly of the local corps of the Salvation Army, will visit their former charge here tonight, conducting the evening service.

DOUBT STORY OF HUERTA'S FLIGHT

Washington Officials Think Los Angeles Rumor Has No Foundation in Fact.

VILLA AT TAMPICO

Battle There Yesterday, Which Gave Control to Constitutionalists Was Fiercely Fought—Oil Wells to Be Worked Again.

Washington, May 14.—The report that Huerta is in flight from Mexico City to some point on the west coast of Mexico is strongly doubted both at the Navy and State Departments. If the President had actually determined to take refuge in flight, and had abandoned the capital it is thought that the information would have been received here without delay. Instead, no intimation that Huerta has gone has come to either of the departments named.

Los Angeles, May 14.—There is a persistent rumor on the west coast of Mexico that President Huerta is fleeing in that direction. There is no confirmation of the report to be obtained here at this time.

Vera Cruz, May 14, (from Alfred J. Rorke, Special Correspondent for Central News.)—Considerable anxiety was manifested at headquarters owing to the fact that the regular hourly telephone calls from the pumping station at Tejar were not received last night, and this morning. Investigations are proceeding, but it is not known whether Mexican troops have cut the line, or whether the United States soldier on duty at the pumping station had fallen asleep at the switchboard.

Two hundred refugees who were expected here from Mexico City today, have not yet arrived.

Wireless despatches received here today from Rear Admiral Mayo say the fighting between the rebels and the Federals for possession of Tampico was of the fiercest. General Villa's forces captured the Federal trenches time after time, only to be driven out again by the fierce fire of the Federal guns. The gun boat Vera Cruz, which assisted in driving back the rebels temporarily has not yet left the river, and its fate is unknown. It is thought the rebels have captured it or that it has gone over voluntarily to the victorious Constitutionalists.

Rear Admiral Craddock of the British fleet, is the only admiral knowing full details of the fight, as the British cruiser Hermione was the only battleship up the river when the final assault of the rebels was made on the port. It is understood that Admiral Craddock's attitude is that a state of war exists between the United States and Mexico.

Rear Admiral Badger has forwarded a complete report to the admiralty. Before the Federals left Tampico they succeeded in blowing up the barracks with dynamite. It was stated on Admiral Badger's flagship this morning that no untoward circumstances were expected which would necessitate Rear Admiral Mayo landing any forces at Tampico, although several light draft ships will be sent up the river when the sea calms down.

Washington, May 14.—With the capture of Tampico by the Constitutionalists, President Wilson and Secretary Bryan today expressed belief that the critical situation growing out of the danger to the oil fields near here had solved itself. At the White House the opinion was expressed that the Constitutionalists would grant permission immediately for the return of the oil operators.

United States war ships may enter the harbor of Tampico today. Rear Admiral Mayo has given instructions by Secretary Daniels to send his vessels to the captured city, if in his discretion such action was desirable. The war vessels however, will go on a peaceful mission. They will assist, if requested, in restoring order and aiding any who may desire to leave the city. There will be no landing parties.

The Captains of the two Mexican gunboats, Brave and Varagossa, which were driven from the Panuco river by the Constitutionalists' fire yesterday, have asked for an interview with Rear Admiral Mayo, the latter reported to the Department. An interview will be granted them on board the flagship Connecticut later in the day.

Conditions in Tampico when Admiral Mayo sent his dispatch apparently were quiet. He reported that the retreating Federals, before leaving the town, destroyed the barracks with dynamite.

SOLACE HERE WITH TWO VERA CRUZ DEAD

Hospital Ship Also Carries Thirty-one Wounded.

New York, May 14.—The United States hospital ship Solace arrived at quarantine with the bodies of two sailors who were killed at Vera Cruz, the last of the nineteen whose names are now on the national roll of honor as a result of the Mexican troubles. She also brought thirty-one men who were wounded in the capture of the city and thirty-one others who contracted diseases there.

After she was inspected by the health authorities of the port the Solace steamed to the navy yard. Ambulances were in waiting there, and the ill and wounded were transferred at once to the naval hospital in the yard.

Medical Inspector Luther L. von Wedekind, who commands the Solace, sent word to the navy department that all on board were doing well and that recovery was expected in every case. The bodies of the dead were sent at once to the nearest of kin under a suitable escort of sailors detailed by Captain Albert Gleaves, commandant of the yard.

The body of Ray Harry Pulliam, first class fireman, was sent to his father, W. C. Pulliam of Pulaski, Vt., and that of Clarnce Hershberger to his father, C. O. Hershberger, 160 Centre street, Waverly, N. Y.

How long the Solace will remain here depends upon the speed with which she can be loaded with medical supplies for the fleet and can be overhauled. She will take back with her forty-one convalescents who have been ordered to return to their ships.

The navy yard is now, for the first time in two years, without a battleship. The last Dreadnought to depart was the Texas, which steamed away bound for the flying squadron's berth in Mexican waters.

FIRE BUT NO DAMAGE.

Drippings from the tar wagon used by the city in the distribution of the dust preventative caught fire at 7:30 o'clock this morning, in the rear of the Boice-Runyon property a call from box No. 13 being sent into fire headquarters. The flames were extinguished with no damage resulting. The fire was probably started by a stray cigarette butt thrown into the city solution by a workman.

HALF HOLIDAY FOR SCHOOLS.

Public schools in Plainfield and North Plainfield will have out one session tomorrow because of the coming of Barnum & Bailey's circus. The half day's work will be conducted from 8:30 to 12:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Burnham, of West Sixth street, have gone to Binghamtown, N. Y., for a visit with relatives.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

MIDWEEK HOLIDAY AS A SUBSTITUTE

Local Merchant Suggests Closing Down Thursday Instead of Saturday Half Day.

Apropos of the Saturday half-holiday closing movement, which is being advocated by the civic committee of the College Club, several of the city's leading merchants have given pertinent interviews within the past few days. While none of them argue against the proposition in the guise of opposition, they point out that there are better ways of obtaining the desired end, that of giving the clerks some time off. One of the business men gave this explanation of the idea and the course to pursue if the satisfying of all concerned is preferable.

"Perhaps the civic committee does not realize it, but the Saturday half-holiday would give the clerks a total of only five hours to themselves. The time they work Saturday night would be transferred over to Friday night, as practically every merchant would be compelled to do it in order to dispose of the business that will come at no other part of the week. The week-end trade is just as set as the laws of the Meides and Persians, and no individual club or organization will ever change it; at least not while the majority of people have to wait for the Saturday envelope as they do at present. Coming down town on Saturday night is the one big event of the week for thousands of people. They do their buying and hold impromptu receptions at the same time. The West End meets the East End on common ground to swap conversation or renew acquaintance. All you have to do to verify this is to walk along Front street any Saturday night.

"I make the suggestion that the club center its efforts on all day Thursday closing. This is a dull day in the summer as it is the day on which the excursions to Asbury Park take out from 600 to 2,000 people. Many of the clerks get off for these outings and a general closing would give them all the time off from 6 o'clock Wednesday night to opening time Friday. I am sure this would be more satisfactory to merchants and clerks alike and still maintain the time-honored Saturday shopping bees."

The Business Men's Association will meet tonight, principally to take up the question of Decoration Day and Fourth of July closing, but it is probable the Saturday half-holiday will be discussed informally.

SEEKS TO RECOVER LOAN.

Elizabeth, May 14.—The case of John Shoemaker, of Williamsport, Pa., against Ellery B. Shoemaker, of Kensington avenue, Plainfield, was tried yesterday afternoon in the Circuit Court before Judge Spear. The action was to recover $985 alleged to have been loaned to the defendant, who in turn claimed that the money given to him was not a loan, but was to be used in speculation for the plaintiff. In the evidence it appeared that all but $16.26 had been invested and lost in the speculation. The jury returned a verdict for the $16.26.

MRS. STITES IMPROVED.

CONGRESS NOMINATION MAY COME HERE

Former City Judge W. N. Runyon Prominently Mentioned for Honor.

Former City Judge William N. Runyon is being prominently mentioned as a candidate for the Congressional nomination on the Republican ticket next fall. This fact became known yesterday, when Daniel S. Voorhees, of Morristown, announced that he would not seek the nomination. Mr. Runyon's friends believe that he would make a strong candidate not only for the nomination, but if nominated, would poll a big vote at the election. John H. Capstick has also been mentioned for the honor.

Mr. Runyon was the candidate against Mr. Tuttle in both 1910 and 1912. In the former year the district included Warren county, which is strongly Democratic, and Mr. Tuttle won by a plurality of something less than 3,100 votes. In 1912, with the Progressive candidate in the field in the two counties of the present district, he defeated Mr Runyon by 3,830. The Progressive candidate received 7,593 votes.

Many Republicans believe that, with strong hopes for success existing now, they should give the nomination again to Mr. Runyon, who became a candidate twice when the odds were heavily against him. This they believe, would be recognition of the services he had performed.

In the meantime there are a number of Mr. Capstick's friends who have been advancing his claims. They also base their support on services performed for the party by Mr. Capstick and take the stand that after Judge Runyon has had two tries for the place another candidate is entitled to make the race.

BREAD CAST ON WATER RETURNS

Plainfielder Pays a Loan of Sixty-seven Cents with Interest.

An illustration of bread cast on the water paying a big dividend through a story which comes from Pleasantville, this State, in which a Plainfield man played an important part. A few days ago, Louis Zentmayre, former councilman of Pleasantville received a letter from Leland S. Gilette, who gives his address as Quaker Hill Farm, Plainfield, with an enclosure of a check for $1.00 in payment of a loan of 67 cents, five years ago, when the latter needed car fare. The letter returning the loan and Mr. Zentmayer's reply follows:

Quaker Hill Farm,
Plainfield, N. J., May 2, 1914.

Mr. Louis Zentmayer,
Pleasantville, N. J.

Dear Sir: I wonder if you remember paying my fare to Vineland sometime about June, 1909; about 67 cents I believe and you said I could pay you back when I got rich. I think I am rich now; that is, I'm herdsman on a large dairy farm here at $40.00 a month and board.

Trusting one dollar will pay you for your trouble, I remain,

LELAND S. GILETTE,
Plainfield, N. J.

Pleasantville, N. J., May 8, 1914.

Mr. Leland S. Gillette,

Dear Sir:—I greatly appreciate the fact of your remembering my little loan of sixty-seven cents, over five years ago. The mere fact of your honesty alone, shows that you are worthy of your new position. The little check and letter I will place in a frame in my office as I do not think same could be surpassed as an example both to my men and all others who might read the same. You may therefore cross out stub number three in your check book and still retain the credit of the dollar.

A man of your making has a great future and deserves a helping hand at all times. Any time I can give you a lift in the future, I am at your service.

Hoping you all the success and prosperity this life affords, I am sincerely,

L. ZENTMAYER.

WHEN THE CIRCUS COMES TO TOWN.

I.

There's joy in every youngster's heart,
The old folks feel quite gay,
It seems as if dull care and gloom
Had gone far, far away.
The men put on their Sunday suits,
Each gal her bestest gown,
Oh, I tell you what, they stir about
When the circus comes to town.

II.

It's one best bet that every kid
Who isn't bound with chains,
Will leave his bed at break of day
To welcome in the trains.
His elders, too, will be on hand
"Just kinda lookin' roun'",
Oh, I tell you what they can't stay home
When the circus comes to town.

III.

And when that big parade starts off
Behind a blaring band,
With dens of beasts and freaky things
And the Calliope so grand,
Your eyes pop out, your breath comes fast,
Your heart jumps up and down.
Oh, I tell you what, you can't keep still
When the circus comes to town.

IV.

When once we get inside the tent
With happiness we're drunk,
We buy stale peanuts by the peck
To fill the elephant's trunk.
We gape at acrobatic stunts
And laugh at every clown.
Oh, I tell you what, we all sit up
When the circus comes to town.

V.

What matter if the times be hard,
And the landlord needs his rent?
What matter if the merchants say
Your credit's badly bent?
We'll all sell off the family stove
Or steal a ruler's crown,
So long as we can get the coin,
When the circus comes to town.

MOVIES AND PATRIOTISM.

More pleasure it can be said with all truth is growing into secondary importance as an object in the production and display of moving picture films, this even in the face of the wonderful development of entertainment films. It is certainly to the credit of the "action picture" that its possibilities have been so readily recognized along universal lines of endeavor.

While millions of films are being produced to entertain, others are being used for educational purposes in schools, libraries, social centers and churches. Even religion is being taught the masses in picture theatre as well as church. Geographical subjects, nature studies and just now a large number of historical reproductions are claiming their share of attention. In Ohio, at least, the stereopticon is being used to promote the building of good roads. In large cities it is developing the civic and individual conscience along lines of charity and welfare work.

It remains, however, for Canada to first turn to the "movie" as an agency for developing an organized national patriotism. This new movement was inaugurated a few days ago in the public schools of Montreal, where children, parents and teachers viewed the first assembled exhibit of moving pictures depicting scenes, peoples and notable personages throughout the British empire. The project is the idea of a Montreal woman and it is designed to introduce it into all the schools of the empire. The influence of thus inculcating a nation's children with familiarity with scenes, resources, cities and peoples from one end of the empire to the other, can scarcely be over-estimated.

A movement of this sort would be an important factor in welding together the United States and its colonies, making the states more familiar with one another and all more familiar with Alaska and the islands and the latter more familiar with us. Uncle Sam might well afford to take up the task of gathering together such an exhibit from over the nation and colonies to be shown in every school and class room under the stars and stripes to inspire our national pride and patriotism.

Cities as well might be urging their improvement and beautifying campaigns through the use of the moving picture, which is already being used in a limited way in some communities to arouse civic pride.

Warden of the Somerset county jail was removed because he did not spend all of 35 cents a day which he received to feed prisoners. The high living which the prisoners have been enjoying on less than 35 cents a day is not liable to make the official hostelry of Somerset county popular with the hobo element. The Union county jail must be more popular, as we understand the amount spent there is 42 cents a day.

Probably never before has a Plainfield audience had opportunity to hear such an interesting and brilliant address as that which was delivered on Tuesday night by Booker T. Washington. The story of how the colored race has been led out of the darkness into the land of useful citizenship is an inspiring one which probably has no parallel in the history of this country.

Decisions by the Somerset county Board of Freeholders to oil all of the roads in that county will mean that it will be one of the most popular sections of the State with the automobilists.

That rumor that the Plainfield postmaster would be appointed in 48 hours, which went the rounds last Friday must have been Martine time. It certainly was not standard time.

Dispatch says Mexican Federal general levied tribute from the residents of Tampico to the extent of 150,000 pesos. $11.50 in regular money, perhaps?

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

The large increase in the tax rate for this year, following an increase in 1913 over 1912, ought to cause both citizens and officials to do some serious thinking. The excuse for it, of course, is that we "want" this, that, or the other thing; and since we "want" them, we must get them at public expense. In private life we all want things that we must forego, because we cannot afford them; it is one of the lessons of life which everyone is forced to learn. In public affairs, however, this department, or that department, is always telling us that its necessities are imperative and that the tax-payers must pay the bills. The schools are always demanding more, the library expense has been increasing rapidly, the cost of the police and fire departments has risen faster than the population, the hospital demands its share of public money, and State and county salaries have gone up so fast and so high that New Jersey has gained the reputation of being the most extravagant State in the Union in this particular.

Now I am not finding fault with this expenditure; it may be all right. The objects in view may be very desirable, and we may be glad to have them all; but there are two considerations which our citizens and officials ought to bear in mind. In the first place we cannot have our cake and eat it; if we spend money for one thing there is so much less for other things; if we gratify our "wants" in one direction, then we must deny ourselves somewhere else; if we take from the taxpayers more money for schools, roads, salaries and books, there is just so much less left in his pocket for his own use, and he must decide which he prefers. He should also bear in mind that the "taxpayer" is not the man who happens to pay the money to the collector. The "taxpayer" includes every man, woman and child in the city who is not a pauper; everyone to some extent, or in some way, has to pay a portion of the public expenses. There is no greater delusion than the use of the word "free" in conection with public institutions. Nothing is "free;" neither schools, nor library, nor streets, nor police service; everything has to be paid for, and the payment cannot be avoided.

In the second place the drift of population from New York to the suburbs is largely determined by railroad facilities and by the relative expense of living. A few years ago taxes in New York (I am speaking of Manhattan Island) were very high when compared with a town like Plainfield, but during the last few years the taxes in Plainfield have been going up by leaps and bounds while in New York they are decreasing. A miscellaneous lot of tax bills which I am paying in New York this month, amounting to about $28,000, show a reduction of about $1,000 over 1913, and that was decidedly less than 1912. The rate has been reduced from 1.81 to 1.78 and many of the valuations have been reduced. There is no doubt that judged by any proper test, taxes in New York are much less than in Plainfield and that the disproportion is increasing. If this keeps on, if our officials continue to base our expenditures on what we "want," or "what we must have," rather than on what we can afford, I fear we shall soon find that the drift of population is back to New York and suburban towns like Plainfield will begin to stagnate.

ALBERT H. ATTERBURY.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

Recent articles in the daily papers state that men in the employ of the Street department were compelled to drive their teams with sand spreader close behind wagons spreading hot tar. The men have definite instructions to give as much time as possible for the tar to penetrate the macadam before applying the top dressing, and they state positively that from one to four hours elapse after the tar is spread before the sand or other material is put on.

The writers evidently confuse the small tar melting kettle (in which a heavy material is melted and spread by hand in patching holes, with the tar spreaders, one of which has a heating appliance. This wagon is the one which is complained about, but the tar in it is never hot, being only moderately heated to cause it to flow more freely in cool weather. In ordinary spring weather no heat is used, and, as before stated, only one wagon can be heated at all.

No complaint was made to any members of the Street Department by the owner of the horses referred to.

It is understood by the drivers of Plainfield and other cities where tarvia is used, that the horses require proper care, and the Street Department furnishes veterinary vaseline in generous quantities for the protection of the horses.

Yours respectfully,
A. J. GAVETT,
Street Commissioner.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

The columns of the Daily Press are the only means of reaching the merchants of this city, who, I believe, decide tonight, the question of closing their places of business on Saturday, May 30. I do so on the plea of patriotism, of showing respect, not only to our country's dead heroes, but to the few living survivors of that great battle to free our nation of that blot which threatened its civilization. To these living heroes, Decoration Day is the "day of days," and to them we owe the respect which prompted the designation of a day on which to honor their dead comrades. Having questioned many friends, I may truthfully say that I voice the feeling of many on this point, and feel that the action will be appreciated if the merchants decide to recognize the day by closing on Memorial Day as is customary.

Yours very truly,
R. A. LAWRENCE.

BUBONIC PLAGUE THREATENS PANAMA CANAL ZONE PEOPLE

Washington, May 14.—Dubonic plague has broken out in Calamar, Columbia, and efforts are being made by the authorities to prevent the spread of the scourge. This information was conveyed to the State Department today in a special report from its counsul at Calamar. The proximity of the city to the Panama canal zone has caused some uneasiness among the War Department officials. Orders have been issued to maintain the most vigilant guard against travelers and goods coming from Columbia, and a vigorous quarantine will be put into effect.

"EXAM" POSTPONED.

Trenton, May 14—The Civil Service examination for election officers which was to have been held in Somerset county today, has been postponed until Friday, June 26, owing to the fact that only five nominations for the position have been sent to the Civil Service Commission. These five were sent by William J. DeMond, the Democratic county chairman. No candidates at all have been nominated by Edward E. Cooper, the Republican county chairman. There was some delay, it is understood, in arranging to file the nominations, and this led to the postponement.

219 AUTOMOBILE LICENSES.

Morristown, May 14.—Tuesday was the bi-monthly examination day for automobile drivers and all Morristown records were broken. In all 243 persons presented themselves for examination, all but twenty-four of whom received licenses. Most of the others were postponed for two weeks. Eight of the State inspectors were on hand.

Inspector Vey arrested F. E. Humbert, of Madison, and took him before Justice Angelo J. A. Bennel, who fined him $25 and costs for violating the automobile law by having fictitious numbers and no license with him.

Gardens and Lawns

If your flower or vegetable garden last year was not satisfactory—if your lawn shows bare spots and slow growth, it usually means that the soil has become acid for want of lime.

Edison Pulverized Limestone sweetens soil and produces better flowers and vegetables and gives lawns the soft, smooth, green effect so much desired.

Edison Pulverized Limestone

This natural limestone, pulverized as fine as flour, causes no injury, no matter when or how used. Use it as a top dressing, evenly distributed, both in the garden and on the lawn, and allow the rains to carry it down into the soil. Or, if you don't want to wait for rain you can use the garden hose.

For a garden or lawn, in fair condition last year, use about 100 pounds of the Pulverized Limestone for every 1000 square feet. If they were in poor shape use a larger quantity. Remember, there is no danger from using any amount of Edison Pulverized Limestone.

Ask us for a copy of testimonials from various users giving their successful experience with this product, which is for sale in 100-pound cloth bags.

Door Shown Folk In Clash About Mellen.

PRESIDENT MAY INTERFERE

Commission Disregarded Attorney General McReynolds' Objection, Who Protested Against Calling Mellen, Contending They Would Give Him Immunity.

Washington, May 14.—An ugly situation has developed over the interstate commerce commission's investigation into the affairs of the New Haven railroad.

The commission disregarded Attorney General McReynolds' objection to the examination of Charles S. Mellen, former president, and George F. Baker, William Rockefeller, Lewis C. M. Ledyard and other directors of the road. Mr. McReynolds had protested that this would give the witnesses immunity from any criminal prosecution that the department of justice might bring, but the commission ordered the inquiry to proceed forthwith.

This action was taken after a stormy conference at the department of justice which resulted, it is charged, in the attorney general inviting Solicitor Folk and Commissioner McChord to leave his office.

On top of this extraordinary situation came the news that President Wilson himself may take a hand in the rumpus. The president, it was learned, is considering the advisability of exerting the influence of the administration to bring about the recall by the senate of the Norris resolution under which the interstate commerce commission is proceeding.

"We are going ahead," said Solicitor Folk. "We are going to bring out the truth, the whole truth, no matter who it hurts or hits."

Attorney General McReynolds first conferred with Senator Norris, the author of the resolution directing the investigation, and Senator Kern, the Democratic leader. Solicitor Folk and Commissioner McChord joined the three named in the attorney general's office, and they stayed but a few minutes.

Emerge Red In the Face.

When they emerged they were red in the face and declined to make a statement. Later at the offices of the commission Solicitor Folk announced for the commission that the inquiry would go ahead. Senator Norris, after leaving the attorney general, went to the offices of the commission and conferred with Folk and McChord. Senator Norris was present when Folk made a brief statement concerning the attitude of the attorney general.

"I was at the conference," said Senator Norris, "and Attorney General McReynolds gave no good reason why the commission should not go ahead and prosecute this matter to the bottom and put Mellen and all the other fellows who know anything about the matter on the stand. I can see no reason for the attorney general's letter to the commission or for his interference.

"This inquiry should go on as a matter of justice to the people and the public. Every fact in connection with the rotten operations that have been going on for years should be developed. In my opinion not a solitary good reason has been given why the inquiry should be halted."

Solicitor Folk was asked why he and Commissioner McChord had quit the conference so hurriedly. He said he did not care to answer, and Senator Norris said that if Folk had no objection he would answer for him.

Mr. Folk seemed to have none and smiled in a pleased manner when Senator Norris said:

"He went out because the attorney general practically requested him to do so."

Solicitor Folk added:

"His conduct was such that he did not care to remain and have anything to say to him."

Commissioner McChord was considerably stirred up and abruptly declined to discuss the conference.

This incident has created a very unfavorable impression here and the Wilson administration will be attacked in the senate.

PARKS CASE STIRS GARRISON

Funston Ordered to Make Searching Inquiry Into Private's Fate.

Washington, May 14.—Stirred to action by continued reports that Private Parks was tortured and executed by Mexican federals, both the war and state departments took steps to ascertain the truth of these rumors.

Secretary Garrison instructed General Funston to get information from General Maas regarding the orderly's fate. Simultaneously the state department asked the Brazilian minister at Mexico City to gather similar information from Huerta.

General Funston believes that Parks has been killed. Secretary Garrison, however, seemed inclined to give the benefit of the doubt to the Mexican federal forces. If the federals, however, jailed Parks after he entered their lines the war department would not regard it as extraordinary, for the United States would do likewise if a Mexican soldier rode into the American lines at Vera Cruz.

"ON TO MEXICO CITY!" NOW THE REBEL CRY

Tampico's Fall Blow to the Huerta Regime.

[illegible] May 14.—"On to Mexico City" [illegible] the slogan of the Mexican Constitutionalists.

Attaches of their confidential agency in Washington are jubilant over the news which came to the navy department from Admiral Mayo, which confirmed their own advices to the effect that the Mexican federals were evacuating the city over the railroad leading toward San Luis Potosi.

The Constitutionalist confidential agents here said that this blow would be fatal to Huerta and that they would be occupying Mexico City in less than a month. The Constitutionalist plans, as explained here, are to hold Tampico, collect customs and enter stores and war material there, and then push the attack on Saltillo and San Luis Potosi.

Saltillo, the capital of the state of Coahuila, is to be the next point of attack by the Constitutionalist forces in northern and eastern Mexico. General Gonzales will leave at Tampico a garrison just large enough to hold the city and maintain order and with half his army will return to Monterey over the railroad. He may leave about 3,000 men at Tampico under command of General Luis Caballero. At Monterey Gonzales will be joined by 2,000 Constitutionalists now garrisoning that place under General Villareal. The amalgamation of these forces will give General Gonzales, the Constitutionalists say, a command of 5,000 men, who will at once advance on Saltillo, sixty-nine miles away by railroad.

It is understood that General Maas has not more than 4,000 men under his command at Saltillo. At the time that General Gonzales approaches from the east General Villa will be attacking from the west. Constitutionalists here say that Villa has 15,000 men, thirty pieces of field artillery, forty modern machine guns and ample ammunition.

General Zaragoa, whose forces evacuated Tampico, will, it is believed, try to reach San Luis Potosi and re-enforce the Mexican federal garrison there. The Constitutionalists have information which leads them to assert that there are only 4,000 federals at San Luis Potosi. They say they do not believe Huerta will dare to send many more men from Mexico City for the relief of San Luis Potosi, but will elect to await the result of the battle there and make his stand at some point south of San Luis Potosi and nearer to Mexico City.

New York, May 14.—Six months in the workhouse was the sentence meted out to the Rev. The court in passing sentence read a long opinion in which he flayed the methods of the agitators in invading churches and disturbing religious congregations.

The magistrate said that Dr. White was the more to blame for the trouble because of his education and familiarity with religious practices.

NORTH PLAINFIELD SWAMPED PRIVATE SCHOOL NINE IN FIRST LEAGUE GAME

Captain Faber and his bunch of ball players invaded Hyde Oval yesterday afternoon and used three slabmen in an endeavor to get the best of the North Plainfield High School aggregation. This was impossible, however, and the boroughites won their first interscholastic battle by the score of 10 to 3. It was a bad day for baseball but both managers agreed that it was fair play for both.

Stahl was slated to work for North Plainfield and Faber took the mound for the visitors.

Leals started the bombardment right at the start and it looked bad for a few minutes. Stahl opened by throwing high ones to Stewart. On the second ball pitched the midget shortstop singled over third but was caught trying to steal second, Smalley to Conroy. Faber drew a pass and Dickerson singled to left. Stevenson stepped into one of Stahl's fast ones and went to first, filling the bases with one down. Voorhees fanned the air three times and Lyon flied out to Burner, retiring the side. VanMater made first on an error and went to second while Abrams was being thrown out by Stewart. VanMater scored the first run when Dunning singled to center and went to second on the throwin. He was put out at third. Townley went out, Dickerson to Stevenson. In the first half of the second, Garrigues and Dale fanned and Schneider flied out to Smalley. Voorhees changed positions with Faber. Burner doubled to center and scored on Dilts' sacrifice. Conroy and Smalley died, Voorhees to Stevenson.

Only three Leal men faced Stahl in the third and only four borough batters approached the plate, neither team scoring. Burner made three putouts in the fourth, retiring the visitors, while the boroughites made it their biginning. Townley fanned and Burner made first on an error. Dilts walked; Conroy arrived safely at first through a misplay. Smalley walked; Stahl was hit by a pitched ball, and VanMater cleaned house with a pretty single into center. Abrams hit to the infield for an out and VanMater was caught stealing.

In the fifth the visitors were put out in easy fashion and the Canadians added one to their score. Dunning singled, stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Townley was hit by the ball; Dunning scored when Dilts hit a high fly to Dale in center field. North Plainfield's bad inning came in the sixth. Stewart doubled to left and Faber followed suit, scoring Stewart. Dickerson hit to Dilts at short, who threw miles over Burner's head. Both men crossed the plate and Denny replaced Stahl in the box. The next three batters went out in quick order. The home team's last tallies came in the last half of this inning when a trio crossed the rubber.

Smalley was passed for the second time and Denny sacrificed him to second. VanMater singled to left, Abrams singled to center, Dunning singled to right and Townley hit safely to left. This assault was enough for the borough boys and gave them a seven run lead. Denny's two bagger was the only thing of importance in the seventh and in the eighth Conroy made a wonderful play. With one down and a man on second, Stevenson smashed a liner over the bag. Conroy made a dive and nabbed it one-handed and stepped on the bag making a double play unassisted. In the ninth, Voorhees and Lyon fanned, and Miller, batting for Garrigues flied to Dilts.

In the fourth inning Faber returned to the box but was relieved in the seventh by Stewart.

The borough team played a fine fielding game, only being guilty of one error, while the private school boys had eight chalked up against them. Stewart led the visitors batting assault with three out of his team's five hits. The home team gathered nine healthy swats.

ROD AND REEL

Dreamland pier is doomed and hundreds of fishermen are sad. The pier has been in bad shape since the fire and the winter gales put the finishing touches to its destruction. It will long be remembered as a great fishing station among the rod and line fraternity.

This is tough weather for outside fishing. An east wind is not conductive to good sport, but a northeaster is worse. All day yesterday the surf piled high along the shore, keeping the fish off in deep water.

Trout fishing is damp work these days, and it is useless to try for them without waders, and even then the fish are scarce, as they get away from the sight of the bait in avoiding the muddy water. A few weeks of clear weather is needed to bring the fishing back to where it belongs.

The surf fishermen are beginning to get ready for their work. Those chaps are very conservative and don't make any noise about the opening of their season, but once a member of the clan catches a fish he wigwags the news in some manner and soon they all know of it.

HEAVY HITTING WON ANOTHER VERDICT FOR PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL PLAYERS

The Plainfield High School baseball team added one more victory to its string yesterday afternoon by cleaning up with Woodbridge High School. The final score was 6 to 1. The field was in poor condition, being slippery around home plate and first base. The outfield was also poor, right field having about an inch of water over it. In the fifth inning the Woodbridge right fielder ran after a foul ball, but he slipped and instead of running after the ball he took a short swim, much to the pleasure of the grandstand. In view of the fact that the field was so poor, the game was remarkably free from errors. Plainfield High School made four and Woodbridge two. S. Minch and Brick were both in fine form. Sminch allowed but two hits in four innings and Brick did not allow any in five innings. Rosenson once more felt strong. He was the first man up in the second inning. The first ball Drummon served up to him was just to his liking and he leaned on it for a home run over the left field fence. O'Leary pulled off a pretty one-hand catch of Apgar's wild throw in the fourth inning and caught the man off second after he had overslid the base.

Plainfield's first run came in the second inning when Rosenson put the ball over the fence. They also scored again when Vesei dropped Apgar's last strike and he reached first base safely. He stole second and scored on Sminck's double to left field. Plainfield also scored in the fourth when Butler doubled to centre and scored on Vesei's passed ball. Another run came in when Van Deventer struck out but reached first when Vesei fumbled his last strike. He advanced to second and scored on Butler's single. The last runs scored by Plainfield came in the eighth inning. Victorson doubled to centre field. Brick hit to the pitcher and Victorson was caught at the plate. Van Deventer singled and came home on Rosenson's single. Advanced to third on a wild throw by Drummon and came home on a passed ball by Vesei.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Do I have to get a license to drive a wagon about town with a transparent sign on it? By a transparent sign I mean a sign on the side of the wagon with a light inside so that it will be made conspicuous? B. S. E.

Answer—No license is necessary.

Sporting Editor

Query—When a strikeout is recorded in a game of baseball does the pitcher get credited with an assist? J. Y. I.

Answer—We note that several local scorers have been doing this during the games played this season but it is incorrect. When a strikeout is made the catcher is credited with a putout and the pitcher with a strikeout but the latter gets no assist. If the catcher drops the ball and throws it to first on the third strike catching the runner at that base, the catcher gets an assist and the first baseman a putout.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will it be necessary for me to take out a registration card in the A. A. U. to enter the meet to be held on Parker Field, Decoration Day? V. S.

Answer—Yes you will have to take out the necessary credentials. Write to James E. Sullivan, 21 Warren street, New York city, enclosing twenty-five cents as a fee, and you will receive the required card.

Query—A says that college teams practice football all winter and spring; B says no. Who is right? K. T.

OFFICIAL RECORDS IN BATTING RACE

Captain Rosenson, of Plainfield High School, the Logical Leader.

HIGH SCHOOLS ARE TIED

Plainfield and North Plainfield Are Deadlocked in Batting and Standing—Some Hard Clouting Has Featured the Opening Games.

Thirty-one interscholastic ball tossers are now entered in the league race for the trophy offered to the champion batsman of the season and Captain Rosenson, of Plainfield High School, is leading the pack with a percentage of .750. Pitcher Dan Denny, of North Plainfield, possesses an average of 1,000 per cent., but he has faced a pitcher but once in the league race.

North Plainfield's victory yesterday brought that team up to an even footing with the Plainfield High School clan and by some peculiar coincidence the two rivals are also tied for batting honors with a percentage of .293 each. The records are still more significant because of the fact that each has pounded out nine hits out of thirty-one times at bat. In two games Leals has garnered but one more hit than the High School boys in their single performances.

Clouting out three hits in five trips to the rubber yesterday afternoon Dunning came within an ace of equaling Rosenson's mark and the race promises to be a close one between these rivals, leaders of their own school teams. Butler, Hetfield and Apgar, of P. H. S., are hitting in the .500 class.

Stewart is leading Leals and also occupies eighth place in the standing for the trophy. Captain Faber is a runner-up to Stewart on the Leal team, while VanMater is running close to Dunning on the N. P. H. S. side.

SPEEDY AGGREGATION ON SOMERVILLE LOT

Opening Game Scheduled to Be Staged Next Saturday Afternoon.

Somerville will open its baseball season Saturday afternoon with the Westfield team as its opponents. Manager Parker has organized one of the speediest combinations that has represented that town in a number of years and the opening tilt promises to bring out all of the well-known Somerset county enthusiasm. The backers of baseball in that town have been waiting for this opportunity for some time and their expectations are of a high order.

Parker has signed many of the veterans and a number of new stars who give promise of being of the bolstering variety. Among the new faces will be that of Etts, former backstop of the Haverhill team of the New England League. He is at present living in Somerville and secured his release from organized baseball owing to the illness of his wife. He will perform at shortstop and Legge, another new man will cavort around first base. Purcell will divide his time between first base and right field while Frezza, the little Bound Brook High School player of two years ago will engage in a canter between the keystone sack and center field, playing part of a game at each station.

Lou Dixon, the Plainfielder who played at Dunellen last year, will catch for Somerville, and Eddie Kraft has been re-engaged as slab artist. It is said that Eddie is in fine fettle just now and expects to tame the Mt. Ararat crew with ease. Mattoe, a native Somervillian, will play second, and Hickey, a fellow townsman, will divide honors with him at that station. Conti, the slugging third baseman is back in the fold and will be at the usual stopping off place Saturday. Cunningham and Walker will play left and center respectively.

Manager Parker has scheduled Pennington to play at Somerville on May 23 and will entertain Dunellen in the latter's opening game on Decoration Day. Somerville appears here on June 6.

BARNUM AND BAILEY CIRCUS TO BE HERE TOMORROW

one hundred and fifty bushels of corn, fifty bushels of bran, one and one-half carcasses of beef and seven hundred pounds of vegetables for the animals. Six tons of straw are required for bedding.

"Foodstuffs for the 1,500 men and women include 300 pounds of beef, 150 pounds of mutton, 200 pounds of pork, 550 chickens, 800 loaves of bread, half a barrel of syrup, 72 cases of eggs, 92 gallons of milk, 700 pounds of butter, 1,400 pounds of fish, 25 bushels of fruit, 35 bushels of potatoes, 250 pies and 150 quarts of ice cream. Sixty dining-room attendants serve this varied bill of fare, and the high salaried chef has a corps of eight assistants. The pastry cook has six assistants.

"The circus is housed under twenty acres of canvas. In this world within a world there are secret service men to guard the interests of the circus and its patrons; a Red Cross department to care for the sick and injured; a chemist who supervises a drug store; a lawyer to attend to the various legal difficulties that may confront; harness, carpenter, blacksmith, wagon, paint and barber shops and a postoffice department. Every phase of life is cared for within the circus boundaries."

The Barnum & Bailey parade tomorrow morning will amaze all onlookers. It is confidently promised by the press representative. It has made a big, special, individual feature of the routine, and one upon which very effort has been concentrated to create a pageant unprecedented in the long history of the circus. It is scheduled to move from the show grounds at 10 o'clock, and will provide a glorious foretaste of the wonders that await under canvas at the encampment.

Six bands will yield stirring melody. Herds of elephants, camels, zebras, llamas and alpacas will tread the route. The uplifted sides of a score of cages will disclose rare and curious captives from forest, field and jungle. The vehicular equipment is described as a triumph of builder and decorator. Scores of the prettiest dancing girls of the country will be atop, gallantly escorted by the knights of the arena. Clown cut-ups will turn out in ludicrous assortment of rolling stock. Every variety of thoroughbred horse, royally caparisoned, will be proudly presented.

The circus performances will be given at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock at night. The entrance will be open an hour earlier to receive the crowds eager to view the Barnum & Bailey zoological exhibit, which is probably the most complete and accurate in the world. Four giraffes, so rare that only two of the municipal zoos of the country now contain specimens, the "bloodsweating" hippopotamus and the two-horned rhinoceros are included.

The romantic spectacle, "The Wizard Prince of Arabia," is the most striking departure of the circus program. More than one thousand persons and hundreds of elephants, horses and camels participate. The corps de ballet introduces three hundred dancing belles, trained by Ottokar Bartik, famous master of the dance. The scenic equipment is the most massive and pretentious in the history of the cirus's pantomimic undertakings and the costumes make a record in dazzling variety and magnificence.

Assurance is given that the ensuing entertainment in the three rings, on the four stages, in the wilderness of aerial rigging and on the vast hippodrome oval will introduce only masters and mistresses of diversified athletic activity.

For the convenience of all who desire to avoid the crowds and clamor at the show grounds, tickets will be on sale for both performances all day tomorrow at E. A. Laing's stationery store. The prices will be the same as at the regular ticket wagons at the scene of the circus.

ANNUAL DINNER FOR HOME DEPARTMENT

Many Attended Social Event Held in Parlors of First Presbyterian Church.

The annual dinner of the teachers, officers and members of the home department of the First Presbyterian church was held in the church parlors last night. There were ninety-six present. After the dinner the guests adjourned to the church auditorium and heard an illustrated lecture on "Salonica and Vanity," given by Rev. Lewis Bond, superintendent of the home department. Mr. Bond was a missionary in Salonica for many years and gave an interesting talk which was made more enjoyable by the pictures. He exhibited about fifty colored slides. After the lecture a social hour was held in the church.

Those who assisted in serving the dinner were Ray Boise, James Hermann, William Peacock, William Smith, Franklin Lowe, Warren Townley and Frank Dunning.

Secretary Bryan says the United States would be willing to leave Lobos Island if the federals promised to keep the lighthouse burning.

President Wilson promises representatives of oil interests in Tampico that, whatever the outcome of the battle there, he will endeavor to obtain from the victors assurances that the gushers will be protected.

Secretary Bryan, through the Brazilian minister, asks Huerta what became of Parks, the United States orderly who is reported to have been put to death in the Mexican lines.

New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and other cities pay tributes to the men who were killed in Vera Cruz

Washington, May 14.—Tampico has fallen and is now occupied by the Constitutionalists. The federal forces evacuated the city and are retreating over the National Railroad of Mexico toward San Luis Potosi, where Huerta probably will make his next stand against the successful advance of the troops of Carranza and Villa toward Mexico City.

The fall of Tampico was the outcome of one of the most decisive battles of the Mexican revolution. It marks, too, one of the most important strategic victories that the Constitutionalists have gained. It gives them an important port on the gulf of Mexico, the first they have had; it puts into their hands the most valuable oil field in all Mexico, and it opens up a source of revenue through the customs collections. It also gives them an important new base for their preparations for the march on to Mexico City. Military experts here say, though, that it will be at least six weeks before Carranza and his followers could hope to penetrate from Tampico on to the capital of the republic.

Reports indicate that the losses on both sides had been heavy. Admiral Mayo reported to Admiral Badger early, who cabled the state department as follows:

"Fighting nearly over. The federals evacuate via the railroad. Gunboats not yet moved."

Shortly after this Admiral Mayo reported the two federal gunboats the Bravo and Zaragosa, the main dependence of the Huerta forces at Tampico, left the city and steamed out into the harbor, where they anchored near the ships of war of other nations.

Complete Victory Reported.

The last skirmish occurred in the plaza of the city, Admiral Mayo reported. In the latest dispatch received through Admiral Badger he reported as follows:

"The rebels have occupied Tampico. Heavy rifle fire in the plaza and also heavy guns ashore continuing."

The navy department interpreted these dispatches as indicating a complete victory for the rebels.

The story of the investment and concerted attack upon the federal stronghold of Tampico as told in the dispatches to the navy department indicates that only within the last twenty-four hours has the augmented artillery force of the Constitutionalists been brought into action.

Rear Admiral Mayo reported that there had been continuous rifle fire and artillery firing all day, but later it was explained that only one field gun was used by the rebels. There was cessation of firing for awhile, but it was resumed with redoubled violence. More guns had been brought into play apparently, and a portion of the federals' defensive intrenchments were reported occupied by the advancing Constitutionalists. Later the Constitutionalists were driven from their advanced position by the defenders.

The casualties on both sides in the fighting on Tuesday are said to have been many, and a shortage of ammunition was reported as existing on the federal side.

The federal position at Tampico was well fortified naturally and provided the greatest stumbling block in the entire Constitutionalist campaign. Surrounded on three sides by the river and partially cut off on the other side by a lake, only a narrow neck of land remained to be defended against the attack of infantry or cavalry. It is at this point that the Constitutionalists concentrated their attack.

With the concentration of both armies on this narrow strip of land, where it is almost impossible for rifle shots not to be effective, the casualties would probably be heavy. The number has not been estimated.

Weather Forecast.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

A CHARMING LUNCHEON CLOTH

Luncheon-cloths are a great saving to the large table-cloths and are so much easier to handle that they are very popular with the housekeeper. A charming one may be made of firm round-thread linen or damask and decorated with a bit of hand embroidery. The butterflies, illustrated here, are from pattern No. 14049 which includes 36 butterflies in several sizes arranged to be used in sets. These butterflies may be developed in solid work, eyelets and outline-stitch in white mercerized cotton. One or more rows of hemstitching may be used to connect these motifs, which are placed in the corners of this luncheon-cloth. The edge of the cloth may be finished with a hemstitched hem.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers for 10 cents.

TO HER.

(By Margaret E. Sangster, Jr.)

We see the place where she used to stand,
We hear her step on the stair;
Her face smiles back from the mirror deep;
None sits in her empty chair.
But we smile through a thickening mist of tears,
And we know she is safe above,
By the spotless throne where the Master reigns,
For she knew that her God was Love.

Her presence is with us in the day,
She guards our beds through the night;
When we sit in the gloaming, she comes to us
With the mist of the waning light.
But her place is empty—'twill ne'er be filled
By another. And, safe above
The angel band has another soul
To worship the God of Love.

A NEIGHBORHOOD PROBLEM.

Dr. O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin declares the problem of "homework" to be one of the neighborhood and the only solution is the co-operation of parents. A meeting should be held and certain hours agreed upon for home study for all children. Then there will be no appeal of the crowd. Dr. O'Shea says that the things of the community are taking the children out of the home more and more; that they are literally never alone; that through the agency of the telephone they are in constant communication even to the extent of giving assistance with lessons.

THE CHILDREN'S BUREAU.

It is reported in the newspapers that there is a plan afoot among certain politicians at Washington to so reduce the appropriation for the work that the "Children Bureau" will be to all intents and purposes nothing but a name. And this because the woman at the head of the bureau (Miss Lathrop) has persistently refused to employ anyone for political reasons but has surrounded herself with a staff fitted for the work. Some who are interested have already written their congressmen calling their attention to the situation.

MAKING THE BEST OF ANGER.

Dr. G. Stanley Hall says: "Only weaklings are incapable of anger, and righteous indignation has done much of the best work in the world. But as with love, pity and fear, a large part of the education of the heart consists in directing it aright or against objects worthy of it. These psychic storms sometimes seem to clear the mental air, give a sense of strength and a keener appreciation of justice, and prompt cowards to be heroes. If too repressed, righteous indignation may turn to sourness and sulks, and the disposition be spoiled. Hence the relief and exhilaration of an outbreak that often clears the psychic atmosphere like a thunderstorm, and gives the peace that passes understanding. A strong temper well controlled and kept in leash makes a kinetic (active) character; but in view of bullying, unfair play, cruel injustice to the weak and defenceless, outrageous wrong that the law cannot reach, patience and forbearance may cease to be virtues and summary redress may be a distinct advantage to the ethical nature of man and to social order, and the strenuous soul must fight or grow stagnant or flabby."

The essential goods to be striven for in the development and government of the anger instinct are these:

1st. That tension of the body and mind which keeps the life at the highest standard of endeavor and ambition.

2nd. The zest which acts as a motive power to keep the tension taut.

3rd. A wise mastery of one's self and of others.

4th. The capacity of moral indignation and of strong resistance against wrong.

5th. That self-respect which defends one's character and reputation, and the character and reputation of one's family and friends from malignancy and peril.

NEW WEDDING GOWNS ARE SIMPLE, WITH LITTLE DRAPING

Vogue Says: "The new wedding gowns are, as always, very simple in line, with little draping and little tendency to flare. Many are made with long, tight sleeves, and when these sleeves are of very sheer tulle no gloves are worn. Occasionally sleeves are elbow length, but never by any chance is there a frill at the elbow. The effect must be that of a long, tight sleeve or of a long, tight glove.

"Although the bride's dress has very little fullness, her veil is most voluminous. It may be of plain tulle held in place by a fillet of orange blossoms, of tulle bordered with lace—either set on straight or frilled—or it may be all of lace; but it never veils the face. The nearest the modern bride comes to a veil which really veils is in the wearing of such a one as that ordered by Miss Willard, daughter of the American Ambassador to Spain. It was designed by Lucille, and the idea will probably be taken up by many of the spring brides. The veil was of sheerest tulle bordered with a frill of lace and was drawn just low enough over the forehead to veil the eyes. It was held in place by a fillet of orange blossoms which was drawn across the back of the head.

"Miss Willard's gown was of white satin veiled with point d'Angleterre, and in contrast to the mode for trainless wedding gowns had two trains. A very elaborate court train four meters long hung from the shoulders, and in addition to this there was another short train on the skirt itself. The court train, which was lined with lace and dotted with bouquets of orange blossoms, looked very pretty when the pages lifted it. The gown was simple, was draped in pannier effect in the back, and had elbow-length kimona sleeves. A garland of orange blossoms encircles the waist.

"Miss Willard's bridesmaids wore gowns of white tulle, designed by Lucille. The long tunic which was of tulle so sheer that it scarcely veiled the narrow satin skirt was bordered with a heavy ruche of tulle which gave it a decided flare."

LADIES' NIGHT LECTURE.

Emerson E. Parvin, of this city, secretary of the International Merchant Marine Company, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Little Kingdom of the Rich," in the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, tomorrow night. The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Men's Association and will be in the nature of a ladies' night, the women friends of the organization being especially invited. Refreshments will be served in conclusion.

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

CHAPTER XXV.

Waitstill Speaks Her Mind.

THOUGH the two girls had never made any demonstration of their affection in his presence, Deacon Baxter had a fair idea of their mutual dependence upon each other; not that he placed the slightest value on Waitstill's opinion of him or cared in the smallest degree what she or any one else in the universe thought of his conduct, but she certainly did appear to advantage when contrasted with the pert little hussy who had just left the premises; also Waitstill loomed large in his household comforts and economies, having a clear head, a sure hand and being one of the steady going, reliable sort that can be counted on in emergencies, not, like Patty, going off at half cock at the smallest provocation. Yes, Waitstill, as a product of his masterly training for the last seven years, had settled down, not without some trouble and friction, into a tolerably dependable pack horse, and he intended in the future to use some care in making permanent so valuable an aid and ally. She did not pursue nor attract the opposite sex, as his younger daughter apparently did; so by continuing his policy of keeping all young men rigidly at a distance he could count confidently on having Waitstill serve his purposes for the next fifteen or twenty years or as long as he himself should continue to ornament and enrich the earth.

He would go to Saco the very next day and cut Patty out of his will, arranging his property so that Waitstill should be the chief legatee as long as she continued to live obediently under his roof. He intended to make the last point clear if he had to consult every lawyer in York county, for he wouldn't take risks on any woman alive. If he must leave his money anywhere—and it was with a bitter pang that he faced the inexorable conviction that he could neither live forever nor take his savings with him to the realms of bliss prepared for members of the orthodox church in good and regular standing—if he must leave his money behind him, he would dig a hole in the ground and bury it rather than let it go to any one who had angered him in his lifetime.

These were the thoughts that caused him to relax his iron grip and smile as he sat by the window smoking his corncob pipe and taking one of his very rare periods of rest.

Presently he glanced at the clock. "It's only quarter past 4," he said. "I thought 't was later, but the snow makes it so light you can't jedge the time. The moon fulls tonight, don't it? Yes; come to think of it, I know it does. Ain't you settin' out supper a little mite early, Waitstill?"

This was a longer and more amiable speech than he had made in years, but Waitstill never glanced at him as she said: "It is a little early, but I want to get it ready before I leave."

"Be you goin' out? Mind, I won't have you follerin' Patience round. You'll only upset what I've done, an' anyhow I want you to keep away from the neighbors for a few days, till all this blows over."

He spoke firmly, though for him mildly, for he still had the uneasy feeling that he stood on the brink of a volcano, and, as a matter of fact, he tumbled into it the very next moment.

The meager supper was spread—a plate of cold soda biscuits, a dried apple pie and the usual brown teapot were in evidence, and as her father ceased speaking Waitstill opened the door of the brick oven where the bean pot reposed, set a chair by the table, and turning, took up her coat (her mother's old riding cloak, it was), and calmly put it on, reaching then for her hood and her squirrel tippet.

"You are goin' out, then, spite o' what I said?" the deacon inquired sternly.

"Did you really think, father, that I would sleep under your roof after you had turned my sister out into the snow to lodge with whoever might take her in—my seventeen-year-old sister that your wife left to my care; my little sister, the very light of my life?"

Waitstill's voice trembled a trifle, but otherwise she was quite calm and free from heroics of any sort.

The deacon looked up in surprise. "I guess you're kind o' hystericky," he said. "Set down—set down an' talk things over. I ain't got nothin' ag'in you, an' I mean to treat you right. Set down."

The old man was decidedly nervous and intended to keep his temper until there was a safer chance to let it fly.

Waitstill sat down. "There's nothing to talk over," she said. "I have done all that I promised my stepmother the night she died, and now I am going. If there's a duty owed between daughter and father it ought to work both ways. I consider that I have done my share, and now I intend to seek happiness for myself. I have never had any, and I am starving for it."

"An' you'd leave me to git on the best I can after what I've done for you?" burst out the deacon, still trying to hold down his growing passion.

"You gave me my life, and I'm thankful to you for that, but you've given me little since, father."

"Hain't I fed an' clothed you?"

"No more than I have fed and clothed you. You've provided the raw food, and I've cooked and served it. You've bought cloth, and I have made shirts and overalls and coats for you and knitted your socks and comforters and mittens. Not only have I toiled and saved and scrimped away my girlhood as you bade me, but I've earned for you. Who made the butter and took care of the hens and dried the apples and 'drew in' the rugs? Who raised and ground the peppers for sale and tended the geese that you might sell the feathers? No, father, I don't consider that I'm in your debt."

Deacon Foxwell Baxter was completely nonplused for the first time in his life. He had never allowed "argyfyin'" in his household, and there had never been a clash of wills before this when he had not come off swiftly and brutally triumphant. This situation was complicated by the fact that he did not dare to apply the brakes as usual since there were more issues involved than ever before. He felt too stunned to deal properly with this daughter, having emptied all the vials of his wrath upon the other one and being, in consequence, somewhat enfeebled. It was always easy enough to cope with Patty, for her impertinence evoked such rage that the argument took care of itself, but this grave young woman was a different matter. There she sat composedly on the edge of her wooden chair, her head lifted high, her color coming and going, her eyes shining steadily like fixed stars; there she sat, calmly announcing her intention of leaving her father to shift for himself. Yet the skies seemed to have no thought of falling. He felt that he must make another effort to assert his authority.

"Now, you take off your coat," he said, the pipe in his hand trembling as he stirred nervously in his chair. "You take your coat right off an' set down to the supper table same as usual, do you hear? Eat your victuals an' then go to your bed an' git over this crazy fit that Patience has started workin' in you. No more nonsense now! Do as I tell you!"

"I have made up my mind, father, and it's no use arguing. All who try to live with you fail sooner or later. You have had four children, father. One boy ran away; the other did not mind being drowned, I fear, since life was so hard at home. You have just turned the third child out for a sin of deceit and disobedience she would never have committed—for her nature is as clear as crystal—if you had ever loved her or considered her happiness. So I have done with you, unless in your old age God should bring you to such a pass that no one else will come to your assistance; then I'd see somehow that you were cared for and nursed and made comfortable. You are not an old man; you are strong and healthy, and you have plenty of money to get a good housekeeper. I should decide differently perhaps if all this were not true."

"You lie! I haven't got plenty of money!" And the deacon struck the table a sudden blow that made the china in the cupboard rattle. "You've no notion what this house costs me, an' the food for the stock, an' you two girls, an' labor at the store, an' the hayfield, an' the taxes an' insurance! I've slaved from sunrise to sunset, but I ain't hardly been able to lay up a cent. I s'pose the neighbors have been fillin' you full o' tales about my mis'able little savin's an' makin' 'em into a fortune. Well, you won't git any of 'em, I promise you that!"

"You have plenty laid away. Everybody knows, so what's the use of denying it? Anyway, I don't want a penny of your money, father; so good-by. There's enough cooked to keep you for a couple of days," and Waitstill rose from her chair and drew on her mittens.

Father and daughter confronted each other, the secret fury of the man met by the steady determination of the girl. The deacon was baffled, almost awed, by Waitstill's quiet self control, but at the very moment that he was half uncomprehendingly glaring at her, it dawned upon him that he was beaten, and that she was mistress of the situation.

Where would she go? What were her plans? For definite plans she had, or she could not meet his eye with so resolute a gaze. If she did leave him how could he contrive to get her back again and so escape the scorn of the village, the averted look, the lessened trade?

"Where are you goin' now?" he asked, and though he tried his best, he could not for the life of him keep back one final taunt. "I s'pose, like your sister, you've got a man in your eye?" He chose this, to him, impossible suggestion as being the most insulting one that he could invent at the moment.

"I have," replied Waitstill, "a man in my eye and in my heart. We should have been husband and wife before this had we not been kept apart by obstacles too stubborn for us to overcome. My way has chanced to open first, though it was none of my contriving."

Had the roof fallen in upon him the deacon could not have been more dumfounded. His tongue literally clove to the roof of his mouth. His face fell, and his mean, piercing eyes blinked under his shaggy brows as if seeking light.

Waitstill stirred the fire, closed the brick oven and put the teapot on the back of the stove, hung up the long handled dipper on its accustomed nail over the sink and went to the door.

Her father collected his scattered wits and pulled himself to his feet by the arms of the high backed rocker. "You shan't step outside this room till you tell me where you're goin'," he said when he found his voice.

"I have no wish to keep it secret. I am going to see if Mrs. Mason will keep me tonight. Tomorrow I shall walk down the river and get work at the mills, but on my way I shall stop at the Boyntons' to tell Ivory I am ready to marry him as soon as he's ready to take me."

This was enough to stir the blood of the deacon into one last fury.

"I might have guessed it if I hadn't been blind as a bat an' deaf as an adder!" And he gave the table another ringing blow before he leaned on it to gather strength. "Of course it would be one o' that crazy Boynton crew you'd take up with!" he roared. "Nothin' would suit either o' you girls but choosin' the biggest enemies I've got in the whole village!"

"You've never taken pains to make anything but enemies, so what could we do?"

"You might as well go to live on the poor farm! Aaron Boynton was a disrep'table hound, Lois Boynton is as crazy as a loon, the boy is a nobody's child, an' Ivory's no better than a common pauper!"

"Ivory's a brave, strong, honorable man and a scholar too. I can work for him and help him earn and save, as I have you."

"How long's this been goin' on?" The deacon was choking, but he meant to get to the bottom of things while he had the chance.

"It hasn't gone on at all. He has never said a word to me, and I have always obeyed your will in these matters, but you can't hide love any more than you can hide hate. I know Ivory loves me, so I'm going to tell him that my duty is done here and I am ready to help him."

"Goin' to throw yourself at his head, be you?" sneered the deacon. "By the Lord, I don't know where you two girls got these loose ways o' thinkin' an' actin'. Mebbe he won't take you, an' then where'll you be? You won't git under my roof again when you've once left it, you can make up your mind to that!"

"If you have any doubts about Ivory's being willing to take me you'd better drive along behind me and listen while I ask him."

Waitstill's tone had an exultant thrill of certainty in it. She threw up her head, glorying in what she was about to do. If she laid aside her usual reserve and voiced her thoughts openly it was not in the hope of convincing her father, but for the bliss of putting them into words and intoxicating herself by the sound of them.

"Come after me if you will, father, and watch the welcome I shall get. Oh, I have no fear of being turned out by Ivory Boynton. I can hardly wait to give him the joy I shall be bringing! It's selfish to rob him of the chance to speak first, but I'll do it!" And before Deacon Baxter could cross the room Waitstill was out of the kitchen door into the shed and flying down Town House hill like an arrow shot free from the bow.

The deacon followed close behind, hardly knowing why, but he was no match for the girl, and at last he stood helpless on the steps of the shed, shaking his fist and hurling terrible words after her, words that it was fortunate for her peace of mind she could not hear.

"A curse upon you both!" he cried savagely. "Not satisfied with disobeyin' an' defyin' me, you've put me to shame, an' now you'll be settin' the neighbors ag'in me an' ruinin' my trade. If you was freezin' in the snow I wouldn't heave a blanket to you! If you was starvin' I wouldn't fling either of you a crust! Never shall you darken my doors again, an' never shall you git a penny o' my money, not if I have to throw it into the river to spite you!"

Here his breath failed, and he stumbled out into the barn whimpering between his broken sentences like a whipped child.

"Here I am with nobody to milk, nor feed the hens; nobody to churn tomorrow, nor do the chores; a poor, mis'able creeter, deserted by my children, with nobody to do a hand's turn 'thout bein' paid for every step they take! I'll give 'em what they deserve. I don' know what, but I'll be even with 'em yet." And the deacon set his Baxter jaw in a way that meant his determination to stop at nothing.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CHERRIES IN PASTRY.

DINNER MENU.
Bouillon. Wafers.
Pot Roast of Beef. Browned Potatoes. Gravy.
Creamed Corn. Cauliflower.
Cottage Cheese Salad.
Floating Island. Cherry Pie With Cheese.
Tea. Coffee. Milk.

THE popular way of serving cherries is, of course, in pies, but rolls, tarts, puffs and puddings are also nice.

Cherry Pie.—Line the pie plate with good crust, fill with cherries, sweeten with about two-thirds of a cupful of sugar and sprinkle over two teaspoonsful of flour. Wet the edge of the under crust to prevent juice from running out, cross the top with strips of pie paste and bake.

A Roll For Variety.

Baked Cherry Roll.—Take a sheet of rich pastry, roll out and cover with stoned cherries; sprinkle with sugar, roll up and place in a baking dish and bake in a hot oven until brown. Serve hot with sauce. Make a cream sauce, using any juice you may have from the cherries and some of the fruit.

Open Cherry Tarts.—Prepare some good short pastry and make a sirup with half a pint of water and one-half a pound of sugar. Boil this for twenty minutes. Place the cherries in this and heat them through. Place these in the pastry already lining a pie plate and bake for twenty minutes to half an hour. Pour more sirup on top when done and allow all to cool.

A Favorite Dish.

Cherry Brown Betty.—In a buttered pudding dish arrange alternate layers of stoned cherries and breadcrumbs, seasoning each layer with bits of butter, a tablespoonful of sugar and a pinch each of ground cinnamon and nutmeg. When the dish is filled add a sirup made from a tablespoonful of water and two of sugar, cover the top with crumbs and, after placing the dish in a pan of boiling water, cook for about an hour in a moderate oven. Serve accompanied by hard sauce.

Cherry Cups.—Sift together a pint of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a pinch of salt, third of a cupful of sugar and then rub in two tablespoonfuls of shortening. Mix with water to a drop batter. Butter deep individual baking cups or dishes well and drop in a teaspoonful of the batter, then a tablespoonful of cherries, then another spoonful of the batter, allowing space in the cups for the pudding to puff up well. Put them in a steamer or in a pan of hot water and place in the oven. Cover and steam. Serve with cherry sauce.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How the Little Pigs Enjoyed the Clouds.

Off In the Air They Went.

STRANGELY enough, daddy had never told the children a story about an airship, and certainly, he said to himself, another story must not be told about anything before he told an aeroplane story.

Jack loved to get hold of all the pictures he could to see just how the aeroplanes did look and how they really did fly. So when daddy told them he had an aeroplane story for them both Jack and Evelyn were delighted.

"I am going to tell you this evening," said daddy, "a story about three little pigs and their ride in an airship.

"There was a young man who owned an airship. But besides this he also had a small farm, and three little young pigs had just been added to it.

"The young man thought the little pigs were so cunning that he hardly wanted to leave them, even for his airship, of which, of course, he was very fond. So the only thing left for him to do, he decided, was to take the little pigs for a trip in the airship.

"When he asked the little pigs if they would like to fly with him they did look very much surprised, but as they didn't know what to say they gave their usual answer of a squeal, but it sounded like a strong and enthusiastic squeal. So he picked them up and put them into the waiting airship.

"So off into the air, up near the clouds, they went. The little pigs were not at all frightened, and they seemed to like the clouds. The young man decided that they must like extreme things, for they liked to get under the earth, and they seemed to very much enjoy getting way up in the air.

"Of course they squealed, but they squealed for joy, and they were just as good as could be.

"When they got to the earth again after a good, long trip they really seemed to be very much disappointed that such a fine trip had come to an end.

"Then when they got to the barnyard once more you should have heard the noise. Of course the pigs had to tell all the other animals about their trip, and the more they talked the louder were their voices.

"Of course they wanted to brag to the other animals of how much more of the world they had seen than any of them, for, though, you might not believe it to be so, pigs are really very conceited."

"Well," said Jack, "I would be pretty proud myself if I had ever been up in an airship."

"So would I," of course agreed Evelyn.

"Well," laughed daddy, "then the pigs win, for they did see the clouds, and we agree that it wasn't conceited of them to be proud of their trip."

DEFECT OF NEW LAW IS SHOWN

No Majority For Successful Irvington Candidates.

BAD DEFEAT FOR ADVOCATES

Clearly Demonstrated That Candidates Cannot Be Elected by Majorities Under Preferential Voting System Provided by Walsh Act—High Man Gets 165 Less Than Majority.

Irvington, N. J., May 14.—That candidates cannot be elected by majorities under the prefetential voting system provided by the Walsh act was clearly demonstrated here when the town voted for its five commissioners. This is a severe defeat for advocates of the new form of government who had contended that the preferential vote would insure the election of men by majority vote.

Not one of the five commissioners received a majority. The high man, former Town Clerk Mahlon Stockman, received 165 votes less than a majority. A total of 2,044 votes were cast. Seventy-two were voided, leaving 1,972 valid ballots. A majority vote would have been 987.

Official returns compiled by Town Clerk John W. Welman were made public.

The new commissioners and their respective vote follows: Mr. Stockman, 822; Councilman Leonard Setaro, 807; Tax Collector Harry J. Stanley, 741; Mayor David H. Greene, 645; former Mayor William L. Glorieux, 616.

The election failed to break up party lines, as each winner is a Republican.

Mr. Glorieux and former School Commissioner Edward R. Folsom figured in a close race for fifth position, the former winning out by six votes. Mr. Glorieux carried the First ward by ten votes and added sixty-two more in his own ward, the Second. Mr. Folsom's own ward, the Third, gave him sixty-six votes over Mr. Glorieux, while seventy-three were needed to insure him the victory.

Councilman Setaro made a phenomenal run, almost equaling the vote of Mr. Stockman, to whom election had been conceded several weeks ago.

Little trouble was experienced by the voters in marking their ballots. The total vote includes all the four choices expressed by the voters. The five winners combined received about 475 second choice votes, 125 third choice votes and 30 other choice votes.

ENLIST, GET FULL PAY.

Essex County Vote to Continue Salaries of Employees.

Newark, N. J., May 14.—The board of freeholders at its meeting put through a resolution to the effect that if the United States finds it necessary to go to war with Mexico all Essex county's employees who may volunteer or be called upon for duty will get their full pay from the county.

Freeholder William Cardwell of East Orange introduced the resolution, which provided for the leave of absence with pay for any county employee who might go to war.

Freeholder Richard F. Lattia contended the board might get into legal difficulties because of the civil service order as to the drawing of two salaries, one as a soldier and one as a county official.

Cardwell said he was willing to take a chance on the legality of the resolution.

SUICIDE FOLLOWS QUARREL.

Camden Youth, Reproved For Drinking, Ends Life.

Camden, N. J., May 14.—Following a quarrel with his parents over a prolonged drinking spell, Louis Dungen, twenty years old, went to the second floor of his father's home and committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart.

The suicide's father, hearing the shots, rushed up the stairs and, bursting the door open, found his son stretched across the floor, dead.

STATE NOTES.

The Newark authorities are investigating the circumstances of a violent explosion which shook the private bank of Matteo Parisi at 198 Bruce street.

When a fast freight train crashed into five empty passenger coaches at the Alene station at Roselle Park two of the crew of the freight were seriously injured.

Walter Sinn committed suicide in the basement of his home at 311 Park avenue, Hoboken, after grieving for a month over the death of his mother. He drank carbolic acid.

Two more cases of scarlet fever were reported to the Millburn township board of health, and it is feared the epidemic may spread. The Wyoming school has been closed.

Mrs. George Sprague, wife of a Forked River life saver, died at her home from burns received after lighting a fire in a stove. Captain Louis Sprague, Mrs. Sprague's father-in-law, was also burned.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color. Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents, a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

STORES TO CLOSE DECORATION DAY

Business Men's Association Last Night Adopted Schedule for All Holidays.

MANY AT THE MEETING

Merchants Body, Ater Long Debate Fixes Finally Upon Just How Holidays will be Observed—To Have Membership Campaign.

Final determination to close all of the leading stores in the city on Decoration Day, Saturday, May 30, was reached at a special meeting of the Plainfield Business Men's Association held last night in the Frost building. Not only was the matter for the holiday this month settled, but a schedule of holiday observance for the rest of the year was adopted and members were pledged to bind themselves by the action taken. There was a very brief discussion of the Saturday half-holiday movement which has been started by the members of the civic committee of the College Club, but no formal action was taken regarding that matter.

Practically every leading business man in the city was present at last nights session, and there was a frank and free discussion of the Decoration Day matter for an hour and a half before the passage of a resolution offered by Herbert Schuldenfrei, manager of the Woodhull & Martin Company that a resolution passed February 2, fixing holidays for the year, be made binding upon the members, instead of optional. This schedule is as follows:

January 1—Closed all day, open night before.

February 12—Open half day, and closed night before, except when Lincoln's Birthday falls on a Saturday, when the stores will be open all day as usual.

February 22—Closed all day, and open the night before, except when Washington's Birthday falls on a Saturday, when the stores will be open all day as usual.

May 30—Closed all day and open night before.

July 4—Closed all day and open night before.

Labor Day—Closed all day.

Election Day—Open all day and closed night before.

Thanksgiving—Closed all day and open night before.

Christmas—Closed all day and open night before.

Stores will remain open evenings from December 15 until Christmas.

During the evening, President A. E. Force expressed himself as much pleased with the splendid turn out of merchants, and said that it spoke well for the future of the organization. A determined campaign to increase the membership was decided upon, and Mr. Force called for a volunteer committee to do this work. M. C. VanArsdale, Harry DeMeza, A. E. Force, Jacob A. Fass, Herbert Schuldenfrei and Mr. Schermerhorn of the Woolworth stores voulnteered to serve, and Mr. VanArsdale was named as chairman by Mr. Force.

J. J. Varley told of the progressive work being done by the Somerville Merchants' Association, at the meeting of which a delegation from the Plainfield Business Men's Association had been present the night before, and Mr. Force said that he hoped that Plainfield would profit by the example set by that lively little organization.

President Jeffery, of the Board of Trade, invited all of the business men present to attend the June meeting of his organization, which will be addressed by Frank Bergen, and possibly by former Governor J. Franklin Fort.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER L. HETFIELD, JR., ENTERTAIN

Assistant Corporation Counsel and Mrs. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of East Second street, entertained a company of sixteen friends at their home, last evening, at a "500" party which was followed by dancing, which was one of the enjoyable features of the affair. Following the games honors for the women were awarded to Mrs. Robert Gow and Mrs. Edward A. Laing, and for the men to Robert Giddis and H. P. Smith.

After playing "500," the guests enjoyed dancing until a late hour, and during an intermission refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Hetfield provided delightful entertainment throughout the evening, their hospitality being a marked feature.

TENTMEN DRIVING STAKE

Business is practically at a standstill this afternoon, except at the Barnum & Bailey circus lot, at East Front street and Raymond avenue. Thousands of people lined the streets this morning for the parade, coming from all parts of Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties, and the big top was well filled when the show started at two this afternoon.

From early morning strangers were on the streets, or at the show lot, watching the circus people at work preparing for the big day, the first section of the circus train having arrived in the city at daylight.

Merely as an amusement enterprise the Barnum & Bailey show, the greatest showmen in the country today, has not its greatest charm for many men and women who were watching the work this morning. It is as a highly systematized and brilliantly managed business organization that more than passing interest is created with many people, who feel that they have outgrown the days of wanting to see a circus merely because it is a circus.

Long before daylight this morning many a small boy, with no thought of lessons disturbing his mind, slipped into his trousers with an alacrity that would have been entirely missing had he been called out of bed to get ready for school. By daylight he and his smaller brother, a good many sisters and some grown-ups were at the freight yards to watch the show unload. If the boy happened to reach the Richmond street yard before the first show train arrived, he was all impatience until he heard the whistle down the track from Trenton way, and saw the first section backed into the yard.

Out from the sleeping cars tumbled the circus roustabouts, rubbing the sleep from their eyes and jumping to obey the orders of the transportation master. Wooden runways sprouted

SILVER ANNIVERSARY OF EPWORTH LEAGUE

Local Chapters Mark Founding of Organization With Special Program.

The silver anniversary of the founding of the Epworth League movement of the Methodist church was observed last evening at the First Methodist church, when members of the leagues of the three churches gathered to celebrate the occasion. A musical and literary program was given by members of the various leagues.

S. H. Tugwell, Walter McGee, and G. A. Horne made short addresses, dwelling largely on the history of the movement and relating many interesting events of the local chapters. The program was in charge of the social service committee of the First church, of which Miss Helen Joy is chairman.

The Epworth League is the outgrowth of the old Oxford League movement, and was started at Cleveland in 1889. Rev. Jesse Lyman Hurlbert, who residing in this city at the time, was responsible for the organization of a local league which secured charter number one.

CONDITION IMPROVED.

Mrs. Katherine Stites, the victim of Sunday's shooting affair in which James Phillimore was the culprit, is reported as resting easily in Muhlenberg Hospital today. One of the bullets, lodged in the skull, has not as yet been removed. As soon as the victim gains sufficient strength an operation will be performed.

Missionary and Aid Society Arrange Pleasing Affair at Warren Chapel to Mark Happy Event—Have Many Friends in City and Borough

The twentieth anniversary of the marriage of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey, was observed at Warren chapel last evening, when many of Mr. McKelvey's congregation gathered at the church edifice to extend their congratulations to the pastor and his wife. The reception rooms of the chapel were profusely decorated with cut flowers.

During the course of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. McKelvey were completely surprised when Robert R. Penticost, on behalf of the congregation presented the latter with a ribbon bouquet which had thirty-five $5 gold pieces concealed in the folds. A floral bouquet, as well as a large wedding cake worked 1894-1914 were also presented by the Ladies' Missionary and Aid Society of the church. Mr. McKelvey made a short address, thanking the members of his charge, not only for the kindly feelings as expressed on such occasions as this, but for the friendships which were being enjoyed throughout the passing of time.

Mr. and Mrs. McKelvey were married twenty years ago at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Brooklyn. Rev. Charles McKelvey, father of the local pastor officiating. The ceremony took place shortly after Mr. Kelvey took charge of Warren

REV. C. H. KUES HOST AT RECEPTION

Pleasing Affair Given in Parish House of Holy Cross Church.

One of the most enjoyable social affairs under the auspices of Holy Cross Episcopal church, was the reception given in the parish house last night, by Rev. Charles H. Kues, the rector. The purpose was to afford parish members a chance to become better acquainted with each other as well as the rector. There were nearly two hundred people present to enjoy the affair, which was an informal one.

The reception was arranged entirely by Mr. Kues, and he was assisted in receiving the guests by J. Brognard Betts. The members of the Women's Guild, of which Mrs. J. O. Stevens is the president, beautified the parish house with a profusion of spring flowers which added much to the pleasure of the occasion.

The whole evening was given up to sociability and getting acquainted and later refreshments were served by a committee selected by Mr. Kues. Since coming to Holy Cross church, the rector has been doing good work and he has been well supported in his efforts by the members of the parish.

PREFERS THE CIRCUS.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane was subpoenaed to Elizabeth this morning as a witness in a hearing there today. As is his usual custom when a circus comes to Plainfield, Chief Doane had planned to join the small boys at the grounds this morning and watch the preliminary arrangements but he had to forego this pleasure for once much to his disappointment.

NEW EDIFICE TO MEET GROWTH

Netherwood Reformed Church Consistory Decide to Erect Larger Building.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED

Plans, Estimates, Etc., to be Secured for Subsequent Report to Congregation—Rev. J. Y. Broek Thanked for His Assistance.

Having outgrown their present accommodations and feeling strongly the need of a large house of worship to meet the growing needs, the consistory of the Netherwood Reformed church, at a meeting, last night, at which Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church, was present, decided to buid a new church.

Mr. Broek presided at the meeting and after a full discussion of the subject, he appointed a committee comprising Rev. Edward Ralston, the new minister, chairman; Horace J. Martin, treasurer; S. O. Ruch, Claude Gonod and J. C. Hansen to get plans, estimates, etc., and report at a meeting the date of which will be announced later.

The style of architecture, size and material and cost will all be investigated and included in a report to the consistory, which afterward will be presented to the members of the church for consideration and approval. Co-incident with the coming of Mr. Ralston, the new minister, was a verbal agreement on the part of the consistory that steps should be taken to build a new church and last night's action is the result.

The church now has a membership of seventy-five, while the Sunday-school, which is in a flourishing con-

RESERVE DECISION IN TROLLEY CASE

Petitioners and P. S. C. Must File Briefs Before June 1 With Commission.

CALL MANY WITNESSES

Both Sides Offer Wealth of Testimony During Hearing in South Plainfield Trolley Extension Matter at Newark Yesterday.

Witnesses for the petitioners concluded their testimony in the South Plainfield trolley extension hearing before the Public Utilities Commission, in Newark, yesterday afternoon and a review of the entire proceedings indicates that the Plainfield and South Plainfield Boards of Trade have introduced much convincing evidence in behalf of the improvement. Although Public Service Railway experts had previously testified that it would cost approximately $130,000 to bring about the extension, on the stand yesterday L. W. Serrell, an engineer of this city, testified that he could build the proposed Fourth street extension plan for a sum totaling $60,000 and the Arlington avenue plan for $66,000.

Witnesses were put on the stand later in the afternoon by the Public Service Corporation in an effort to undermine the statements of Mr. Serrell, who laid out the present Plainfield trolley tracks, but met with little success. L. D. Gilmour, counsel for the Public Service, cross-questioned the witnesses concerning their authority and knowledge of the subject.

A. M. Morrell, of the Spicer Manufacturing Company, stated on the stand that the Spicer plant would be transferred in its entirety to South Plainfield if the extension was built. This is something that has been advocated by Plainfield residents for some time past and the removal of the plant to the nearby village would be of mutual interest.

Managers of the 'bus lines in operation between here and South Plainfield, offered testimony corroborating former witnesses' statements to the effect that the extension could be made a possibility. On the stand the auto bus operators testified that from $3 to $14 was yielded daily in revenue to the concern. It was further declared that by actual count 285 passengers had been conveyed to and from South Plainfield by the 'buses last Saturday, a day when the Spicer plant is not operated, thus excluding the working-men who travel to and from the place five days a week.

In summing up the case the Commission took into consideration the large amount of testimony offered by the numerous witnesses called by both sides and instructed the respective counsels to file briefs prior to June 1, after which a decision would be rendered in the matter.

BORO SCIENCE STUDENTS WILL TAKE LESSON TRIPS

Miss Roxana Love, science instructor in the North Plainfield High School, has arranged a schedule of five trips for the members of her physics classes. Yesterday afternoon six of the class went to the Courier-News and inspected the plant. They were the Misses Ann Hull, Lucy Douglas, Jennie Seers, Helen Woodruff, Mary Bennett and Lois Peck. This afternoon Miss Love will take a party of the boys through the Rushmore Dynamo Works. They are Russell Lee, Hoyt Tomkinson, Lester Chandler, Roscoe VanCamp, Franklin Lowe, Estes Small, Godfrey Diplock, Gibson Fairman and Frank Dunning.

Next Tuesday a party will go to the ice plant and see the process of making ice. Several other trips of interest are being planned by the teacher. Later in the year Miss Love will take her botany classes on specimen hunts to the mountains.

HUERTA TRIES TO REASSURE PEOPLE

Mexico City Reports Say He Is Going About Streets Bowing and Smiling.

TAMPICO QUIET TODAY

Details of Battle There Are Still Lacking—Presence of War Vessels Said to Have Peaceful Influence on City Taken by Rebels.

Vera Cruz, May 15.—(From Alfred J. Rorke, special correspondent for the Central News). Reports from Mexico City say that Provisional President Huerta is showing himself daily in all parts of the city in an evident attempt to encourage the people. His demeanor is cheerful and he has words of encouragement and cheer for everybody he meets, even the humblest of the soldiers and citizens.

He appears on the streets on foot and in his automobile, wearing a semi-campaign garb, smiling and bowing to his friends, eating at the public restaurants and chatting with everybody. He is a frequent visitor at the barracks, where he watches the drilling with evident pleasure and satisfaction. While already popular with both civilians and soldiers he wants to add to that popularity by a democratic attitude and by showing that he is, although the head of the provisional government, one of them. The rumor that he was making arrangements to leave the country and go to Paris, where, the rumor persists, he has already sent a large sum of money, still persists, and it is thought that his object in spending so much time in the public view is calculated to dispel this report.

Not a word has been received here of the whereabouts of Sutton, correspondent of the Washington Post, and Doster, of the International News Service, since they left the capital. If they have not been held up in the interior of the country it is surmised that they may be at Puerto Mexico, waiting for a steamship to carry them away.

Vera Cruz, May 15.—Conditions in Tampico remain quiet, according to the reports received from there today. Details, however, following the taking of the city by the Federal forces, are lacking. It is believed that the presence of the German cruiser Dresden, and that of the American war vessels, in the harbor, have a salutary effect in checking whatever tendency to violence might have developed among the conquerors.

Whatever interest was excited by the report of yesterday that the two Federal battleships, Zaragosa and Bravo, had gone over to the Constitutionalists or were destroyed, has been dissipated by the report from Real Admiral Mayo that the vessels had steamed away from Tampico, bound for Puerto, Mexico. The United States gunboat Tacoma and two destroyers are following them.

Rear Admiral Mayo determined that the interests represented in the oil fields up the Panuco river were entitled to protection, and so has taken the Des Moines and steamed to where he can be close enough to check any untoward demonstration against the properties, or the lives of the employes, of all nations, who remain at the works.

MEDIATION CONFERENCE IS POSTPONED UNTIL MAY 20

Washington, May 15—The A. B. C. Mediation Conference on the crisis existing between the United States and Mexico will not meet Monday as planned, but has been postponed until May 20. The postponement is due to the fact that the Huerta delegates could not possibly arrive in time. The conferences will be held in the Clifton Hotel across the river. The United States delegates will occupy a suite in the International Hotel on the American side of the border.

Key West, May 15.—With the quick departure of the Huerta peace commissioners from here, all suggestion that dilatory tactics, so far as attendance at the Niagara Falls conference is concerned, will be employed by them was dissipated. A few days ago there was a strong rumor that they would stop a few days in Havana, which would make it impossible for them to arrive in Niagara Falls on the day scheduled for the opening of the conference, and that such action on their part might entirely nullify all the arrangements that had been made and possibly, by indicating an unwillingness on their part, acting under instructions from their chief, to meet the situation frankly, stop the efforts at mediation

Plains & Fanwood.

A large number of people from this place will go to Westfield tonight to attend the second annual spelling and speaking contest of the grammar and high schools of Union county. Fanwood township will be represented by seven pupils in the spelling contest, all being in Public School No. 1. The contests will be held in the Westfield High School and will start at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of each division.

The May meeting of the Fanwood Fire Company will be held in the firehouse on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The new hose bought by the Council will be inspected. It will be placed on the new hose cart.

With the constantly increasing population of this place the need of a sewer is being felt more and more. It was thought at first that this place would be in the new sewer plan with Plainfield and several other municipalities as a representative was invited to attend the meetings of the commission when the project was first talked of, but for some unknown reason nothing has been done. There is no local sewer disposal plant and so the outlet is on the side streets with the result that the new residents are vigorously protesting and the local authorities are at a loss how to overcome the difficulty. H. C. Lockwood, who is responsible for the boom, has partly remedied this by constructing a certain form of ditch, but others who have tried the same plan have had no success. It will be imperative that something be done about the matter in the near future and, it is partly for that reason that the Council is backward in making permanent roads as they will have to be opened up if sewers are laid.

Eugene Lidgate visited his parents on North avenue yesterday. Fanwood is now a fourth class postoffice and is therefore under Civil Service. Miss Bettman is ineligible owing to the age limit. The same is also true of Mrs. Dunn, the postmistress of the Scotch Plains office. It is reported that Miss Rita DeMott, the assistant, expects to take the examination for the position.

Miss Marie Boise, of North avenue, who is a teacher in the Plainfield Seminary, has been detained at home for sometime by illness.

Most of the railroad ties that were piled at the local railroad station passed inspection and have been taken away on five flat cars. They were cut on the mountains in back of the Plains and also in the "Big Woods."

In repairing the electric light wires along Farley avenue the Public Service Company is extending the wires across North avenue and the railroad tracks to South avenue. H. C. Lockwood is endeavoring to have the railroad erect a bridge over the tracks. He is prepared to cut the road through, it is said, if this is done.

BARNUM & BAILEY HERE TODAY

downward and outway from open car doors and from long, yellow flat cars, and six and eight-team horses materialized from the depths of stock cars, all harnessed and dragging empty traces behind them.

Down a runway bumped a high, open wagon with a big sheet-iron cooking range mounted on it and one short-length of stove-pipe rising above like a stumpy fighting-top on an armored cruiser. As the weeks thumped against the solid earth a man in an apron, who had been balancing himself in the wagon, touched a match to some fuel in the firebox. Instantly black smoke came out of the top of the stack and a stinging smell of burning wood trailed behind him, as a six-horse team hooked on and he and his moving kitchen went lurching and rolling away to the show grounds. Other wagons followed, loaded with blue stakes, with coils of ropes, with great rolls of earth-stained canvas, and each took the same route with teams of horses to drag it and a born charioteer in a flannel shirt to drive it.

At the show grounds "Happy Jack" Snellen, boss canvasman, was in supreme control of a horde of brawny men. His comprehensive scrutiny of the area quickly determined boundaries, lines and angles and indicated how best to avoid roughness and depressions and how to overcome the other physical resistances the tract offered. Soon he unwound a metal tape line and traversed the lot. Slender iron rods were planted where he indicated. These were immediately replaced by sturdy, wooden stakes, to which the tent ropes were later fastened. The ground quickly bristled with these pegs, thrust into place with unerring aim and in perfect cadence by gangs of sledge-hammer weilders.

Meanwhile, the three other sections of the circus' railroad equipment of 85 cars arrived and were disgorging elephants and camels and horses and ponies, great parade, menagerie and baggage wagons, their tops and sides masked in canvas, and the magic chariots of childhood.

When the drowsy trapeze performer awoke in his comfortable berth and drew aside the curtains of his window to obtain a view of the "new town" he knew that for hours the cooks had been busy on the "lot" preparing his meals for the day. Leisurely, he dressed. The car porter, in the still hours of the night, had cleaned his shoes and brushed his clothes. He dropped from the platform and made his way out of the railroad yards to the show lot.

A young man or a young woman walking with one of the opposite sex is never seen unless it were husband and wife brother and sister, or father and daughter. For there is a system of discipline with the Barnum & Bailey circus as well as all others that sternly forbids anything like social intercourse between the sexes, and neither the young trapeze performer nor the pretty girl who dives from the top of the tent in cerise tights care to incur the fine or discharge imposed upon "philanders" by the show.

Arrived at the "lot," the performer cast a keen glance over what appeared to be uninitiated a turbulent chaos of men, horses, wagons, blue poles and strips and bales of canvas. In the distance he espied a blue flag floating from the center pole of a tent. It informed him that breakfast awaited him there. The instant he disposed himself upon the bench at his place at the long table a waiter was at his elbow.

When he stepped out into the open again, the circus city was fairly well established. Tents were up, with gay pennants floating from their poles.

Curious hundreds riveted their rapt attention upon the unwonted proceedings. They gaped in awe and wonder as the menagerie and "big top" were elevated. Within the latter's capacious folds were seats for 16,800 persons! Side show, wardrobe, property, horse, ballet and performers, band, blacksmith, barber and hospital tents yielded to the expeditious and unremitting exertions of the delegated proprietors of the broad area before they finished their morning's labor.

Active preparations for the parade were on immediately after man and beast had finished breakfast. Fred Bradna, equestrian director, headed the line. Bands playing, horses prancing, wagons rumbling, calliope screaming, clowns frollicking the fantastic panorama moved away. East Front street was lined from end to end to await its gay and glamorous coming. Forty elephants swayed to and fro with heavy tread and three herds of camels bore burdens of oriental feminine beauty. Six bands yielded circus melody. Drivers pitched and rolled in their seats as they handled the ribbons of eight and ten and twelve plumed horses all at once and clouds of Plainfield [illegible] every sense numbed and stunned by the gold and painted magnificence, reeled off the miles alongside.

The most pessimistic were forced to admit that the pageant was all that had been promised. The half thousand horses elicited praise from all onlookers. They ranged from great Clydesdale and Percheron draft horses to tiny Shetlands and were in the pink of condition and spirits. Their trappings were splendidly ornate.

Arrived back at the show grounds, the circus took a long breath and was ready for its afternoon performance. At one o'clock the chains at the main entrance were removed and the thousands who had flocked to the scene by railroad, trolley car, automobile, afoot and ahorse, made a massed assault upon the seven uniformed ticket takers.

Visitors found in the menagerie tent 110 cages of animals, each containing one or more rare and curious creatures. Lions and tigers paced up and down their cages. The insatiable elephants swung their greedy trunks out for peanuts tirelessly. Leopards sulked in their dens. The monkey cage attracted a ceaseless audience. The hippopotamus, floundering in his tank, and the two-horned rhinoceros, excited wonder. Four giraffes, one born in the early spring, were seen in a spacious corral.

In the side-show the fat and the legless women, the armless wonder, the human skeleton, the midget man and women, the circassian beauty, whose frizzled head will just about fit a bushel basket, and all the other varied oddities and wonders were on exhibition.

The afternon performance began with the presentation of "The Wizard Prince of Arabia," which is the most ambitious spectacle ever attempted with this show. It is in addition to the program, for the subsequent arenic tournament is in no way curtailed. The pick and pride of circus celebrities throughout the world are enlisted.

The performance will be repeated tonight at eight, illumination being provided by electric lights from power furnished by a portable equipment carried by the show.

Tomorrow the circus will make encampment in Long Branch. The last of the trains will leave here soon after midnight.

TO HAVE NEW EDIFICE

dition, number one hundred and twenty-five, and is growing rapidly. Rev. Royal A. Stout, who was the first pastor, and who later became pastor of the Green Avenue Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, and more recently accepted a call to a New York State church, did a good work during his first pastorate of about three years. He came here just at the time that the present edifice was built.

It is the belief that with the assistance which will be given the church by the Board of Home Missions of the Newark Classis, the local congregation will not find it difficult to erect a new edifice, for it has many warm friends in the classis. The church occupies an especially attractive field not served by any other religious body and with a new edifice, it is believed that even better work can be accomplished.

During the meeting last night, the consistory adopted resolutions heartily thanking Rev. J. Y. Broek for his earnest efforts and help throughout the history of the church and the resolutions expressed full appreciation for such assistance.

WILL TRY DANTON ON SUMMIT CHARGE

Debonair Bandit Who Did Business in This City to Take Stand Next Week.

W. Arlington Danton, alias Edward Farley and Ray Sampson, extradited from New York on a charge of having "abducted" two Summit policemen, will be put on trial in Elizabeth next week, it was stated at the Union county courthouse yesterday afternoon. Danton, as he was known when he resided as a mechanical dentist at 413 Central avenue, this city, was lined up with fifteen other men in Elizabeth recently and singled out by the Summit policemen, who are his accusers.

One of the witnesses is said to be the chauffeur of the automobile Danton is alleged to have halted in the road. Farley, the charge states, held up the auto on a lonely road and compelled the two Summit bluecoats to enter the machine, after they had been sent out to arrest him as a suspect in a Newark robbery committed the night before. Danton's episode is said to have been committed on February 21, about dusk.

When the trial opens it is said that the defendant will endeavor to prove an alibi. Since his apprehension in a New York city boarding-house on information furnished by Chief Kiely and Detective-Sergeant Flynn, of this city, Danton has maintained that he was in Newark, February 21. He says he went from that place to Easton, Pa., and was never in the vicinity of the alleged deed. Relatives of the man are in Elizabeth ready to take the stand in his behalf and he is prepared to put up a strong fight.

During the two months he has been a prisoner in the Union county jail following extradition from New York State, Danton has been mixed up in several escapades that have resulted in his being placed in solitary confinement. Two weeks ago he organized a band of small boys and unruly prisoners and declared a food strike.

Danton and his follower started a miniature riot in the jail yard and considerable trouble was experienced by the guards delegated to quell the disturbance. For this act and other minor infringements of the prison rules he was locked in a dark cell in the basement of the jail where he has since been confined pending trial.

WORKING TOGETHER.

If American industrial and business organization is to be a success, it must work more smoothly between employer and employe, who must be brought more closely together. Friction when it crops out ruins both the workers and the business, and the general public as well. This friction is proof that something is wrong. There must be a better understanding. In some manner, employers and employes must work in greater unison for, plainly speaking, both are striving to reach the same end—reward for their endeavors.

Advocating a division of profits, a current magazine says: "In the first place industry should be more effectively organized so it will make more money to divide. In the second place it should divide the money more fairly. And if it does divide more fairly, the stimulus of such division will make more to divide."

Such assertions seem logical. At the same time employers and employes must admit that both are somewhat to blame for the failure to get together for their mutual advantage and for the welfare of the public. The problem is to find a working arrangement which will bring about an understanding and an effective unity, which will mean it is conceded more profits—more to the man who employs and the man who works. A satisfied employe is a big stock in trade.

Recently there was held in New York city an Exhibit of Better Industrial Relations. One of the exhibits demonstrated how a certain employer in Germany advances funds to his workers to enable them to build homes, thus substituting for their feeling of dependence one of self-respecting ambition.

Another showed how a group of employe representatives in a certain large Boston store meets jointly with the management to determine the administration of the business. A better feeling has developed. Still another gave the example of a large Middle Western firm which pays dividends on stock, which is largely owned by employes, of 12 to 18 per cent. and a like dividend upon wages. These are but three of several plans exhibited which have proven effective methods of bringing employer and employe together and, what is to the point, of really increasing the profits of the business so conducted.

The Board of Education will probably want $109,000 to run the schools, according to information given out in advance of the meeting of the Board of School Estimate. That is an increase of but $8,500 over last year, and considering the large number of new pupils this is not great. All of these increases contribute to the big boost that is coming in the tax rate, however, and it is only a matter of time when appropriations will have to be pared down instead of increased.

Charles O'Connor Hennessy the fighting Senator from Bergen county, who was one of the leaders in the drafting of such progressive legislation as was passed at the last session of the State lawmakers, will give Plainfield people a chance to hear some of the inside history of the session. He will speak at the People's Forum in this city next Thursday night, and will be well worth hearing.

Of course we don't know, but it looks suspiciously as if the suggestion of S. P. T. Wilbur as a candidate for sheriff, as opposed to John Cose, another Plainfielder, looks like a foxy scheme on the part of the politicians to divide the Plainfield strength and throw the nomination to a favorite son in some other part of the county.

The remarkable thing about the Daily Press comment on the illegal merchandise club which has been in progress in this city is that every merchant except the one conducting the club has commended the attitude of this paper.

If the Fair estate continues to be in litigation, there will be nothing left for the fighting beneficiaries of the will after the lawyers' fees are paid. It seems to be a very profitable matter for the latter, and equally expensive for the heirs.

The need for an automobile ambulance in Plainfield was again demonstrated on Wednesday, when it took an hour for the horse-drawn vehicle to reach Netherwood, when Isaac Rink was killed by a train. The morgue wagon arrived before the ambulance, in fact.

There's only one person at present sure of the Plainfield postmastership. That is Elias Bird. the hold-over Republican candidate, and he doesn't care how long the appointment of a successor of the Democratic faith is delayed.

Tomorrow's contributed editorial has been written by V. W. Nash, Jr., one of Plainfield's younger lawyers, who discusses the law from a point of view that will be readable to laymen.

RECITAL ATTRACTED MANY MUSIC LOVERS

Local Talent, Assisted by Well Known Tenor, Entertained at Y. M. C. A.

Local talent, assisted by Earle Ceasero, a tenor, presented an informal program of song in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night a large and appreciative audience attending the affair which was a complete success. Vocal and instrumental numbers were rendered by the three Plainfield music students and the visiting soloist sang several of his best selections in an excellent manner.

The affair was conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and was pronounced a musical treat by all in attendance. Miss Helen George and Miss Marguerite Van Zant, two local Pianoists and Wendell C. Glover, an accompanist, took charge of the Plainfield portion of the entertainment and all did remarkably well.

The program included the following numbers: "The Lord is My Light," Earle Ceasero; "Valse," Miss Vaneant; German songs, "Stille Wie Die Nacht," "Ich Liebe Dich," "In the Great Unknown," "Noon and Night," and "Absent," Earle Ceasero; "Morning Song," Earle Ceasero; "Staccato Etude," Miss Helen George; "Just A'wearin' for You," "A Perfect Day," "Answer," Gean," "I Hear You Calling Me," Earle Ceasero; Miss Van Zant and Miss George are pupils of Miss May Vincent Whitney.

chapel, which was his first charge after leaving Union Theological Seminary from which he had graduated the preceeding year. During their stay in this city, the pastor and his wife has made many friends and acquaintances throughout the community, in Plainfield as well as the borough.

The affair was arranged by the Missionary and Aid Society. Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett was the chairman of the committee of arrangements and practically all of the members of the society assisted in one way or another in making the affair a success.

WANTS $5,000 DAMAGES.

Julius Firmbach, fifty-eight years old, today started suit against Albert E. Decker, of Westfield, in the Union county court, for $5,000. The plaintiff alleges that he was knocked down by a coach driven by an employe of the defendant. Decker claims that the accident was due to negligence on Firmbach's part.

ST. JAMES' PARISH HOUSE DEDICATED

Rev. Dr. W. H. Neilson, Rector, in Charge of Impressive Services.

The new St. James parish house recently erected in the rear of the church building, Piscataway township, was dedicated yesterday with appropriate exercises. Rev. Dr. William H. Neilson, of this city, is rector of the church, and had charge of the program.

The services were started at 10:30 with a celebration of holy communion by Rev. Albert B. Parker, of Princeton, president of the standing committee of the diocese of New Jersey, assisted by Ven. R. Bowden Shepard, arch-deacon from Trenton. Short dedicatory addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Baker and the arch-deacon. The services throughout were simple in nature, but impressive.

The parish house was the result of a legacy left the institution by Miss Ellen Cotheal, of New York, who made a bequest of over $62,000. The building was designed by Alexander Merchant, of New Brunswick. George B. Rule was the contractor.

WILL DESCRIBE RECENT STIRRING EVENTS IN MEXICO

An opportunity to gain an intelligent idea of present conditions in Mexico, from one who was an eye-witness of many of the recent stirring events in that country will be offered the people of Plainfield when Thomas Wilbor speaks in Y. M. C. A. Hall next Tuesday evening. Mr. Wilbor was for twelve years engaged in business in Mexico City, having only recently returned to this country. He passed through the ten days' bombardment of Mexico City last year, during six of which he was confined in his house in the very center of the fighting zone.

Mr. Wilbor gives a most vivid account of this and of many other exciting experiences. In addition Mr. Wilbor considers the present Mexican situation. His familiarity with present political conditions and his acquaintance with Mexican leaders are so intimate that this survey is especially valuable and helpful at the present time. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Wilbor will show 35 veiws of dramatic scenes during the bombardment of 1913. The price of admission to this lecture has been fixed at 25 cents in order that everyone interested may have the opportunity of hearing Mr. Wilbor.

JUNIOR RALLY.

The boys and girls, of Plainfield and their friends are invited to the Junior rally tomorrow afternoon. The meeting will begin at 3 o'clock in Vincent chapel. Rev. F. J. Hubach will give a talk. Randolph Douglas of the First Baptist Society will play the violin and Dorothy Leader of Trinity Reformed Society will play the cornet. Mrs. Lucie E. Rising will preside at the piano.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

The reflection of burning paper in the fireplace in the dining-room of the home of S. S. Swackhamer, of Summit avenue, the borough, caused a passer-by to pull fire box 131. The fire department responded to the call, but sought for work in vain.

AMOUNT ASKED FOR IS 8 PER CENT. INCREASE

The amount of money certified by the Board of Education to the Board of School Estimate, $109,000, which is thought to be necessary to maintain the public schools for the coming year, is an 8 per cent. increase over the amount asked for last year, and not an 8 point raise as stated yesterday. This year's amount is an increase of $8,500 over last year, and is thought by the Board of Education not to be unreasonable.

The Board has practically decided to drop the plans at present for building a new school on Evergreen avenue, owing to the increased appropriations needed in other city departments. It is believed, however, that perhaps later on ways and means may be devised for securing the building.

WILL LECTURE ON "THE OPENING OF THE PRISON"

F. H. Robison, who has recently returned from a tour around the globe will give a free public address on the subject, "The Opening of the Prison," at the Lyric Theatre, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Robison has received an extensive education, both at home and abroad, and has a good command of nearly a dozen languages. His extensive travel and Biblical research have brought him into prominence as a religious factor.

Since Mr. Robinson's personal investigation of the Great Pyramid in Egypt, he has called attention to several remarkable features in which the pyramid testimonies corroborate the teachings of the Bible. His address will be free to all and no collection will be taken.

DUTCH ARMS BAND RECEIVES GREAT OVATION

The Golden Jubilee of the Knights of Pythias was brought to a close yesterday at Atlantic City, when a monster parade was held. The Knights of District, No. 20, of which the local lodges are part, held the second position in the parade. The Dutch Arms Band, of Trinity Reformed church, this city, of thirty-five pieces, accompanied the local lodgemen. Among the speakers of the day was Judge John Ulrich, of this city. The Dutch Arms Band were the recipients of great applause along the entire line of march, and were prominently mentioned as the best appearing musical organization in the procession.

SEEKS TO RECOVER $1,680 ON A HEATING CONTRACT

Elizabeth, May 15—The Lee Heating Company is the plaintiff in an action started this afternoon before Judge Speer and a jury in the Union county court, to recover $1,680 from Morris Abrams, of Plainfield, on a contract for installing a heating apparatus in the Astor Theatre, Plainfield. The company, it was learned, placed a lien on the theatre building. Mr. Abrams, who is represented by William Newcorn, claims that he subleased the property to another man and that he is not liable for the amount named.

GRADUATE NURSES GIVEN RECEPTION AND DANCE

The members of the graduating class of Muhlenberg Hospital Training School for Nurses were given a reception and dance by the intermediate class last night. The affair was held in the Nurses Home on Park avenue, and the attendants included many friends of the various classes. Decorations of green and white made the assembly room very attractive. Paroubek's orchestra furnished the music and refreshments were served in conclusion.

The affair was arranged and in direct charge of a committee composed of Miss Elsie Adeline Sutphen, chairman, Miss Isabelle Knox and Miss Elsie McCullough. The graduation exercises will be held at the Hartridge Auditorium, Thursday evening, May 21, when nine young women who have completed the prescribed course will receive diplomas.

LATEST WHITE HOUSE BRIDE.

The Wedding Ceremony Was In Marked Contrast to the Preceding One.

With the marriage of Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the president of the United States and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, to William Gibbs McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, on May 7, another important event was added to the social history of the White House.

The ceremony was in marked contrast to that of less than six months ago, when 400 guests, including representatives of thirty-six foreign nations and the highest dignitaries of this government, filled the great east room to witness the marriage of Miss Jessie Wilson to Francis B. Sayre. In spite of its official setting, the latest White House wedding was a strictly family affair. Fewer than 100 persons were present, and they were confined almost exclusively to close relatives of bride and bridegroom and the members of the cabinet and their respective families.

MRS. WILLIAM GIBBS M'ADOO IN HER BRIDAL ATTIRE.

Doubtless the troubled condition of public affairs had its effect in lessening public interest in the wedding and confining the scope of the ceremony itself, for, though in this case a cabinet minister married a daughter of the president, the wedding attracted nothing like the attention and comment aroused by the marriage of Miss Jessie Wilson to a comparatively obscure man.

MEXICANS MINE RAILWAY.

Preparations Made by Federals to Blow Up Line to Capital.

Information has come from Vera Cruz to the war department that the Mexican federal troops have mined the railroad tracks from Vera Cruz to Mexico City, preparatory to destroying the road in the event that the American forces attempt a march on the capital. The mines are reported to be located half a mile apart, and Mexican soldiers have been detailed to light the fuses should hostilities eventuate. These preparations and the throwing up of defenses, which are daily making the position of the Mexican federal troops stronger, are a source of worry to General Funston.

PICTURESQUE POINT ON THE WINDING RAILWAY.

The road from Vera Cruz to Mexico City, 263 miles long, is beset at many points with danger spots amid grand and imposing mountain scenery. From Vera Cruz, which lies four feet above sea level, it rises to dizzy heights of more than a mile and a half above the towers of the seaport. The railroad is rich in tunnels and short, sharp turns amid the mountains and crawls reverberatingly over narrow and dangerous bridges spanning chasms and gorges of dizzying depths.

MASONIC SERVICE FOR W. L. GAVETT

Anchor Lodge, F. & A. M., Attend Obsequies of Late Member.

The funeral service for William L. Gavett was held at All Souls' Unitarian church, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended by friends and relatives. A delegation from Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., had charge of the ceremonies. Preceding this ceremony, Rev. Frank Fletcher had charge of a short service.

The floral tributes were numerous, including set pieces and cut flowers. Two of the largest set pieces were from Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., and Anchor Lodge. Stephen Haff presided at the organ and two selections were rendered by the Masonic quartet, "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Abide with Me." Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, where a Masonic service was conducted at the grave. The bearers were four nephews, Theodore, Leonard, Joseph, Jr., and Robert M. Gavett.

WAR NEWS

Instead, they did not disembark at Havana at all, except to transfer from one steamer to another. Their stay in this city was only long enough for them to pass from one train to another, and they are now speeding towards the scene of the conference, where they will, barring accident, arrive in ample time to attend the opening session.

The members of the party were very courteous to newspapermen, evidently desiring to make a good impression, or at least convey the idea that they had no wish to be other than fair and right, but they declined to be interviewed on the subjects which will come before the mediation conference. They asked the transportation officers to prohibit photographers from taking their pictures, and their request was acceded to.

Senior Delcampo asked for news from Tampico, but made no particular comment when he was told of the development there. When he was asked concerning the authority he and his associates carried with them for conference, he said that was a matter which none of them should discuss at this time, as it would be discourteous to the mediators to tell the public before telling them.

From indirect expressions, however, it seems apparent that they have full power to act for Huerta, although there is an underlying feeling that the Dictator's personal honor and standing will receive perhaps as much consideration as the honor and standing of their country itself. And it seems very unlikely, also, that any of them will be recalled, as has been suggested, and the proceedings checked thus. Huerta knew they were non partisans, and selected them because of that, rather than because he could depend upon them to be quick in his interests alone and utterly subservient to his personal wishes.

Senor Delcampo was very earnest when he talked about conditions in Mexico City when he left there. He has been reading the reports of mob violence there. These reports, he said, were gross exaggerations of the truth. While it was to be expected, he said, that news of the landing of the American forces at Vera Cruz would cause excitement in the Mexican capital, and while there are always a number of irresponsible people who seize upon an opportunity such as that afforded for demonstrating the patriotism in inadvisable ways, American lives were never in danger and the authorities were quite as zealous in checking the actions of the mobs as they would be under other and less extraordinary conditions.

Most of the party speak English fluently, so no interpreter was needed in the conversations between the delegates and the Americans who met them here. They said it was their intention to go directly through to Niagara Falls, not stopping even at Washington on the way.

They were met here by a messenger who brought a whole sheaf of telegrams, but none of them would give an indication of whence the messages came nor what they contained.

New York, May 15.—The wounded and the sick sailors and marines who were brought home from Vera Cruz by the hospital ship Solace, yesterday, are all doing well in the hospital at the Brooklyn navy yard. It was said there this morning that the improvement, even in the short time they have been home and ashore was marked and that from present indications none of them would be seriously ill.

Four of the men still carry in the muscles the bullets of the Mexicans, which will be allowed to remain where they are unless they cause suppuration. There is no reason to expect that any more of the wounded will lose arm or leg.

The men are all cheerful and glad to get back. Vera Cruz, according to them is hardly a pleasant summer resort. They are all willing to go back, however, but would like to have a look about New York again before they go. As one of them said this morning: "It may be the last time we shall see the old town, you know, so we want to hurry up and get well so that we can make some visits. Then we will be ready to go back again, especially if there is really something doing with the Mexicans."

London, May 15—The manager at Vera Cruz of the interests of Lord Cowdray, cabled today. Reports from Tampico state that the British families and other British refugees who had sought shelter on board ship have now returned to their homes on shore. The town is perfectly quiet. It is reported that the Federal troops are rereating to San Luis Potosi.

Washington, May 15.—An Italian citizen, manager of a large oil company near Monterey, is being held for a ransom of $10,000 the Italian ambassador here, Marquis Confalonieri, informed Secretary of State Bryan today. The name of the Italian held by the Constitutionalists is unknown to the ambassador. News of the affair reached the Italian embassy here, through the Italian consul at Vera Cruz, and is official, the demands for ransom having been made publicly.

Secretary Bryan would not discuss the case, but has promised to make every effort, through United States and Brazilian diplomatic channels to secure the man's release.

PLAN TO HONOR DEAD WESTFIELD SOLDIER

When the body of Thomas Clark, the Westfield boy who died as the result of a bullet wound sustained in a fight in Vera Cruz with the Mexican soldiers, arrives at the home of his mother, Mrs. Hannah Clark, of Madison avenue, Westfield, this afternoon, plans will be complete for a military funeral in his behalf. Friends are now awaiting the arrival of the body from Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he died and which is being sent East at all possible speed under instructions from Secretary of War Garrison.

Mayor Evans, of Westfield, is in charge of the matter and the services will be held in the town hall and efforts are being made to secure a guard of honor from Brooklyn Navy Yard. Members of the Westfield G. A. R. and the Boys' Brigade will also take part in the ceremony. It is expected that the body will be interred in the soldiers' plot in Fairview cemetery.

Clark was a member of Company H, Ninth Infantry, U. S. A. No particulars of his death are known, except that he died of injuries sustained while serving with his regiment along the Mexican border. After the marines landed in Mexico, Clark's regiment was one of those comprising the Fifth Brigade, which went to Vera Cruz under command of Gen. Funston, but Clark, who was then in the hospital at Fort Sam Houston, was unable to accompany his comrades. His mother received a telegram on Sunday, announcing his death.

Several weeks ago Clark married a Kentucky girl, and Mrs. Clark, the mother, today received word that the young widow is enroute to Westfield to attend the funeral.

E. E. PARVIN LECTURES BEFORE MEN'S CLUB

E. E. Parvin, of this city, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Men's Club of the Church of the Heavenly Rest held in the parlors of the edifice last night, taking for his subject "The Little Kingdom of the Rich." Like other talks given by Mr. Parvin the one last night was filled with excellent descriptions of foreign countries through which he has traveled extensively and he kept his listeners interested from start to finish.

The speaker outlined the characteristics of Belgium and dealt principally with the ancient city of Antwerp. In describing the commercial advantages of this town he placed it in a class with Maryland as to size and rated it second to London for what is known in the commercial world as "common" trade. His lecture was made all the more interesting by the introduction of a number of humorous anecdotes.

Query—Where can I get literature regarding pitch blende, or radium, as it is more commonly known? Can I get it from the government? If so, from what department? Can you tell me in what part of the country it has been discovered? Has any been found in the State of Idaho?—C. D. T.

Answer—Radium was first extracted from pitch blende, the greatest source of supply now are the deposits of carnotite found in the Paradox Valley fields in Western Colorado. The carnotite oil, which is an oxide of uranium, is found as a lemon yellow metal mineral, usually in pockets of sandstone deposits. There are also some deposits of pitch blende found in Gilpin, Col.

Answer—The stores selling wallpaper also sell a prepared paste at ten cents a pound. To provide against paper cracking on unplastered walls you would have to put a lining paper on first. On this glue size and then do your papering. If the paper cracks after this there is some fault with the wall.

EXPECT HOT CONTEST IN SCHOOLBOY LEAGUE

North Plainfield and Plainfield, Old Rivals, Due to Face Each Other Again.

Parker Field will be the scene of one of the most fiercely contested baseball games tomorrow afternoon, when the teams of the city and borough schools hook up in the first encounter for the city interscholastic championship. The result of the contest will break a deadlock that was made when both of these teams defeated the Leal School aggregation.

The eighteen men who will take the field when the umpire calls the game are all in the pink of condition and each team now claims victory as their own. The teams are about evenly matched in every respect and the entire nine innings of tomorrow's fray are bound to be interesting. With both pitchers in fine form the game may possibly resolve itself into a pitchers' battle. Brick will probably be the tosser for the home team while Dan Denny will appear in that role for the invaders. The game will start promptly at 3:30 p. m. Brokaw and Coriell will be the umpires. The teams will lineup as follows:

Townley leads the regulars with the stick with an average of .431 and there are a few more who are way above the .300 mark.

A SPORTSMAN'S CHANCE.

The first betting figures in the financial district on the International polo match were quoted yesterday in two offers. The first was an offer by a Produce Exchange member, recorded at Fred Schumm's, 2 Stone street, New York, to bet $1,000 even on the English team for the series. The absence of a demand for odds in supporting the English team was surprising in view of cables from the other side. There also was an offer of $100 even on the American team to win the first game.

P. H. S. JUNIORS SCORED VICTORY OVER SOPHOMORES

In a close and exciting baseball game, played on Parker Field yesterday afternoon, the junior class team of the Plainfield High School Interclass League, defeated the sophomore team by the score of 4 to 3. Both teams put up a high grade of baseball.

The game was a pitchers' battle throughout between Mann for the sophomores and Denny for the juniors.

Mann allowed the junior team only one hit, but free passes and errors at critical periods were his undoing. The sophomore team made six hits off Denny, but he kept these well scattered. With three men on base in the ninth inning, Denny showed splendid control and by some excellent pitching he struck the next three men out.

The lineup:

| SOPHOMORES | JUNIORS |
|---|---|
| Davidson, 1b | Updike, lf |
| Dealaman, 2b | Thompson, 2b |
| Coudray, 3b | Randolph, 1b |
| Noonan, c | Canter, c |
| Dunham, ss | Hand, 3b |
| Semer, lf | D. McNamee, cf |
| Crone, rf | Hirsch, ss |

Score by innings:

Summary—Two-base hit, Noonan; one-base hits, Canter, Dealaman, Coudray, Noonan, Hunter, Mann; runs, Coudray, Crone, Semer, Updike, Thompson (2), Denny; hits off Mann, 9; by Denny, 11; bases on balls, off Mann, 7; off Denny, 2. Umpires, O'Leary and Peacock.

MARTIN STILL ALIVE.

Spasmodic reports from Jack Martin keep his friends in Plainfield informed of the fact that he is still sticking to the Boston Braves. Martin got one of his flying chances yesterday afternoon, going in for Charlie Deal at third base in the sixth inning. Jack, despite his recent injury, put up a crackerjack fielding game during the last three rounds and ably upheld his end of the argument although the Bostonians were forced to swallow a 6 to 0 defeat at the hands of Cincinnati.

S. S. LEAGUE WILL HOIST 1914 FLAG

Opening Game Scheduled to Be Played Tomorrow Afternoon.

Sunday-School Baseball League activities will be ushered in tomorrow on the Clinton avenue field with two teams in action, the third being compelled to remain idle owing to the fact that a fourth entrant is not available at the present time. Hope chapel will play Monroe in the curtain raiser and First Baptist will remained idle owing to Trinity's withdrawal at the eleventh hour.

The fact that such rivals as Hope and Monroe appear in the first contest lends added interest to the inaugural date. Since the league was first organized these two aggregations have been bitter rivals and it goes without saying that each will fight hard to annex the initial encounter.

On the mound for Monroe will be the veteran Skillman who bears the scars of many a semi-professional conflict waged in this portion of the State. He will have as his opponent in Hope Chapel regalia young Dick Schott, who has acquired quite a reputation for himself as a strike-out king. Schott has been twirling in good form this season while on the other hand, Skillman has had difficulty rounding into form.

In the 1912 race Hope defeated Monroe for the cup by a margin of one game, winning two out of three of a post season series. Last year the Monroes gave the Fourth street in a merry chase for the runner-up position.

ROD AND REEL

Trout fishermen returning from up-State streams report fairly good catches, despite the bad weather that has prevailed this week.

Trout fishing in Pike county, Pa., is at its best just now. Several got a lot of big fish there a couple of weeks ago and return trips are now in order.

Local fishermen who visited the streams in the vicinity of Hackettstown managed to get a dozen trout that ran from six to eight inches in length [illegible] hooked many more that were u[illegible] the legal size.

Most of the trout now being hooked from the late stockings and do not put up as good a battle as native trout that have had an opportunity to get settled in their natural climate.

Many are trying for eels in Cheesequak Creek near Morgan Station. Striped bass are also running in that section.

One local fisherman who visited Sullivan county, N. Y., last Monday, hooked a trout measuring sixteen inches, and several others reaching the foot mark.

Ling, hake and whiting to the number of 221 were bagged by three fishermen at the Rockaway bellbuoy yesterday.

Outside boats that are making the Rockaway bell buoy these days are picking up some good catches of ling and whiting. Those who are anxious to make a good haul of these fish for salting down or pickling now have their opportunity.

ENGLISH GOLFERS LEAD IN CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY

Sandwich, England, May 15.—Two English golfers, Robt. Harris, of Harwood Downs, and E. Martin Smith, Royal St. George Club, led the aggregates in the earlier part of the St. George's championship grand challenge cup, today, with a total for the two rounds of 153.

Among the American competitors, Fraser Hale, of Chicago, whose aggregate was 166. Harold Weber, of Toledo, C. W. Insiee, of the Oneida Community Club, New York, did better than yesterday. His score for holes was 81, making his aggregate 169.

RUDOLPH A "COMEBACK."

Braves' Star Pitcher Was In the Majors Under McGraw For a Time.

Dick Rudolph of the Boston Braves is a "comeback" to the majors after being up for a couple of years and never having a real opportunity to show. Rudolph was picked up by McGraw, who liked the youngster's style and kept him on the payroll for nearly two seasons, although the races were so close that Muggsy was afraid to let Dick start a game.

After a short sojourn in Toronto, in company with Jeff Tesreau, Rudolph was bagged by the Braves and has been pitching good ball all the way.

FEDERAL LEAGUE IN KENTUCKY

Cincinnati, May 15.—Despite strenuous denials made yesterday it became known today that Federal League officials are negotiating for a baseball park in Bellevue, Ky., opposite Cincinnati. Harry Spinks, owner of site being considered, left for Chicago today to confer with President Gilmore, of the Federal League. Surveying of ground in Bellevue started today. It was explained that the park was being prepared for an amateur team, but Spinks departure puts new interpretation on the plans.

RIFFERT AGAIN STARS.

Jack Riffert, the former Plainfield High School baseball star, played another feature game for the Swarthmore College nine when that team defeated Drexel Institute on the latter's diamond in Philadelphia, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 5 to 2. Riffert accounted for one of his team's run producing hits and also did some clever fielding in right garden.

LITTLE BITS OF SPORTING CHAT

Cub Players Say Johnny Evers Will Never Make a Leader.

TOO MUCH OF A THEORIST.

Altizer Tells About the Man Who Could Hit Johnson—Conibear to Send Washington Crew to Poughkeepsie Regatta—Johnson-Moran Fight May Be All Off.

Contrary to the general impression C. Webb Murphy, late unlamented disturber of Cub affairs, did not incur any additional unpopularity when he skidded Johnny Evers out of the managership in favor of Hank O'Day—that is, not with the players.

Evers off the field was admired by all. But on the field his highly intensified temperament made life intolerable. The players like the Crab, but not as manager. Even Hank O'Day, who was once an umpire and who will never get over it—in the minds of the underlings—is accepted as an improvement.

"The Crab is a theorist," said one player who worked under Evers last year.

"Evers inside baseballed himself out of the managership last season. With runners hugging the stops, he had the batter picking off the first, second, third or fourth pitch, according to the workings of his own mind. Oftentimes the hunch was good, but on as many occasions it fizzled.

"But that's not the main point When things went wrong the Crab would fall over on his ear and bite hunks out of his tibia. Naturally conditions were none too pleasant, and harmony was crowded into the bottom of the bat bag."

The case of Evers is unusually interesting. Though regarded as a baseball tactician second to Mack possibly, ball players in general will tell you that the Crab will never attain success in a managerial capacity. The explanation in effect is that he is temperamentally unfit, too high strung and too prone to caustic and crushing criticism.

Daredevil Dave Altizer, the hard hitting veteran who has played all over America, is one of the few ball players who ever saw service in the army. John Ganzel, manager of Rochester, was another, he having served as a lieutenant in Dole's rebellion in Hawaii. Altizer was in the Philippines and first attracted attention as a player out there.

"We had one fellow I'd like to see bat in the big show," said Davy one day. "His name was Reed, and if he couldn't hit Walter Johnson no one could. We were playing a game of ball at Baguio one day. We had occupied the town and were holding it while cleaning up the district, and we played ball every day when not chasing some of the trouble makers. This day Reed was at bat when some of the natives came creeping up the edge of the jungle to rush us, probably, and bolo us before we could reach the guns. One of them fired a shot. Reed swung, the bullet hit his bat, and the catcher's life was saved. Reed always claimed he saw the bullet coming."

Don't be surprised to hear any day now that the bout scheduled in Paris June 27 between Jack Johnson, world's heavyweight champion, and Frank Moran, the Pittsburgher, has been called off. Moran is still in New York. Dan McKetrick who secured the match and has acted as Moran's manager for the past three years, will not go on with it unless Moran signs a contract to box under his management after the big championship fight. This Moran has refused to do. Dan Morgan, McKetrick's friend, has a set of articles which the latter forwarded in the hope that he could get Moran to sign them, but up to date his efforts have been unavailing.

It is reported that the only reason that Johnson agreed to fight Moran was because he liked McKetrick and that just as soon as Danny says the word he'll cancel the fight. McKetrick worked more than a year to induce Johnson to fight Moran, having stuck to Moran after the public had dismissed thoughts of him ever becoming a champion when he was knocked out by the second rater Jim Savage at the Olympic A. C. in New York about two years ago.

McKetrick has sent Morgan the following significant cablegram:

Unforeseen complications necessitate Moran remaining in New York. Will advise you when he is to sail.

George Chip, the Pittsburgh hope, upon whom all Smoketown followers are willing to wager their bankrolls if given a chance with any of the legitimate claimants to the throne made vacant by the death of Ketchel, is a cool, deliberate fighter, who weighs every blow before he decides to start anything and with a head for ring generalship that is second to no man in the ring. Chip is an opponent that is sure to cause trouble at any stage of an encounter. His double win over Klaus, in which battle he outhit and outfought the former champion, stamps him as a boy with all the earmarks of a title holder. He is a little heavier than the rest of the boys, and this, along with his tremendous strength of arms, will tell in a long fight.

Shamrock IV., Sir Thomas Lipton's new challenger for the America's cup, described by those who have seen her as the most wonderful boat of the kind ever built, is to be launched May 25.

YOUTH FOR REVENGE KILLED HIS TEACHER

Confession of Boy Is Related by Deputy.

Utica, N. Y., May 15.—Deputy Sheriff John Nellis told the jury in the Jean Gianini murder case the details of the confession made to him by Gianini the night after his arrest for killing Lida L. Beecher, his teacher in the Poland high school.

"Gianini told me," said Nellis, "he had trouble with Miss Beecher in school and wanted revenge. He told me: 'I sharpened the knife to a keen edge the day before the murder. I got the knife from the pantry drawer at our house. Then I took a heavy iron wrench from father's barn and put it in my pocket. Miss Beecher had promised to meet me that night and go to my house to see about having me come back to school. I met her near the postoffice, and when we got near the house I told her my father had moved into a new house on Buck hill. She said she would walk there with me.

"'We walked to Buck hill, and Miss Beecher said, "I don't see any lights or any house. What's the matter, Jean?"

"'I stepped back of her then and hit her hard over the head with the wrench. She dropped in the snow. She did not scream, but she moaned. She was on her face, and I turned her over and stabbed her with the knife. I wanted to make a good job of it, and I wanted revenge.

"'When I got through stabbing her I took her by the right foot and dragged her through the wire fence and across the lot to the bushes.

"'I took her by the right foot because there was no blood on that and didn't want to have the sheriff get my finger prints in the blood. I left her body behind the bushes, and I went home happy because I had my revenge.'"

Mrs. A. S. Rossin, Century, made the lowest score of all, a 93, and won the gross prize. The others who made the round in the nineties were Mrs. W. J. Faith, Wykagyl, whose card of 94—3, 91, won for her the net prize, and Mrs. Lawrence Swift, Englewood, secretary of the association, who made a 98.

An approaching and putting contest which followed the main event was won by Mrs. R. C. Brown, Wykagyl.

NO GERMAN CASH FOR HAITI.

Foreign Office Denies It Seeks Coaling Station or Concessions.

Berlin, May 15.—Denial that a German financial syndicate backed by the government has offered to finance the Haitian government was authorized by the German foreign office.

The denial was made as a result of reports that the financing offer had been made with the understanding that Germany would receive a coaling station and other concessions.

COLORADO COURT MARTIAL.

More Testimony Taken In Support of Charges Against Major Hamrock.

Denver, May 15.—The second day's session of the general court martial on the state rifle range near Golden opened with twenty or more witnesses yet to be heard in the case of Major Patrick J. Hamrock of the First regiment Colorado national guard, charged with murder, arson, manslaughter and larceny.

The charges grew out of the battle between striking coal miners and state militiamen at Ludlow on April 20 and the destruction of the colony by fire. Hamrock's case is the first to be taken up.

Officers of the United Mine Workers union who were invited to introduce evidence were expected to announce their intentions.

HUERTA'S FALL PREDICTED SOON

Rebels Next Stop Is Dictator's Capital.

ALL IS QUIET IN TAMPICO.

Many Federals Sought Refuge on Board the Gunboats—Those That Failed to Escape Will Be Executed by Villa—Casualties Were Heavy.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN MEXICAN SITUATION.

Two federal gunboats are now at the mouth of the Panuco river, and either one will be sufficient to blockade effectively the oil ports.

Washington officials agree that the United States would not be justified in preventing such a move.

Admiral Mayo has anchored a cruiser and dispatch boat in the port. He reports all quiet in the city.

Washington, May 15.—For nearly an hour President Wilson and Chairman Stone of the senate committee on foreign relations discussed the question of permitting the Constitutionalists to import arms and ammunition through the port of Tampico, which they now control.

As a matter of fact, all hopes of President Wilson and his advisers are centered on the prospect of the rebels' success, and the rebel army cannot proceed to Mexico City until it has obtained more arms and ammunition.

Any decision which the United States arrives at is likely to serve as another pitfall for mediation.

The capture of Tampico by the Constitutionalists has completely changed the situation. Although anticipated for weeks, it has brought the United States face to face with the question of throwing its support frankly to the aid of Carranza and Villa or by opposing them trust to the uncertainties of mediation to fulfill its purpose of overthrowing Huerta.

More than this, the fall of the important seaport has brought the mediators face to face with the fact that they are attempting to compose the difficulties of Mexico without consulting representative of the one power which now controls the Mexican situation. With Tampico in the hands of the Constitutionalists Huerta is more than ever bottled up in Mexico City.

Vera Cruz is held by the United States; Tuxpan, the third important port on the east coast, is practically cut off from the capital. Rebel forces are daily menacing the west coast ports, two-thirds of Huerta's revenue is shut off, and he faces an uprising in his own capital.

Warships Moved.

Vera Cruz, May 15.—Wireless reports from Rear Admiral Mayo to Admiral Badger say that in obedience to orders the cruiser Des Moines and the gunboat Dolphin have entered the Panuco river and are occupying an anchorage which gives their guns command of the city. No reason has been made public for this order, which came from Washington, and it is surmised that it is only for the purpose of affording immediate assistance to the twenty Americans who would not leave the city and perhaps to protect American property.

Three federal gunboats are now lying under the shadow of the guns of the flagship Connecticut, and one of the passengers aboard the Zaragoza is General Zaragoza, the federal commander himself, after whose father the ship is named. But the federals will only say that they withdrew in obedience to orders from Mexico City. They will not divulge anything further.

General Zaragoza is the man whose soldiers arrested the marines and sailors and precipitated all the trouble between the United States and Mexico. He would not salute them, but he is glad of the protection now.

Unofficial messages report the federal soldiers as distinctly discouraged, as they remember that the Huertistas have not won a single campaign so far and all the while Villa and the Constitutionalist forces are drawing the circle around Mexico City tighter every day.

The fate of the federal soldiers who did not find refuge on their gunboats is a matter of doubt. There are no definite reports from the shore about them. One rumor had it that about 900 of them had made a dash through the Constitutionalist lines toward San Luis Potosi to the westward, 200 miles over the mountains.

INDORSED BY MEMBERS.

Paterson Man Is a Republican, and His Selection by Democratic Governor Is In Line With Executive's Policy to Keep Tribunal Equally Divided Politically.

Trenton, N. J., May 15.—Governor Fielder appointed Robert M. Williams of Paterson judge of the court of errors and appeals, to succeed the late Judge Joseph W. Congdon. Mr. Williams was indorsed for the judgeship by the members of the errors court. He is a Republican in politics, and his selection by a Democratic executive is in line with the executive policy to keep the judges of the errors court divided equally on political lines.

The appointment is an ad interim one, and Mr. Williams' name will be sent to the senate for confirmation when the senate assembles next year.

Mr. Williams was born in Paterson, March 16, 1860, and is a lawyer by profession. He was graduated from Princeton college in 1881 and from Columbia College Law school in 1884. He studied law with his father, the late Senator Henry A. Williams, in Paterson. In 1884 he was admitted to the bar as an attorney and in 1887 as a counselor.

He was a member of the house of assembly in 1890-91, and in the latter year he received the minority nomination for speaker. In 1894 he was elected to the state senate from Passaic county and served a full term of three years.

He served on various important committees, and in 1896 he was chosen to fill a vacancy in the presidency of the senate upon the resignation of Lewis A. Thompson of Somerset.

In 1897 Mr. Williams was elected president for a full term. He represented Passaic county as a member of the Republican state committee. Upon the resignation of the late General Joseph W. Congdon of Paterson as a member of the railroad commissioners Mr. Williams was appointed to the vacancy, resigning from the board of riparian commissioners, of which he had been a member since 1904, being chairman at the time of his resignation.

Governor Wilson appointed Mr. Williams one of the three commissioners to probe into the affairs of the State Home For Girls, and the report of the commissioners was indorsed by Governor Fielder, and the legislature, at the recommendation of the commissioners, recently legislated the board of managers of the girls' home out of office.

JOSEPH B. HOFF CONVICTED

Jersey Republican Leader Found Guilty of Purchase of Votes.

Lakewood, N. J., May 15.—Joseph B. Hoff, Republican leader of Ocean county, was convicted of buying votes of members of the South Side Social and Political club at Lakewood in last fall's primary election. The state charged that Hoff had paid $100 to the club in return for its support of him for the nomination for freeholder.

Members of the club said that Hoff, in company with Scuddard Fisher, a candidate for local office, had come to the clubroom a few days before the primary election. There, it was said, the bargain had been made whereby the club was to put out workers at the polls. It was also testified that the club had workers and that after the primaries Hoff had gone to the residence of James A. Budd, the state's chief witness, and had given him or left in his possession $100.

FIREMEN RESCUE MANY.

Fight Flames and Save Every Family In Jersey City Tenement.

Jersey City, N. J., May 15.—For two hours firemen battled with flames that enveloped the frame seven family tenement at 134 Morris street and rescued every occupant of the house.

The blaze started in the cellar of the building. It was discovered by Peter Windowloski, who lives on the first floor. He sent in an alarm, and Engine company No. 2 responded. By this time thick smoke was issuing from the structure. Time and again the firemen entered the house and returned bearing men, women and children. The entire lower part of the building was destroyed.

ADMITS MILITIA SHOT AT CHILDREN'S TENTS

Officer Says Strikers Had Fired First.

Denver, May 15.—The state militia fired directly into the tents at Ludlow where two women and eleven children were suffocated by fire and smoke April 20, according to the admission by First Lieutenant Maurice C. Bigelow, one of the chief witnesses for the state soldiers before the court martial at Golden.

This is the first time such an admission has been made by a member of the militia. Bigelow is first lieutenant in Company B of the Colorado national guard. He declared, however, that the tents were not fired upon until after the strikers had attacked the militia.

He said that about 6 o'clock in the evening he, Captain T. C. Linderfelt and Lieutenant R. J. Linderfelt were fired upon by strikers from the tents, the shooting by the strikers prior to that hour having come from a railroad cut and an arroya.

"Then we opened fire on the tent colony proper," said the witness. "We were about forty yards from the first tent. We fired into it, then crossed the road and used the water tank as cover, meanwhile continuing our firing.

"The first tent was the first to catch fire. It caught in the middle of the roof. Earlier in the day I had seen smoke coming from the stovepipe on that tent as well as from others. I heard several explosions. Then a woman ran out, screaming 'Dynamite!'"

MELLEN REVEALS NEW HAVEN DEALS

Says Road Spent $1,200,000 on Politicians.

BYRNES WAS GO-BETWEEN

Former President Frankly and Calmly Tells Commission of Graft—Tries to Shift Blame of Management of Road to Shoulders of Directors.

Washington, May 15.—Charles S. Mellen, ex-president of the New Haven railroad, took the first step in his purpose to shift the blame for the New Haven's present condition from his own to the shoulders of the directors who were associated with him in the management of the property.

How $1,200,000 of the money of the stockholders of the New Haven railroad passed into the hands of "persons of influence" in New York politics through the late ex-Police Inspector Thomas Byrnes was also outlined by Mellen on the witness stand before the interstate commerce commission. The money was paid to influence the board of aldermen and other bodies or individuals in New York city to make certain changes in the franchise of the New York and Westchester railroad, one of the white elephants which the New Haven acquired during Mr. Mellen's management.

The $1,200,000 was distributed either in cash or in New Haven stock to persons unknown to Mr. Mellen. These persons, described by the witness as "from the east side of New York," got due bills signed by Mellen from Byrnes. They took the due bills to Mellen, and he honored them in cash or stock as the visitors specified. Mellen never asked them who they were. He understood that they were being rewarded, through Byrnes, for their services in making changes in the Westchester franchise granted by the city. Mellen didn't know the nature of those services. But Byrnes did, and Mellen trusted Byrnes. Mr. Mellen bluntly said he would have been willing to deal with the "devil or anybody else" in the transaction.

He said he paid out $10,000 last March on one of the due bills to a man entirely unknown to him.

The details of the transactions involving the $1,200,000 were not brought out. Mr. Mellen was excused at noon and instructed to go to New Haven and get a lot of documents bearing on these dealings with the "east siders." He will go on the stand again next Tuesday morning.

Tells of Distribution.

Most of Mr. Mellen's testimony deals with the distribution of the $1,200,000. But in his very opening sentences the witness revealed what has been long known in financial and railroad circles, that J. Pierpont Morgan was the absolute, undisputed boss of the New Haven and all the transactions of the New Haven.

"Who made you president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad?" the witness was asked.

"The late J. Pierpont Morgan," replied Mellen eagerly. "He told me he was going to make me president of the New Haven. That was all. I didn't know the salary and didn't ask. I considered it a promotion in recognition of good service."

It was expected that Mr. Folk, counsel to the commission, would follow the Morgan lead, but he switched off into the affairs of the Westchester railroad. The witness was plainly willing to talk fully and freely. It was plain to all observers that if there is a plan on foot to make Charles S. Mellen the "goat" of the New Haven scandal that design will be met with the active and uncompromising resistance of Charles S. Mellen.

Compared with the harassed, nervous, almost crying Mellen of a year ago in the last days of his presidency here was a new man. The lines of care and worry were gone from his face. The tremulous note was gone from his voice. The quivering of his heavy under lip that walled out his defense in former days now had firm closing hold and clipped off his sharp cut sentences.

REBELS OVERWHELM BANDITS

Nine of Quevado's Band Killed in Three Day Fight.

Juarez, May 15.—After three days of fighting, Rodriguez Quevado's band of about thirty outlaws, who have been terrorizing western Chihuahua for months and recently attempted to destroy American ranch property, have been dispersed by Constitutionalist soldiers under Captain Leopoldo Rodriguez, according to advices received at military headquarters.

Eleven skirmishes is the record of the rebel detachments that have been hunting Quevado. Most of the fighting took place a short distance north of Santa Sofia, a station on the Mexican Northwestern railway, fifty miles west of Casas Grandes. It was near Santa Sofia that Quevado's band burned two railway bridges at the beginning of the week.

Snow In Adirondacks.

Gloversville, N. Y., May 15.—Guides here from Pine Lake, in the Adirondacks, report that eight inches of snow fell there in the twenty-four hours preceding their departure. Four inches of snow was reported at Lake Pleasant, and other sections of the Adirondacks report a heavy snowstorm.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney troubles, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

NEEDLEWORK

By

MARGARET LAWRENCE

A DAINTY DESIGN FOR A LINGERIE HAT OR BOUDOIR CAP

This dainty design, number 14679, for a lingerie hat or boudoir cap is very simple and easy to embroider. It should be stamped on fine white round-thread linen, lawn, batiste, or handkerchief linen and developed with mercerized cotton in solid work, eyelets, French knots, and outline stitch.

This hat may be laid flat when laundered, and the ribbon, which runs through the large eyelets, not only draws it into shape but adds a bit of color. If desired, this hat may be made of colored linen to match the dress.

The scalloped edge should be firmly padded so as to keep its shape, and do not cut the material away from the scallops until after the design has been laundered.

Guaranteed hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied upon the receipt of price, 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The one-piece kimono romper shown in number 8139, closes at the back, has a pair of seamless drawers which button up at each side, and a round neck which may be cut at a lower line, and full length sleeves, which may be cut off at the elbow. Chambray, gingham, honey-comb crêpe or voile, any of these may be used successfully for this garment. The most practical suggestion perhaps is a crêpe, as it washes well, requires no ironing and does not shrink. Instead of cheap pearl buttons, bone should be used for garments of this sort require considerable laundering. These buttons do not break or become discolored. For a growing child no garment has been invented more comfortable or practical than the romper, as it allows perfect freedom in movement and does not hamper or bind.

This garment requires for a child of four, 1¾ yards of 36-inch material. Pattern comes in seven sizes, 6 months to 6 years.

Be sure to give right size, passing tape around the fullest part of the breast, well up under the arms.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CHERRY PUDDINGS.

DINNER MENU.
Clear Soup.
Roast Lamb. Mint Sauce.
Creamed Peas. Mashed Potatoes.
Lettuce Salad. Cheese Wafers.
Baked Apples. Cherry Pie.
Coffee. Tea. Milk.

CHERRIES make fine puddings, and these may be varied as to the crust, the method of cooking them and the sauce with which they are served.

Baked and Steamed Pudding.

Baked Cherry Pudding.—Put the stoned cherries in the bottom of a granite dish and cover them with a paste made in the proportion of one cupful of flour, one-half cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Put the dish in the oven and bake. No sauce will be needed, as the cherries will serve that purpose.

Steamed Cherry Pudding.—Beat one egg, very light, add one and a half cupfuls of milk and a pinch of salt. Sift together three cupfuls of flour and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and add the egg and milk, making a smooth batter. Add last half pint of pitted cherries. Steam for an hour in a well buttered pudding dish. Serve hot with sugar and cream.

With a Delicious Dressing.

Sweet Cherry Pudding.—Take one cupful of sugar, one cupful of sweet milk, butter the size of an egg, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, flour enough to make a stiff batter. Serve with the following dressing: Two cupfuls of cherries, one cupful of sugar, a small piece of butter, two cupfuls of boiling water. Pour over the batter and bake forty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

A Simple Pastry.

Plain Cherry Pudding.—Beat three eggs lightly, then stir in a pint of milk and a little less than a quart of flour, enough to make a smooth batter. Add a little salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, which should be added to the dry flour and sifted together to mix. Add a tablespoonful of softened butter. Beat thoroughly, and last of all mix in a pint of cherries, stoned and drained free from juice and dredged with a little flour to keep them from sinking in the batter. Turn into a buttered pudding mold or pail and put into a kettle of boiling water and keep boiling continuously for three hours. Serve with sugar and cream or hard sauce.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Brave Cat Who Saved Her Mistress' Life.

He Would Sit Purring In Her Lap.

THAT day Evelyn had been to see a little girl who had the most beautiful little gray and white kitten. Of course when daddy got home that evening she had to tell him all about it the very first thing.

"It was such a cunning one," said Evelyn, "and it was so happy when it curled up in Margaret's lap."

"Well, maybe," said daddy, "it will grow up to be a fine brave cat like the one I want to tell you about this evening.

"There was once an old lady who had rheumatism. She had to spend almost all her time just sitting in a big chair. Walking was much too painful for her to try to do. Now, she lived in a great big house all alone, and she was very lonely. Some one suggested that she should get an animal of some sort for a companion. The old lady thought a cat would be nice.

"So one day she heard of some one who had a beautiful big yellow cat. This woman wanted to go on a long trip, and it would be impossible to take the cat with her. So the old lady at once sent for the woman and said she longed for a cat and would want it for always.

"So the cat became hers, and she named him Warry.

"Warry was very happy in his new home, and he thought his mistress was delightful. He would sit for hours purring in her lap and perfectly happy, and his mistress would be so pleased that Warry was so satisfied.

"One night, after Warry had had his last drink of milk and was curling up in his basket, he smelled some strange smell.

"Suddenly he saw smoke. Up he sprang from his basket. He knew that the only place for smoke was in a chimney, and the very first thing he did was to rush for his mistress.

"He went over to the bed and pulled at the bedclothes. The old lady was sleeping very heavily, and he could not seem to awaken her. He tugged more violently than ever as the smoke began to come in the room. Then he gave the piercing cry of a cat in pain and one tremendous pull at the bedclothes. The old lady woke up.

"She realized at once what was the matter. Quickly she got out of bed. She almost forgot about her rheumatism, so frightened was she and so much depended on her hurrying, no matter how hard it was. She picked up Warry and put him under her arm, and together they went downstairs. The fire had broken out upstairs in the old lady's little sitting room. None of the smoke had as yet reached downstairs. They had not been there for a moment before the fire department came. Some one had heard the wild call of the cat and seen the smoke. Soon the fire was put out."

CHILDREN'S ROOMS

Youngsters Should Be Given Resonable Freedom In Them.

A CHARMING NURSERY HINT.

Miniature Furniture In Cane and Similar Materials Is Attractive and Has No Hard Corners to Hurt Chubby Limbs.

Lucky the child who has a playroom that does not have to be cleared up, says House and Garden. In such a playroom was recently seen laid out on the dull red carpet a miniature railroad, bridges, switches, roundhouses, yards and all, including sand for roads and walks.

Suppose this had to be cleared up when its owner had finished his game—would he not become discouraged soon when his handiwork must be demolished each day? In this cheerful room the corner beyond the railroad was screened off with a "playhouse screen" representing a substantial brick house, with a real screen door on hinges and windows daintily curtained.

The windows of the playroom were shaded by curtains bought in Germany—a suggestion which any one may easily carry out. The curtains are thick enough to hide disorder from neighborly eyes. They are made of German linen, natural color, and the animals and birds are of turkey red stitched on by chain stitch machine. The line at the bottom is machine chain stitched. These curtains have been washed many times and are still as fresh and strong as when new. Unbleached muslin would be just as effective and wear as well. The only real furniture in the room is a piano. The wall has paper of a warm brown tint with pastoral scenes as a frieze.

SPLINT CHAIR.

There are ventilators in the windows, a plan every mother should follow for both sleeping room and play room.

A plan to utilize a mantel or mock mantel in a child's room is carried out in this same house. White, unglazed tiles are set around the chimney opening, with a border of nursery rhyme tiles at the top and sides. These tiles are made in dainty colorings, with pictures of nursery favorites and rhymes. In the openings a small blackboard is set, the edge finished with a narrow molding tile and a wider curved tile at the bottom to hold chalk and eraser. The children have made splendid use of this mantel arrangement not only for the regular uses of a blackboard, but in copying the dainty pictures on the tiles. A mock mantel could also be arranged for the child's room by setting the tiling and blackboard in the wall.

There are twenty designs in the nursery tiles, size 6 by 6. Work of this sort is best done by a professional tile setter, who will charge about 50 cents each set in place.

Nowadays fine furniture and artistic wall paper go far in beautifying any room. A full purse is needed if one wishes to put oneself in the hands of an interior decorator. But there are rooms where a little ingenuity and taste are sufficient to convert them from dull, uninteresting places to bright and cheerful abodes. This is especially true of a child's room.

One such is in a small second story back bedroom of the conventional city house. It has only one window, yet the walls are so cheerful that the occupant, a girl of ten, needs nothing else to fill her heart and mind with pretty thoughts and bright ideas.

To produce this successful room her mother used plenty of paste and many large highly colored pictures, posters and panel pictures. These she cut out and pasted artistically on the walls.

This room proved a delight to the little ten-year-old girl. Each picture became a playmate, a companion, a visitor to her, and nightly her mother sat at the foot of her bed, before kissing her good night, and told her stories about the picture children, imbuing them with life and interest.

One day sickness assailed the little maid, and then the room became a double pride and pleasure.

Miniature furniture which is a faithful representation of styles for adults may be purchased in the shops. Cane or splint furniture is light, may be easily carried about and has no rough edges on which the children may hurt themselves. Shown here is a splint rocker, part of a set which makes ideal furniture for a nursery playroom or children's bedroom. It is in sizes to suit the little folks.

FOR THE TABLE.

Utensils That Will Be Appreciated by the Cook and Housekeeper.

Two useful devices for the housewife are shown here. One, a toast rack in nickle, is a light and attractive addition to the breakfast table.

The mayonnaise mixer also shown will be appreciated by all lovers of salads, for it will enable them to mix up a salad dressing with ease and celerity. The results will also be more satisfactory than with the old fashioned process.

TOAST RACK AND MAYONNAISE MIXER.

About Corks.

Corks may be made air tight or water tight by being immersed in melted wax for five minutes. A cork will fit any bottle if boiled for five minutes previously. A convenient substitute for a corkscrew when the latter is not at hand may be found in the use of a common screw with an attached string to pull out cork.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Sentry Duty.

IVORY BOYNTON drove home from the woods that same afternoon by way of the bridge, in order to buy some provisions at the brick store. When he was still a long distance from the bars that divided the lane from the highroad he espied a dark clad little speck he knew to be Rodman leaning over the fence, waiting and longing as usual for his homecoming, and his heart warmed at the thought of the boyish welcome that never failed.

The sleigh slipped quickly over the hard packed, shining road, and the bells rang merrily in the clear, cold air, giving out a joyous sound that had no echo in Ivory's breast that day. He had just had a vision of happiness through another man's eyes. Was he always to stand outside the banqueting table, he wondered, and see others feasting while he hungered?

Now the little speck bounded from the fence, flew down the road to meet the sleigh and jumped in by the driver's side.

"I knew you'd come tonight," Rodman cried eagerly. "I told Aunt Boynton you'd come."

"How is she, well as common?"

"No, not a bit well since yesterday morning, but Mrs. Mason says it's nothing worse than a cold. Mrs. Mason has just gone home, and we've had a grand housecleaning today. She's washed and ironed and baked, and we've put Aunt Boynton in clean sheets and pillowcases, and her room's nice and warm, and I carried the cat in and put it on her bed to keep her company while I came to watch for you. Aunt Boynton let Mrs. Mason braid her hair and seemed to like her brushing it. It's been dreadful lonesome, and, oh, I am glad you came back, Ivory. Did you find any more spruce gum where you went this time?"

"Pounds and pounds, Rod; enough to bring me in nearly $100. I chanced on the greatest place I've found yet. I followed the wake of an old whirlwind that had left long furrows in the forest—I've told you how the thing works—and I tracked its course by the gum that had formed wherever the trees were wounded. It's hard, lonely work, Rod, but it pays well."

"If I could have been there maybe we could have got more. I'm good at shinning up trees."

"Yes, sometime we'll go gum picking together. We'll climb the trees like a couple of cats and take our knives and scrape off the precious lumps that are worth so much money to the druggists. You've let down the bars, I see."

"'Cause I knew you'd come tonight," said Rodman. "I felt it in my bones. We're going to have a splendid supper."

"Are we? That's good news." Ivory tried to make his tone bright and interested, though his heart was like a lump of lead in his breast. "It's the least I can do for the poor little chap," he thought, "when he stays as caretaker in this lonely spot. I wonder if I hadn't better drive into the barn, Rod, and leave the harness on Nick till I go in and see mother? Guess I will."

"She's hot, Aunt Boynton, hot and restless, but Mrs. Mason thinks that's all."

Ivory found his mother feverish, and her eyes were unnaturally bright, but she was clear in mind and cheerful, too, sitting up in bed to breathe the better, while the Maltese cat snuggled under her arm and purred peacefully.

"The cat is Rod's idea," she said smilingly, but in a very weak voice. "He is a great nurse. I should never have thought of the cat myself, but she gives me more comfort than all the medicine."

Ivory and Rodman drew up to the supper table, already set in the kitchen, but before Ivory took his seat he softly closed the door that led into the living room. They ate their beans and brown bread and the mince pie that had been the "splendid" feature of the meal, as reported by the boy, and when they had finished and Rodman was clearing the table Ivory walked to the window, lighting his pipe the while, and stood soberly looking out on the snowy landscape. One could scarcely tell it was twilight, with such sweeps of whiteness to catch every gleam of the dying day.

"Drop work a minute and come here, Rod," he said at length. "Can you keep a secret?"

"Course I can! I'm chock full of 'em now, and nobody could dig one of 'em out o' me with a pickax!"

"Oh, well, if you're full you naturally couldn't hold another!"

"I could try to squeeze it in if it's a nice one," coaxed the boy.

"I don't know whether you'll think it's a nice one, Rod, for it breaks up one of your plans. I'm not sure myself how nice it is, but it's a very big, unexpected, startling one. What do you think—your favorite, Patty, has gone and got married!"

"Patty! Married!" cried Rod, then hastily putting his hand over his mouth to hush his too loud speaking away last Monday, drove over to Allentown, N. H., and were married without telling a soul. Deacon Baxter discovered everything this afternoon, like the old fox that he is, and turned Patty out of the house."

"Mean old skinflint!" exclaimed Rod excitedly, all the incipient manhood rising in his ten-year-old breast. "Is she gone to live with the Wilsons?"

"The Wilsons don't know yet that Mark is married to her, but I met him driving like jehu, just after I had left Patty, and told him everything that had happened and did my best to cool him down and keep him from murdering his new father-in-law by showing him it would serve no real purpose now."

"Did he look married and all different?" asked Rod curiously.

"Yes, he did, and more like a man than ever he looked before in his life. We talked everything over together, and he went home at once to break the news to his family without even going to take a peep at Patty. I couldn't bear to have them meet till he had something cheerful to say to the poor little soul. When I met her by Uncle Bart's shop she was trudging along in the snow like a draggled butterfly and crying like a baby."

Sympathetic tears dimmed Rodman's eyes. "I can't bear to see girls cry, Ivory. I just can't bear it, especially Patty."

"Neither can I, Rod. I came pretty near wiping her eyes, but pulled up, remembering she wan't a child, but a married lady. Well, now we come to the point."

"Isn't Patty's being married the point?"

"No, only part of it. Patty's being sent away from home leaves Waitstill alone with the deacon, do you see? And if Patty is your favorite, Waitstill is mine. I might as well own up to that."

"She's mine, too," cried Rod. "They are both my favorites, but I always thought Patty was the suitablest for me to marry if she'd wait for me. Waitstill is too grand for a boy!"

"She's too grand for anybody, Rod. There isn't a man alive that's worthy to strap on her skates."

"Well, she's too grand for anybody except"— and here Rod's shy, wistful voice trailed off into discreet silence.

"Now, I had some talk with Patty, and she thinks Waitstill will have no trouble with her father just at present. She says he lavished so much rage upon her that there'll be none left for anybody else for a day or two. And, moreover, that he will never dare to go too far with Waitstill because she's so useful to him. I'm not afraid of his beating or injuring her so long as he keeps his sober senses, if he's ever rightly had any. But I don't like to think of his upbraiding her and breaking her heart with his cruel talk just after she's lost the sister that's been her only companion." And Ivory's hand trembled as he filled his pipe. He had no confidant but this quaint, tender hearted, old fashioned little lad, to whom he had grown to speak his mind as if he were a man of his own age, and Rod, in the same way, had gradually learned to understand and sympathize.

"It's dreadful lonesome on Town House hill," said the boy in a hushed tone.

"Dreadful lonesome," echoed Ivory with a sigh; "and I don't dare leave mother until her fever dies down a bit and she sleeps. Now, do you remember the night that she was taken ill, and we shared the watch?"

Rodman held his breath. "Do you mean you're going to let me help just as if I was big?" he asked, speaking through a great lump in his throat.

"There are only two of us, Rod. You're rather young for this piece of work, but you're trusty — you're trusty!"

"Am I to keep watch on the deacon?"

"That's it, and this is my plan: Nick will have had his feed. You're to drive to the bridge when it gets a little darker and hitch in Uncle Bart's horse shed, covering Nick well. You're to go into the brick store, and while you're getting some groceries wrapped up, listen to anything the men say, to see if they know what's happened. When you've hung about as long as you dare leave your bundle and say you'll call in again for it. Then see if Baxter's store is open. I don't believe it will be, and if it isn't look for a light in his kitchen window and prowl about till you know that Waitstill and the deacon have gone up to their bedrooms. Then go to Uncle Bart's and find out if Patty is there."

Rod's eyes grew bigger and bigger. "Shall I talk to her?" he asked, "and what'll I say?"

"No, just ask if she's there. If she's gone Mark has made it right with his family and taken her home. If she hasn't why, God knows how that matter will be straightened out. Anyhow, she has a husband now, and he seems to value her, and Waitstill is alone on the top of that wind swept hill!"

"I'll go. I'll remember everything," cried Rodman, in the seventh heaven of delight at the responsibilities Ivory was heaping upon him.

"Don't stay beyond 8 o'clock, but come back and tell me everything you've learned. Then, if mother grows no worse, I'll walk back to Uncle Bart's shop and spend the night there just—just to be near, that's all."

"You couldn't hear Waitstill, even if she called," Rod said.

"Couldn't I? A man's ears are very sharp under certain circumstances. I believe if Waitstill needed help I could hear her breathe! Besides, I shall be up and down the hill till I know all's well, and at sunrise I'll go up and hide behind some of Baxter's buildings till I see him get his breakfast and go to the store. Now wash your dishes." And Ivory caught up his cap from a hook behind the door.

"Are you going to the barn?" asked Rodman.

"No, only down to the gate for a good chance he'd send a boy with a note and get him to put it under the stone gate post. It's too soon to expect it perhaps, but I can't seem to keep still."

Rodman tied a gingham apron around his waist, carried the teakettle to the sink and poured the dishpan full of boiling water, then dipped the cups and plates in and out, wiped them and replaced them on the table, gave the bean platter a special polish and set the half mince pie and the butter dish in the cellarway.

"A boy has to do most everything in this family," he sighed to himself. "I don't mind washing dishes, except the nasty frying pan and the sticky bean pot, but what I'm going to do tonight is different"—here he glowed and tingled with anticipation—"I know what they call it in the story books—it's sentry duty, and that's braver work for a boy than dish washing."

Which, however, depends a good deal upon circumstances and somewhat on the point of view.

Fred MacDonald, the commissioners appointed by the Common Council pursuant to the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to widen Madison avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey," approved December 22nd, 1913, and the resolution of the Common Council in the premises, adopted May 4, 1914, to meet and proceed with the discharge of their duties and hear all persons interested in the premises, and make their estimates and assessments under said ordinance and said resolution and the statutes in such case made and provided.

The street to be widened to extend from the southeasterly side line of West Front Street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, the center and side lines of which street, as well as the width thereof, being particularly described in said ordinance, and shown on map therein referred to and on file in the office of the City Clerk, entitled "Assessment Map for the widening of Madison avenue from West Front Street to the Central Railroad of New Jersey, City of Plainfield, N. J.," dated February 17th, 1912.

The lands to be taken for the widening of said Madison Avenue on the northeasterly side of the same from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to said line of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey includes all that part of the property of the estate of Samuel Dreier, Max Ginsberg, Sophia Shrager, Jane B. DeMott, Emily A. Ryder, Minnie E. Stephenson, Marcus L. Clawson, Moses Bender and Public Service Electric Company, which lies between the present northeasterly side line of said avenue as now laid out and opened, and a line parallel with the centre line of said avenue and distant therefrom twenty-five (25) feet in a northeasterly direction.

The land to be taken for said widening on the southwesterly side of said Madison Avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to said line of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey includes all that part of the property of Fred Endress, William W. Mills, Annie M. McDonough and Wadley & Goodenough (a corporation), which lies between the present southwesterly side line of said avenue as now laid out and opened, and a line parallel with the centre line of said avenue, and distant therefrom twenty-five (25) feet in a southwesterly direction, as shown on said map and said ordinance, to which reference is hereby made for a more detailed description.

By order of the Common Council.

The Colorado Strike; United States Troops Act as Mediators

ON April 20, near the little mining town of Ludlow, in the southern Colorado coal fields, occurred one of the most serious tragedies of American labor history. From early morning until nearly midnight a battle raged between striking miners and state troops aided by mine guards. After the battle each side prepared to renew the fight. By the morning after the Ludlow strikers' tent colony, built to house 1,200 people, was in ashes and thirty-three persons, mostly women and children, were dead. Two women and eleven children were burned to death in the cellar of a tent because they feared the flames less than the machine guns of state troops and mine guards. A large number were wounded, and many were missing. Union officials claim that a much larger number were killed and that troops or company guards were seen to cremate a number of corpses.

Such in brief is the story of a combat fraught with still more dire potentialities, which has given to the heart of the nation a greater and more anxious thrill than has the possibility of war with Mexico.

Later the troops and mine guards were re-enforced by all available aids. The strikers throughout the region, hearing of the Ludlow tragedy, armed themselves as rapidly as possible and marched toward Ludlow. Intermittent firing continued, but the troops and guards, commanding the valley with their machine guns, maintained control of the immediate vicinity.

About 1,000 miners prepared to meet the militia. In the meantime virtual anarchy prevailed in parts of the strike region. Some of the miners threw off the restraints of the union officials and of local authorities, and several mining properties were destroyed.

Before more serious fighting occurred a truce was arranged. The strikers remained in virtual control of the region south of Ludlow, and union officials undertook the task of policing the city of Trinidad.

In order to prevent further bloodshed President Wilson ordered United States troops to the scene of the disturbances in order to put down the warfare between strikers and mine owners. A complete disarmament of all civilians in the Colorado strike districts was the first step taken by the federal government to restore order.

TENTS OF THE STRIKERS, AND STRIKE LEADER J. W. BROWN.

Secretary of War Garrison, upon the specific orders of the president, ordered Major Hoibrook, U. S. A., at Trinidad, Colo., to issue a proclamation calling upon all persons in the strike zone who had arms and ammunition to turn them over to the officers of the United States cavalry on duty in the regions.

From the pioneer days of Colorado there have been intermittent outbursts of industrial war, and at all times there has been among the coal miners a deep, sullen undercurrent of resentment and bitterness. The present trouble is but an unusually serious recurrence of periodical hostilities. The strike breakers of yesterday are the strikers of today. The question, Who fired the first shot at Ludlow? is lost in the larger problem which Colorado and the nation are now called upon to solve. This larger problem is, What is the cause of the bitterness and the strife which have lacerated the commonwealth for generations and which, if not reached by fundamental remedies, will continue to distract the state?

There are many phases of the problem, and it is complicated by grave questions of the enforcement of the state's labor laws. But the essential feature of the problem is collective as opposed to individual bargaining. The method of collective bargaining for which the union is contending in Colorado as elsewhere is, of course, the trade agreement made in joint conference by representatives of the two sides. The coal operators in Colorado prior to the strike refused to meet representatives of the union on the ground that the union falsely claimed to represent their employees. But the men were loyal to the union, and the strike was one of the greatest in the history of American coal mining.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

In your issue of May 6th a local Anti-Suffragist presents an array of assumed facts which, if true, as well as the conclusions drawn from them would undoubtedly be extremely damaging to the cause of woman suffrage and to the cause of prohibition of the liquor traffic. Statistics are valuable when authoritative, and when the conclusions based upon them are correct. If they are true, their authorship is not particularly important, but when they also involve conclusions of fact the source of information is all important. In the present case it is stated that one "Mr. G. M. Puller, Government Statistician" prepared certain statements, but just where his words begin and end is not quite clear. I have examined the register of all the government officials in all departments in Washington, but his name is not there, and I am informed from that city that he is not known in the departments. This is not intended to mean that there is no such statistician ,but merely that I cannot identify him as a government authority, but doubtless the writer of the communication could give his exact relation to the statistics of the government, and interested students like myself would be glad to have her do so. On a recent occasion I ventured to question the authority of so good a Christian woman as Mrs. Goodwin, of Westfield, on a particular point, and was sharply taken to task for so doing, by the same correspondent. I notice in the Woman's Protest of March (the Anti Monthly) that Mrs. Goodwin, entirely to her credit, had publicly retracted a charge made by her, and into which she had been misled by some careless authority in the Anti office. Your correspondent herself was the victim of such a misstatement when she said that Dr. Anna Howard Shaw was authority for the statement that only about 8 per cent. of the women of voting age are in favor of woman suffrage. On asking Dr. Shaw for her authority for such figures, she replied, through her secretary, that she had never made such a statement, and that there were no figures available from which such a statement could properly be made. In what I say here therefore, I am willing to admit that the value of a fact does not depend on the authority of the person using it, and that the person using it may be the un-witting victim of a less careful or less conscientious authority.

I will, with your kind permission, examine such of the facts and conclusions as I have time to consider and at a later date will conclude my analysis of the remainder.

No Suffrage Prohibition States.

1st. "No state in which women have voted on the question has State-wide prohibition been adopted."

This is doubtless true, since according to the same authority only nine States have prohibition. Several States have licenses, like New Jersey, but the vast majority, like the suffrage States, are trying the experiment of local option. State-wide prohibition, like laws against other forms of evil, have not proven satisfactory, as evidenced by the results in Alabama (which has given up prohibition) Georgia and Maine. Some writers claim it is not a success in any State where it has been tried, owing to the lack of State-wide public opinion necessary to have the law enforced. In the evolution of society it has been found that under local option a smaller unit of town, city or county can deal more effectively with the question, as the law allows the towns, etc., to decide what they want and then enforce the will of the majority. These are the reasons why the liquor interests are opposed to giving New Jersey the right to vote on local option. I submit therefore that the fact is no argument against the temperance sympathies and affiliations of our women, nor an argument against woman suffrage unless it is insisted that every opponent of the saloon must be a State-wide prohibitionist, which is preposterous in light of the facts quoted. Do the Anti-Suffragists favor State-wide prohibition? If so, the indirect influence of 90 per cent. of the women of voting age (claimed by them) appears to carry no weight whatever in the other 39 States.

2nd. "Nine States where men alone vote have State-wide prohibition." This is also doubtless true, and represents the struggles of a generation or longer to bring the liquor traffic to order. In those States women were doing their share without the vote before anti-suffrage was dreamed of, and when those States give women the vote the latter will still be found on the side of righteousness and sobriety. It will be a bad day for the nation if they are otherwise. The prohibition States are chiefly in the south and it is generally understood that that form of prohibition has been adopted to prevent crime among the colored people. At best it is only a make-shift, as proved by the fact that Captain Hobson, of Alabama, is now urging the law in prohibition States.

3rd. "Wyoming legalized gambling about 40-years after women had the ballot, and had neither State-wide prohibition or local option laws." What of that? Is this fact stated to prove that women voted for gambling, and hence women in the east should not get the vote? If not, what is the use of presenting the fact? In 1910 Wyoming had a voting population of 63,000 men and 28,000 women, showing that the odds were more than two to one in favor of the men, who are likely to have their own way when their majority is so large. Certainly the women could not vote them down even if they all favored the prohibition of vice.

4th. "While on the subject of population and the relative voting power of men and women, I draw attention to California since the results of voting on the liquor question in various towns and cities are quoted by your correspondent. I will deal with the towns and cities later. The census of 1910 gives California 1,322,978 males and 1,054,571 females. There are 920,397 men voters and 671,386 women, a majority of male voters of 249,011. This excess of 27 per cent. should be borne in mind when we tell how the women in a few towns and cities have failed to do all that the Antis say they ought to do. In addition to this, the fact should be noted that California is our greatest grape growing State, thus presenting problems in connection with the production and sale of wine that our eastern States do not have to face. The relation of that industry to Los Angeles and the other towns named, in Southern California, has a bearing on the liquor question entirely apart from woman suffrage, and this I will later demonstrate.

5th. The next remarkable argument produced by your correspondent is based on the annual report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, which is good authority on the matters treated therein, but cannot be held responsible for the wonderful conclusions drawn therefrom. The report shows that in the suffrage States of California, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Washington, there are 26,233 liquor dealers paying for special licenses to the United States equal to one to every 196 people in those States. The other 42 States and the District of Columbia have 226,609 liquor dealers under such special licenses, equal to one for every 392 people, or just one half the number of dealers in suffrage States. "And then we are told by the Suffragists" says your correspondent, "that they are not favorable to the liquor interests." The obvious inference is that where women have the vote there are more saloons than in the rest of the country, and that women voters are responsible. There are several elements in this situation which distinctly show that women are not responsible, and the whole argument falls to the ground as a reason for withholding the vote from women of the East.

(a) There were in 1910, 1,911,518 men voters and 1,346,925 women voters in those States, a majority of 564,593 men, (13th Census Vol. 1, P. 1035.) If th voters in those States had a voice in granting the United States Licenses, would the women or the men be responsible for the saloons? But

(b) After the voters of those done their best by vote to rid themselves of the saloon, the dealers, as I understand from this authority, secure special licenses from the United States, which apparently overrule the will of the people so far as the dry territory is concerned. That is not an argument against woman suffrage in those States, nor a reason why the vote should be withheld from the women of the eastern States. The case appears to be the same as the clubs in Plainfield, licensed by a judge in Elizabeth about which the City Council and the people of this city have nothing to say.

(c) As to the 42 non-suffrage States we are told there is one dealer to 392 people, but nothing is said about the thousands of State licenses granted in those States in addition to the United States licenses. No statement is complete without those figures, and it is manifestly unfair to draw any conclusions from them until all the facts in all the States are stated. If we are sincere temperance workers we must be thankful for the large reduction in the State licenses made by the women of Illinois during the six months they have had the vote and the men of Michigan are entitled to every credit for what they have done. In this connection it is proper to point out that the elections in Illinois on April 7th and 12th have probably led Congressman Dyer and the liquor people to stop worrying about prohibition in that State.

In the Daily Press of the 9th your correspondent replying to Mr. Ball, says: "We have freely stated many times that (as a rule) in sparsely settled districts women help prohibition, but we also emphatically declare that not one instance is recorded where they have helped in any large city." This free statement was originally credited to "antis in general, and Mrs. Goodwin in particular," but your correspondent now unequivocally adopts it herself. What size of a city would be satisfactory? Let me give some recent examples "recorded" in the daily papers, but apparently overlooked by your correspondent. It gets tedious correcting such wrong impressions, but as they involve a question of fact which influences many minds I take the time again to correct them by following Illinois examples recorded in the Chicago Tribune two days after the April election, viz.:

1—Rockford, population.....45,000
2—Decatur population, ....31,000
3—Bloomington, population, 26,000
4—Elgin, population, .....26,000
5—Galesburg, population,...22,000
6—Freeport, population, ...18,000
7—Champaign, population,..12,000
8—Lincoln, population,.....11,000
9—Mattoon, population,....11,000

Five of these places are larger than Plainfield.

The Chicago papers stated that the women were entitled to the credit for the majorities rolled up against the saloon, of which nearly a thousand were closed in that one election where the women had not had time to organize politically while the men had been organized for a generation.

The New York Sun correspondent said on April 9th, "not a city or township which was dry was lost and eleven of the largest cities and sixteen counties (since increased to twenty-two) were won over from the wets." Five cities from 24,000 to 52,000 remain wet which was not surprising.

My excuse for inflicting so long a reply upon you is that I have been thriving on statistics for the last forty years, especially in connection with the States lying west of the Missouri River, and am fully as much interested in the temperance fight as I am in woman suffrage.

ALEX MILLAR.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

Dear Sir:—Permit me through the columns of your paper to say a few words in regard to the tarvia used on the streets and the horses used in doing the work. I was informed by the man owning a team used on the street that he was instructed to pass over the tarvia in much less than an hour after it was put on the road. When he complained to his immediate boss "that it was burning his horses he was told by him that if he couldnot do the work he would get some one else that would."

This team was burned by the tarvia and one horse suffered such pain that he went over his manger in his agony. Veterinary vaseline is provided I know but anything that is of such an irritating nature as to need the application of vaseline is not a proper or safe substance for horses to walk through.

Furthermore if it is not feared that the tarvia will burn the horses why is vaseline provided.

I personally examined these horses and they were also examined by a veterinary and the burning of the horses was clearly evident as was also their sufferings. If as stated by Mr. Gavett special care is necessary for the horses used in applying this material, what means if any are employed in advising not only drivers engaged in the work, but drivers of horses compelled to use the streets which must also be dangerous to them as well.

Does it not seem reasonable that material that will quickly ruin rubber tires, remove the paint and varnish from vehicles, damage rugs, clothing and household furnishings will also injure the flesh of animals?

ADOPTS BUDGET.

The society of the Congregational church held a short business session Wednesday evening, when several routine matters of minor importance which had been laid over from the annual meeting held recently, were presented for action by the trustees of the church. Among the more important matters that were discussed, was the budget for the coming year, as drawn up by the Board of Trustees. This was adopted after some discussion.

TAUGHT BY THE SWALLOWS.

How a Railway Tunnel Was Built Through a Sand Bank.

A colony of bank swallows taught a young but observing engineer how to build a tunnel that his more learned superiors had refused to undertake.

North of Burlington, Vt., lies a broad sand plain high above the level of Lake Champlain, through which the Central railroad was to be carried by a tunnel. The sand, destitute of moisture, would not cohere, but crumbled away as soon as an excavation was made. After several costly trials the engineers decided that the tunnel was impracticable.

A young man in the engineer's office said he could tunnel the sand bank at a small cost. He said he could build the tunnel for so many dollars a running foot, but that he couldn't expect the railway people to act upon his opinion when so many American and European engineers had declared the project impracticable.

The managers, however, gave him a contract to build fifty feet of the tunnel. On the face of the sand bank he marked the line of an arch larger than the proposed tunnel and on this line drove sharpened timbers into the bank. Then he removed six feet of the sand and drove in another arch of twelve foot timbers, removing six feet more of sand. This process he repeated until he had space enough to begin the masonry. As fast as the masonry was completed the space above it was filled, leaving the timbers in place.

He pierced the bank with the cheapest tunnel ever built, which now stands as firm as on the day it was finished.

He was asked whether there was any suggestion of the structure adopted by him to be found in the books on engineering.

"No," he said, "it came to me in this way: I was driving by the place where the attempts were made and saw that a colony of swallows had made their homes in the bank. It occurred to me that these little engineers had disproved the assertion that the sand had no cohesion. As every swallow's home is a self sustaining tunnel without masonry, I thought that by extending their method I could construct a larger tunnel. The bank swallow is the inventor; I am simply his imitator."—Boston Post.

SWIFT FLYING STARS.

Vastness of the Universe Indicated by Their Long Travels.

The almost incredible distances of the heavenly bodies are well illustrated by Camille Flammarion's comments to the Societe Astrononique de France on the study by V. M. Slipher of the Lowell observatory on the speed of the nebula in Andromeda, which is 300 kilometers a second. Flammarion remarks that if this speed has been maintained since the days of Hipparchus, twenty centuries ago, the nebula has traveled in that time 19,000,000,000 kilometers. Hipparchus made a catalogue of the visible stars, and this nebula is not found in his list, although it can now be seen with the naked eye. Had it been as brilliant 2,000 years ago as it is today, Hipparchus, living under the clear sky of Alexandria, could not well have overlooked it.

"Must we then conclude," asks Flammarion, "that its twenty centuries of approach to us have been enough to increase its brilliancy? The parallax of the nebula is 0.17 second, which corresponds to a distance of 181,000,000,000,000 kilometers. It takes light nineteen years to travel that distance. So in 2,000 years its distance would have diminished by about one-tenth."

But then, no one knows that it has maintained this terrific speed throughout the centuries. It may have moved more slowly or more rapidly at any time. All is conjecture except the actual figures for its present speed and distance.

The fact that bodies moving at such speeds are not seen to move brings home to us the vastness of the universe.—New York World.

Time Alone Would Tell.

Mrs. Ross had a daughter who was of the opinion that her voice was her fortune. The mother sent her to a well known vocal teacher for lessons and after a short time called on the teacher to ascertain his opinion.

"Do you think," she asked the professor, "that my daughter will ever become a noted singer?"

"I gant zay," replied the professor. "She may. She dell me she gome of a long lived family."—National Monthly.

The Last Hole, Indeed.

The story is told of an ancient Scotch golfer whose companion died and was about to be buried. The Scotchman struggled out to the cemetery to be present at the interment, and arriving there did not know where the grave was. He summoned a boy with a whistle.

"Whist, lad," he said. "It's a new course. Whaur's the hole?"—New York Post.

Some German Taxes.

Among the curious taxes imposed in Germany on various objects are those on baby carriages, where the amount is 40 cents each, and $1.50 tax on caged nightingales, of which there have not been any for many years, and tourists, for whom the hotel keeper is taxed 2½ cents, which is added to the bill.

Notice From the Cook.

"Don't take any notice of the cook, dear."

"But, John, I have to take it when she gives it to me."—Baltimore American.

—DON'T MAKE DON'T YOUR CREED. If you have something to sell, some quest to pursue—do these tasks aggressively, through want-advertising!

The Creative Impulse.

The creative impulse does not itself know the next step it will take or the next form that will arise any more than the creative artist determines beforehand all the thoughts and forms his inventive genius will bring forth. He has the impulse or the inspiration to do a certain thing, to let himself go in a certain direction, but just the precise form his creation will take is as unknown to him as to you and me. Some stubbornness or obduracy in his material, or some accident of time or place, may make it quite different from what he had hoped or vaguely planned. He does not know what thought or incident or character he is looking for till he has found it, till he has risen above his mental horizon. So far as he is inspired, so far as he is spontaneous, just so far is the world with which he deals plastic and fluid and indeterminate and ready to take any form his medium of expression—words, colors, tones—affords him. He may surprise himself, excel himself; he has surrendered himself to a power beyond the control of his will or knowledge.—John Burroughs in the Atlantic.

Proper Way to Walk.

In walking, your feet should point straight ahead and come down flat, heel first. Writers who advise that the ball of the foot should touch the ground first, in common with the calisthenics instructor at school who likely as not advises the same thing do not know anything about the practical side of walking. The former doubtless have in mind the ballroom, and the latter the gymnasium. On a long walk you will naturally fall into the proper way of handling your feet. Let your arms swing naturally also, and for their benefit carry a stout stick—not a stout staff, which is too long and awkward. Keep this stick moving, in one hand or the other, and it will exercise your arms better than the mere act of swinging them will. Keep the shoulders down, the chest up and the body erect. The right posture of the body is as important a factor while walking as it is in the schoolroom.—From "The Boy Scout's Hike Book."

He Explained.

There was in Broadminster, says the "Lighter Side of English Life," a resourceful parson who invented plausible answers to questions when he did not know the right ones. He had been talking to a lady about a "Breeches" Bible picked up by a brother parson for sixpence, when she asked what a "Breeches" Bible was:

"A 'Breeches' Bible?" he cried. "Oh, a 'Breeches' Bible is the one that was carried by Cromwell's troopers in their pockets. It was made specially for carrying about—small, you know, and compact. I remember reading that several of the soldiers had their lives saved owing to the bullets having lodged in the volume in their breeches pocket."

"Not really?" said the lady. "How very interesting! I do believe that I heard something like that having happened. I forget where."

THE POPULAR ENGLISH STYLES are still in great favor with dressy men — we don't know of anything more refined than this "Carlton" Model.

It has the wanted bench made effect, the stitched sole swing out wide and clear around the heel helps that; the toe recedes sharply, the eyelets, as fashion decrees, are invisible.

STRICKEN WHILE RETURNING HOME

F. W. Carlisle Passes Away Suddenly in Elizabeth Hospital.

HAD HEART ATTACK

Was Well Known Resident Here for Several Years and Prominent in the Netherwood Section of the City.

Stricken with heart disease while on his way home from New York, yesterday afternoon, Frederick Willard Carlisle, aged forty-seven years, of Belvidere avenue, died at the General Hospital, Elizabeth, a few minutes after arriving at that institution. The hospital authorities upon learning that Mr. Carlisle's residence was here, communicated with the family, and arrangements were made to have the remains taken right to Washington, the former home of Mrs. Carlisle, where the funeral and burial will take place.

Mr. Carlisle had been in poor health of late and only recently his physician informed him that he had valvular heart trouble and cautioned him to be careful. As the train upon which he was coming to Plainfield neared Elizabeth, he suffered an acute attack of heart trouble. He decided to leave the train at Elizabeth and requested some one to call a physician. As quickly as possible Mr. Carlisle was removed to the General Hospital, but his condition was such that he was beyond hope and passed away in a few minutes. His death was a severe shock to his many friends in this city and New York.

Mr. Carlisle was born in Boston, and had been a resident of Plainfield about nine years. He was a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, and at one time served as a vestryman. He was a member of the Netherwood Residents' Association and took an active part in the affairs of that well-known civic body. Mr. Carlisle was associated with Raymond Pinchot, stock broker in Wall street, New York, having been with that house for a number of years.

There survives a wife and one daughter, Miss Marjorie Carlisle, aged about ten years.

LOCAL POLICE ARRESTED MAN WANTED FOR ASSAULT

Detective-Sergeant J. J. Flynn and Chief Weiss, of North Plainfield, arrested William Parker on Somerset street this morning and placed him in the local headquarters pending a hearing.

He is wanted by the police of New Brunswick on a charge of atrocious assault and battery. When taken into custody he had in his possession a "billy" filled with stone which he is alleged to have hit a man in New Brunswick with.

MUSICAL PRODIGY TO GIVE PIANO RECITAL

Master Walter Silbert, 11 years old, will give a public piano recital at Columbus Hall, Thursday night, May 21, assisted by Miss Gabriel Drosse, soprano soloist at the First M. E. church. Up to the present time Master Silbert has only been heard at the home of his teacher, E. Arthur Janke. At the early age of four years he showed a talent for music.

With a strong desire to learn, he began to play scales and little airs that he had heard, and a remarkable fact was that he always played the air in the key in which he heard them, and an investigation showed that the youngster had the unusual gift of "absolute pitch." He developed so rapidly that it was decided that he should receive proper instruction under Mr. Janke's careful supervision. Miss Beatrice Hedges will accompany the artists.

COMPANY K WILL ATTEND.

Members of Company K of this city, have received orders to assemble in the Armory on West Front street at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to attend the funeral of Thomas Clark, in Westfield. Mr. Clark was killed in Vera Cruz last week during an engagement between the American forces and the Mexicans. He was a blue jacket in the United States Navy.

COMMUNION SERVICE.

Rev. Mr. Alchuick, of Montclair, will conduct the communion service of the Swedish Lutheran church tomorrow evening. The service will be held in the edifice of the German Lutheran church, on Grove street.

CIRCUS PLEASED BIG CROWD YESTERDAY

Barnum and Bailey Exhibition More Than Exceeded Expectations of Thousands.

The Barnum and Bailey circus showed to 12,000 or more people in Plainfield last night, and had a good house in the afternoon, making the day one of the best they have had since leaving Madison Square Garden several weeks ago. The show was everything that was claimed for it in all the advance notices, and more too, and it would be hard to find words to describe the magnitude and magnificence of the great spectacle and splendid arenic exhibition given. The costuming and mounting of the spectacle, as shown under the brilliantly lighted canvas last night, presented the most elaborate exhibition of any kind that Plainfield has ever seen.

The officers and employes were a splendid group of men, and they did everything they could to make the people comfortable. There were no incidents of the day to make it unpleasant and the police had little or no trouble. Only one man was arrested, and he was taken as a suspicious character, being let go this morning. One complaint of pocket picking, not at the show grounds, but in the crowd watching the parade, was made, but there is some doubt about the accuracy of the claim.

In order to aid the police, and as an accommodation to the thousands who visited the show lot, the New York Telephone Company strung a wire 1,500 feet to reach the ground, and placed a pay station telephone for use in case of emergency. Among the visitors at the show was George Conklin, who had charge of the menagerie for fourteen years, prior to his retirement a few years ago. Mr. Conklin lives on a farm near Plainfield, and he had a busy day greeting old friends of the canvas world.

THOMAS WILBOR TO TALK ON EXPERIENCES IN MEXICO

"Experiences in Mexico" will be the subject of Thomas Wilbor's lecture on the Mexican situation, to be given in Y. M. C. A. Hall next Tuesday evening. Mr. Wilbor, during a residence of twelve years in Mexico City, witnessed many of the exciting events which have recently transpired there. He knows the country thoroughly and his estimate of the policies and personalities of the leaders in the present struggle is most valuable and helpful.

Given before such representative organizations as "The Massachusetts Society of the Sons of the Revolution" and "The Boston Young Men's Christian Union," this talk has been most favorably commented upon. Following the lecture, thirty-five slides, prepared by Mr. Wilbor and showing scenes in Mexico City following the bombardment of 1913, will be thrown on the screen and described.

ESCAPES FROM THE HOSPITAL

Jacob Overland Suddenly Leaves the Isolation Ward.

HAS SCARLET FEVER

Authorities Together With Board of Health Institutes Search for Young Man—Danger of Spreading Disease.

Jacob Overland, aged eighteen years, who has been a patient in the isolation ward at Muhlenberg Hospital, being under treatment for scarlet fever, escaped from that institution last night, getting out through a window, during a brief absence of the nurse in charge. His disappearance was not discovered until nearly a half hour later, and the authorities were notified at once.

Every possible effort to find the young man will be made, as there is the greatest danger of his spreading the disease to any number of people with whom he might come in contact while at large. The Board of Health has also been notified and its representatives will assist in the efforts to locate Overland, before too great an opportunity has been given to spread the disease.

Overland was taken ill with scarlet fever about two weeks ago and a few days later was admitted to the isolation ward at the hospital. His condition at the time was quite serious, in fact there was some doubt for several days regarding his recovery. It is believed that the disease has affected the young man's mind, leading him to make his escape. Fortunately the disease has not reached the peeling stage, although it is likely to take place at any time, while there is a possibility of fatal consequences to the young man from exposure.

ALLEGED HIGHWAYMEN TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Detective Sergeant Flynn and Chief Weiss Captured Pair This Morning.

Claiming that Grover Warneck and Joseph Barraro, of North Plainfield, had roobed him on a highway leading from South Plainfield to this city Jacob Giddis, of Martinsville, requested the North Plainfield police to apprehend the two youths this morning. Detective-Sergeant Flynn was called into the case and together with Chief Weiss, of North Plainfield, placed the accused under arrest this morning lodging them in a cell in the local jail.

Giddis claims that he met the youths at Gates' poolroom on Somerset street yesterday and went with them to Brantinghara's on Park avenue, where they had several drinks together. According to Giddis, he and the boys started for Plainfield by way of Park avenue and he alleges the youths knocked him down and robbed nim of $5 in bills and some change enroute to this city. The prisoners deny the charges and are being held pending a further investigation. When arrested neither had more than a dollar in change on his person.

Prior to her recent illness, Mrs. King enjoyed unusual health, being remarkably active for one of her years.

Mrs. King was born in Brooklyn, where she lived for twenty-five years. She was a member of the well-known Jarvis family, of Long Island, and her father, Jacob Mott, was also prominent in that section. ## REVILLE CHARGES ARE SUSTAINED

So Says Senator Martine in Reply to Telegram From Daily Press.

AFFECTS POSTMASTER

Martine Said Some Time Ago That He Would Not Have Successor Named for Elias H. Bird Until Reville Matter Had Been Probed.

Rumors about town that the old charges made against former Councilman Patrick J. Reville, which resulted about twelve years ago in his removal as an employe of the local postoffice, caused the Daily Press to telegraph Senator James E. Martine for further information about the matter. The message to the Senator was sent this morning, and read as follows:

"Understand charges against Reville have been sustained. Will you please wire confirmation."

In reply the Senator wired as follows:

"Am informed your information as wired is correct. James E. Martine."

The matter has some bearing on the Plainfield postmastership fight, and may result in the appointment at once of a successor to Elias H. Bird, the present Republican holdover, as Senator Martine was reported in a Washington despatch some time ago as saying that no one would be named to the local office until the Reville matter had been settled, as Reville had been an active candidate for the place. At the same time the Senator said that Reville had withdrawn from th race. This Reville's friends denied.

At the time Reville was removed it was claimed that it was done for political reasons, and Senator Martine made a strong protest, at that time being a private citizen. When Reville became a candidate for the postoffice the Senator had the case reopened by the Postmaster General, and inspectors have been here several times lately investigating the records. Today's telegram from the Senator indicates that the postal authorities have not seen fit to clear Mr. Reville.

COMMISSION WILL MEET TO CLOSE DEAL

Expects to Get Possession of Darling Farm by Monday Night.

The Join Sewage Commission is scheduled to hold an adjourned session Monday night, when it is expected that the deal for the Darling farm in Piscataway township will be closed. The matter was delayed somewhat owing to some minor difficulties which it is believed will be cleared up by Monday.

As the city, borough and Dunellen have sold their bonds for the sewer project, the municipalities will be able to go ahead with the work as soon as the land is secured for the sewage disposal works. As yet Justice Bergen has not given his decision in the case of the Borough of Middlesex against the City of Plainfield to review the action of the latter in its bond issue. It is understood that counsel on both sides has submitted briefs as requested by the court. Justice Bergen promised an early decision.

SEVERE PENALTY FOR A PERSISTENT FLIRT

Italian Youth Accused by Two Polish Girls Who Have Him Arrested.

George Regoriee, an Italian youth, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning and sentenced to pay a fine of $10, or serve forty days in the county jail for "flirting" with two Polish girls on Park avenue last night. Patrolman Mernagh, who made the arrest, and the two girls related stories to the court that outlined the defendant's persistent tactics followed on the streets prior to the arrest.

According to one of the girls Regoriee came out of the circus in back of them and boarded the same trolley. Alighting at the Watchung avenue depot the man was still in the rear, according to the girls and enroute to North and Park avenues spoke to them several times. His flirtation was not returned by the girls one of them sought a policeman, finding Mernagh on the corner. When Regoriee saw the girl conversing with the patrolman he started to run and Mernagh pursued him. The chase led through North avenue and the patrolman got his quarry in front of the North avenue depot.

Arraigned in court this morning he admitted flirting with the girls. In sentencing the youth Judge DeMeza administered a severe grilling in which he declared that he was determined to break up the practise that has caused much annoyance in the past and would make an example of Regoriee.

TUXPAM TAKEN BY VILLA'S MEN

Capture Assures Safety of Oil Districts Pleasing Washington Officials.

SILLIMAN IS SAFE

Consul on Way to Mexico City, But Mexican Reports on Fate of Samuel Parks is Not Satisfactory to State Department.

(Special from Central News.)

Washington, May 16.—Tuxpam, center of the rich oil fields of that name, has been captured by Constitutionalists. Word to this effect was received today by the State Department from United States Consul Canada at Vera Cruz.

News of the Constitutionalist victory was brought to Vera Cruz by Spanish citizens, who fled from the Tuxpam territory when the town fell. The Constitutionalists were commanded by General Aguilar and Blanco who took the town Thursday after a fiercely contested engagement.

Everything is quiet at Tampico, American consul Milier advised the State Department today. The town is being well policed and business is recovering its normal aspect.

The capture of Tuxpam by the Carranzistas is a matter of special satisfaction to the administration. Following so closely on the seizure of Tampico, the question of affording protection to the great oil properties in that zone has solved itself. The victors have given promise that they would respect American and foreign property and, so far, they have kept their word.

Washington, May 16.—While assurances reached the State Department this afternoon from the Brazilian Minister in Mexico City that American Consul John R. Silliman was expected to arrive in Mexico City today, having entrained at Saltillo in safety, advises apparently authentic were received confirming reports of the execution of Samuel Parks, private in General Funston's command at Vera Cruz.

Vera Cruz, May 16.—There is activity today among the Federals in the vicinity of Vera Cruz and their lines have been extended to the wrecked bridge over the Antigue river, 25 miles from this city.

New York, May 16.—Many people have written and talked about Americans in Mexico fleeing for their lives from Mexicans, but it remained for a young man in the employ of a steamship company, who is stationed at Puerto Mexico, to tell that Mexicans fled from that city in terror of Americans. In a letter to a friend he says:

"The panic that has been reigning for the past few days among the Mexicans is indescribable. Such exagerated reports of the Vera Cruz affair were circulated that they surely believed the Americans were a host of ogres who would drop down on the town and massacre everybody. The people therefore fled by all passible means—by trains into the interior, by boats and canoes up the river, on horses and mules and on foot. I have often read of panics and frequently have wondered if people could really get into such a state; but now that I have seen it I do not wonder any more.

"I must say, however, that the Mexicans, on the whole, even to the lower class, especially from whom foreigners feared hostile demonstrations, have shown great moderation in their conduct. Neither by word, gesture nor deed have they molested any Americans, much less other foreigners."

Washington, May 16—Consul Miller, at Tampico, reported to the State Department today that he had received assurances from General Gonzales, commander of the Rebel army of occupation, that all foreigners might return in safety to their homes and occupations. This assurance applies to the entire Tampico district, Consul Miller stated, including the oil fields. Many oil men are reported already on the ground preparing to resume operations.

BLAZE AT CIRCUS GROUNDS.

Fire headquarters was called on the 'phone at 2 o'clock this morning by someone in the vicinity of the circus grounds who said all the hay and straw left by the show people had been set on fire. The flames were spreading all about, the informant said, and houses and property were in danger. No. 4 company from the Netherwood house was sent out and found the information correct. All the inflammable stuff had been piled in a heap and was blazing fiercely. The firemen put the flames out in a few minutes.

China's Peerless Iron Mine.

China's famous iron mine, the Tayeh, the foremost in the far east, is especially notable for the ease with which it is worked. It stands peerless in the world in this respect, excavation requiring no machine power. The work is done by hand by the Chinese coolies. The mine is reputed to be inexhaustible in its ore. In the days of the "three kingdoms" the locality formed a theater of bloody fighting, and the vicinity abounds in relics of that memorable period in Chinese history. It is about 3,630 Chinese miles from Peking overland and about 4,980 Chinese miles by water. Tayehhsien is traversed by ranges of hills and mountains, the valleys of which abound in innumerable lakes of all sizes, with water course facilities. Consequently the locality is rich in scenery of great beauty, and the Chinese poets from olden times have never tired of singing of the "eight views" of Tayeh. In the neighborhood of the Tayeh iron mine are found the ruins of ancient iron foundries, probably 1,000 years old. Millions of tons of slag lie in heaps.

Settled the Question.

In Regensburg, in the middle ages, the headsman died and three applicants presented themselves for the post. A test of their skill would settle the matter. Accordingly three criminals were brought forth for slaughter.

The first headsman made with his sword a tiny nick in the first criminal's neck. "I'll lop him off just there," he said, and, swinging his sword round with a great swishing sound, lo! he did as he had said he would.

The second headsman tied a string round his criminal's neck. "I'll cut off his head and bisect the string," he said. And he did as he had promised.

These two first headsmen now began to study and ponder the neck of the third criminal, asking what proof of skill the third headsman should undertake, when the latter with one vast and splendid sword sweep cut off all three heads, thus finishing the criminal and his rivals together and winning the headsmanship of Regensburg amid the applause of all.

Harvard's First Building.

No man now living can describe as an eyewitness the crudities of Harvard's first building, where the ground floor was devoted to academic uses, religious and literary exercises and the purpose of refectory, kitchen and buttery, while above were students' quarters, mere cells of the rudest sort.

The building was far from weather proof, and more air than light was admitted by the windows, which were only partly glazed, oiled paper serving elsewhere to let in a few of the sun's rays and keep out the "coarsest of the cold," as Artemus Ward said when he hung an old hoopskirt over his chamber window at the country hostelry in midwinter.

Not even the most rudimentary of table equipment was supplied at the college eating room. His own knife and fork were carried by each student when he went to dinner, and after he had finished he wiped them on the tablecloth.—Dial.

Wasp Waisted Cretans.

In describing the civil guards at Canea, Mr. Trevor-Battye in "Camping in Crete," alludes to the slender waists of the Cretan men:

One point about the figures of these men, he says, as of all the mountain villagers, is the extreme smallness of their waists, which in some cases are almost waspilke. It is interesting to observe that this has always been a Cretan characteristic, for the figures on the frescoes and vases in the Minoan section of the museum in Candia (e. g., the famous "Cup Bearer") have the same remarkable slenderness of waist.

He is not sure whether this slim waist is natural or whether produced by tight belting.

A Lesson In Morals.

Mother—Now, Willie, you told me a falsehood. Do you know what happens to little boys who tell falsehoods?

Willie (sheepishly)—No, ma'am.

Mother—Why, a big black man with only one eye in the center of his forehead comes along and flies with him up to the moon and makes him pick sticks for the balance of his life. Now, you will never tell a falsehood again, will you? It is awfully wicked.—Puck.

Reason For His Popularity.

Stranger—The whole town seems to be turning out to this funeral. The deceased must have been very popular. Native—Stranger, he was one man in a million. After he bought his car he gave everybody a ride that he had promised to.—Judge.

Wine Tasters.

When wine tasters are employed in their professional duties they never swallow the wine they taste. They merely hold a sip of the beverage in the mouth for a few moments and breathe through the nostrils.—Exchange.

An Alternative.

ELEVATE ARGENTINA & CHILI CONSULS TO AMBASSADORS

Washington, May 16.—More than usual ceremony marked the formal advancement of the legations of Argentina and Chile to embassies today when President Wilson signed the bill passed by Congress authorizing the elevation of the representation of the two countries. It was accepted as an action fraught with the greatest possibilities for closer relationship between the nations of the western hemisphere. The signing of the bill is to be followed in the immediate future by reciprocal action by the two countries and the change will become immediately effective.

Minister Naon, of Argentina, and Minister Saurez, of Chile, are the two diplomats affected by the new law. With Senor DaGama, ambassador from Brazil, they compose the mediation board in the present Mexican crisis. ## BISHOP CONFIRMS CLASS AT STONY HILL

Greeted by Large Congregation Upon His Visit to St. Mary's Church.

The Rt. Rev. John McFaul, Bishop of the Trenton Diocese, made his regular cannonical visit to St. Mary's church, of Stony Hill, Thursday, where he administered the sacrament of confirmation to a class of fifty children in the presence of their parents and a large congregation. He was assisted by Father Spilane, secretary to the bishop; Rev. Joseph A. McGrath, the pastor of St. Mary's church; Father Baldwin, Father Poli, of North Plainfield and Father Pagoizi, of Bernardsville..

Before administering the sacrament, the bishop addressed the class on the duties and graces the sacrament of confirmation confers. After the sacrament, the bishop again admonished the class to abstain from the use of all intoxicating and spirituous liquors, whereupon all the members in a clear voice made a solemn promise to abstain from liquors until they reached the age of twenty-one years and longer with the help of God.

The sponsors were John Negio and Mrs. Thomas Aechsner. The ceremonies were preceded by a processional from the parsonage to the church in which the Holy Name Society acted as a guard of honor to Bishop McFaul. The sanctuary was profusely decorated with ferns and cut flowers. The music was appropriate and well rendered under the leadership of Miss Julia Aechsner, the organist. The service closed with solemn benediction of the blessed sacrament. Father Pagoizi officiating, assisted by Father Baldwin and Father Poli as deacon and sub-deacon and Father McGrath as master of ceremony.

PIRATES HAVE FURNISHED THE SURPRISE OF 1914

New York, May 16.—The wonderful early season work of the Pittsburg Pirates is the talk of the big top. While the Pirates were doped out as pennant contenders before the opening of the season, few if any followers of the game were prepared to witness such brilliant pastiming as has been staged by the Clarke outfit to date.

Since the first crack of the bat and ball, Piratical crew has been going like a prairie fire. Pitchers who were more or less wobbly last season are now flinging like world's champions. And the infield, with Wagner, Koetchy, Viox and Mowrey holding forth, it's a la-la-pa-zam. And just to show how nicely everything breaks for the "Soot Sniffers," the veteran George Gibson, has come to life and is busting pitchers' hearts with safe wallops. Barring accidents, about the only thing that can stop the Corsairs is a Mexican gunboat in the Allegheny River. As a Mex would have Smoketown the Pirates feel safe.

SENATOR AT FORUM.

Senator Hennessy, of Bergen County, who is one of the best known legislators of the State, will address the meeting of the People's Forum at the Washington School, Thursday evening of next week. The subject to be discussed is "The Work of the Last Session of the New Jersey Legislature." Mr. Hennessy introduced two of the four amendments to the State constitution which were passed by that body. He will have some important comments to make upon the politics of the State. The committee of the Public Recreation Committee to be charge of the gathering consists of Mrs. Frances DeLacy Hyde, Herbert E. Parker, and Champlain L. Riley.

HAS OLD BARNUM TICKET.

While thousands of Plainfield people were buying tickets for the Barnum & Bailey circus yesterday, Thomas J. Maher, the well-known local blacksmith, was exhibiting to his friends a Barnum ticket purchased in 1851. It called for admission to the Crystal Palace to hear a concert by Jenny Lind, the Swedish nightingale, who was brought to this country by the great showman that year. The ticket is in a good state of preservation and excited much curiosity whenever shown. It has been in Mr. Maher's possession for many years.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED.

Jack Evans reported to the police yesterday that someone has picked his pocket while he was watching the circus parade at Park avenue and Front street yesterday. He says he lost $20. According to the police Evans has been a victim of pickpockets on several other circus days and the crooks seem to have picked him out as particularly easy prey.

FREIGHT JUMPS TRACK.

THE GREATEST COURT.

Lawyers, contrary to the fallacy entertained by some dissatisfied clients, are human beings and their lives are human documents, more so, I believe, than those of any other professional men.

There are really only two classes of lawyers when one considers the matter from the standpoint of the laymen, the office lawyer wholly engaged in drawing deeds, mortgages, wills, contracts and the settlement of estates, and the court lawyer, whose principle business is that of appearing in either the civil or criminal branches of our courts. To these must be added the class whom people overlook, the lawyer who makes it a practice and a duty to compromise cases in his office.

Successful practitioners discourage litigation as they know that usually the nominal winner is often the real loser, in fees, expenses and waste of time. It is a wise old saying that "a good settlement is better than a poor law suit."

How often does one find in his daily travels that the bar is given the credit to which it is entitled? Many a layman says, and actually believes, that every lawyer accepts any case that is brought to him wherein there is a chance to obtain a fee, irrespective of the justness of the case. This is not true. Some will doubt this and will perhaps think that it sounds like an amateur minstrel joke, but nevertheless the members of the legal profession will recognize it as the truth. I am aware that the old principle was that a member of the bar was supposed to defend any one who came to him, but as time has gone on and the world has progressed, this theory has to a great extent been changed. The majority of the members of our profession will no longer accept a case in which they do not believe the party has a possible chance of being returned a winner. Too many of the profession do not care to injure their reputations while others have no desire to misrepresent themselves to their fellow citizens.

How often we have read and heard of our local attorneys saying to people: "I would not go into court with this case if I were you, it would be much better to compromise and save notoriety and expense." The majority of lawyers in Plainfield regard their profession with such a reverence that it leads them to attempt to keep clients out of courts rather than in them.

To the ordinary citizen a lawyer is credited with encouraging litigation in order to collect big fees. A worse man can scarcely be found than one who does this. Who can be more nearly a fiend than he who habitually stirs up strife in order to put money in his own pocket? The time has passed when such practices are followed. On the contrary time has proven that the profession has really been a great peace-maker.

While we read of hundreds of cases being tried in the courts in the course of a year's work, yet we never hear of the thousands of cases that are settled quietly in that great court—the office of the lawyer. We do not hear of the many compromises because there is that secrecy about a lawyer which outsiders fail to understand, namely, that they hold their peace as to the trials and tribulations of their clients. Not even one lawyer can or does know the details of what another does. If they told one-half of the compromises as made for both friends and enemies, bowed men and weeping women would be walking our streets.

I know of no other business or profession in which so much good is done for mankind as in the law, and this work, oftentimes without remuneration, has convinced me that the legal profession as a whole is working not so much for financial gain as for the betterment of the human race.

Happenings Due Next Week

Washington, D. C., May 16—The peace negotiations and other possible developments of the Mexican situation promise to monopolize public attention during the coming week.

Pennsylvania's spirited campaign for the nomination of candidates for United States Senator, representatives in Congress and governor and other State officers will end with the primary election Tuesday. The dominant feature of the campaign is the fight of United States Senator Boies Penrose for renomination.

Also of interest to the politicians will be the meeting of the Democratic convention of South Carolina, which is to assemble Wednesday in Columbia. The convention is expected to take action with reference to changes in the primary system, which will virtually decide whether Ellison R. Smith is to be re-elected to the United States Senate or succeeded by Governor Cole L. Blease.

The English amateur championship, the principal golfing event in Europe, is to begin Monday on the links at Sandwich. The tournament will be followed with much interest on this side of the Atlantic because of the fact that the participants will include Francis Quimet, open golf champion of the United States, Jerome D. Travers, the national amateur champion, and several other noted American players.

The trial of Dr. W. T. Elam, physician of St. Joseph, Mo., charged with the murder of W. Putnam Cramer, a Chicago advertising solicitor, in a room in a Kansas City hotel last November, is scheduled to begin in Kansas City, Monday.

The one hundred and twenty-sixth General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, commonly known as the Presbyterian church, North, will begin in Chicago, Thursday. On the same day the General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterians will meet in Kansas City and that of the Reformed Presbyterians in Cincinnati.

Other gatherings of the week will include the International Good Roads Congress, in Montreal; the annual convention of the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' Association, in New Orleans; the annual congress of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, in Syracuse, and the annual meeting of the American Federation of Arts, in Chicago.

WILLIAMS SWORN IN AS ERRORS COURT MEMBER

Trenton, May 16—In order that he might take up immediately his work as a member of the Court of Pardons, former Senator Robert Williams, of Paterson, was sworn in yesterday as a judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals. The oath was administered by Chancellor Edwin R. Walker in the presence of the entire court, a number of lawyers and several State officials.

After signing the role of the court Judge Williams retired to the conference room, appearing a few minutes later attired for the first time in a judicial robe. He sat with the court while application was made for the fixing of counsel fees and costs in the recently decided litigation involving the settlement of the estate of the late Henry L. Merriam, of Newton. After hearing the four counsel who appeared in the suit the court retired to continue its conference.

It is probable that a session of the Court of Pardons will be called for the latter part of next week. For this reason a telegram was sent to Judge Williams asking him to come to Trenton to be sworn in. Otherwise the court would have been short two members as a result of the death of Judge Congdon and the illness of Judge Terhune.

She Remembered.

Aunt Jane is quite absent minded and when she started on a short journey, a few weeks ago, each member of the family labored to impress on her that she must not forget any of her parcels or belongings. When she reached her destination she wrote at once of her safe arrival and closed with the following postcript:

I remembered what you said about forgetting and tried to be as thoughtful as possible. I neglected, though, to have my trunk rechecked at the junction, and think I must have left my lunch at the window when I bought my ticket.

I must have forgotten my umbrella, too, when I changed cars, but I cannot imagine what could have become of my shawl. I suppose I neglected to put my comb and brush back in the bag after using them, but I feel confident that some one stole my jet brooch, as I do not see how I could possibly have mislaid it.

I got on quite nicely, though, and had a real pleasant journey.—Youth's Companion.

Double Duty.

An English sportsman—they call a man sportsman in England when he has money and nothing to do—has hit upon a very clever idea. He owns an automobile and a yacht. When he wants to use his yacht he runs the automobile aboard and harnesses it to the propeller. Then he tips off the self starter, the auto gets busy, the propeller churns the water, and the plain yacht becomes a fast motorboat. When the sportsman gets where he wants to go he ties up the yacht, runs the auto ashore and gayly whizzes along the good roads. Of course, to be perfectly fair about it, the sportsman should take the yacht aboard the auto when he is on land, but up to the present time he has shown no willingness to display any such form of altruism. He's got a good idea, however. Pampered autos have too long been permitted to go aboard as stowaways. It's high time they were compelled to work their passage.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An "Absent Minded Beggar."

In "Bohemian Days In Fleet Street" is this anecdote of Phil May, the artist:

Phil was at one time ordered horse exercise. It was thought that this mode of progression would insure his safe and early return to the domestic hearth. But it did not always work.

One afternoon Phil was riding home from Fleet street to his house in Kensington, and, in passing through Leicester square, thought that he would drop in at the Cosy club. * * * He gave his horse in charge of an urchin to hold for him. It was then 4 in the afternoon. At 2 o'clock in the morning a police constable entered the club to inquire whether one of the members had left a horse in charge of a boy outside. The secretary remembered that May was the proud possessor of a steed. But May had left the club at midnight. He had forgotten all about his horse, and had driven home in a hansom.

The Dancing Disease.

The "dancing disease" was an epidemic nervous disorder, apparently allied to hysteria and chorea, occasionally prevalent in Germany and Italy during the middle ages. As it has been in every instance chiefly propagated by physical contagion, like chorea, there is every reason to conclude that it had a like origin. In 1734, during the celebration of the festival of St. John at Aix-la-Chapelle, the streets became crowded with men and women of all ranks and ages who commenced dancing in a wild and frantic manner, many losing entire control over themselves and continuing to dance until dropping down from fatigue. The mania spread to Cologne, Metz and Strasburg, and gave rise to much imposture, profligacy and disorder.

DONNELLY FOR "CANAL ZONE" MILE WIDE ACROSS STATE

Trenton, May 16—In a letter sent to William C. Heppenheimer, president of the State Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Frederick W. Donnelly, former president of the New Jersey Ship Canal Commission, sets forth a plan to bring about the carrying out of the project for the construction of the trans-State canal.

"I have always wished it were possible," Mr. Donnelly wrote, "for some one to be found with sufficient energy and eloquence to induce the State of New Jersey to buy a strip of land a mile wide, in the centre of which would be the ship canal, and all the rest of which could be leased on exceeding reasonable terms to manufacturers. To make the plan complete, all the railroad tracks in this territory ought to belong to the State. If the State chamber were to view this policy with favor and exert its power and influences for the fulfillment of this desirable supplement to the original plan, I am not at all uncertain that your organization would surely attain the speedy advancement of the project."

The duties of the Ship Canal Commission were transferred by the Legislature at the recent session to the newly created State Harbor Commission, but no appropriation was made for the purchasing of a right-of-way for the canal.

LEVI P. MORTON 90 YEARS OLD.

New York, May 16:—Levi P. Morton, former Vice-President of the United States and for many years a leader in banking and financial circles in this city, attained his ninetieth year today, having been born May 16, 1824, in Shoreham, Vt. More than a year ago Mr. Morton was stricken with partial paralysis and for a time it was feared he could not survive the shock. He rallied, however and his condition is now said to be considerably improved. With his family he spent the past winter in Washington, coming a few weeks ago to pass the summer at Ellerslie, the Morton country estate at Rhinecliff-on-Hudson.

Greenhut-Siegel Cooper Co. Changes Its Name

On Monday next, the name of Greenhut-Siegel Cooper Co. will be no more. In its place there will appear Greenhut & Co. This change of name involves no change of ownership, but is done because of the unfortunate developments in Henry Siegel's affairs, about which already much has been said.

The financial difficulties of Henry Siegel embarrassed Captain Greenhut, especially as many people were under the impression that so long as the name "Siegel" appeared in the corporate name, that he was in some manner connected with the Greenhut-Siegel Co. Mr. Henry Siegel was entirely eliminated from the Greenhut-Siegel Co. twelve years ago, and from that time he has had no connection with the present "Big Store." Captain Greenhut, when interviewed, stated that he regretted the cause of the change, but under the circumstances, had no choice in the matter. He stated further that, while feeling sorry for the difficulties that Henry Siegel got himself into, he realized that the buying public did not have much sympathy for him, and he did not feel it was encumbent upon him to perpetuate a name that was not only unpopular, but had no connection with his business.

The Board decided on June 26 as the closing day for the present school year and on September 8 as the opening day for the next school year.

THERE MAY BE NO LEAGUE GAME TODAY

Dispute Regarding Officials This Morning Apt to Result Seriously.

Owing to the inability to arrive at a definite choice of officials there was some doubt expressed this morning concerning the game of the Plainfield and North Plainfield High School Interscholastic League baseball game on Parker Field this afternoon. Although it was tentatively understood that North Plainfield was to send Frank Corriel to the fore and Plainfield had selected Morris Orokaw, matters have been treated to a sudden change if this morning's hasty communications between managers to be taken as an evidence of what trouble is brewing in the rival camps.

Captain Smalley and Manager Beckman, of North Plainfield, are still sticking with Corriel and Manager Williams, of Plainfield, has stated that his team will not play unless Corriell is ousted. This the Broughites refuse to do and as a result the matter remains at a standstill at this time. Rumor has it that the Leal School management has warned the locals not to play with Correill offering decisions and it seems that the locals have heeded the alarm signal.

In the games in which Corriell has officiated this year his decisions have been entirely fair to both sides. All umpires are likely to encounter baseball cranks who delight in running them to earth for a close decision, but in each instance where Corriell has rendered a hairbreadth verdict he has done so with a fairness that cannot be challenged by the unbiased spectator.

FORMER PRINCIPAL SEES GAME.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Phelps, formerly of this city, but now of High Bridge, are spending the day in this city and will attend the Plainfield-North Plainfield game at Parker Field this afternoon. Mr. Phelps was principal of the Borough School for three years and both he and Mrs. Phelps are still much interested in the teams that that school puts out.

"CAP." BEATTY IN ACTION.

Captain Russell Beatty, of the Columbia track team, will lead his runners and jumpers against the Colgate College team on South field, New York, this afternoon. "Rus" Beatty, or Lawrence, as he is better known here, will compete in the shot-put and weight events.

DECIDE NOT TO HOLD ANY SHOW THIS YEAR

Private Parties Abandon Project for an Exhibition in This City.

Plans for holding a horse show in Plainfield this year have been abandoned, according to an announcement made today by the officials of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. Following the club's decision to give up the show for 1914, came an effort on the part of private parties to arrange for an exhibition. This matter was under consideration until a few days ago, when after a final conference it was decided not to attempt the proposition.

There is a possibility that the show may be held in September provided convenient dates can be secured, but there is nothing definite about this plan. Rather than take any chances as to the success of the affair, the club thought it best not to hold it unless under the auspices of the club. Another year efforts will be made to secure such dates as will not conflict with those of other horse shows in this section of the country.

WILL USE PROBASCO FIELD PRELIMINARY PRACTISING

Through the courtesy of Manager James Dunwell, of the First Baptist baseball team, the policemen's nine will be permitted to hold its preliminary practices on Probasco Field, in West End avenue. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the initial tryouts is preparing a schedule of practice dates and a large crew of candidates has signified its intention of competing for open berths.

The games will be played on Parker Field and the Probasco diamond will be used only for the drills. A definite schedule of games is now nearing completion and negotiations have been started with some of the fastest semi-professional teams in this section of Central New Jersey. The challenge of the North Plainfield firemen will be taken into consideration and also the one coming from the Plainfield fire laddies.

DRISCOLL IN BROOKLYN.

Dave Driscoll, former Plainfield captain, will lead an aggregation of ball players against the Ridgewood team on Marquette Oval, Brooklyn, tomorrow afternoon. Driscoll's team is traveling under the New Brunswick title.

WHADDAYAMEAN JERSEY CHAMPIONS?

Local All Star Quintet, Conquerors of Colored Five, Hailed as Winners.

Having defeated the Orange Imperials (colored) in a 2-game series of basketball contests played in Saengerbund Hall several weeks ago, an All-Star team representing Plainfield, today received five silver medals with the following inscription on the back "Champions of North New Jersey." Since the trophies were exhibited here considerable comment has been going the rounds concerning the right of the recipients to style themselves the North New Jersey title holders when there are so many other teams in that section of the State conceded to be much superior.

Manager Gates, of the committee that promoted the series, will present the medals to the winners at a meeting to be held in the Washington School next Friday night. The players who get the awards are Harry Moulton, Ralph Seals, Albert Brynarski, Bergen Naylor and William Marsten.

SEVEN INNING GAME WON BY SENIOR CLASS TEAM

The senior class baseball team of the Plainfield High School Inter-class League defeated the freshman class team on Parker Field, yesterday afternoon by the score of 8 to 2. The senior team started right out in the first inning and scored four runs which sewed up the game. They also scored one run in the second inning and three in the sixth. The freshman got their two runs in the fourth inning on hits by Mutnick, Rosenthal and Kunzman. The game was not started until after the track meet had ended and had to be called at the end of the seventh inning because of the darkness.

WILL TAKE LONG RUN.

The Plainfield Motorcycle Club will go to Easton, Pa., tomorrow on its usual weekly outing. The start will be made from Jack Horner's store on Somerset street at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning and a large number of cyclists are expected to be on hand. The popularity of these weekly runs has steadily increased until they are now a looked forward to feature of the club's work. A majority of those who take the trips have rear seats on their machines and ride in pairs.

P. H. S. SWAMPED THE SOMERVILLE ATHLETES

O'Leary Equals Record in Century and Runyon Does Some Good Work.

The Plainfield High School track team overwhelmed the aggregation representing Somerville High on Parker Field yesterday afternoon, winning the dual meet by the score of 57 to 11. The only event which the Somerville High School team won was the quarter-mile race, Schomp traveling the distance in 57 1-5 seconds. Daniels ran a pretty race but was unable to catch the fleet Schomp and finished a few yards behind the winner. A surprise was sprung in the 100-yard dash when O'Leary travelled the century in 10 2-5 seconds, equalling the mark set by Nash three years ago in the inter-class meet. Blair was a close second and Mann came in third.

Another sensational race was the half-mile, which resulted in a dead heat between Day and Daniels. The time was 2 minutes 18½ seconds. In the pole vault the bar was started at 9 feet and Runyon easily cleared it. None of the other competitors could get over the bar so the event was awarded to Runyon.

The summary follows:

100-yard dash—First, OLeary; second, Blair; third, Mann. Time, 10 2-5 seconds.

440-yard run—First, Schomp; second, Daniels; third, Runyon. Time, 57 1-5 seconds.

High jump—First, Runyon, 5 ft. 6 in.; second Peacock, 5 ft.; third, Schomp, 4 ft. 10 in.

Half mile—First, tie between Day and Daniels; third, Brown. Time, 2.18½.

220-yard dash—First, Blair; second, Peacock; third, Mann. Time, 24 4-5 seconds.

Running broad jump—First, Runyon, 19 ft. 8 in.; second, Mann, 18 ft. 4 in.; third, Peacock, 17 ft. 9 in.

Mile run—First, Day; second, Amerman; third, Brown. Time, 5 minutes 25 2-5 seconds.

Starter—Patch.

Timers—Updike and Bostwick.

BRUNSWICK NOT IN MEET.

Although invited by the Union County Athletic League officials to be a participant in the coming Union County meet, May 30, the offer has been declined by New Brunswick High School authorities and it now seems probable that the affair will be composed of Union County High Schools only. Plainfield is one of the entries.

THE "TWO SPORT" RULE.

Princeton Athletes Anxious to Have It Done Away With.

The "two sport" rule is stirring up considerable agitation at Princeton. Some modification of the ruling is desired by many coaches and captains. They favor a regulation of athletics, but believe that the present rule is too restricting. Of five coaches and athletic advisers three believed that men who attained a good grade in scholarship should be permitted to compete in as many sports as they wanted to, and two suggested that modification of the rule might be advantageous.

Director of the Department of Physical Education Raycroft said:

"I think that the 'two sport' rule is much superior to a total lack of regulation which would permit a man to go into three or four lines of sport during the year. Such conditions exist in many institutions throughout the country, and the effect is not infrequently bad both upon the physical condition of the individual and upon his work as a student.

"Some method should be considered for checking the tendency among students, especially within the past two years, to assume responsibilities in a number of extra curriculum activities. The result of this assumption is that the popular man is frequently overloaded with elective offices, just as the good all around athlete is frequently subjected to pressure to induce him to take part in as many as possible.

"I believe in the purpose of the 'two sport' rule, but possibly some modification might be devised which would permit a relaxation of its provisions in the case of students who hold a high rank in scholarship."

Coach Fitzpatrick of the track team holds that it is all right for a man to compete in as many sports as he wants to provided this activity does not interfere with his studies. He declares that if a scholastic standing were set for men to attain before allowing them to compete in more than two sports it would help scholarship among athletes.

ONE GOOD TURN.

Billy O'Rourke Pulled the Trick That Caught Turnstile "Collector."

Many are the yarns which have been told of quaint characters in minor league baseball, but it is doubtful if any of them ever turned the trick that Billy O'Rourke, who piloted a team in the Wisconsin league, did a few years ago.

This particular incident deals with the manner in which O'Rourke detected one of his noble athletes in the act of relieving the club — of which O'Rourke was also a stockholder—of some of its turnstile tariff, or, rather, horse gate tariff.

Here it is. It appears that, as is the general habit in minor league ball, O'Rourke stationed one of his twirlers on the horse gate during a double header on Sunday. O'Rourke claimed he always suspicioned the boys went "south" with some of the loose change that was supposed to go to the club secretary for the carriage and auto trade through the side gate. However, he had no proof, and the club was not able to pay an attendant to take care of the horse gate.

Well, after a double header which the home team won before a bumper crowd O'Rourke went directly to the clubhouse with the players. All were jubilant over the twin victory, as was O'Rourke. The player who was on the horse gate came in after supposedly turning over his money and was about to undress when O'Rourke took a squint at his made over turnstile man and asked him what kind of a crowd came through his gate. The other players were fooling around, and one happened to turn a handspring.

Quick as a flash O'Rourke asked the gate tender if he could do it, and he unwittingly tried, whereupon a shower of dimes, quarters and other change scattered all over the clubhouse floor.

THE OCCUPATION OF VERA CRUZ; DIFFICULTIES BESET ARMY RULE

Present Military Government Faces Hard Conditions

Ancient City Epitomizes Whole of Mexican History

VERA CRUZ, the first port of the Mexican republic, holds many picturesque sights and experiences for the American troops and sailors and will recall to those making history today many stirring events in the past. The city, which is one of the oldest, quaintest and most cosmopolitan of the Mexican coast towns, with a population of 25,000, was one of the first places to be settled by the Spanish invaders and the scene of battles ancient and modern. Today it presents a curious blend of both periods—fine new buildings standing side by side with diminutive negro cabins.

The city epitomizes the whole of Mexican history. Here the Spaniards planted their first stockade, fought their first battle with the natives and established their base of supplies while they attacked the great stronghold of the Aztecs. And from it they sent back their fleet laden with gold wrested from the dying Indians. For three centuries it was the main port of New Spain, and when the Mexicans threw off the Spanish yoke the last flag of Spain was hauled down from the fortress of San Juan de Ulua in the bay of Vera Cruz, one mile from the mainland.

NAVAL ACADEMY AT VERA CRUZ AFTER AMERICAN BOMBARDMENT.

The Castillo de San Juan de Ulua, on La Galiega island, formerly a penal settlement, consists of a fort, a drydock, shipyard, lighthouse and a military prison and marine signal station. The cornerstone was laid in 1528, and the massive foundations of the fort below the water line are said to have cost upward of 4,000,000 pesos ($2,000,000). They have withstood the incessant pounding of tremendous seas for four centuries. More than 40,000,000 pesos have been spent on Ulua.

The bay and harbor, formed by the coast and the Galiega reef, are difficult of entrance to ships because of the many close small reefs. The harbor has an area of 550 acres and an average depth of only thirty feet. The mouth, eighty-six feet wide, is protected by a lighthouse. Formerly ships were obliged to put to sea for safety in a blow. Recently more than $30,000,000 has been spent to make the harbor safe with breakwaters and a sea wall with artificial blocks weighing more than thirty tons each. The harbor is full of man eating sharks.

SAILORS GUARDING WATERWORKS IN VICINITY OF VERA CRUZ.

Through Vera Cruz pass most of the exports and imports of southern and central Mexico, nearly one-fourth of the country's total imports, entailing a customs collection of over 1,000,000 pesos ($500,000) a month. Ships of all nations lie in its harbor, although recently Tampico has developed into a formidable rival.

The Avenue de la Independencia, which leads from the Mexican railway station, is the main thoroughfare, and here considerable fighting took place between the United States forces and federal troops during the first days of the American occupation. In it are the best shops, quaint houses with painted wooden balconies and huge old fashioned doors. The city's gathering point, however, especially in the evening, when bands play and the populace disports itself, is the Plaza de la Constitution, surrounded by sentinel palms. There is also an unkempt and dusty Porfirio Diaz park, with a fine monument of the patriot President Benito Pablo Juarez, bearing an inscription, "El respecto al derecho ageno es la paz" ("Respect for the rights of others is peace").

There is a great covered market in an open square, where on Sunday mornings Vera Cruz housewives, ranging from stalwart negresses and olive skinned Vera Cruzanas and darker Indians to creoles and cream white Spanish senoras, congregate and buy provisions at shops and stalls, many of them primitive structures protected from the sun by squares of matting on posts.

The climate of Vera Cruz is moist and at some seasons almost unbearably hot, ranging from 69 degrees F. in April and May to 102 degrees in late May, June and July. There are frequent wild windstorms from the north, lashing the rising tide often a fortnight at a time. Rain rarely falls in Vera Cruz in the daytime, but when it does it usually forms a waterspout or hurricane that seems to threaten uprooting the strongest palms and tossing them from the plaza out to sea.

If the occupation is to be of long duration the administrative capacity of the army will receive a severe test in Vera Cruz.

Seizure of the town not only stampeded the local government, but brought to an end most of the local commerce and industry. As the railroad to Mexico City is not in operation at Vera Cruz, the traffic with the interior which gave the seaport its chief importance has been suspended.

FUNSTON'S TROOPS IN VERA CRUZ.

On the water side the north Atlantic fleet is anchored. On the land side, fifteen miles from the shore, there are various camps of Mexican soldiers in the service of General Huerta. The most advanced American outpost is at the waterworks, ten miles from the city. Farmers and others inside the Mexican lines who would like to dispose of the produce of the land in Vera Cruz, as usual, are stopped by native pickets.

Thus in the city the question of food supplies intensifies the ordinary problems of government by aliens. The military governor, who is General Funston himself, is directly charged not only with the command of his troops, who are in possession of a city that is practically beleaguered, but of the general treasury, the customs house, the civil courts, the lighthouse service, the local postoffice and the newly established United States mail agency. General Funston has been given discretionary authority to extend his lines from Vera Cruz to protect the town from an outside attack and for the protection of the waterworks outposts at El Tejar.

To assist him in his many duties two officers of the navy have been assigned, while upon a provost marshal general fall the innumerable details of supervising the departments of police, sanitation, education, charity, public improvements and elementary justice. Some local officials have been requested to hold their places, but form a doubtful element.

With the rainy season near at hand and sickness likely to increase; with commerce and industry paralyzed, with inevitable poverty and distress among the natives, with currency limited, with credit impaired, with no adequate tax system in force and with a possibility of attack at any hour, it will be seen that the government of a seized city, in which little English is spoken, is likely to tax the ability of our commanders to the utmost.

News of Interest in Building World

PROSPECTS FOR BUILDING BRIGHT

Many Applications for Permits Are Now Being Considered.

FEW PERMITS GRANTED

Architects and Contractors Take a Hopeful View of Outlook—Many Dwellings Under Construction at Present.

Building permits received quite a severe jolt this week, when no building permits were issued by Inspector T. O. Doane. This is not to say, however, that no applications have been made, as several permits are hanging fire, the aggregate cost of which will amount to several thousands of dollars. Aside from the applications already received, several buildings are anticipated by local contractors in the near future, and conditions are not so bad as things would seem to indicate on the surface of the returns from the office of the inspector for the past week.

Among the several activities which are looked for in the immediate future are eight dwellings to be erected on the old Harburger estate on West Front street. Four of these structures are to be for two families each, while the other four will be for one family each. This contract alone would be worth the consideration of any contractor. The buildings are to be erected jointly by Jacob Sachar and the Bloom Construction Company.

The Calvary Baptist church is receiving estimates on an addition to the rear of their edifice, the improvement to provide for a pastor's study, a reception room and a ladies' room.

The Netherwood Reformed church as announced in this paper yesterday, has appointed a committee to have plans drawn for a new and larged edifice to be erected on the same site as the present church building. The rapid growth of this religious body under the present conditions, and the steady development of the East side of the city, has made it advisable for the consideration of plans for a more extensive building at this time.

Three architects interviewed during the past week indicate that a number of dwellings are being considered for different sections of the city. These kind of buildings have been experiencing an exceptional slump during the past season, and in all probability will continue for some time, or, at least until such times as the conditions in the local shops become somewhat better.

The proposed buildings which have been under consideration for some time are still pending owing to the condition of the money market. One is the new Y. M. C. A. building which is to be erected at Sycamore and East Fifth streets, and the extensive alterations to the aggregation of buildings at Hope chapel.

Considering these facts, there is no need for any alarm or uneasiness on the part of local building contractors. Conditions have already started on the upward trend, and should be ideal before the season is over.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

Realty transfers of this city recently recorded at the office of the county registrar at Elizabeth include the following: Salvatore Parretti et ux. to John Pendolini, southerly side Fourth street, 694 feet southwesterly of Richmond street, Plainfield. Highland Park Realty Company to Berry Building Company, southwsterly side Emerson avenue, 146 feet southeasterly of East Second street. William H. Wright to Josephine C. Gulick, lot 27, block 1, map of C. E. Gulick. Thomas S. Voorhees to Josephine C. Gulick, lot 1, block 2, same map.

REAL ESTATE AUCTION.

William Schorb, the auctioneer, sold during the past week, several parcels of property of the Kadowsky estate. Jacob Stkano, of Bound Brook, purchased the property at the corner of West Second and New streets; Harry Taub secured the property on New street between Second street and the railroad; Nathan Meyers secured one on West Fourth street; Samuel Kadesh secured a parcel on Plainfield avenue, and Tapscott Brothers bought two properties, one on Plainfield avenue and one on West Third street. All the properties brought good prices considering the state of the local market.

A second tract on the easterly side of Rector street, in chancery between the same parties, was advertised for sale, but the sale was continued until a later date.

The Metuchen Club has bought of the Metuchen Building Company, a lot on the east side of Middlesex avenue adoining their property in Metuchen.

Jacok Kreielsheimer has bought of James A. Christopulos, lots in Fairmount Park, and sold same to Albert Glutz.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders has notified the State Road Department that everything is in readiness to push the work along rapidly. The contract calls for an expenditure of $30,000.

TUBE SERVICE WOULD BENEFIT PLAINFIELD

Believed That Improvement Would Be a Boon to Real Estate.

The revival of talk concerning the possibility of building a bridge across and tunnels for vehicular traffic beneath the Hudson river connecting Northern Jersey with upper as well as lower New York, has again brought to life the question as to how far these improvements would effect real estate values and building operations in this city. Many who are in a position to be fair judges of the possible results of such improvements, are somewhat divided as o how soon the effects would be felt in this city, although it is well nigh a unanimous verdict, that sooner or lafer, the bridge and additional tubes would ultimately bring to this city many who otherwise would prefer to remain in New York on the one hand, or go across the bridge to Long island.

Some real estate men are of the opinion, however, that the majority of these people, once they started to travel into this State, would in most all cases where they come over the New Jersey Central, would settle west of Elizabeth and east of Somerville. One of the prominent real estate men of this city in referring to the question, said: "What the trolly line would mean in the development of South Plainfield, the bridge and tubes connecting lower New York with the Central and Lehigh Roads at Jersey City would mean to this community. It is to be hoped that the commission who will look into the matter of bridges and tubes in the near future, will consider the rare possibilities that this State, and Plainfield in particular, offers to those homeseekers who are now confined to Manhattan Island."

No matter what attitude the average real estate men may take relative to this matter, it is to realize that people and humanity at large follow the course of the least resistance. If the proposed tunnels and bridges would lessen to any degree the resistance, and people travel to New Jersey instead of Long Island, Plainfield would reap her share of the prosperity to follow in the wake of improvements.

JUST NOTES

Next month the Braum Wrought Iron Casting Company, of Bayonne, is to move to the Middlesex county seat and give employment to one hundred and eighty men. During July a branch factory of the William Black Company, cigar box manufacturers of New York, will be established in the thriving town, and two hundred hands will find employment at this shop.

The Three-in-One Oil Company, of Rahway, is erecting an extensive addition to their plant at that place.

New Brunswick is having a building boom at present which might be justly envied. Last month twenty-nine permits were issued calling for an expenditure of $108,935.

The Middlesex Manufacturing Company, of Woodbridge, has incorporated with a capital of $100,000. A general manufacturing business will be conducted.

Competing against the largest electrical instrument manufacturers in the country, Hickey & Schneider, of Elizabeth, have been awarded the contract for supplying "open air brake" switches to the power houses throughout the State of West Virginia.

Charles Nonemaker, the Dunellen contractor, is entering bids on two large buildings, the First National Bank building, of Somerville, and Company H Armory, of New Brunswick.

William H. Bicknell is planning a $15,000 house just across the mountains in Passaic Valley. Would that we had a number of such in the course of construction in this city to start the ball a rolling.

LAND SOLD BY SHERIFF.

Sarah C. Ross, acting as guardian, bought property located at Prospect avenue, this city, at a sheriff's sale on Wednesday of this week, paying $3,284 for the parcel. The action was brought by the guardian against Hannah M. Djurson and others, as defendants.

AN EASY DESIGN FOR TRIMMING CHILDREN'S CLOTHES

Although simplicity is a fundamental thought in making children's clothes, a little trimming is permissible. A simple design for hand embroidery or braid, used on the plainest of dresses, adds distinction and individuality.

This design, number 14240, which is one and one-half inches wide, is suitable for use on applied bands, collars or berthas, on children's dresses or suits of piqué, white or colored linen, swiss, lawn or challis. It may also be used on ladies' or misses' waists, dresses, and suits of linen, lawn, net or wool material. The design may be developed in cord, braid or outline-stitch in the color of the garment. There are two widths of this design in the pattern, three quarters of an inch and one and one-half inches wide, three yards of each are given for ten cents. The wider border is illustrated on dress 8239, which is cut in sizes six, eight, ten, twelve and fourteen years.

If cord is used it should be sewed on by hand with small couching stitches which span it at regular and frequent intervals throughout its length. When it is necessary to cut the cord, about half an inch should be allowed and a hole should be made in the material with a stilleto, through which the cord should be pushed and fastened with a few stitches on the under side. The coronation cord should be sewed on with small couching-stitches across its narrow portions, using mercerized cotton or silk, according to the nature of the braid employed.

Soutache braid should be sewed on by hand with tiny back-stitches taken through the middle of the braid. A particularly attractive effect is gained if the braid, instead of being sewed flat, is stitched on one edge so that it stands up straight. This may be done by hand by taking a short stitch on the right side and a long stitch on the back.

If this design is to be used on net, do not try to stamp it on the material but baste the tissue paper pattern to the net and work over this. The paper can be torn away when finished and it gives a firm foundation for working.

Guaranteed hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SPRING GREENS.

THERE are many wild plants that may be used for food in the spring. Tradition ascribes medicinal qualities to some of them. Lamb's quarters, dock, wild mustard, plantain, wild cress, sorrel, dandelion, etc., are among these food plants.

Lamb's Quarters.—Select the tender leaves of lamb's quarters, mustard, horseradish and plantain. Put in a pot and cover with water, adding a slice of bacon. Cook for three or four hours, then drain off the water. Serve with hot vinegar well seasoned.

A Novel Soup.

Sorrel Soup.—Put into a saucepan a pint of sorrel leaves, three sprigs of parsley, three or four lettuce leaves and an onion, all cut fine. Add a cupful of water and simmer ten minutes. Mix in two tablespoonfuls of flour stirred smooth with a little cold water, and when blended pour in, gradually stirring all the time, two quarts of boiling water. Have ready three eggs, hard boiled. Separate whites from yolks, cutting the whites in small pieces and rubbing the yolks to a cream with a little milk. Add to the contents of the saucepan a cupful of milk and a cupful of mashed potatoes stirred together. Season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. Put the prepared egg whites and creamed yolks into a hot soup tureen, add a cupful of croutons, pour over them the hot soup, stir and serve.

A Delicious Salad.

Macedoine of Vegetables.—Take any cold vegetables, sprigs of cauliflower, strips of carrot and turnip, peas and beans and mustard and cress. Divide the cauliflower into sprigs, cut the carrot into strips and the turnips into dice. Mix the vegetables together and mask with a little salad dressing. Garnish very highly with a little mustard and cress.

Sorrel and Dandelion.—Wash and shred dandelion and sorrel leaves, but keep separate, as the dandelions require longer cooking. After they have stood in cold water for an hour put the dandelions in a saucepan of boiling salted water. Stew until nearly tender, add the sorrel and simmer until the liquid disappears and the leaves are all tender. Chop or beat with a wooden spoon and season with salt, pepper, butter and nutmeg if desired. Serve with a garnish of hard boiled eggs, the whites cut in rings and the yolks rubbed through a ricer.

"You are brave and wonderful," she cried.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How the Policeman Rescued the Little Dog.

EVELYN had always admired policemen. They looked so strong, and she thought they were so very brave. She often used to wonder how they ever dared to stand in the center of the streets and put their hands right up in front of a great big truck or a street car.

So when daddy came home that evening and told the children of how a policeman had saved a little girl's pet dog Evelyn said:

"I'm not a bit surprised to hear that, daddy; but do tell us all about it."

"A little girl named Fannie," began daddy, "was walking across the street carrying a very small black poodle dog in her arms.

"Suddenly the poodle dog, whose name was Gyp, saw another dog on the other side of the street. Evidently Gyp thought the other little dog would be nice to talk to, so he jumped with one bound out of Fannie's arms.

"Fannie gave a scream of horror, at which the policeman, standing near, flew to the rescue. He very narrowly escaped being run over by a huge, big motor truck and just managed to grab the little dog in time. Had he been a minute later the little dog would have been struck by a street car.

"'Oh, you've rescued my little dog!' Fannie cried. 'You are so brave and wonderful. Every one wouldn't have risked his life to save a little girl's dog. I can't tell you how grateful I am. Gyp and I are such devoted friends, and I never could live without him. Gyp has always adored me, ever since I first had him as a very little puppy.'

"Gyp, who had been very much frightened at his narrow escape, was breathing little short, quick breaths from the fear of a moment before.

"But at the same time his little tail was wagging for all it was worth, as he wanted to show the big policeman how much he thanked him and how much he appreciated what had been done for him.

"He nestled closer in Fannie's arms, and he certainly had no desire to jump again.

"I think that was a splendid thing for the policeman to do, don't you, daddy?" said Evelyn. "For I can just understand how fond Fannie was of her little pet dog. Dogs are so lovable any way, and they are such splendid friends. I do feel so glad for Fannie that her beloved little dog was saved."

"Yes; I think that was fine, too," chimed in Jack, who was also devoted to animals.

"It was indeed a fine thing to do," replied daddy, "for Fannie could never get along without her Gyp, and Gyp realized that he must never jump out of Fannie's arms again, for it was there that he was safe and sound. After this adventure Gyp didn't want to leave Fannie's side at all, for he felt that to be away from her he would not be safe."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

THEORY VS. FACT.

The difference of opinion between those who believe in Equal Suffrage and those who do not, is the everlasting differences between theorists and realists, between dreamers and doers, between visionaries and practical men of affairs.

It is the "logic of theory versus the logic of fact."

Facts are emergency brakes on the car of theory.

In the scientist's laboratory theory must be demonstrable by fact. Then it becomes what is known as "workable."

Physicians and surgeons know the difference between "pure" and "workable" theory. Suppose a sick man is reluctant to undergo an operation. The theory is that such and such results will follow a certain method of procedure. It seems possible to prove this theory step by step. The patient's assent is won. The operation is performed. The patient dies. The doctors say the "operation was successful and proved the theory." The patient's relatives remark that the patient is dead, and disproves it. In one case the operation is regarded as a thing apart from the patient; in the other the patient is considered a necessary factor in the operation.

We hear on all sides that our country is sick with political ills. Dr. Socialist says, "Take out his brain, give him enlargement of the heart and he will recover." Dr. Anarchist says, "Cut off his head. Centralized authority has been his undoing. Without that, he will get well." Dr. Suffragist says, "Dear me—no. He has too little power now. He needs more legs and arms to do so much work. Let us tie on this brave assortment of artificial limbs—more feet, more hands, so he can accomplish more. To be sure they will prove a bit stiff and unmanageable at first, but he will soon get used to them, and then what a world power he will be."

At last old Dr. Common Sense comes to the rescue—often neglected, often superseded, but always ready for the emergency. "He has fainted—give him a chance. He's had too many doctors. Stand back all of you—give the patient air."

Today we are in the theories of the artificial limb discussion. Women want to tie themselves on to the body politic to help it along and give it more power. It doesn't want women tied on; it wants them free and untrammeled to give a hand, to give a lift as they alone know how.

The proposed political change which would make all women over twenty-one who fulfill stated conditions, the political equals of men in governmental responsibility, is a change of so serious a nature that Gladstone himself called it "revolutionary."

The only justification for a political revolution is a condition of affairs intolerable through corruption; through general and flagrant injustice; through wanton disregard of the common good; through dead laws made a travesty; through power grown tyrannical or inefficient; through public indignation focussed into great popular demands.

That any one can seriously attempt to say that America has reached such a pass would be only laughable did not such wild assertions, vigorously defended, come but too often before the thinking public. There must be then, a more serious consideration of the subject than most men, as yet, are willing to grant. The suffragists are urging an amendment to the Federal Constitution by which all the States shall speedily enfranchise their women. These women are citizens now in the eyes of the law; no ballot will make them more so. They are entitled to the same protection of life, property and civil rights, which is accorded to men, and in many instances they are given more than their share of all these things.

They are at present exempt from political burdens and responsibilities, free from political intrigues and alliances, in demand in all States as intelligent non-partisan servants of the common weal. They are kept out of no occupation or profession; they have every educational advantage, they have in this State and in many others, no disabilities under the law. The effort to represent them as oppressed, enslaved, suffering under grave legal and economic injustice is futile, because such a statement is disproved in the making. The generous endeavors of men have produced within the last ten years a body of protective legislation for woman in industry which puts her in a privileged class nuder the law. The maternity law of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut and New York is a case in point. The men did this. The women in industry who come under the "shop mill and factory" class are but 26 per cent of the seven million women in gainful occupations reported in the last census. For them there are laws made and laws pending which prove conclusively that we need not wait for "Votes for Women" to revolutionize society. Public opinion is doing that now, and it is by no means all due to the suffrage agitation. It is unwise to make sudden and far-reaching legislation to cover exceptional cases or classes; the nearer law comes to being just to the majority; the more it holds to the good of the average, the better law it is. Today we are overwhelmed with law; we can neither know it, nor understand it, nor enforce it. It is made with sudden fervor which spends its strength in the making. We need proper construction and enforcement of the good laws already on the books. Our laws are made in haste and repented at leisure.

We do not need laws to "mother" the government. We do not need to see the "mother spirit" in the Supreme Court. We need mothers where mothering counts—in personal contact with the lives of individual children. This is being made a matter of legislation when it should be parental control and parental love. We need better fathers and mothers, better homes, the family still the social unit, with a common interest and sympathy. We do not need more women politicians, more women office seekers, more women street orators—which types are appearing in this suffrage agitation far too frequently for safety.

The theory that conditions will be bettered by the entrance of women into political life is disproved by the facts. The theories of injustice, oppression, etc., are refuted by the facts. The government's need of such help is not apparent; a woman's power to render any better service than a man is not apparent. Women's unrest, discontent, confused thinking, selfish individualism are everywhere in evidence in an agitation which has no claim to the attention of those who want the best for the country and the best for its womanhood.

The country does not need it.

The women as a whole do not want it.

The conditions do not warrant it.

Comparisons are not favorable to it.

Our present governmental system makes for general justice. Only 10 per cent. of the women are taxpayers, and in several States they have "taxpaying suffrage"—which they do not use. Property is not the basis of the American ballot. The statement that "one half of the country is governed without its consent" is fallacious. The women as a whole appear to agree that the present system of government is well adapted to our needs and circumstances. The government has the consent of its governed, except that minority of women who are apparently neither students of history, political science nor logic, therefore who are better off to be governed than to be governors.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

Here we have a three gored skirt which may be absolutely plain or made with a two-piece tunic as illustrated. If the skirt is desired for sports or outing wear, it is advisable to omit the tunic. For dressy occasions this tunic affords the necessary smart touch. The new outing cottons are slightly heavier than those in use for the regular summer dress; among them is eponge, cote de cheval, honeycomb crepe and numerous fancy weaves. If the separate skirt is intended for dressy wear combined with a blouse of chiffon or lace, black taffeta comes first; silk poplin, garbardine, striped or plain crepe, worsted, moire or faille are also popular.

This skirt, No. 8292, requires for size 24, 3¾ yards 42-inch material. All of the silks mentioned above average 40 inches in width, and are priced from $1.25 a yard and up.

This pattern is cut in six sizes, 22 to 32.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

CHAPTER XXVII.

The House of Aaron.

A FEELING that the day was to bring great things had dawned upon Waitstill when she woke that morning, and now it was coming true.

Climbing Saco hill was like climbing the hill of her dreams; life and love beckoned to her across the snowy slopes.

At rest about Patty's future, though troubled as to her sorry plight at the moment, she was conscious chiefly of her newborn freedom. She reveled in the keen air that tingled against her cheek and drew in fresh hope with every breath. As she trod the shining pathway she was full of expectancy, her eyes dancing, her heart as buoyant as her step. Not a vestige of confusion or uncertainty vexed her mind. She knew Ivory for her true mate, and if the way to him took her through dark places it was lighted by a steadfast beacon of love.

At the top of the hill she turned the corner breathlessly and faced the length of road that led to the Boynton farm. Mrs. Mason's house was beyond, and, oh, how she hoped that Ivory would be at home and that she need not wait another day to tell him all and claim the gift she knew was hers before she asked it! She might not have the same exaltation tomorrow, for now there were no levels in her heart and soul. She had a sense of mounting from height to height and lighting fires on every peak of her being. She took no heed of the road she was traveling. She was conscious only of a wonderful inward glow.

The house was now in sight, and a tall figure was issuing from the side door, putting on a fur cap as it came out on the steps and down the lane. Ivory was at home, then, and, best of all, he was unconsciously coming to meet her, although their hearts had been coming to meet each other, she thought, ever since they first began to beat.

As she neared the bars she called Ivory's name. His hands were in the pockets of his great coat, and his eyes were fixed on the ground. Somber he was, distinctly somber, in mien and gait. Could she make him smile and flush and glow as she was smiling and flushing and glowing? As he heard her voice he raised his head quickly and uncomprehendingly.

"Don't come any nearer," she said, "until I have told you something."

His mind had been so full of her that the sight of her in the flesh, standing twenty feet away, bewildered him.

She took a few steps nearer the gate, near enough now for him to see her rosy face framed in a blue hood and to catch the brightness of her eyes under their lovely lashes. Ordinarily they were cool and limpid and grave, Waitstill's eyes. Now a sunbeam danced in each of them. And her lips, almost always tightly closed, as if she were holding back her natural speech—her lips were red and parted, and the soul of her, free at last, shone through her face, making it luminous with a new beauty.

How Glorious to Feel Ivory's Arms About Her.

"I have left home for good and all," she said. "I'll tell you more of this later on, but I have left my father's house with nothing to my name but the clothes I stand in. I am going to look for work in the mills tomorrow, but I stopped here to say that I'm ready to marry you whenever you want me—if you do want me."

Ivory was bewildered, indeed, but not so much so that he failed to apprehend and instantly, too, the real significance of this speech. He took a couple of long strides, and before Waitstill had any idea of his intentions he vaulted over the bars and gathered her in his arms.

"Never shall you go to the mills. Never shall you leave my sight for a single hour again, my one woman in all the world. Come to me to be loved and treasured all your life long. I've worshiped you ever since I was a boy. I've kept my heart swept and garnished for you and no other, hoping I might win you at last."

How glorious to hear all this delicious poetry of love and to feel Ivory's arms about her, making the dream seem surer!

"Oh, how like you to shorten the time of my waiting!" he went on, his words fairly chasing one another in their eagerness to be spoken. "How like you to count on me, to guess my hunger for your love, to realize the chains that held me back and break them yourself with your own dear, womanly hands! How like you, oh, wonderful Waitstill!"

Ivory went on murmuring phrases that had been lying in his heart unsaid for years, scarcely conscious of what he was saying, realizing only that the miracle of miracles had happened.

Waitstill, for her part, was almost dumb with joy to be lying so close to his heart that she could hear it beating, to feel the passionate tenderness of his embrace and his kiss falling upon her hair.

"I did not know a girl could be so happy!" she whispered. "I've dreamed of it, but it was nothing like this. I am all a-tremble with it."

Ivory held her off at arm's length for a moment, reluctantly, grudgingly. "You took me fairly off my feet, dearest," he said, "and I forgot everything but the one supreme fact you were telling me. Had I been on guard I should have told you that I am no worthy husband for you, Waitstill. I haven't enough to offer such a girl as you."

"You're too late, Ivory! You showed me your heart first, and now you are searching your mind for bugbears to frighten me."

"I am a poor man."

"No girl could be poorer than I am."

"After what you've endured you ought to have rest and comfort."

"I shall have both—in you!" This with eyes, all wet, lifted to Ivory's.

"My mother is a great burden—a very dear and precious but a grievous one."

"She needs a daughter. It is in such things that I shall be your helpmate."

"Will not the boy trouble you and add to your cares?"

"Rod? I love him; he shall be my little brother."

"What if my father were not really dead? I think of this sometimes in the night! What if he should wander back, broken in spirit, feeble in body, empty in purse?"

"I do not come to you free of burdens. If my father is deserted by all I must see that he is made comfortable. He never treated me like a daughter, but I acknowledge his claim."

"Mine is such a gloomy house!"

"Will it be gloomy when I am in it?" and Waitstill, usually so grave, laughed at last like a care free child.

Ivory felt himself hidden in the beautiful shelter of the girl's love.

It was dark now, or as dark as the night ever is that has moonlight and snow. He took Waitstill in his arms again reverently and laid his cheek against her hair. "I worship God as well as I know how," he whispered, "worship him as the maker of this big heaven and earth that surrounds us. But I worship you as the maker of my little heaven and earth, and my heart is saying its prayers to you at this very moment!"

"Hush, my dear! Hush! And don't value me too much or I shall lose my head—I that have never known a sweet word in all my life save those that my sister has given me. I must tell you all about Patty now."

"I happen to know more than you, dear. I met her at the bridge when I was coming home from the woods and I saw her safely to Uncle Bart's door. I don't know why we speak of it as Uncle Bart's when it is really Aunt Abby's! I next met Mark, who had fairly flown from Bridgton on the wings of love, arriving hours ahead of time. I managed to keep him from avenging the insults heaped upon his bride, and he has driven to the Mills to confide in his father and mother. By this time Patty is probably the center of the family group, charming them all, as is her custom."

"Oh, I am so glad Mark is at home! Now I can be at rest about Patty. And I must not linger another moment, for I am going to ask Mrs. Mason to keep me overnight!" cried Waitstill, bethinking herself suddenly of time and place.

"I will take you there myself and explain everything. And the moment I've lighted a fire in Mrs. Mason's best bedroom and settled you there, what do you think I am going to do? I shall drive to the town clerk's house, and if he is in bed, rout him out and have the notice of our intended marriage posted in a public place, according to law. Perhaps I shall save a day out of the fourteen I've got to wait for my wife. 'Mills,' indeed! I wonder at you, Waitstill! As if Mrs. Mason's house was not far enough away, without your speaking of 'mills.'"

"I only suggested mills in case you did not want to marry me," said Waitstill.

"Walk up to the door with me," begged Ivory. "The horse is all harnessed, and Rod will slip him into the sleigh in a jiffy."

"Oh, Ivory, do you realize what this means"—and Waitstill clung to his arm as they went up the lane together—"that whatever sorrow, whatever hardship comes to us neither of us will ever have to bear it alone again?"

"I believe I do realize it as few men could, for never in my five and twenty years have I had a human creature to whom I could pour myself out, in whom I could really confide, with whom I could take counsel. You can guess what it will be to have a comprehending woman at my side. Shall we tell my mother? Do say 'yes,' I believe she will understand. Rod, Rod, come and see who's stepping in the door this very minute!"

Rodman was up in his bedroom, attiring himself elaborately for sentry duty. His delight at seeing Waitstill was perhaps slightly tempered by the thought that flashed at once through his mind—that if she was safe he would not be required to stand guard in the snow for hours as he had hoped. But this grief passed when he fully realized Waitstill's presence at the farm at this unaccustomed hour really meant. After he had been told he hung about her like the child that he was—though he had a bit of the hero in him, at bottom, too—embracing her waist fondly and bristling with wondering questions.

"Is she really going to stay with us for always, Ivory?" he asked.

"Every day and all the days, every night and all the nights. 'Praise God from whom all blessings flow!'" said Ivory, taking off his fur cap and opening the door of the living room. "But we've got to wait for her a whole fortnight, Rod. Isn't that a ridiculous snail of a law?"

"Patty didn't wait a fortnight."

"Patty never waited for anything," Ivory responded, with a smile. "But she had a good reason, and, alas, we haven't, or they'll say that we haven't. And I am very grateful to the same dear little Patty, for when she got herself a husband she found me a wife!"

Rodman did not wholly understand this, but felt that there were many mysteries attending the love affairs of grownup people that were too complicated for him to grasp, and it did not seem to be just the right moment for questions.

Waitstill and Ivory went into Mrs. Boynton's room quietly, hand in hand, and when she saw Waitstill she raised herself from her pillow and held out her arms with a soft cry of delight.

"I haven't had you for so long, so long!" she said, touching the girl's cheek with her frail hand.

"You are going to have me every day now, dear," whispered Waitstill, with a sob in her voice, for she saw a change in the face, a new transparency, a still more ethereal look than had been there before.

"Every day?" she repeated longingly.

Waitstill took off her hood and knelt on the floor beside the bed, hiding her face in the counterpane to conceal the tears.

"She is coming to live with us, dear. Come in, Rod, and hear me tell her. Waitstill is coming to live with us. Isn't that a beautiful thing to happen to this dreary house?" asked Ivory, bending to take his mother's hand.

"Don't you remember what you thought the first time I ever came here, mother?" and Waitstill lifted her head and looked at Mrs. Boynton with swimming eyes and lips that trembled. "Ivory is making it all come true, and I shall be your daughter!"

Mrs. Boynton sank farther back into her pillows and, closing her eyes, gave a long sigh of infinite content. Her voice was so faint that they had to stoop to catch the words, and Ivory, feeling the strange benediction that seemed to be passing from his mother's spirit to theirs, took Rod's hand and knelt beside Waitstill.

The verse of a favorite psalm was running through Lois Boynton's mind, and in a moment the words came clearly as she opened her eyes, lifted her hands and touched the bowed heads. "Let the house of Aaron now say that his mercy endureth forever!" she said slowly and reverently. And Ivory, with all his heart, responded, "Amen!"

WHAT IS THRIFT?

THRIFT is NOT miserliness, stinginess or avarice, nor is it the mania for money which makes hoarding it the first aim in life, but THRIFT IS prudence, good judgment—a sane appreciation of and preparation for the exegencies of life, the ability to live on less than one earns.

If you can learn to spend less than you make and deposit the difference in our Special Department at 4% interest you will soon have a substantial amount to your credit.

OPEN WINDOWS ENCOURAGE BURGLARS

Personal Service

Now that the summer time is nearly here, when you leave all windows and doors open as much as possible, you should place your valuables out of the reach of "second-story workers" and burglars.

It is foolish to run unnecessary risks when you can rent a Safe Deposit Box in our burglar and fireproof vaults for as low as $5 a year.

And it is particularly unwise to keep more money in the house than is necessary for your immediate needs, for you tempt others to steal it and yourself to spend it. Put it in this strong bank and let it earn interest.

We pay 4% interest on Special Accounts and 3% on Active Checking Accounts.

WAR HAS LOST ITS GLAMOUR

Growth of Peace Movement, Says Dr. Zelie, Has Had Great Effect on People.

REFERS TO MEXICO

Crescent Ave. Presbyterian Church Pastor in Masterly Sermon, Sums Up Growth of Movement Started at Hague and Shows Churches Part

Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday morning, preached an eloquent and inspiring sermon on the subject of world peace, in which he regretted the necessity for the present struggle in Mexico, saying that the people of the nation have an utter lack of enthusiasm about it because the "peace movement has drawn out of it all glamour and romance." He says that the government of the United States "tried to do a world service in giving notice that henceforth it would not recognize every regime set up by murder and whim," and that it was with the greatest reluctance that we were finally forced to take a hand in the Mexican conflict. At the conclusion of his remarks, Dr. Zelie received the congratulations of a large number of the congregation upon his excellent handling of the matter. He said in part:

"Some years ago I heard a man who had given the best years of his life fighting hand to hand with the destitution and misery of the slums of London, pleading with as representative a congregation as there was in Christendom to give their help. It was Canon Barnett at Westminster—and he asked them just then not for their money, but simply that they would serve the great cause with their thoughts. If only he could get all men to think about it and spare something of their attention to it he said that all the workers in it would be cheered and helped.

"Today the Peace Commissions and Conferences of the world ask the thoughts of the Christian church. It has been her mission to make many evil things so distrusted and disliked and abhorred that they have gradually disappeared from the earth. It is not the church's function to determine budgets of armies and navies, but "to create the atmosphere in which all budgets shall shrink."

"Practically all men believe in international peace, but nearly all would lay it upon some particular agency to produce it. One says let the bankers refuse the funds for war, another trusts that the claims of commerce will eventually make it impossible; others say let it be done through slow dissemination of ideas and still others call upon the press to make it impossible. Germany looks to England to begin the lessening of armaments and England looks back and asks Germany to desist. Now at length, Mr. Carnegie, whose work for peace cannot be too highly praised, who is no lover of churches or creeds or Bible, turns to the church and asks it to use a portion of his wealth and see if they cannot help propogate the cause of peace. Our own country has had four wars of a total length of 10 years, or 12 years of peace for every year of war. Seven centuries of Roman life knew but about six years of peace.

What holds every army and navy in check today is the thoughts of thousands of men. There never was a time when the thought and conviction of a single man against great abuses amounted to so much as it does today. The whole world is agitated today by what the great Christian nations think about war. A distinguished Chinese statesman said to the secretary of the Church Missionary Society, "If as we develop our resources we spend them on education, on hospitals, and push first the welfare of the people, instead of spending large sums on armaments, will the Christian nations keep their hands off us." The Christian church has been teaching China that it need not drag its way through all the miserable mistakes of the church's past but may begin afresh. Are the Christian nations by their attitude to make it necessary for her to assume what is the burden and problem of every one of them?

"No great government today can expend anything like the bulk of its strength and treasure upon the theory it would like to do best, attend to the welfare of its own people—yet, nothing is counted a radical move among the great European nations if it is in the direction of increased military organization, but the carrying out of plans for the amelioration of hundreds of its own people is sure to be called revolutionary and dangerous.

"We all remember the question of a great professor who asked what was to be the moral equivalent of war? The moral equivalent of war

LOCAL MOTORISTS HAD A GREAT RUN

120 Miles Covered Yesterday in Weekly Outing of Plainfield Organization.

In keeping with the popularity the weekly runs of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club has brought out this season, eight motorists left Jack Horner's store on Somerset street at 8:20 yesterday morning under ideal weather conditions headed toward Easton, Pa. At Lebanon the local delegation was joined by Lieut. Bowlby, M. Latzco, H. Ruppert and W. Cooper, and the objective point was reached at 11 o'clock. At Easton the cyclists were met by Warren Groff and Miss Ball, who had made the trip by rail.

Dinner was served at the Huntington Hotel, and after the meal J. J. Moore, one of the Queen City natives, was discovered wandering around, having arrived after his clubmates and being unable to locate them in Easton. The cyclists later repared to the circus field at Easton where the Ringling Brothers' show and the "101" Ranch outfit were striving to outdo each other. The town of Easton resembled a country fair, people coming from miles around to be on hand for the double show today. The booking of the two big attractions on the same day has caused considerable trouble in Easton and indications were yesterday that there would be a mixup before the rival shows pulled out of town today. The city was flooded with a circus mob and at times near riots were narrowly averted.

The Allentown Motorcycle Club had also selected Easton as its objective point and the Plainfielders were joined by the other visiting delegation during the afternoon. The motorists spent the time in renewing old acquaintances and conducted a joint discussion on roads. A visit was made to the banks of the Delaware and a sun bath enjoyed for an hour or more. A number of pictures were taken at this point by the club's photographers.

The return start was made at 4 o'clock and the trip to Plainfield made with a number of exciting incidents. Just outside of Easton, Phillips lost his spark which caused a delay of some time while the loser and Giles set out on a hunt for the missle. After the bunch had left Washington, Horner lost a patch on his rear tube and this necessitated another breathing spell, during which the etomologists of the club inspected the country. After arriving in Somerville it was discovered that Alberts and Miss Higgins were among the missing and after a three-quarter of an hour wait the pair finally appeared on the scene.

The riders arrived in Plainfield at 7:30 o'clock and all heralded the day's outing as one of the finest the club has conducted this season. The total distance covered was 120 miles.

WORK IS RESUMED AT HIGH SCHOOL

Contractor Expects to Complete Addition in Time for Graduation Exercises.

Work started in this morning at the High School when contractor John S. Dahl began to deliver the goods under his contract with the school Board to complete the work interrupted by the failure of the P. J. Exner Company. A force of plasterers had possession of the auditorium and the other sub-contractors were making preparations to resume their work. Most of the subcontractors of the Exner Company have been employed to finish the building.

Every one is bending their energies on the auditorium and it is planned to finish it in time for the commencement exercises of the schools next month. It will take some hustling to have it ready by that time but by pushing the work it can be done ,except for the painting and decorating by June 15. By tomorrow there will be a full gang on the job and the contractor is having no difficulty in getting all the labor necessary.

The Board of School Estimate will hold its meeting at the High School tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and fix the school budget for the coming year. It is not thought that there will be any difficulty in passing the budget as asked for by the School Board which has been made as low as was possible in view of the increased number of pupils which will register in the Fall.

KNIGHTS ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE

Rev. J. J. Allen Preaches on the Enduring Life at Temple Baptist.

ONE MUST KNOW GOD

"Everlasting Life is Life Measured by a Standard of Time," Declares Preacher to Freedom Castle Members.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, attended divine service at the Temple Baptist church last night, when Rev. J. J. Allen, by arrangement with the pastor, Rev. Evarts C. Conover, preached a special sermon. Mr. Conover preaching at Mr. Allen's church in South Plainfield. There was a large representation of the members of the organization in attendance.

Mr. Allen delivered a forceful sermon on the subject "The Enduring Life," it being in the nature of a memorial discourse in harmony with the occasion. His text was, "This is life eternal that they might know thee, the only true God, and Him whom thou didst send, even Jesus Christ." Mr. Allen said in part:

"The value of any memorial service is found in terms of life and not of death. My message therefore is a message of life to the living.

"I wish to speak first of the words 'Eternal Life.' What did Jesus mean by those words? Jesus had in mind a greater conception than the immortality of the soul. Eternal life is the highest quality that is bestowed upon the believer. It is the only life worthy of a soldier of the cross, or of a Knight of the Golden Eagle. The memorial service of a Knight who inherits that kind of enduring life is as joyous as a wedding; an event to be longed for and not to be mourned for.

"The possession of eternal life involves two things: You must know God. This suggests more than we can comprehend tonight. It brings to our minds the attributes of God, omni-presence, omnipotence, and omninescience, justice holiness, love, but we must pass them by. It involves the great Fatherliness of God and to that I wish to direct your attention. God is best understood in terms of a father. When you understand the fatherliness of God you understand God for God is love and the unbounded love of God is expressed in the term, father. The whole problem for us is to get acquainted with God, our Father.

"Knowledge of God must be spiritual as well as intellectual. Spiritual knowledge of God includes the comprehending of love, the application of love and the communion of love. We must know Jesus Christ. This, too, must be a spiritual knowledge. Nicodemus had an intellectual knowledge, but it was not sufficient and so he came seeking that deeper knowing. The Apostle John speaks of knowing as simultaneous with believing, and Jesus defines Salvation in terms of believing.

P. C. C. DINNER DANCE WAS DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

The weekly dinner-dance at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday evening, proved to be a delightful affair, marking the resumption of social activities at this popular club. There were about seventy guests for dinner, while as many more came in for the dance later in the evening. Van Eps Brothers' orchestra furnished the music for dancing, the program being a popular one. The dancing was continued until 11:30 o'clock.

The Saturday night affair promises to be more popular than ever this season, and the house committee decided to inaugurate them at the same time the active season opened on the golf course. They will be continued every Saturday night until mid-summer.

Rumored Attack on Vera Cruz Water Works Did Not Materialize Last Night—Constitutionalists Attacked Near Saltillo by Federals.

(Special from Central News.)

Washington, May 18.—Dispatches were received here today from an authoritative source in Mexico City, that General Huerta has authorized his Mexican mediation delegates to the peace conference at Niagara Falls to submit his resignation if it should be foupnd that there is no other way to bring about a settlement in the negotiations.

This message was received by one of the foreign representatives in Washington and is in confirmation of the intimations given by the friends of the Mexican delegates who were in Washington yesterday.

The conditions as given to the mediation delegates are: That Carranza shall not be chosen president to succeed him; that Huerta shall have a voice in the selection of his successor; that Huerta be permitted to be a candidate for President in the July election; and that the American forces shall leave Vera Cruz.

The Brazilian Minister notified the State Department today that the Mexican secretary of foreign affairs has promised that he will punish the men who were guilty of killing private Parks if he discovers that the killing actually took place within the Mexican Federal lines. This was really the first assurance that Secretary Bryan has received, that the demands he made on the Mexican government last week had been given official notice.

Vera Cruz, aMy 19.—The impending Mexican attack on the water works at Tejar reported last night, which gave the city an attack of nerves, did not develop. At the headquarters of General Funston this morning it was admitted that precautionary measures had been taken after the receipt of the rumors but these were were found to be unnecessary.

United States Counsel Siliman, whos whereabouts have been the cause of uneasiness to the government at Washington, arrived in Mexico City today. He is expected at Vera Cruz in a day or two.

Two Japanese naval officers who have been visiting parts of Mexico for that purpose of assisting Japanese subjects to leave the country were here today and will depart tomorrow for the west coast of Mexico where a Japanese cruiser has been for several weeks.

Former Minister of Foreign affairs Errutia arrived here this morning from Mexico City as a refugee. On alighting from the train he was compelled to surrender a revolver which he had in his pocket.

Headquarters of the Constitutionalist Army, Rio Cohuila, Mexico, May 18.—There was some lively fighting in the vicinity of Saltillo early this morning, when field guns of the Federal army bombarded the advancing Constitutionalists. General Villa himself rode out to the scene of the fighting on a reconnoitering expedition.

HONOR CLERGYMAN FOR FIFTY YEARS' SERVICE

Local Men at Celebration for for Rev. Dean Smythe, of Jersey City.

In celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of his admission to the priesthood, Very Rev. Dean P. E. Smythe, for eighteen years rector of St. Marys church, this city, was accorded a great reception by the parishoners of St. Josephs church, Jersey City, yesterday. The observance was arranged in three parts, while a jubilee mass, celebrated this morning, brought the commemoration to a close. Men of prominence throughout the State attended the exercises, while many of the dean's former local parishoners were present during the day.

Of this number, fifty-five were from the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, this being the largest number from any one organization. The league of the Grace M. E. church had fifty members present.

As the children met outside of Vincent Chapel they formed into one long line, and marched into the edifice singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." The society of the First M. E. church formed the choir for the occasion. Miss Dorothy Seader played a violin, while Mrs. Lucie Rising was at the piano. The address of welcome was made by Master John Bosterle, of the entertaining church, while the roll-call was read by Robert Heron, of the Hope Chapel society. The offertory solo was sung by Miss Dorothy Seader.

SUES HUSBAND FOR DESERTION

Mrs. William T. Kirk Brings An Action in Chancery Court.

ALSO SEEKS A DIVORCE

Petitioner's Story One of Domestic Infelicity—Defendant in Suit Said to Be in a Private Sanitarium—Wife is Living in New York.

Trenton, May 18—Charging that she was deserted by her husband last week and that she is now without means of support, Mrs. Lucy Steele Kirk has brought suit in Chancery for maintenance and a limited divorce from William T. Kirk. Mr. Kirk was formerly a contractor of Plainfield, but has not been in active business for nearly two years. His wife says he is worth about $35,000, and amply able to take care of her.

The story told in the petition filed in behalf of Mrs. Kirk by Randolph Perkins is one of domestic infelicity extending over a period of more than eight years. According to Mrs. Kirk, her husband had for many years been addicted to the use of liquor, and during the last two years has developed into a constant drinker. It was his practice, she said, to drink in solitude, either in the cellar or basement of their home.

For eight years Mrs. Kirk said her husband had not taken her to any places of amusement or to make calls, nor had he shown her any attention whatever.

The Kirks were married at Biltmore, N. C., in November, 1903. They have two children, Westray F., eight years old, and Peyton, two years old. Ten days ago, when Mr. Kirk left home, his wife said she had only $5 in the house. She is now living temporarily in New York with friends.

Mrs. Kirk, accompanied by her two children, it is said, left Plainfield Saturday night, May 9, in an automobile, and is now said to be stopping in New York for the present. Since that time, it is said, Mr. Kirk's condition was such that it was found necessary to remove him to a private sanitarium, where he is now under treatment. For many years Mr. Kirk was prominent in city and county affairs, being one of the Republican leaders in this section. He served as sheriff of this county for one term and at different times was a member of the city and county Republican committees. He was a successful iron contractor and many of the bridges in the county and other parts of the State were built by him. Prior to his marriage at Biltmore in 1903, which was a brilliant affair, Mr. Kirk lived at Park avenue and West Seventh street, the property having since been sold to Dr. F. J. Hughes.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The funeral services for Mrs. Alice Head, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Moffet, on Westfield avenue, last Thursday, after a short illness, were held at the home of her daughter this afternoon. Rev. Edward Gablier, formerly pastor of All Saints' Episcopal church, of which she was a member, was in charge of the services. Besides her daughter she is survived by a son, William Head, of Mountain avenue, this place. Interment will be made in the Arlington cemetery at the convenience of the family.

Although the pupils that represented Fanwood township in the spelling contest that was held in the Westfield High School on Friday evening, did not take a prize they made a very creditable showing, as it was on rather short notice that they entered the contest.

The Parish House closed Friday for the summer months. The Ladies' Auxiliary and the council will continue to hold its monthly meetings in that edifice although it will not be open for the general public. This same plan was adopted last summer as the council found that the crowd that frequented the place after the close of the basketball season is not enough to warrant the expense of keeping the place open. If the place opens next fall a new supervisor will be found in place of Mr. Batterson, who will not return.

There was some confusion as to who were the opponents of the Fanwood Field Club baseball team Saturday afternoon, with the result that a full game was not played, as an agreement had been made with the Scotch Plains "pickups" to let them have the field at 4 o'clock. Both the Fanwood A. C. and West Ends were on hand to play a game with the Field Club and after considerable discussion the latter team was chosen. Five innings were played at the end of which the visitors were ahead.

Mrs. Hulbert Beardsley and children, of Cranford, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. S. W. McAneny, of North avenue.

Robert Hooker has returned to his home in Newark after visiting M. A. Hall, of the borough.

A meeting of the Fanwood Field Club will be held at the home of Maurice Hall, on South avenue, at 8 o'clock Friday evening, when it is expected that several new members will be admitted.

Miss Claire Vreeland has returned to her home in Jersey City after spending a few days with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sheelen, of North avenue.

The local schools will close for the summer vacation one month from today. The final examinations will be held the first week in June.

Miss Matilda Kuehn, of Westfield avenue, is entertaining Miss Emily Duvier, of Plainfield.

When Saturday evening of that week came around and his parents had failed to show up young Mrva, who had only been in this country five years, revealed his concern to Edward Pennock, of the Pennock Pharmacy. Mr. Pennock advised Mrva to call up Ellis Island. This was done but he was unable for some reason or other to get connections. So the next day, upon the advice of Mr. Pennick he visited the immigrant station at New York but he was informed by the authorities there that his parents had not arrived on the Imperator. On Monday, however, Mrva received word from Ellis Island that his parents had been located and that if he would come to New York and sign documents agreeing to provide for them that his parents would be allowed to accompany him away. Mr. and Mrs. Mrva were being detained at Ellis Island because of their age and the fact that they had but little money in their possession. MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

We use the best and heaviest galvanized frames, close to one-half inch thick, on window awnings of standard size. For porches we use ⅜, ½, ¾ inch galvanized pipe, the solid iron being too heavy for porch use because of the greater widths and lengths required. The best and most fully guaranteed awning stripes are used in the making. There is a choice line of colors, including the popular browns and tans, reds, blue and greens—colors that will not run, no matter how much exposed to rain and wind they may be.

After ten years' blackening boots at Paterson, N. J., Tony Sabatino, with $15,000 in cash, is on his way to Italy.

PANAMA CANAL TAKES ON WARLIKE APPEARANCE

Reported Mexican Threat Cause of Preparations to Meet Hostile Army.

Sixteen miles of trenches for riflemen, with as many miles more of approach and maneuvering trails, suitable for cavalry and mountain, even field, artillery, have been completed along the Panama canal.

The trenches are capable of accommodating, if necessary, 25,000 men. They have been so plotted that in many places they will make possible not only frontal but flank fire upon any attacking party.

Soldiers of the Tenth infantry are on duty at the locks and at every other part of the canal where a crank and dynamite might do damage or where a hostile army might strike.

Work on the fortifications at either entrance to the canal has so far progressed that there are several pieces of high power ordnance in readiness to do effective work at any moment.

Officers of the submarine fleet on duty at Panama have "plotted ranges" over the entire field of this ordnance.

Members of the zone police have been put on "plain clothes" duty, and attend every party of tourists, ready at once to note any suspicious action by any one who might try to see too much.

Work on the trenches has been under way for some time. The other activities followed the circulation of hand bills in Panama City announcing that the Mexicans would "never allow the Panama canal to be finished."

Visitors have lately been surprised by the appearance at every station along the way of soldiers on their trains. Guarding bridges and culverts, the blowing up of which might interrupt traffic across the isthmus, as well as guarding the approaches to the locks of the canal themselves, these soldiers have missed their accustomed ice water. Every train that stops in their neighborhood, therefore, is boarded by the thirsty men, to the amazement of the passengers, and while good natured conductors look the other way, the soldiers drink deep.

THE A. B. C. MEDIATORS.

Da Gama, Naon and Mujica Have Had Wide Diplomatic Experience.

John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American union, furnishes sketches of the three South American diplomatists who have undertaken to adjust Mexico's troubles at conferences in Canada beginning May 18.

Dr. Domicio da Gama, ambassador of Brazil, succeeded Joaquim Nabuco, who accomplished much to increase the friendship between his country and the United States, to which he was accredited. Da Gama began his professional life as a journalist. In 1893 he was appointed secretary to Brazil's special commission in Washington, where President Cleveland was arbiter in a question between Brazil and Argentina. From 1896 to 1900 he was connected with special missions in Europe. In 1901 he was made charge d'affaires at Brussels. In 1907 he was Brazilian minister to Peru and in 1908 was transferred to Argentina.

Dr. Romulo S. Naon, minister of Argentina, was first recognized in public life when he won a medal at the University of Buenos Aires for a thesis on a matter of great interest to his country. In 1902 he was elected to the lower house of the federal congress and also in 1906, distinguishing himself throughout as a debater. President Alcorta appointed Dr. Naon secretary of justice and public instruction. He was appointed minister of Argentina in Washington in 1911.

Eduardo Suarez Mujica is a native of Santiago, Chile, and studied law at the National university. Soon after obtaining his degree he received a post in the office of the minister of foreign affairs, and soon afterward was made assistant secretary of state. While thus in close touch with diplomatic life he had numerous intricate international problems to handle. He was called to become the intendente of the province of Altacama, which he later represented in the national congress. In 1908 the late President Montt gave him the portfolios of justice and public instruction. Senor Mujica entered the diplomatic service of Chile in 1909, when he was appointed minister to Mexico and Cuba.

TOWN MAINTAINS HOBOES' HAVEN

How Tramp Problem Is Dealt With In Oneida County, N. Y.

STOPS BACK DOOR BEGGING.

Lodging, Supper and Breakfast Supplied and the Sick Cared For—Poormaster and Grocer Divide Profits on Allowance of 25 Cents For Each Meal Served In Unique Institution.

The village of Clayville, in Oneida county, has a unique tramp house. It is a wooden building about twenty feet square. It has one door and one window, plank floors and no basement. Its sanitary provisions would make a health officer gasp for breath, says the New York Times, but it is popular with tramps, and since it was opened about twenty years ago more than 25,000 men have been fed and lodged in the building.

Every tramp who enters the village is entitled to lodging, supper and breakfast in the tramp house. Sometimes if a tramp is ill he remains there for a week or two and comes out looking better than if a metropolitan hospital had had him in charge. The town of Paris pays the cost for the purpose of keeping tramps from sleeping in barns or begging food or lodgings from the people. Before the house was opened the town suffered great annoyance from tramps. Barns were burned and people attacked by men who had been denied food or shelter. The tramp house has solved this problem in a very satisfactory manner.

Goal of Tramps From Many Points.

Tramps come into the village on foot or on freight trains from Utica on the north and Binghamton on the south. The town of Paris is the gateway to the hop fields of the county, the promised land to the tramp fraternity. The men call the little old building "The Castle" and make direct for it after entering the village.

The meals are served on the European plan, and table etiquette is never thought of, for the reason that there isn't any table. Spoons or other silverware is never stolen for the same reason. The guests believe in the old adage, "Fingers were made before forks."

Tramps usually begin arriving at the building about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. When dusk comes a committee of two is selected to make arrangements for the grub. The town poormaster has an understanding with a nearby groceryman whereby the latter supplies food to the tramps. The committee makes an official call upon the merchant, who inquires about the number of men waiting to be fed.

Mealtime at "the Castle."

Then he grinds enough coffee for the crowd, mixes it with some sugar and water in a two gallon pot and throws a slab or two of bologna, several loaves of bread and some canned beans in a flour sack. If he happens to have a supply of stale cookies or fried cakes, in they go too. The committee carries the food down to "the castle," the coffee is boiled on the stove, tin cups are passed around, and everybody digs in.

During the evening the storekeeper goes to "the castle" and takes the name and address of every man. His book shows that "Texas Tommy," "Box Car Jimmy," "One Eye Smith," "Sandy Kelly" and a lot of other men with odd names have a fondness for registering at "the castle."

The town pays the poormaster 25 cents for every meal served, and the poormaster divides profits with the storekeeper. The latter very often contributes without charge old clothes, shoes, stockings, chewing tobacco and pills to those who need them.

SUMMER WHITE HOUSE BILL.

Move to Make Mount Weather an Abode For President.

Various suggestions that the government should provide a summer White House for the president and his family crystallized in a bill introduced by Representative Carlin of Virginia calling for the conversion of Mount Weather, near Bluemont, Va., into a presidential summer home. The place is already government property.

Mount Weather is 2,000 feet above sea level, on the ridge separating the Shenandoah and Loudoun valleys, and is within two hours' ride of Washington. The property was acquired by the weather bureau while Professor Willis Moore was chief of the institution. Hundreds of thousands of dollars had been spent in improvements, but experience demonstrated that it was not available for a weather station. The agricultural appropriation bill provides for the abandonment of the location as a weather observatory.

Bullet Parts Ensign's Hair.

George B. Junkin, an ensign on the battleship Utah, has written to a friend in Philadelphia of his narrow escape from death as the officers and bluejackets went ashore at Vera Cruz. In the first action there Ensign Junkin, who was leading a company of bluejackets, which later took the custom house, felt a bullet cut a hole in his hat and part his hair with the furrow it left.

JAMES E. GAFFNEY.

Tammany Contractor Declares That Mellen Was "Bunked."

James E. Gaffney, close friend personally and politically of Charles F. Murphy, said that the New Haven Railroad company was "bunked" if, as Mr. Mellen testified, it paid $1,200,000 to influence the board of estimate of New York at the time it was asking for modifications in the original franchise of the New York, Westchester and Boston railroad. Mr. Gaffney said the political influence of the late Police Inspector Thomas Byrnes, through whom Mellen says he worked, was a joke and that at the very time when Mellen says Byrnes was having things done for him the inspector was at loggerheads with "Big Tim" Sullivan and by that token with other men of political prominence who might have brought pressure to bear on the board of estimate.

RESCUE FIVE AT SEA AFTER TWO WEEKS

Remnants of Columbian Crew Are Picked Up.

Halifax, N. S., May 18.—With five men aboard, the victims of a most harrowing disaster and the most trying experience in the history of navigation on the Atlantic ocean, the United States revenue cutter Seneca is speeding to this port.

The five are the last of those who left the ill fated steamer Columbian on the night of May 3 in an effort to escape the frightful consequences of a fire and explosion aboard ship at sea.

Eleven others were in the small craft when she left the side of the Leyland liner, but when the Seneca went to the succor of the frail craft but five remained. The rest had died, and one by one as the slowly passed out of this existence their bodies were cast overboard.

The forward lookout of the Seneca discovered a small object in the distance as they cruised off the Nova Scotia coast. Once the lookout had reported the object full speed ahead was ordered, and in a very short time the Seneca drew alongside a small boat above which an oar protruded with a piece of cloth affixed. From the bridge of the cutter it could be seen that huddled together on the seats were several men.

At the outset only one managed to murmur the word "Columbian." The Seneca's crew were unbelieving, for it had been two weeks since that craft sank, and not a man on board thought that the five had been able to live during that time. The small boat had not been examined, but with that word a closer examination was made, and there sure enough the name of the ill fated liner was found painted.

SINGER KILLS HIMSELF.

Swede, Unable to Master English Language, Cuts His Throat.

New York, May 18.—Martin Brolin, thirty-three years old, a Swede, who came to this country three years ago convinced that his unusually fine tenor voice would win him a fortune, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor in the apartments of his friend, Henry Steinquist, superintendent of a bachelor apartment house at 103 West Fifty-fourth street. Steinquist said he believed the young man decided to die because his inability to master English had sorely handicapped him in his ambition to make a living with his voice for himself and a sweetheart in Sweden who had promised to join him in America whenever he said the word.

Brolin was a broad shouldered six footer with great strength and energy. Before leaving Sweden he pictured America to his girl as a land where good singers were appreciated.

U. S. TO AVENGE PARKS' MURDER

General Huerta Must Give Full Satisfaction.

ULTIMATUM SENT DICTATOR

Army to Exact Retribution For Slaying of United States Soldier—If Mediation Fails Complaint Will Be Held In Reserve.

Washington, May 18.—The situation in regard to the execution of Private Parks is unchanged. It is true that the note sent by this government to Huerta practically amounts to an ultimatum. The United States demands the production of Parks' body and the immediate punishment of all those who were responsible for his execution. Huerta is called upon also for a full explanation of the incident, which the United States characterizes as an act of hostility.

Notwithstanding the warlike character of the note to Huerta, this government will not permit the death of Parks to interfere with any prospect of a settlement of the Mexican situation through mediation. This cause of complaint will be held in reserve as a ground for action by this government in the event of the failure of the conferences at Niagara Falls.

A report that the government had at last taken steps longed for by the American troops at Vera Cruz has reached them, and General Funston's army is ready to exact swift retribution.

Admits Critical Situation.

Mr. Bryan, the secretary of state, will not admit that his representations to General Huerta through the Brazilian ambassador in Mexico City have taken the form of an ultimatum, but he concedes they were "urgent."

This demand was forwarded to General Huerta only after two cable inquiries from the United States government as to the fate of Parks had elicited no reply. Then, it is understood, the administration informed the Mexican dictator that his silence was regarded as an unfriendly act and the killing of Parks a hostile move, and unless he surrendered the body of the murdered soldier, gave a satisfactory explanation and administered punishment to those responsible for Parks' death the United States would be compelled to make reprisal.

What form this will take can only be conjectured. The American troops at Vera Cruz hope it will be an order to march to Mexico City.

Officially Mr. Bryan has accepted the promise of the Huerta government to investigate Parks' death promptly, but administration officials have little hope that this means anything but another attempt by Huerta and his advisers to temporize.

Confirmation of the reports that Parks was slain has been obtained from a Mexican who arrived in Vera Cruz and who told his story to W. W. Canada, the American consul.

This man said he was present when Parks was shot by General Gustavo Maas' soldiers and that they first made an attempt to force him to say that he was an American spy sent to discover the strength and disposition of Maas' troops.

Evidence that Huerta's promises are more or less evasions is indicated by the fact that the Cuban messenger, Mord, who was sent by Mr. Canada to General Maas with a request for information as to Parks' fate, has been arrested and sent to Mexico City.

General Maas, in an interview, attempted to deny that Parks entered his lines outside of Vera Cruz and asserted that the soldier found two of the horses which Parks had been riding or driving and returned them to General Funston.

No credence is placed in this statement. If the horses had been restored to General Funston there is no doubt that he would have reported it at once.

There is no doubt in official circles that Parks was slain by Mexicans. The only question is, how long Huerta can evade the reckoning.

General Villa's attack upon Saltillo has begun. It is reported at Hippolito, Mexico, that the federals already are evacuating the city and falling back upon San Luis Potosi, but the rumor cannot be confirmed. So easy a victory would be a surprise, as General Villa has not yet brought his whole army of 20,000 men into action.

SAW GARRISON, ALL OF HIM.

Man Looking For War Secretary Found Him Just Out of Bath.

Washington, May 18.—Secretary of War Garrison tells the following story on himself apropos of the approaching heated term:

"Last summer I went on a tour of inspection of the western forts. On one of the hottest days of the year I finished looking over Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and then motored to Kansas City. I went straight to my hotel, filled the bathtub with water and luxuriated. After the bath and before drying I started a parade up and down the room enjoying the river breezes that strained through the windows. All at once the door was burst open and a wild eyed young man said in surprised tones:

"'I want to see the secretary of war.'

"'Well, take a good look,' I said, 'You'll never see any more of him than you do right now.'"

CIVIC EDUCATION.

In a few years the affairs of Plainfield and of the state and the nation will be in the hands of a new generation of voters. These voters-to-be are now in school. Some of them in the high schools will be citizens in less than a decade; some of them in less than half a decade. They are being taught their paces to fit them for life and lately by the broadening of the school curriculum, they are being trained in manual, domestic and vocational classes for productive life. But for a useful and intelligent citizenship, except as the study of botany, Latin, grammar, algebra, physics, geometry and history tend to round out their lives, they are receiving naught to train them, while for governing they are not taught at all.

Citizenship demands, however, are growing rapidly more exacting. Citizenship is coming to require a conscientious mastery of affairs. It is tending to more individuality with a larger responsibility of the individual towards his community. A training is required to master it—for mastery of it is essential in the useful citizen be he governed or governing—and that training should be secured within the schoolroom during the education of the coming citizen.

Realization of these things have led to the establishment in the public schools of a few cities—Lincoln, Neb., Evanston, Ill., and Steubenville, O.,—of regular courses in municipal government which are doing notable work in training for citizenship. It has led to the demand for such a course in the schools of Los Angeles, Cal., while higher branches of learning are turning to civics in a few isolated cases to fit students for governing municipalities.

In Lincoln, prominent business men give a regular course of weekly lectures that bring the students' attention to the practical life of the community. In Kansas City, Mo., students are required to have a knowledge of city government as a prerequisite to the study of national government. In several other cities, the business men have realized the necessity for training the young in citizenship and are inducing them in various manners to co-operate with them, the business men, in real civic work.

Civic education deserves attention in this city and it should begin in the school room either through special courses or special lectures accompanied by co-operative plans to be offered by the business men.

The Westfield Leader, the lively weekly published by Walter J. Lee, has presented several attractive editions to advertise its town and the advantages offered by residence there, but none have been so attractive as that of last Wednesday, issued to commemorate the "Know Your Town" exhibit held last week. In addition to the sixteen pages of the regular news section, there was a handsomely printed and illustrated supplement of eight pages printed on fine coated paper, which told the history of the town and of the newspaper. It was illustrated by pictures of the leading men of the place and familiar sights about the town. It would have been a credit to any newspaper, regardless of the size of the city of publication. The Leader lives up to its name, and it is only a matter of time when it will be called upon to enter the daily newspaper field to supply the wants of its rapidly growing and progressive community.

Councilman Calkins has been suggested as a candidate on the Republican ticket for Mayor of Plainfield. We know of no man who has been in the Council in recent years who possess more ability, and who could be depended upon to give more painstaking and conscientious service than Mr. Calkins. During the time that he has been one of the city fathers he has given up practically every minute of his time outside of his regular hours at his New York office, to the work which the people elected him to do, and he has been a leader in the Council. Oftentimes he has made great personal sacrifices in order to attend to city business, and has been compelled to give up many engagements in order to properly care for the work shifted to him, because of the important committees of which he is a member.

Today is the anniversary of the establishment of the Hague Peace Conference, and to commemorate it there were references made yesterday in churches all over the country. It gives us great pleasure to print in another column a splendid sermon delivered yesterday morning by Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, in which the attitude of the Christian peoples of the world toward war is ably described. From the viewpoint of the church Dr. Zelie has handled the Mexican question in a masterly manner.

On May 2 the Suffragists took charge of the Daily Press and had their say about the cause they advocate. On Saturday of this week the Anti-Suffragists will edit a supplement, which will be sent with the Daily Press of that day. The contributed editorial will be prepared by them, and their propaganda will be fully explained for the people of Plainfield. As was the case on May 2, the paper will have a greatly increased circulation.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

I notice in a letter from one of your correspondents that doubt is expressed concerning statistics presented on May 6, 1914, in your column, and the writer suggests that the statistician resembles the famous Mrs. Harris; in other words like her, "there aint no such person."

Mr. George M. Puller, who lived on California street, Washington, D. C., has many times been employed in statistical work for various branches of the government, and may be seen almost any day at the Anti-Suffrage headquarters, at 14th and H streets, Washington.

He is known to all the officers of the local organization and to some of the National officers. He secured his facts first-hand from government sources, gives authority for all that he says, answers carefully all questions addressed to him, and is quite honest and reliable person.

He gave me personally the statistics typed and verified, when I was last in the Washington office, and it was I who brought the M. S. to the New York office.

Mr. Puller is not now directly in the employ of the government, but in the employ of the Anti-Suffrage Association. Hence the inability of your correspondent to locate him.

Very truly yours,
MRS. GRACE DUFFIELD GOODWIN

TAFT LAUDS WILSON'S ATTITUDE IN MEXICO

Former President Upholds the Administration's Policy.

New York, May 18.—Ex-President Taft, speaking on the subject of "International Peace" at a peace meeting in the Free synagogue at Carnegie hall, came out unequivocally in favor of the administration's policy and said it was the duty of the American people to hold up the hands of President Wilson in his effort to bring about an honorable end to a complicated situation.

"If we are to be involved in war because of Mexican anarchy," he said, "let us have it fully understood that we go into it 'in the service of mankind,' as the president phrases it, and not upon the issue of a mere punctilio in naval ceremony."

On the other hand, Mr. Taft thought that if our course toward Mexico had not exerted such a direct influence to aid one of the contending parties this government would not now be so near general intervention and war, nor would we have been so responsible for law and order in the event that a new government comes into power through our influences.

The Mexican situation as it now confronts us, he said, is more difficult to deal with than threatened war between two stable nations, for we have to contend with the disease of revolution. If this government favors the suppression of anarchy in Mexico he advocated the blockading of all Mexican ports, which would cost the least loss of life, time and money. As a final solution to the problem, he hopes that Carranza, if succeeding to control with our aid, would bring about a condition of affairs which would not entail burdensome consequences upon this government.

DECLARE AMMONS LIED TO PRESIDENT

Call Message of Mediation In Strike Untrue.

Denver, May 18.—Meetings were held throughout Colorado by citizens, strike leaders and others to discuss the strike situation.

Belated press dispatches said that President Wilson after hearing from Governor Ammons had expressed satisfaction over the result of the legislature's work and the announcement of the governor that he would take steps at once to send the state militia back into the strike zone. These developments caused no end of excitement and speculation.

Strike leaders announced that a thousand women in the disaffected districts had declared they would take up arms personally against the state militia if General Chase is sent back there with state troops.

At meetings in Denver—meetings of citizens who have no connection with either side in the strike problem—it was declared that Governor Ammons' telegram to Wilson is untrue. The belief was also expressed that the report that the president is satisfied with the result of the special session must be erroneous. The governor himself said that he expects further messages from the president.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey, with his wife and five other women, started for Washington to place the situation directly before the president. They took this action after a meeting at the home of J. Brisbane Walker and after a telegram had been sent to the president in which it was declared that the governor's dispatch in answer to the president's call down falsely states that a plan for mediation was adopted by the legislature.

THE NEWEST MAUDE ADAMS PHOTOGRAPH

John W. Alexander, the artist, and Mrs. Alexander, especially the latter, were of great help to Miss Maude Adams in designing and even executing the strikingly unique gowns and hats that she wears during the four acts of the latest Barrie fantasy, "The Legend of Leonora." How Miss Adams dresses "Leonora" throughout the action of Mr. Barrie's play is of greater interest than in the case of any of her other stage character, because Miss Adams, dressed ready to play "Leonora," looks more like Maude Adams in private life than has been true of any of her other stage parts. Almost never seen by the public outside the theatre, it has always been a matter of curiosity with Maude Adams' admirers how she dresses in private life. Her appearance as "Leonora" solves the mystery, and solves, too, the type of woman she most admires, for not since "Lady Babbie" in "The Little Minister" has Miss Adams ever had a role that she loved half so much as "Leonora." In proof of this, this play is to be her offering to the various publics that greet her throughout America on her tour next season.

PEACE CONFERENCE READY

Niagara Falls Scene of Much Activity as Delegates to Mediation Meeting Arrive—Recognition to Be Withheld Even if Rebels Win.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 18.—This was probably the most exciting day in many months here on both sides of the Niagara. The Clifton House here, where the mediation conference will be held, and Prospect House, on the American side, where the United States delegates will live during the negotiations, have both been the objective points of crowds of tourists, and every strange face is being carefully scrutinized by those eager to see just what a "mediator" looks like.

Seated on the front piazza of the Prospect House, over on the American side, Robert F. Rose, who is here representing the state department, is being pointed out sometimes as one of the American delegates, but more often as one of the South American envoys. The wise ones do not know just who he is, but are willing to take a chance, and even newspaper men are given all kinds of titles. The real excitement, however, came with the arrival of Dr. Naon, the Argentine minister. Senor Ypanema Moreira, secretary of the Brazilian embassy at Washington, who has made arrangements for the "A. B. C" diplomats here, received official notification of the arrival of Dr. Naon.

Huerta Minor Issue.

Washington, May 18.—The program which United States officials have in mind for the permanent settlement of the Mexican situation goes far beyond the mere elimination of Huerta from the provisional presidency. It contemplates a radical reorganization of the present system of land holding in Mexico.

Surprising as this statement is, it was learned on the best of authority that the Washington government is prepared to insist upon this reform in any settlement of the Mexican situation. The president and his advisers are convinced that the elimination of the present semifeudal land holding system in Mexico and the opening up of these vast properties to ownership by the peons are fundamental to a complete and permanent restoration of peace in Mexico. The administration will insist upon assurances of this reform even if Carranza and Villa are in control at Mexico City.

There is good reason to believe, in fact, that President Wilson in the event of a Constitutionalist victory will withhold recognition from the Carranza government until absolute pledges of this character have been given. As viewed by administration leaders, any settlement of the Mexican situation which does not provide for the doing away of the present system of land ownership by a small group of favored individuals is certain to fail. There will follow a repetition of the scenes of the last two years under new leaders and with possibly new troops, but the spirit of discontent and revolution will, it is contended, be just as strong as it is today. Huerta, as the administration has now come to view the situation in the southern republic, merely typifies a system of government in Mexico which must be destroyed before the United States can hope for any permanent peace and order on its southern border. At present the administration believes that Carranza and Villa, when they finally have triumphed, will give the legislative relief that is necessary.

But the Constitutionalist leaders will find that recognition by this government will be lacking until Washington is satisfied what will happen on this score.

In other words, the Washington government even now is figuring on holding the power of recognition over the successor to Huerta as a club for forcing action on what the president and his advisers regard as the basis of all the Mexican difficulties.

FUSION URGED ON BULL MOOSE

North Carolina Republican Chairman Seeks Fight For Tariff.

Raleigh, N. C., May 18.—"There is an irresistible return to protection," Republican State Chairman John M. Morehead, former congressman, says in a call to Progressives and Republicans to meet in executive committee, it being the first suggestion of fusion.

Chairman Morehead asserts that the Panama canal question furnishes abundant issue for fusion and that protection is a cardinal principle of both. Several weeks ago the Roosevelt following in North Carolina went on record against the old organization, but it is learned here that the bull moose will join the congress and gubernatorial nominees.

Eliminated by Primary.

Portland, Ore., May 18.—Six of the eight aspirants for the Republican nomination for governor were eliminated by the returns of the count of Friday's primary vote in Oregon. The race reduced itself to Dr. James Withycombe of Corvallis and Gus C. Moser of Portland, with chances seemingly favoring Withycombe.

WAR HAS LOST ITS GLAMOUR

is that the nations should at last get freedom to fight the right things instead of each other. Abraham Flexner has named it when he says that "civilization has stripped for a life and death wrestle with tuberculosis, alcohol and other plagues. It is on the verge of a similar struggle with the crasser forms of commercialized vice. Sooner or later it must fling down the gauntlet to the whole horrible thing. That will be the real contest; a contest that will tax the courage, the self-denial, the faith, the resources of humanity to the utmost." The aim of the Peace Movement is to release the powers and resources of nations for work which is centuries behind hand in them all.

"But there can be no doubt that in the ears of the average man Peace is a word that sounds rather tame. He does not think of it as Christ thought of it, as the great energy of a human soul or a people. To him Peace was not possible without the supply of tremendous power. It was not the fading out of every passion, nor the exhaustion of earthly interests, but the harmonious, complete and mighty action of all that was in the life. The reason of our peaceless lives is that they have so little power. The world is getting strong enough to have peace.

"Men have laughed to scorn the efforts of the peace promoters. Religious journals sat on the seats of the scornful when the Hague Tribunal was created. The "amused ridicule" of practical men you must take as the sure sign accompanying the beginning of any great movement. For the man who sees only the obvious and the immediate the three campaigns between Russian and Japan, among the Balkans, and in Tripoli, all carried on as if the Hague never existed, are enough to settle its fate. But the thing is there, and it will be easier to extend its powers than it was to start it.

"In spit of it we too are on the edge of conflict. Some new things stand out to characterize that conflict. One the utter lack of enthusiasm about it. The peace movement has drawn out of it all glamour and romance. This nation has no heart or desire for a long campaign and none for conquest. Again the other nations have tried not to add to the complications of heckling and annoyance, but have held themselves well in hand. Of course the old irresponsible desire breaks out here and there to go and swiftly finish the business speedily, as an affair with people so backward that then can appreciate nothing but slaughter. We have come to believe that they are by nature disorderly and their only hope is the firm hand of a dictator. Like many another easy theory that will have to go. A recent writer on disorderly States draws our attention to the fact that the Angles and Saxons had no special gifts of order and that the tradition of the Anglo-Saxon as a natural born lover of order and government is of very late origin. We are apt to speak the word Mexico with contempt but may remember that Bushnell's word is as true for nations as for men, "Be sure that getting into any scornful way is fatal." The nation next door has hardly had a chance. We can afford to be as slow and as patient with her as we are toward the evils we tolerate and have tolerated for generations in our own midst. It will never go out of the national memory of Mexico that at every step of the way every means of conciliation was exhausted before action.

"So long as the brotherhood of men is the subject of addresses only the heart leaps to it, but when it demands drudgery and offended pride and patience and stooping as sooner or later it must, the romance is apt to go. The immediate steps are anything but attractive. Our government tried to do a world-service in giving notice that henceforth it would not recognize every regime set up by murder or whim. We all lauded the attempt. Now that it has led us into unlooked for situations is no sign that the lesson will not be just as valuable as we supposed. And today we serve with our thoughts and prayers that great movement which seeks to secure for all nations the energy which comes from peace."

BIG FLOOD IN ALASKA.

Villages and Mining Camps Swept Away—Fears For Fort Yukon.

Tacoma, Wash., May 18.—Fairbanks, Alaska, cables that Circle City, Eagle City and scores of woodchoppers' and mining camps, with many native villages along the Yukon above Fort Yukon, have been destroyed by the worst flood in the history of the north, according to meager reports. Fears are entertained that Fort Yukon has been swept away.

"Ice jammed somewhere below here and water rising at rate of more than a foot per minute. Everybody taking to foothills." This was the brief message flashed from the wireless station at Circle City and picked up at Fort Gibbon.

Flood marks on the Yukon show that water in the past rose more than a hundred feet when ice jammed in the canyons. Circle City and Eagle City are only thirty feet above the Yukon's normal level.

"PICKUPS" NO MATCH FOR PARK AVENUES

Locals Had Little Trouble Trimming Scotch Plains' Pride.

The Park Avenue Baptists journeyed to Scotch Plains Saturday afternoon, and took the measure of the "Pickups" of that place by an 11 to 8 count. The church boys had things practically their own way until the sixth, when the Plains boys touched Mills' slants for six tallies and coming but one from tying the score. In the last three innings Mills pitched airtight balls while his teammates pushed two counts across the plater. Bowlby twirled good ball for the first five stanzas until relieved by Mills, striking out eight and allowing two counters. Marston was unsteady most of the time blanking the visitors in only two periods.

Moher opened the first inning with a clean single, going to second on Lee's poor throw. He raced home with the first run on Mills sacrifice. Mills throw to the plate robbed the "Pickups" of a run after Wahl had put one into centre field and gone to third on Corrona's slashing single. Bowlby held them scoreless until the fifth while eight runs were being made behind him. Scotch Plains got their first run across in the fifth on Venizia's single and steal of second, coming home on Marston's single. Marston brought in one more run in that frame. Before Mills was settled in the sixth he was lighted on for six runs, everyone on the "Pickups" making a hit.

Captain Jack Ricketts, who is recovering from a compound fracture of the ankle, started things going in the eighth by pinch hitting for Smith. He walloped one back of first for a clean single and Smith running for him scored on Bowlby's single. Bowlby brought in the last run in the ninth after getting a life on first by Wahl's error, stealing second and riding home on Waller's single.

RACING TOWARD THE STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Local High School Tennis Team Looks Like a a Winner.

The Plainfield High School tennis team added another victory to its lengthening string Saturday, by defeating Glen Ridge High School, four matches to one. On the previous day the tennis team played a draw with Montclair High School, each team winning three matches. A match was played between Cottrell and Dall, of Plainfield, and Harrison and Osborn, of Montclair, to decide the winner. Each team won a set, Plainfield losing one set by a score of 8-10, but winning the second by a score of 6-2.

By the time the second set had ended it was 7:30 o'clock and the match had to be called a draw, because of darkness. The Plainfield High School tennis team may now be reckoned as one of the best High School teams in the State. Montclair and Glen Ridge usually figure in the State championships, but since Plainfield has defeated Glen Ridge and drawn with Montclair, the local High School will probably be heard from when the time comes to pick the State champions.

The local boys journeyed to Montclair, Friday afternoon and played the Montclair High School team, they then stayed overnight at the homes of some friends at Montclair and played the Glen Ridge team on Saturday morning, returning to Plainfield in the afternoon.

The complete summary of the two matches follow:

Montclair vs. Plainfield.

Osborn defeated Blanchard 6-1, 6-3; Taylor defeated Goodrich 4-6, 9-7, 6-4; Harrison defeated Cottrell 6-1, 6-2; Dall defeated Gates 6-3, 8-6; Dall and Cottrell defeated Harrison and Gates 6-4, 8-6; Noonan and Goodrich defeated Osborn and Taylor 6-2, 6-3; Cottrell and Dall drew with Harrison and Osborn 8-10 and 6-2.

Glen Ridge vs. Plainfield.

Blanchard defeated Palmer 6-4, 6-3; Goodrich defeated Knox 4-6, 6-4, 6-1; Dall defeated Cordeley 7-5, 6-2; Dall and Goodrich defeated Knox and Palmer 7-5, 6-4; Reed and Cordeley defeated Noonan and Lounsbury 4-6, 8-6, 6-3.

LEALS WALLOPED THE CARTARET BALL NINE

Visitors at the Mercy of Local Sluggers in Weird Game on Oval.

Leal School baseball players plastered an 18 to 4 victory up at the expense of the Carteret Academy youths on the Crescent Oval diamond Saturday, pounding the offerings of the rival moundsman to the four corners of the lot and scoring in every session but the third. The runs came in fair sized bunches and it could be seen from the first that the visitors were no match for the local private school ball tossers.

Leals experienced one of its good days and as a result the Orangers never had a look in. Timely and hard hitting, with seven two baggers on the side, made the verdict an easy one for the locals. Lyon, VanDeventer, Stewart, Dickerson, Garrigues, Schneider and Dale featured the local's work while eight errors were conspicuous in the playing of the visiting team.

PARK GOLF CLUB OPENS ITS SEASON

Competition for President's Cup Attracts a Large Field.

The Park Golf Club opened its active season on Saturday with the initial play for the President's cup, weekly competition to continue throughout the season. The season's schedule, it is expected, will be announced within a short time, as soon as a few minor details are arranged. The course, considering the great amount of rain recently is in excellent condition, although a trifle heavy in some places.

There was a good field out Saturday to take part in the opening event and the scores generally were quite low for this time of the year, in fact it being the first time since last fall that some have had a golf stick in their hands. The leading scores on Saturday follow:

Dr. H. K. Carroll, 101, 8-93; Frank W. Thompson, 116, 22-94; H. L. Moodey, 110, 15-95; Clarence J. Hand, 113, 18-95; J. Fred Hillman, 121, 25-96; Oliver B. Hill, 120, 24-96; Somuel Townsend, 116, 19-97; John A. Steiner, 118, 20-98; John V. Beeckman, 16, 17-99.

HARVARD WINS THE COLLEGE SOCCER FLAG.

Harvard won the intercollegiate soccer championship by defeating Princeton.

The victory brought the Crimson into a tie with the University of Pennsylvania in the number of games won, but the score decided the championship, as Harvard had the best net score of goals made and lost.

Pennsylvania, having scored 19 goals to opponents' 8, had a net score of 11; Harvard, with 16 goals to 4, lost, had a net score of 12.

BITTERLY CONTESTED

Weak hitting and poor fielding was the cause of the downfall of the North Plainfield baseball team when the city nine trounced them on Parker Field Saturday afternoon by the score of 11 to 5. The boroughites were never in it and their eight errors gave the home team fine chances which they accepted every time. Sminck was in fine form and only allowed five hits while Denny was touched for eleven. For the first four innings not a North Plainfield man was on first base. The city team was on their toes all the time and only made three misplays during the game. O'Leary led the batters with three bingles and Townley was the leader for the invaders. The detail score by innings follows:

RUBBER GAME WENT TO SAURER'S NINE

Baptists Hit the Ball Hard but Lose an Uphill Battle to Rivals.

In a loosely played, but exciting ball game on the West End avenue field Saturday afternoon, the Saurer baseball team took a game at the expense of the First Baptist aggregation by a count of 9 to 7. It was the rubber game of the series between these rivals, each aggregation having won a contest prior to Saturdays meeting.

Dixon, who had been effective against the Baptists in the previous engagement, was hit hard, the church boys using their bats with telling effect at times. Base runners ran wild on the paths at the expense of the Baptist catchers, nine sacks being pilfered by Saurer players during the game. While hit hard, Dixon had better control than his rivals on the Sunday-school nine's mound and this gave him the edge that finally won out.

For what he lacked in the box, Dixon made up for with the wagon tongue, clouting out a trio of swats, one of which registered itself as a two-cushion slam. Bailey and Barnes did the best hitting for the Baptists.

FIRST LEAGUE GAME IS LOST BY HOPE BOYS

Monroes Take the Pole in the Initial Contest of the Season.

Hope chapel opened the Sunday-school baseball season Saturday afternoon by losing to the Monroe Avenue contingent, the final score being 5 to 3. Hope displayed some excellent early baseball, but was not able to nose out its old rival. Monroe had Skillman, the veteran semi-pro heaver on the mound, and his efforts to check the fusillade of bingles from the Chapelites' bats were effective.

Nine swats of the safe variety were cracked out at his expense, but the Hope regiment were unable to come through with the needed punch when a run was needed. Adam Schott, a former Plainfield Pet performer, played first base for the Fourth street combination and his three hits, one a two sacker, helped materially in the run getting. Tommy Heron and Lutman also did some notable willowing. Each pitcher fanned eight opponents but Dick Schott had the edge on his rival, holding the opposition well in check in the pinches and keeping the hit column down to a scattered half dozen.

Butler also came up in the game Saturday and now ranks among the first. "Bennie" Rosenson took a big slump and did not hit safely once, taking his average down 300 points. ## FIRST ROUND PLAY FOR HANDICAP CUPS

Low Scores Returned in Competition at Plainfield Country Club.

The first round match play for the Spring Handicap cups, both classes, aroused unusual interest at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday, as there was a large field in each class. Low scoring was the rule and in several instances an extra hole was required to decide the winner. There were a few defaulted matches. In addition there was a sweepstake event and the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup, both competitions having a large following.

Class A—J. R. Schoonmaker beat G. M. Holstein, 5 and 3; S. D. Lounsbery won from Dudley H. Barrows by default; A. M. Collens beat Arthur Murphy, 3 and 1; A. J. Watson beat D. H. Howland, 3 and 1; H. T. Eaton beat S. T. Perrin, 5 and 4; H. D. Hibbard beat R. G. Morse, 1 up (19 holes); J. Whitney Baker beat Charles A. Reed, 4 and 3; W. H. Rogers beat R. S. Rowland, 4 and 2.

WESTFIELD TEAM LOOKS PRETTY GOOD

Somerville No Match for the Speedy Mt. Ararat Crew in Opening Game.

Westfield baseball representatives put it all over Somerville on Saturday in the opening game of the season at the latter place Saturday afternoon, by a score of 3 to 6, the game being only a practice affair at best, and was devoid of interest from start to finish. Copperwaite may not have had anything in the way of curves, drops or spits, but Somerville couldn't touch him, and in the majority of trys at the bat it was a case of one, two, three.

In the first, fourth and sixth Somerville had a chance to score, but failed to land, and it was Dixon's homer in the seventh that saved them from a coat of whitewash. Westfield could hit Kraft, and if it was necessary could probably have sent a few more men over the home plate, as they had plenty of opportunity. There was a good attendance at the game, but little enthusiasm was manifest. The score follows:

RUBBER VERDICT MAKES IT SEVEN STRAIGHT FOR B. A. A

Playing on the West End Field Saturday morning, the Boys' Athletic Association defeated the Somerset Field Club in the rubber game of the series, to the time of 13 to 4. The game was a farce from start to finish, despite the fact that Hebert, the N. P. H. S. "Sub" caught for the losers at first, and later pitched. In the last inning, the losers put in "Dan" Denny, the N. P. H. S. pitcher to pitch hit, but Lyke spoiled his record and "rep" by making him pop to the pitcher's box. Mills for B. A. A. got two doubles and a triple, while O'Donnell got three singles. The line-ups were as follows::

B. A. A.—Remie, lf; Snyder, c, Case, 3b; Mills, 2b; Dunham, ss; O'Donnell, 13; Houston, cf; Lyke, p.

Tommy Mullin to Captain Aggregation That Will Bring About a Revival.

Baseball at South Plainfield will be introduced to the fans next Sunday afternoon with Tommy Mullin, as promoter. Mullin has booked Perth Amboy to appear Sunday and would like to get into communication with other semi-pro teams. P. A. McDonough and John Kaine are assisting Tommy in his organization work and McDonough will take charge of the managerial end.

On Mullin's list are Otto Frederickson and Lou Slocum, two of the best pitchers in this section. Both have established excellent reputations for themselves in former years. Johnny Dixon and Katz Miller will play other positions, and "Buck" White, formerly of the Allentown team of the Tri-State League is also signed. Lou Dixon, who has just returned from a tryout with the Elmira team of the New York State League, will catch. Jack Garretson will cavort about the initial sack and Billy Coyle will cover the keystone territory. Mullin intends to personally cover short and "Tuts" Jaeger will play the difficult corner. Jack Wilson, Henry Albert and Katz Miller are the outfielders.

DUNELLEN, MINUS QUARTET OF STARS, LOST PRACTISE GAME TO LEVGAR A. C.

The Levgar F. C., of Dunellen, defeated the Dunellen regulars, minus the services of Joe Albert, Harry Giddes, Bennie Rosenson and Barrett, of the Ironsides, who will do the catching for the Montrossites, in a practice game on Maurer Oval, Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 4 to 2. McFadden, the Levgar's twirler, was in rare form and the Dunellen players outside of "Smiling Jimmie" could do absolutely nothing with his benders. Percy Harney, the Bound Brook boy, who had a tryout with the St. Petersburg team, of the Virginia State League, this year, on the other hand, had an off day due largely to the fact that Howell, of Westfield, who was at the receiving end was unable to hold him. Harney was taken out at the end of the fifth and "Smiling Jimmie" went in the box himself and allowed two runs, three hits and struck out five men during the three innings he twirled.

The playing of Eddie Hannon on first base for the Levgars and a beautiful running catch by Walker in right garden robbing Hannon of an easy two base hit were the features of the game.

The Levgars drew first blood in their half of the third. McFadden went out, S. Montross to J. Montross, Curl got a life when Jimmie Montross dropped DeNitzo's throw. Brandt got a free ticket to first. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch by Harney. Frolic grounded out by the first base route, Curl scoring and Brandt came in with the last tally of the inning on Murphy's two base wallop to deep center. The Dunellenites evened things up in their half of the fifth, when they scored two runs on three successive singles and a bad throw by Brandt to first on Haegneys grounder.

The Levgars cinched the game in the sixth when they scored two runs on an error by Harney, a stolen base and singles by Shottenger and Curl.

WORKING HIS WAY.

Fraser Hale, After British Golf Championship, Crossing on a Freighter.

Fraser Hale, the young Chicago golfer, who plays from the Edgewater club, has left New York for England to join Travers, Ouimet and the other Americans at Sandwich. The western boy is going to cross the Atlantic on a freighter and has made arrangements to do some work on the way over to pay for his passage.

He slipped away from Chicago, and, though his friends knew that he was on his way to the British championship, he left them in the dark as to the manner in which he intended to get there.

Harold Weber of Toledo, who announced some time ago that he intended to play in the British championship again this year, has also sailed for England.

NEEDLEWORK

CHINESE MOTIFS FOR EMBROIDERY ILLUSTRATED ON A TABLE-RUNNER

A runner like the one illustrated here, made of durable inexpensive material, is suitable for use on a table for the piazza or summer cottage.

An attractive runner may be made from inexpensive materials such as linen, crafts canvas, Monk's cloth or even pongee and embroidered with the Chinese motifs from transfer pattern number 14620. These motifs may be effectively carried out in solid work and outline-stitch or outline alone, in blue and yellow, or, if preferred, only one color may be used. The design is quickly and easily embroidered, as the solid work on these motifs should not be padded but should be done in slanted over-and-over stitches taken closely and evenly together. About one skein of each color of filo silk will be required for embroidering each motif. If the design is simply outlined, use rope silk as it is more effective.

There are 3 yards, or 17 of these motifs in the pattern, each 3½ by 5 inches. They may be cut apart and used separately or as a border on table-runners, bureau-scarfs and sofa-pillows. They are also appropriate for trimming parasols, waists, dresses and suits of linen, silk or wool materials.

Guaranteed, hot iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price, 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

Silk poplin is an unusually popular material for one-piece dresses; it comes in all the bright colors and may be combined with one of the new figured moires very effectively. Number 7827 is a Misses' Dress closing diagonally down the front, having a plait over each shoulder and a set-in sleeve. There is a four-piece skirt with a diagonal lap in front to match the closing of the blouse. This little dress could be effectively developed in one of these bright poplins with collar and the inset pieces on blouse and skirt of a rose-figured moire. Another good suggestion for this frock and one that is especially youthful, is a black and white check, brightened by copper color or having its lines piped with bright green or scarlet taffeta. For a girl of 16 this design requires 4½ yards of 36-inch material. The pattern is cut in four sizes, 14 to 18.

THIS IS A PERFECT PATTERN.

Be sure to give right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15c in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

FRESH VEGETABLES.

NOW that fresh vegetables are coming into the market the housewife is able to vary her bill of fare indefinately.

Cauliflower au Gratin. — Boil the cauliflower. Lay it on a well buttered fireproof dish. Stir one ounce of grated cheese into white sauce. Pour this over the cauliflower. Sprinkle another ounce of grated cheese on the surface of the sauce. Add a few small knobs of butter and put the whole into a brisk oven till the cheese is lightly brown.

Wholesome Foods.

Saute Potatoes.—Take one pound of new potatoes, two ounces of butter and some chopped parsley. Boil the potatoes until they are nearly cooked. Drain and cut into slices or other shapes. Heat the butter and fry the potatoes until nicely browned. Dish in a hot tureen and sprinkle sparingly with chopped parsley.

Stewed Macaroni and Celery.—Take one-quarter of a pound of macaroni, two or three heads of celery and one-half pint of tomato sauce. Cut the celery into even lengths, using only the tender part. Break up the macaroni into two inch pieces. Boil these for half an hour and then drain. Dish and coat with tomato puree.

A Culinary Treat.

Artichoke and Beans. — Take one pound of artichokes, one-half pound of butter beans, one-quarter pint of milk, one ounce of butter and chopped parsley. Soak the beans overnight. Boil them in plenty of water until tender, about three-quarters of an hour. Boil the artichokes and mash them thoroughly, add the milk and butter and then boiled beans. Dish and sprinkle with parsley.

Tomato puree is also excellent used in place of artichokes.

Spinach a l'Italienne.—Pick, wash and cook three pounds of spinach with very little salted water in a stewpan. When done drain and press the spinach well. Heat a gill of olive oil in a saute pan and put in the spinach. Turn with a fork to toss the spinach thoroughly. Lastly add three or four finely chopped anchovy fillets, season with a little white pepper, dish up and serve.

The Elephants Made an Awful Fuss.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Elephants Have a Spring Bath.

THE minute daddy got home that evening he was at once seized by Jack and Evelyn, who told him that he mustn't forget about the trip to the zoo the next day.

"What—is it that we are going to tomorrow?" asked daddy, just as if he had forgotten about it.

"Now, daddy," said Jack, "you mustn't pretend you have forgotten, for you know that we know better."

"Dear me," said daddy, "it does seem as if I couldn't get the best of either of you. Well, to tell the truth, I am looking forward to going myself. I think we will have a fine trip, and it will be a real holiday for all of us.

"One thing I must tell you, and that is the elephants will be all arrayed in their best spring garments. In other words, they will be so clean that they will almost look shiny, for yesterday they all had their baths.

"They very much objected. But of course the keepers thought that they would be glad of it afterward, when they would be much admired.

"So they scrubbed them with oil first and then water, while the elephants made an awful fuss.

"When the bath was over and they were fine and dry one elephant said to another:

"'Do you know that this means it is spring?'

"'Yes,' said a second elephant; 'I am very glad. Aren't you?'

"'Yes; I am delighted, but we had better not say to the keepers that we are so very happy.'

"But at that one of the oldest elephants spoke up:

"'You know,' said he, 'I think we ought to be very much ashamed of ourselves. Here we are being treated so well. The keepers are so good to us. They put up with all our fuming and fussing because they wished us to feel fine and look nice so that people might enjoy looking at us. We ought to admit that at least we are grateful.'

"The elephants thought it all over, and then they came to agree with the old one and thought they would not be so horrid and cross any more. So, with all these fine resolutions, they waited for their supper.

"When the keepers came with their supper they were in the very best tempers.

"The keepers of course noticed it and were delighted. One of them said:

"'You see, our hard afternoon's work was not in vain, after all.'

"The elephants were pleased to hear that, and so when we go to the zoo tomorrow we will find the elephants in fine shape."

CHAPTER XXVIII.
Aaron's Rod.

"IVORY! Ivory!"

Ivory stirred in a sleep that had been troubled by too great happiness. To travel a dreary path alone, a path leading seemingly nowhere, and then suddenly to have a companion by one's side, the very sight of whom enchanted the eye, the very touch of whom delighted the senses—what joy unspeakable! Who could sleep soundly when wakefulness brought a train of such blissful thoughts?

"Ivory! Ivory!"

He was fully awake now, for he knew his mother's voice. In all the years, ever thoughtful of his comfort and of the constant strain upon his strength, Lois had never wakened her son at night.

"Coming, mother, coming!" he said, when he realized she was calling him. And, hastily drawing on some clothing, for the night was bitterly cold, he came out of his room and saw his mother standing at the foot of the stairway with a lighted candle in her hand.

"Can you come down, Ivory? It is a strange hour to call you, but I have something to tell you—something I have been piecing together for weeks, something I have just clearly remembered."

"If it's something that won't keep till morning, mother, you creep back into bed and we'll hear it comfortably," he said, coming downstairs and leading her to her room. "I'll smooth the covers, so; beat up the pillows—there!—and throw another log on the sitting room fire. Now, what's the matter? Couldn't you sleep?"

"All summer long I have been trying to remember something—something untrue that you have been believing, some falsehood for which I was responsible. I have pursued and pursued it, but it has always escaped me. Once it was clear as daylight, for Rodman read me from the Bible a plain answer to all the questions that tortured me."

"That must have been the night that she fainted," thought Ivory.

"When I awoke next morning from my long sleep the old puzzle had come back a thousand times worse than before, for then I knew that I had held the clew in my own hand and had lost it. Now, praise God, I know the truth, and you, the only one to whom I can tell it, are close at hand!"

Ivory looked at his mother and saw that the veil that had separated them mentally seemed to have vanished in the night that had passed. Often and often it had blown away, as it were, for the fraction of a moment and then blown back again. Now her eyes met his with an altogether new clearness that startled him, while her breath came with ease and she seemed stronger than for many days.

"You remember the winter I was here at the farm alone when you were at the academy?"

"Yes. It was then that I came home and found you so terribly ill. Do you think we need go back to that old time now, mother dear?"

"Yes, I must, I must! One morning I received a strange letter, bearing no signature, in which the writer said that if I wished to see my husband I had only to go to a certain address in Brentville, N. H. The letter went on to say that Mr. Aaron Boynton was ill and longed for nothing so much as to speak with me, but there were reasons why he did not wish to return to Edgewood. Would I come to him without delay?"

Ivory now sat straight in his chair and listened keenly, feeling that this was to be no vague, uncertain and misleading memory, but something true and tangible.

"The letter excited me greatly after your father's long absence and silence. I knew it could mean nothing but sorrow; but, although I was half ill at the time, my plain duty was to go, so I thought to go without making any explanation in the village."

All this was new to Ivory, and he hung upon his mother's words, dreading yet hoping for the light that they might shed upon the past.

"I arrived at Brentville quite exhausted with the journey and weighed down by anxiety and dread. I found the house mentioned in the letter at 7 o'clock in the evening and knocked at the door. A common, hard featured woman answered the knock and, seeming to expect me, ushered me in. I do not remember the room; I remember only a child leaning patiently against the window sill looking out into the dark and that the place was bare and cheerless.

"'I came to call upon Mr. Aaron Boynton,' I said, with my heart sinking lower and lower as I spoke. The woman opened a door into the next room, and when I walked in, instead of seeing your father, I confronted a haggard, death stricken young woman sitting up in bed, her great eyes bright with pain, her lips as white as her hollow cheeks and her long black hair streaming over the pillow. The very sight of her struck a knell to the little hope I had of soothing your father's sick bed and forgiving him if he had done me any wrong.

"'Well, you came, as I thought you would,' said the girl, looking me over from head to foot in a way that somehow made me burn with shame. 'Now, sit down in that chair and hear what I've got to say while I've got the strength to say it. I haven't the time nor the desire to put a gloss on it. Aaron Boynton isn't here, as you plainly see, but that's not my fault, for he belongs here as much as anywhere, though he wouldn't have much interest in a dying woman. If you have suffered on account of him so have I, and you haven't had this pain boring into you and eating your life away for months, as I have.'

"I pitied her, she seemed so distraught, but I was in terror of her all the same and urged her to tell her story calmly and I would do my best to hear it in the same way.

"'Calm,' she exclaimed, 'with this agony tearing me to pieces! Well, to make beginning and end in one, Aaron Boynton was my husband for three years.'

"I caught hold of the chair to keep myself from falling and cried, 'I do not believe it!' 'Believe it or not,' she answered scornfully, 'it makes no difference to me, but I can give you twenty proofs in as many seconds. We met at a Cochrane meeting, and he chose me from all the others as his true wife. For two years we traveled together, but long before they came to an end there was no happiness for either of us. He had a conscience—not much of a one, but just enough to keep him miserable. At last I felt he was not believing the doctrines he preached, and I caught him trying to get news of you and your boy just because you were out of reach, and neglecting my boy and me, who had given up everything to wander with him and live on whatever the brethren and sisters chose to give us.'

"'So there was a child, a boy!' I gasped. 'Did—did he live?' 'He's in the next room,' she answered, 'and it's him I brought you here for. Aaron Boynton has served us both the same. He left you for me and me for heaven knows who. If I could live I wouldn't ask any favors of you least of all, but I haven't a penny in the world, though I shan't need one very long. My friend that's nursing me hasn't a roof to her head, and she wouldn't share it with the boy if she had—she's a bigoted orthodox.'

"'But what do you expect me to do?' I asked angrily, for she was stabbing me with every word.

"'The boy is your husband's child, and he always represented you as a saint upon earth. I expect you to take him home and provide for him. He doesn't mean very much to me—just enough so that I don't relish his going to the poorhouse, that's all.'

"'He'll go to something very like that if he comes to mine,' I said.

"'Don't worry me with talk, for I can't stand it,' she wailed, clutching at her nightgown and flinging back her hair. 'Either you take the child or I send somebody to Edgewood with him, somebody to tell the whole story.

"My poor, poor Rod!"

Some of the Cochranites can support him if you won't, or, at the worst, Aaron Boynton's town can take care of his son. The doctor has given me two days to live. If it's a minute longer I've warned him and I warn you that I'll end it myself, and if you don't take the boy I'll do the same for him. He's a good sight better off dead than knocking about the world alone. He's innocent, and there's no sense in his being punished for the sins of other folks.'"

"I see it all. Why did I never think of it before, my poor, poor Rod!" said Ivory, clinching his hands and burying his head in them.

"Don't grieve, Ivory. It has all turned out so much better than we could have hoped. Just listen to the end. She was frightful to hear and to look at, the girl was, though all the time I could feel that she must have had a gypsy beauty and vigor that answered to something in your father.

"'Go along out now!' she cried suddenly. 'I can't stand anybody near. The doctor never gives me half enough medicine, and for the hour before he comes I fairly die for lack of it, though little he cares. Go upstairs and have your sleep, and tomorrow you can make up your mind.'

"'You don't leave me much freedom to do that,' I tried to answer, but she interrupted me, rocking her body to and fro. 'Neither of us will ever see Aaron Boynton again—you no more than I. He's in the west, and a man with two families and no means of providing for them doesn't come back where he's known. Come and take her away. Eliza! Take her away, quick!' she called.

"I stumbled out of the room, and the woman waved me upstairs. 'You must not mind, Hetty,' she apologized. 'She never had a good disposition at the best, but she's frantic with the pain now, and good reason, too. It's about over, and I'll be thankful when it is. You'd better swallow the shame and take the child. I can't and won't have him, and it'll be easy enough for you to say he belongs to some of your own folks.'

"By this time I was mentally bewildered. When the iron first entered my soul, when I first heard the truth about your father, at that moment my mind gave way—I know it now."

"Poor, poor mother! My poor, gentle little mother!" murmured Ivory brokenly as he stroked her hand.

"Don't cry, my son; it is all past—the sorrow and the bitterness and the struggle. I will just finish the story, and then we'll close the book forever. The woman gave me some bread and tea, and I flung myself on the bed without undressing. I don't know how long afterward it was, but the door opened and a little boy stole in, a sad, strange, dark eyed little boy who said: 'Can I sleep up here? Mother's screaming and I'm afraid.' He climbed on to the couch. I covered him with a blanket, and I soon heard his deep breathing. But later in the night, when I must have fallen asleep myself, I suddenly awoke and felt him lying beside me. He had dragged the blanket along and crept up on the bed to get close to my side for the warmth I could give or the comfort of my nearness. The touch of him almost broke my heart. I could not push the little creature away when he was lying there so near and warm and confiding—he, all unconscious of the agony his mere existence was to me. I must have slept again, and when the day broke I was alone. I thought the presence of the child in the night was a dream, and I could not remember where I was or why I was there."

"Mother, dear mother, don't tell me any more tonight. I fear for your strength," urged Ivory, his eyes full of tears at the remembrance of her sufferings.

"There is only a little more and the weight will be off my heart and on yours, my poor son. Would that I need not tell you! The house was still, and I thought at first that no one was awake, but when I opened the sitting room door the child ran toward me and took my hand as the woman came in from the sickroom. 'Go into the kitchen, Rodman,' she said, 'and lace up your boots. You're going right out with this lady. Hetty died in the night,' she continued impassively. 'The doctor was here about 10 o'clock, and I've never seen her so bad. He gave her a big dose of sleeping powder and put another in the table drawer for me to mix for her toward morning. She was helpless to move, we thought, but all the same she must have got out of bed when my back was turned and taken the powder dry on her tongue, for it was gone when I looked for it. It didn't hasten things much, and I don't blame her. If ever there was a wild, reckless creature it was Hetty Rodman. But I, who am just the opposite, would have done the same if I'd been her.'

"She hurriedly gave me a cup of coffee and, putting a coat and a cap on the boy, literally pushed me out of the house. 'I've got to report things to the doctor,' she said, 'and you're better out of the way. Go down that side street to the station, and mind you say the boy belonged to your sister, who died and left him to you. You're a Cochranite, ain't you? So was Hetty, and they're all sisters, so you'll be telling no lies. Goodby, Rodman. Be a good boy and don't be any trouble to the lady.'

"How I found the station I do not know, nor how I made the journey, nor where I took the stagecoach. The snow began to fall, and by noon there was a drifting storm. I could not remember where I was going nor who the boy was, for just as the snow was whirling outside so it was whirling in my brain."

"Mother, I can hardly bear to hear any more. It is too terrible!" cried Ivory, rising from his chair and pacing the floor.

"I can recall nothing of any account till I awoke in my own bed weeks afterward. The strange little boy was there, but Mrs. Day and Dr. Perry told me what I must have told them—that he was the child of my dead sister. Those were the last words uttered by the woman in Brentville. I carried them straight through my illness and brought them out on the other side more firmly intrenched than ever."

"If only the truth had come back to you sooner!" sighed Ivory, coming back to her bedside. "I could have helped you to bear it all these years. Sorrow is so much lighter when you can share it with some one else. And the girl who died was called Hetty Rodman, then, and she simply gave the child her last name?"

"Yes, poor, suffering creature. I feel no anger against her now—it has burned itself all away—nor do I feel any bitterness against your father. I forgot all this miserable story for so long, loving and watching for him all the time, that it is as if it did not belong to my own life, but had to do with some unhappy stranger. Can you forgive, too, Ivory?"

"I can try," he answered. "God knows I ought to be able to if you can!"

"And will it turn you away from Rod?"

"No. It draws me nearer to him than ever. He shall never know the truth. Why should he? Just as he crept close to you that night, all unconscious of the reason you had for shrinking from him, so he has crept close to me in these years of trial when your mind has been wandering."

"Life is so strange. To think that this child, of all others, should have been a comfort to you! The Lord's hand is in it!" whispered Mrs. Boynton feebly.

"His boyish belief in me, his companionship, have kept the breath of hope alive in me. That's all I can say."

"The Bible story is happening over again in our lives, then. Don't you remember that Aaron's rod budded and blossomed and bore fruit and that the miracle kept the rebels from murmuring?"

"This rebel never will murmur again, mother," and Ivory rose to leave the room. "Now that you have shed your burden you will grow stronger and life will be all joy, for Waitstill will come to us soon, and we can shake off these miseries and be a happy family once more."

"It is she who has helped me most to find the thread, pouring sympathy and strength into me, nursing me, loving me, because she loved my wonderful son. Oh, how blest among women I am to have lived long enough to see you happy!"

And as Ivory kissed his mother and blew out the candle she whispered to herself, "Even so, Lord Jesus, come quickly!"

TWO GIRLS SAVED AT ATLANTIC CITY

Hundreds Witness First Rescue of Season.

PULLED OUT BY ESCORTS

Went to Rescue Before Life Guards Reached Them and Crowd on Boardwalk Gave Them Hearty Cheer For Their Work—Victims Stepped Into a Gully.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 18.—Hundreds of persons promenading the boardwalk here witnessed the first rescues of the season when two young women were pulled from the surf.

The girls were rescued by their escorts before the life guards reached them, and the crowd on the boardwalk gave them a hearty cheer for their work.

The girls were Alice Moyer and Lydia Corchman of Camden. Accompanied by Louis Weaver and his brother Martin, the young women came here. The water looked tempting, and after watching others bathing the four decided to take a dip.

The girls were not swimmers, and they remained close to the beach. They stepped into a gully off New Hampshire avenue and were out of their depth.

When they came to the surface they screamed for help, and the Weaver brothers, who were not far away, were soon at their sides, and it only took the men a couple of minutes to get them out of danger.

TO DRAPE MONUMENTS.

New Jersey Sons of Revolution Will Honor Continental Army

Trenton, N. J., May 18.—When the annual meeting of the New Jersey Society of Sons of the Revolution is held in Princeton Thursday twelve monuments recently erected to show the line of march of Washington's army from Trenton to Princeton will be draped in black as a mark of honor to the Continental army. General Alfred C. Wood hull and Colonel William Libbey of Princeton will attend to the work of draping the monuments early in the morning.

Members of the society will follow the line of march of the army in automobiles, and as the cars pass the draped monuments the black flags will be collected. It is the purpose of the society to follow this custom each year on the occasion of the annual meeting.

DECLINES JERSEY BISHOPRIC.

Dr. Brent Won't Accept Place Offered by Trenton Convention.

New York, May 18.—Bishop Charles H. Brent of the Philippine Islands declined the bishopric of the Episcopal diocese of New Jersey in a cable received at the Episcopal board of missions in this city. Bishop Brent was recently elected to the place at the convention in Trenton.

Joel W. Wood, general secretary of the Episcopal board of foreign missions, said that it was not expected that Bishop Brent would accept the New Jersey bishopric.

There will not be another convention of the New Jersey diocese until September or October, said Mr. Woods, when a special one will convene to elect some one to the place which Bishop Brent has declined.

HONOR DEAD VETERANS.

Sons of Civil War Veterans Place Flags on Their Graves In Paterson.

Paterson, N. J., May 18.—A committee of 102 Sons of Veterans spent most of yesterday placing American flags on the graves of the 1,004 civil war veterans who are buried in various cemeteries in Paterson and vicinity. Next Sunday flowers will be placed on all the graves.

On Memorial day there will be a parade, in which 300 veterans and more than 4,000 other persons will march to East Side cemetery, where exercises will be held.

BOY KILLS MAN, WOUNDS TWO

Shoots Fellow Workers Who Taunted Him About Girl.

Millington, N. J., May 18.—Because fellow workers in a stone quarry taunted him about his sweetheart, Stephen Ruggerio, seventeen years old, shot and killed one of the men and wounded two others. Ruggerio fled into the woods.

The authorities do not know the name of the murdered man, as he had been here only a short time. Luigi Dagatino was shot in the eye, and the other wounded is Patrick Falzerano.

PEACE FRIENDS FOR WILSON.

Resolutions Indorsing Stand on The Hague Treaty Celebration.

New Brunswick, N. J., May 18.—The "watchful waiting" policy of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan in Mexico was praised by Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York city, who was the principal speaker at the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the treaty of The Hague. At the close of the meeting a resolution was adopted indorsing the stand taken by the president in the Mexican troubles.

EARLEY QUESTION STILL UNSETTLED

Borough Board of Education Will Refer Matter to State Body for Disposition.

LEGALITY QUESTIONED

Teachers Named for Next Term—Board Authorizes Purchase of Steel Lockers—Three Resignations Are Accepted.

After being deadlocked for over an hour, members of the North Plainfield Board of Education at an adjourned session, last night, decided to consult the State Board of Education regarding the reappointment of Albert Earley as principal of the borough High School and until word is received from that source nothing further will be done in the matter. At a meeting held last week it was decided to re-engage Mr. Earley on the condition that he waive all rights to which he is entitled to under the Tenure of Office Act, but upon forwarding a copy of his agreement to the State authorities it was found that the local Board had no right to make this request. The agreement signed by Mr. Earley was rejected as illegal and the Board endeavored last night to make some other distribution of the case.

During the meeting the teachers' committee went into executive session with the principal and presented a report to the Board requesting that Mr. Earley be reappointed upon his agreement to a limited contract, the latter to give the Board the right to dispose of him at any time it should see fit after February 1, 1915. This suggestion met with strenuous objection on the part of Newton B. Smalley, one of the members, who contended that it was illegal to demand such a voucher from the principal and that such action would place the Board in a bad light. The objection caused a split in the body similar to the one of last week and much discussion was prevalent regarding the matter.

Several of the Board members contended that Mr. Earley was already under the Tenue Act inasmuch as the borough authorities had not given him thirty days' notice required by the contract, while ohtres declared the conditions surrounding the case were sufficiently strong to allow the Board to make a disposition of the matter without taking the Tenure Act into consideration. Sentiment on the proposition is evenly divided and the question was discussed for over an hour before a resolution was introduced by Mr. Smalley suggesting turning over the matter to the State Board. Pending an opinion on the subject nothing further will be done.

Certain members of the North Plainfield Board of Education are in favor of dismissing Mr. Earley which would probably result in the case being brought into the courts. It was the opinion of several that a test case would be a good thing for the municipality in the matter, thereby eliminating further chances of imposition forced on it by State legislation.

Bids for the placing of twenty steel lockers in the boys' section of the borough High School were received at the meeting and referred to the building committee with power to act at once. The lowest bid was offered by the Durand Steel Locker Company, of New York city. The Board authorized the final payment to W. Townley & Brother for work done in the school laboratories upon their agreement to furnish the necessary papers guaranteeing the replacing of certain portions of a ceiling that has been found defective.

Claude D. Jeffreys, one of the applicants for the position of manual training instructor in the North Plainfield schools to succeed Mr. Stillman, was present at last night's meeting and submitted to an interview by the teachers' committee. He was engaged for the position at a salary of $1,000. The resignations of the Misses Fulkinberg, Sampson, Bushnell and Merrill were received and accepted. The following appointments were made for next year: Miss VanArsdale to succeed Miss Bratton, Miss Crawford to succeed Miss Cassell, Miss Mantz to succeed Miss VanArsdale, Miss Effie Hendrickson to succeed Miss Crawford, Miss Duchesne to sueceed Miss Dampman, Miss Alice Leigh to succeed Miss Fulkinberg, Miss Rapalje to succeed Miss Mantz, Miss Rose Nash, of this city, to succeed Miss Westcott, Miss Louise Dayton to succeed Miss Dwight, Miss Marguerite McGurr to succeed Miss Bushnell, Miss Henrietta Englehardt, of North Plainfield, to succeed Miss Sampson. Miss Gertrude Conover and Miss Davorken were made permanent teachers, having substituted in the borough school last year. Miss Matilda Remsen was appointed instructor of mathematics in the High School.

SAYS HUSBAND DINED YOUNG WOMEN

Witness for Wife Tells of John E. Orchard's Entertainment.

John E. Orchard, formerly of North Plainfield, a well known member of the Baptist Temple, Brooklyn, wants a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Emma E. Orchard, of 20 Sidney place, Jersey City. He asserts that she left him while they were living in North Plainfield in 1910.

Mrs. Orchard denies the charge, and in a cross bill asks a divorce on the ground that her husband deserted her. The case was continued yesterday before Vice-Chancellor Lewis in the Jersey City Chancery Chambers.

One of Mrs. Orchard's witnesses, Miss Hortense Smith, told of attending a dinner at a Brooklyn restaurant in 1910, at which Orchard was the host to sixteen young women. No other men were present, she said. Orchard denied the dinner story, and two witnesses corroborated him. George R. Hart and William Werthington said they were at the dinner, that there were five or six girls and four or five men present and that Orchard did not foot the bill.

Harold Pierce, of 641 East 138th street, Manhattan, a son of Mrs. Orchard by her first marriage, said that his stepfather was a poor provider and that when any of their relatives came to spend the day with them they always brought their own food. The Orchards have a daughter, Nella, who is with her mother. Former City Judge William A. Coddington is counsel for Mr. Orchard.

ARTHUR B. COLE IS ELECTED PRESIDENT

Dutch Arms of Trinity Reformed Church Hold Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Dutch Arms, men's association of Trinity Reformed church, was held last evening, when the reports of the various committees and officers were presented to the gathering, showing a substantial increase in membership and a balance in the treasury of the organization. The activities of the society during the past year have been many and varied, much having been accomplished in making the year a successful one in all respects. The officers elected for the ensuing term were as follows: President, A. B. Cole; first vice-president, F. S. Cutter; second vice-president, L. M. Leek; secretary, C. W. Beiter; treasurer, G. E. Volk. The standing committees will be announced later.

After the formal business session a lecture on "Steel Manufacturing" was given by Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung. The industry was followed in a very detailed way from the time the ore left the mines until the finished product was turned out by the machine shops. Samples of ore were shown by the speaker. The address was a practical one, being interesting as well as instructive.

FUNERAL OF MRS. PHEBE L. KING LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of Mrs. Phebe Louisa King, widow of James Webster King, was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Archibald Heath, on Greenbrook road, and was largely attended by relatives and friends of the family. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, officiated, and made a short and impressive address.

During the service, Mrs. Robert Giddis, soprano of the First Baptist church choir, sang "Sometime We'll Understand," and "Abide With Me." There were a great many beautiful floral tributes from the relatives and friends.

Mrs. King, who lived in North Plainfield for several years prior to returning to her native home in Brooklyn, had been making her home for the past year with her daughter in the borough. She was the mother of David W. King, of Craig place, who is seriously ill and Mott King, of Waverly, N. Y.

The burial took place in Bound Brook, and the pall-bearers were former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, former Councilman W. L. Smalley, Henry Dunbar and Percy Dayton.

MRS. DEKNATEL GETS A DECREE

Special Master Child Recommends a Separation for Former Plainfielder.

COUPLE IS WELL KNOWN

Defendant Says He Might as Well Have the Game as the Name—Continues to Live With Woman Named as Corespondent.

Trenton, May 19.—"I might as well have the game, as the name," declared Henry C. Deknatel, of Plainfield, and New York City, when charged with unfaithfulness by his wife, Mrs. Florence P. Deknatel, of 633 Belvidere avenue, Plainfield. Then Deknatel went to Los Angeles, Cal., with his affinity, Lillian M. Greaves, and has since continued to live there with her. These things are shown in the evidence in the divorce suit in the Court of Chancery brought by Mrs. Deknatel against her husband. The case was heard by Special Master Francis Child, Jr., and he has filed a report in the Court, recommending that a divorce be granted to the petitioner.

Mrs. Deknatel's maiden name was Florence P. Perine, and they were married November 8, 1899. Deknatel is a member of the firm of J. A. Deknatel and Sons in New York city, manufacturing jewelers. After living five years in Brooklyn, the couple removed to Plainfield. According to the evidence filed in Chancery, Deknatel, on July 12, 1911, sailed on the Carmania for Europe, and returned to this country in August. After his return he told his wife of having met the Greaves woman, and although his wife was ill at the time, Deknatel told her that he went to Europe and returned with the corespondent.

Mrs. Deknatel testified in the case that later she was annoyed at the gossip about her husband and the other woman and questioned him regarding their relations. It was at this time that he told his wife he might as well have the game as the name. The evidence shows that in November, 1911, Deknatel went to his wife's room and told her that he loved Miss Greaves, and that he was entitled to happiness. He then told his wife he was going to leave her. Some time after this he went to California.

A letter was put in evidence in the case showing that in March, 1912, Deknatel had written that he was compelled to go west on account of his health, and giving instructions to his office in New York to send the Greaves woman $40 a week. In this letter Deknatel declared that he had determined not to return to a "loveless home," and that it was far better for him and his wife to live apart. He had left his wife, according to the testimony, on January 19, 1912. Since the separation, Mrs. Deknatel has been living with her mother, Mrs. Harriet A. Perine. She is 38 years old.

MISS FLORENCE M. BARNES GIVEN A LINEN SHOWER

Mrs. J. H. Hall, of Netherwood avenue, last evening, gave a "linen shower" for her niece, Miss Florence M. Barnes, whose marriage to F. Chester Denton will take place in the Holy Cross church this week. About fifty friends of the young couple were present. Cards, music, games and a bountiful collation made the evening one of pleasure.

Miss Barnes was tendered a "variety shower by Miss Pauline Denton, at her home on West Sixth street, last Thursday. The affair was arranged in the nature of a "hunt." A verse on each article found directed the "hunter" to another hidden gift. The search of the house revealed many beautiful and useful gifts. The shower concluded with good wishes for the future of the young couple. Mr. Denton is the son of Mrs. L. J. Denton.

PROPOSED NEWARK BRIDGE DISCUSSED

Manufacturing Interests Show Great Benefits Possible by Improvement.

Representatives of the Boards of Freeholders of Hudson and Union counties attended a meeting in Elizabeth last night, to discuss the proposed bridge over Newark Bay, between Bayonne and Elizabeth. General Dennis F. Collins, of Elizabeth, presided. The representatives presented strong arguments in favor of the improvement.

Grove P. Hinman, of the Hinman Bronze and Brass Works, of this city, said: "I am heartily in favor of the project as I've long held the opinion that traffic conditions in your (Bayonne and Elizabeth) section were in a ridiculously undeveloped state and what benefits you cannot fail to reflect credit and benefit upon all of us your neighbors."

P. W. Hall, president of the Hall Printing Press Company, of Dunellen, said: "A bridge over Newark Bay between Bayonne and Elizabeth would be of great help to us as we truck a great deal of material between here and New York city, and it all now has to go by way of Newark and Jersey City."

The manufacturing interests in Elizabeth, Bayonne and other nearby places, engaged in the discussion and their arguments seemed to have much weight. The meeting was held at the request of the Chamber of Commerce of Bayonne so that some definite understanding regarding the proposed bridge might be reached.

There has been a big advance sale of tickets, and every indication points to crowded houses both nights. The members who are taking part in the production have been faithfully rehearsing for several weeks, and one of the best shows ever given by the lodge is promised. George O. In the olio Walter Hamilton and Miss Gertrude E. Bowlby will be seen in dances de luxe, and Harry Weber and Harry Blimm have prepared a humorous skit, which is said to be very funny. Yule and Mackey, professionals, will do a blackface singing and talking act, and the show will close with an exhibition, in which the ballroom and stage version of modern dances will be exploited by Oaks and World, also professionals.

TIMOTHY LYONS, VETERAN RAILROADER, PASSES AWAY

SEWER COMMISSION NOT READY TO ACT

Details of Various Contracts Causes Further Delay in Project.

Owing to the fact that the joint sewage contract, as well as the one engaging an engineer are not ready, the Joint Sewage Commission when it met in the Common Council chambers, last night, was unable to transact any business and an adjournment was taken. The commission will probably not meet again until the regular date Wednesday night, June 3. A report was received from Alexander Milne that he thought he would have a report in the matter of engageing an engineer within the next ten days.

It is expected that George W. Fuller, sanitary engineer, will be engaged, but there are some details regarding the agreement which the committee desires to settle before making and recommendations. It was reported that a sixty days' extension on the option for purchasing the Darling farm in Piscataway township had been arranged for. This was necessary owing to the fact that there are a few minor details to be cleared up before the deal is closed.

At the present rate of progress, it seems to be the general opinion that the new sewage system will probably be completed within the next three years, unless legal actions tend to hold it up beyond a reasonable time. It was expected that Justice Bergen would today give his decision in the case of the Borough of Middlesex against Plainfield, to review the action of the city in its bond issue. If it is favorable to the city, it is conceded that it will go a long way toward aiding the improvement.

MISS DRUSE BRIDE OF LYNN SULLIVAN

Local Couple Married in New York With Quiet Ceremony Saturday Afternoon.

Miss Leila Druse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Druse, of 545 Belvidere avenue, was married to Lynn Sullivan, of this city, in the Little Church Around the Corner Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was a quiet affair and attended only by immediate relatives of Mr. Sullivan and his bride. Following the wedding the couple left for a short trip and will return to Plainfield in about two weeks.

Both are well known to a large circle of acquaintances in this city, but the marriage came as a pleasant surprise to their friends. Miss Druse is a talented singer and is popular in local society circles. Mr. Sullivan who is connected with a New York insurance concern has been making his home recently in the Queen City Hotel and is also well acquainted locally.

PLAINFIELDERS REGISTER AT LEGATION OFFICES

The New York newspapers of Sunday printed the names of all Americans still in Mexico who had registered at the various legation offices. Among them were Mrs. Mary Wright Bourgeois, her two daughters the Misses Julia and Marie Bourgeois and her son, Pierre Bourgeois, all former residents of Plainfield. The name of Mrs. Henrietta Gulick, of West Third street, this city, also appeared, as she has been visiting the Bourgeois family for the past year. The home of the latter is in one of the suburbs of Mexico City, where the Misses Julia and Marie Bourgeois conduct a private school in the city itself. They announced when registering that they proposed to remain in Mexico until actual danger occurred, as all their interest are there.

Charles Gulick, a son of Mrs. Gulick, said yesterday that his mother had gone to Mexico to spend a few months with her old friends, but because of rebel hostilities had deferred the return trip from time to time. Her relatives here had received several messages, he said, and all stated she was in no danger. She will return to Plainfield as soon as the present embroglio is terminated.

WILL GIVE A TEA.

A tea will be held tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the Mothers' Association at the home of Mrs. H. G. Phillips, of Kensington avenue. The event will be held from 3 to 5 o'clock.

ALL READY FOR MEDIATION TALK

Belief That Keynote Will Be Sentiment Expressed by President in Speech.

NO NEW TERRITORY

Fear of Trouble From Dissatisfied Mexicans Results in English Troops Being Put Around Niagara Falls Hotel.

(Special from Central News.)

Niagara Falls, May 19.—The feeling here today is that the keynote of the mediation conference will be the sentiment expressed by President Wilson in his Mobile speech when he said:

"The United States will never seek one additional foot of territory by conquest. We must show ourselves friends by comprehending their interest whether it squares with our own interest or not. Our real relationship with the rest of America is the relationship of a family of mankind."

If this means anything at all, it means that there is no desire on the part of the administration to press for its own benefit any advantage it may have, or may be able to acquire, over Mexico, and that the United States can approach the conference with clean hands and a pure mind.

All is in readiness for the opening conference tomorrow. The Canadian government will probably be represented by George Pearley, Secretary of State of the Borden Cabinet, who will welcome the visitors officially.

Since there has been some talk about disaffected Mexicans or others preparing to at least disturb the serenity of the delegates with a view to correcting fancied wrongs, or to interrupt the calmness of the deliberations, a squad of soldiers will be kept about the Clifton House, on the Canadian side, where the conference will take place.

Washington, May 19.—If Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt realizes the hope he expresses, the American war vessels will be withdrawn from the harbor at Vera Cruz within a week. He says the men are suffering from the confinement on board, especially since the temperature frequently registers from 100 to 115 degrees beating upon the decks while the vessels roll in the ground swell. The heat and the continued inaction have a bad effect upon their health.

New York, May 19.—There is a strong feeling among the commanding officers of the Army Board, that the mediation conference will amount to nothing conclusive and that the American troops will soon be on their way from Vera Cruz to Mexico City. When the move is made, they say, not fewer than 75,000 men will be sent forward as the First Army, to be followed by the militia of the verious States as the Second Army.

According to one member of the Board, the hastily arranged armistice blocked a plan to send the troops forward to occupy a place of great advantage from a strategic and a sanitary point of view.

A complete program for the advance upon the city of Mexico has been under consideration for four years, and every inch of the way between Ver Cruz and the capital has been surveyed and studied with the idea of advancing men with as little loss of life from disease, the worst enemy, as possible.

About 50 miles inland from Vera Cruz is a plateau from 2,000 to 3,000 above sea level and with a climate about the same as that of the United States. This is the objective point of the first move, and there a base can well be maintained. The army was twelve miles out of Vera Cruz, marching to this place when the armistice of 1,800 men.

Recruiting has been going on very will be brought up to its full strength within a few weeks every regiment halted them.

Washington, May 19.—Lieut. Chas. M. Maigne, U. S. A., retired, who has been acting as a newspaper correspondent in Vera Cruz, and who has been called to Washington by Secretary of War Garrison, to explain his action which is contrary to army regulations has sailed from Galveston on board the transport Saltillo. Maigne, according to War Department officials today, had no permission to act as a correspondent, and violated the regulations to which he must still conform, although he has been retired from active service.

Secretary Garrison refused to discuss the probabilities of a court martial proceeding in the case.

GET YOUR DOG LICENSE.

All owners of dogs should secure licenses for their animals immediately. The police department will follow up all cases where the owners fail in this respect and they will be prosecuted. Chief P. S. Kiely is advertising this matter through the colums of the local papers today.

Woodruff, of East Orange; Mrs. J. B. Varley and Mrs. W. H. Howell, of this place, and one son, former Surrogate William J. DeMond. He was the last of a large family of children, except Peter DeMond, a brother, who is eighty-two years old, and resides in Bedminster. The latter is also in feeble health.

At the close of the address the benediction will be pronounced, after which the comrades will return to the armory and be dismissed.

William P. Deering, of the Weekly Call, made his children a present about a year ago of a white rabbit. The animal had become such a pet with his children in the meantime that they had been allowed now and then to bring it in their home and play with it. Yesterday morning Mr. Deering put in an exceptionally strenuous four hours work in covering assignments, and after dinner he lay upon a couch in the sitting room for a nap. Mr. Deering had no more than settled into a snooze than he was awakened by a stinging sensation in the calf of his leg. In glancing about in a startled manner Mr. Deering saw the rabbit disappearing through the doorway of the room. It is thought that the usually tame animal was rendered temporary wild. The injury was slight.

WILL DESCRIBE THE BOMBARDMENT OF MEXICO

One of the most interesting features of the lecture on "Experiences in Mexico," to be given by Thomas Wilbor in Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow evening, will be his thrilling story of his experience during the bombardment of Mexico City in February 1913. For six days, he was confined in his home in the very center of the fighting zone. Mr. Wilbor will also give an estimate, based upon first-hand knowledge, of the policies and personalities of the Mexican leaders, local opinions of the Huerta government and will state the attitude toward it of the Mexican masses and warring factions

"OLD CURIOSITY SHOP."

Another picture of distinction will be shown in Y. M. C. A. Hall on Friday and Saturday of this week, when the Hepworth Company's wonderful film portrayal of Dickens' "The Old Curiosity Shop," in five parts, will be exhibited. This picture was produced under the same direction as "David Copperfield," employing, however, a different company of players. Extreme care was used in the selection of these and again the familiar characters, "Little Nell," "Quilp," "Dick Swiveller," "The Marchioness," "Mrs. Jarley" and the others, including the grandfather, seem to have stepped from the pages of the immortal story.

A SLIDE ON A ROOF

Terrifying Experience on an Ice Coated Mansard.

FIGHTING DEATH IN MIDAIR.

Perilous Plight of Two Workers, and an Exhibition of Coolness, Presence of Mind and Heroic Patience—How the Difficult Rescue Was Effected.

During the fall and winter of 1870 A. T. Stewart, who had bought the Grand Union hotel at Saratoga, largely rebuilt that great hostelry of 2,000 rooms. The building has a mansard roof, and at the peak it is ninety eight feet from the sidewalk.

One cold winter morning, when the work was virtually completed, two men, Harvey, the head roofer, and a helper named Dennison went up on the roof to finish the flashing round the base of the tower. There had been a slight mist that morning, and it had frozen upon the roof, but the two men had on india rubber overshoes to prevent them from slipping on the slates.

Suddenly, however, Harvey's feet began to slip. He went very slowly at first, for the upper roof of a mansard is not steep. He tried to stop himself, but there was nothing to which he could cling. He turned his head in Dennison's direction to see if he could not give some assistance, but Dennison, too, was sliding slowly down the roof.

Harvey's presence of mind did not leave him. "Lie down flat!" he called. So both men carefully laid themselves at full length on the icy roof in order that the increased friction might retard, and perhaps stop, their descent. For an instant it checked the movement. Then the men began again slowly to slip nearer the angle of the roof and the steep pitch below.

It seemed like hours, although it was only a few moments, when Harvey felt his heels catch on a slight projection. A blind gutter had been built into the lower edge of the upper part of the roof to carry off the large amount of water that would fall upon such an expanse of roof. The upper gutter projected above the slate roof only about half an inch, but it was against this that Harvey's heels had caught.

There he hung on the very brink of the abyss—safe for an instant. He dared not move a muscle, however, or even turn his head to see if Dennison were still on the roof. He did not cry out for help, for he feared that the mere effort of filling his lungs and shouting might dislodge him. No one could see the men on the flat of the roof from the street below. The only hope lay in the carpenters who were at work inside the building. But how should they know what was happening up there on the roof?

Suddenly Harvey heard a voice, low, but distinct, come from the tower above him. "Hold on," it said, "and I'll help you!" Then after a long time Harvey heard the sound of several voices. Whoever had found him had got help.

The first voice spoke again: "Hold on! We will lower this rope to you!"

Presently something rubbed on the slate above Harvey's head. It was the rope, which they were slowly working down toward him.

"Can you get hold of it?" asked the voice.

"I don't dare move much," Harvey replied. "Can't you get it down near my hand?"

They had to give it a flip to get it by his shoulder. Then it traversed the length of his arm and finally touched his hand.

Harvey raised his arm very carefully and took hold of the rope. It was an inch cable that had been used in raising the slate from the ground to the roof.

"Can you turn over very carefully and climb up?" asked the voice.

Cautiously Harvey worked his hand along on the rope—it was his right hand—until he finally drew it taut. Then he carefully raised his left hand and, reaching across, grasped the rope with that hand too.

Then when the worst of the matter was over, he began to shake like a leaf. He lay there, flat on his back, clinging desperately to the rope and dreading inexpressibly the next step. How was he to turn over on that slippery roof when he needed both hands to cling to the rope?

At last he spoke hoarsely:

"Can you pull me up?"

They consulted together.

"I don't dare to turn over," he added.

There was a sharp tug on the rope. Harvey let them draw his arms up to their extreme length, still afraid to trust his weight to his rescuers. Then he felt his heels lose their grip on the gutter, and he began slowly to move upward.

It was not till he had nearly reached the tower that he dared turn his head in Dennison's direction to see if he were still safe. There he was, spread out on the roof, just as Harvey had been. He did not move a muscle. Patiently, heroically, he waited his turn. Then the men seized Harvey's shoulders and drew him into the tower.

In a few minutes Dennison was also rescued, looking a little blue round the mouth, but unharmed. Neither man suffered any ill effects from his terrible ordeal.—Youth's Companion.

The roads to ruin are always kept in good repair.

Thousands of Boy Scouts Are Ready to Enlist For Service In Mexican War

PROMINENT among the movements to supply auxiliaries to the United States army operating in Mexico, or to be operating there soon, is the offer of some of the boy scout organizations to supply the services of their members. These boys could be made into valuable helpers to the men who do the fighting, some highly placed military men believe. Many of them have received invaluable training in the field and in the camp, and their experiences as scouts would operate to make them efficient. There are thousands ready to enlist.

Some of the boys, especially the scoutmasters, are old enough to shoulder guns and serve as fighters if needed. The Union and Confederate armies in the civil war, especially in the later days of the war, contained many soldiers younger than the boy scouts of today. They were not all drummer boys, either. The lists of dead and wounded contained entries such as "John Smith, private, sixteen years old, dead."

The boy scouts, if used in the Mexican trouble, will probably not fill places on the fighting line, since the United States will have men enough to handle the guns. The boys' function will be the carrying of messages, the policing of camps and captured cities, the maintenance of sanitary conditions, etc. Along these lines they will prove very efficient, since they are accustomed to discipline and the prompt obeying of orders. At first aid to the wounded probably the youngsters will be very good, although it is not known how the sight of the dead and wounded may affect them. One of the cardinal points in the scouts' training is the making of improvised bandages, the resuscitation of the drowning, the giving of temporary aid in cases of sunstroke, etc.

The boy scout movement, as described by Willis Holcombe, scout commissioner of Brooklyn, is the combination of three other movements, and its ideal is a union of the three ideals which prompted the other movements—the ideal of the pioneer, of the Indian and of the knight. Mr. Holcombe said:

"The first duty of a scout was real scouting—to go out and make a map of a new territory and come back with it for purposes of information. Perhaps the ideal which has developed is, although it is hard to limit it, the nobility of service. The boy scouts is not a club that a boy can join. He must simply become a scout by growth and practice and knowledge. At first he is a recruit or probationer, and after he has passed his tenderfoot tests he is a scout. To pass the tenderfoot tests one must know the history of the American flag, know the forms of respect which are paid to it, be able to tie knots and learn the scout law. A boy must be twelve years old before he can become a probationer.

"There are three stages—the probationer, the scout and the scoutmaster. Scoutmasters, however, do not necessarily have to go through the first two stages. There are ten specific things that a scout must know how to do before he gets through—signaling, first aid to the injured, fire building, cooking, and so forth. The physical ideal of a scout is self mastery, the mental ideal is initiative and resourcefulness, and the moral is the positive statement of the Ten Commandments and a large idea of service.

"What we specially need is more scoutmasters. The work is fascinating and not too hard to be taken up by an inexperienced person. We are always capitalizing the latent talent, not only of the boys, but of the community. There is a vast unused power of social service in the community which needs only suggestion and a little guidance."

Undoubtedly boys who receive the training as outlined by Mr. Holcombe would make good soldiers in case of war with Mexico or any other country, and, better yet, they will make good citizens in time of peace.

A CIVIC TEXT BOOK

The training in the schools of future citizens in a useful and intelligent citizenship as advocated by The Daily Press last night, must be largely a personal affair. To a very great degree it must depend upon the teacher or the school superintendent, since the study of the city is relatively new and there is neither a hewn line of procedure to follow nor a text book to fit the average community, much less to fill the requirements of the individual city.

However, to the city which is actually in earnest in the matter, this need be no discouraging condition. The absence of a text-book may be supplied by lectures, possibly by municipal officials who are alert and who are anxious to perform for the community. A still better plan might be the preparation with a little trouble under the authorization and supervision of the school board, of local city history and individual civic government.

The preparation of such a pamphlet, with the aid of the State perhaps, will be of value outside as well as within the public schools. It will be of personal benefit to present as well as future citizens and to aliens above all it will open the way to a useful knowledge of government.

City government is most closely allied to the individual, yet least is known about it. City history occupies a similar apparently incongruous position and the assistance in the study of both local history and government is next thing to essential whether it has been overlooked in the past or not.

It is to be admitted that in the training in the schools of the future citizens, a great deal rests with the individual teacher. It must be largely a personal affair, and here the responsibilities rest more heavily upon the instructor than in any other course of the school curriculum, while a large amount of the trouble may be overcome by a series of lectures given by men of affairs in the community.

It cannot be longer argued that civics and citizenship training are for the boys of the city only. The advance of suffrage may make it necessary to train the girls in this citizenship but the real reason for their interest in the matter is the enlarging of the average woman's field and her activities in these days in civic work be it in the clubs or home.

There is one person upon whom the Republicans and Progressives should unite during the coming campaign, for a good man deserves support. He is Senator Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, who will seek re-election. He should not be opposed by the Progressives for the simple reason that aside from remaining within the Republican ranks he has always been a Progressive in action, word and deed. Senator Pierce has a record during his first term in the State Legislature fully as creditable as was the case with his predecessor, Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman of this city. One distinction which he enjoyed, was the privilege of having the Democratic majority permit him to stand sponsor for the bank tax act passed at the last Legislature. Usually the majority party has important legislation introduced by one of its own members, but as a tribute to Senator Pierce's splendid work in former years he was permitted to attach his name to the statute.

There are many times when newspaper men regret the necessity for publishing articles about local affairs, which in their judgment they feel must appear. The Daily Press is frequently asked to omit stories about public meetings or to so tone them down as to make it appear that something altogether different happened from what really occurred. No honest reporter has any desire to publish unpleasant facts, but the one who is true to the public which he serves must put into print statements of fact. Only this morning the Daily Press was requested to omit reference to a very lively meeting of a local official body. A newspaper cannot omit articles without subjecting itself to the suspicion that its columns can be controlled by individuals, when the whole public demands the news. Every real newspaper owes it to the public which it serves to print facts no matter who may be hit, and the Daily Press has found that such publication makes more friends than it loses.

Suffragette applied for job as dog catcher in North Plainfield. There hasn't been so much excitement around the borough headquarters since they caught seventeen crap shooters in one night.

"Dead flies five cents a gill" says a newspaper headline. We've seen the time when a baldheaded man was willing to pay a dollar for the hide of one of the pestiferous insects.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

In making a brief comment on the letter from a local Suffragist replying to Miss Lawrence's article about the liquor support and their supposed support of Anti-Suffrage, I would like to say at the beginning that I am no statistician. Statistics have never had the slightest interest for me. At the same time I think I am able to make an intelligent deduction from undoubted facts, but I cannot see that the liquor interests enter into the question at all. Votes have little to do with total abstinence or even with temperance—but public opinion has everything to do with it and our contention which is amply borne out by undisputed facts is that women can influence public opinion just as well, if not better, without the vote than with it.

In the last Idaho Legislature a measure for the cleaning up of the Red Light districts, backed by 3,000 women and their votes was defeated. At about the same time a bill bearing on the same subject was passed unanimously in the Vermont Legislature after they had listened to the presentation of arguments in its behalf by two women neither of whom had a vote.

But I have no intention of entering into an argument. I only wish to call attention to the attitude of your correspondent. In the Suffrage States he says that the reason that no State-wide prohibition has succeeded is because it is deemed useless to have such laws, local option being considered better; therefore the woman's vote has not stood for prohibition. In passing, I would state that in two elections in Boise where local option was the issue, the city has gone "wet." Furthermore, it is at the present time, complaining bitterly that the Mayor is not enforcing the laws for decency and order. I do not say that this is a just accusation, not being sufficiently informed on the subject.

Then somewhat inconsistently your correspondent says that "prohibition in States where it rules represents the struggle of a generation or longer to bring the liquor traffic to order. In these States women were doing their share without the vote (and apparently with success, E. B. S.) before Anti-Suffrage was dreamed of, and when those States give women the vote they will still be found on the side of righteousness and sobriety." Exactly so. Then why, if they can do what is needed without the ballot force it on them against the will of the majority?

As for "before Anti-Suffrage was ever thought of," we gladly acknowledge that it is only within a comparatively short time that we have been compelled to think of it.

ELIZABETH B. SYKES.

CLERGYMAN ENDORSED CONDEMNED PICTURE

Manager of the Lyric Theatre Took Precautions to Protect His House.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart's action in stopping the presentation of a motion picture film in the Lyric Theatre yesterday afternoon, as stated exclusively in the Daily Press, has awakened considerable comment. The manager of the playhouse, when interviewed today, claimed that he had visited ten local clergymen on Saturday inviting them to attend a preliminary presentation of the film, "The House of Bondage," in the theatre yesterday morning, but only one of those accepted the invitation.

In accordance with the manager's plans, Rev. Charles E. Herring, and four laymen visited the motion picture house in the morning and viewed the six reels of film included in the picture. At the conclusion of the exhibition there were no protests made by them, and after receiving the endorsement of these censors the management proceeded to give it in the afternoon.

Dr. Herring said later that he could se nothing objectionable about the picture. He thought that it taught a good moral lesson. Dr. Herring was in New York this morning but persons who had talked to him said that he had endorsed the picture. When he extended the invitation to Dr. Herring the manager of the Lyric stated that he would rest upon his judgment and stop the picture if the clergyman saw anything objectionable, and when the first run was started yesterday it was with the feeling that no further trouble would result.

DUNELLEN PLANS TO CELEBRATE JULY 4

Board of Trade Names Committees to Arrange the Details.

The Dunellen Board of Trade held a busy session at its rooms, last evening, when several matters were acted upon. A tentative program was formulated at a session of the committee which met immediately after the Board session, the list of events will include a parade and open-air speeches in the morning, a band concert and base-ball game in the afternoon, with fireworks at seven in the evening.

The routine business included making the special committee on water supply a permanent organization, the election of three new members; a discussion of the poor flag sidewalks in various portions of the borough; the discussion of securing a number of additional storm sewers, and the discussion of doing away with one or two stagnant pools of water within the borough limits which had become good breeding places for mosquitoes. A communication received from the Elizabeth Board of Trade relative to the local banks being in the regional bank district of Philadelphia instead of the New York district was laid over for the present.

RUNAWAY CAUSES EXCITEMENT.

A horse and wagon belonging to Max Michealson, the borough junk dealer, was the cause of some excitement this morning, when the animal became frightened. Standing at Craig place and Somerset, it started to run through the latter thoroughfare. After turning into Manning avenue from the borough's main street, a wagon belonging to Mundy and Bowers, expressmen, was nearly overturned by being sideswiped by the runaway, but escaped any serious damage. A five-year-old son of Michealson was in the rig at the time, but managed to hold on his seat until the runaway was stopped through the efforts of William Fritts, of the borough.

DOGS IN ALASKA.

Carry Great Loads Over Snow That Would Not Hold a Man.

Dogs are surely the real thing for "mushing" in the cold country. To my mind they beat reindeer a mile. Most of them weigh less than 100 pounds, and they distribute their weight over their four feet, so that they can trot over a weak snow crust where a man would sink out of sight by breaking through the crust into the soft snow below. On a good, level, smooth trail ten dogs can trot along with a ton of freight behind them, and 500 or 600 pounds is a fair load on poor trails.

A peculiar thing is that a twelve foot sled, twenty-two to twenty-four inches wide, with runners two and one-quarter inches wide, bearing a load of 600 to 800 pounds, will not sink through a snow crust that will not bear a man. This occurs because two runners two and one-quarter inches wide and twelve feet long give a large area of bearing on the crust. This, coupled with the motion that keeps the sled passing over all the time, accounts for the remarkable fact I am speaking of.

One of the greatest dangers in "mushing" is encountering water under the snow on the river ice in very cold weather or breaking through into hollow places where the stream has sunk away from under the ice. This is the most dangerous of all, and often when it happens a man is frozen to death before he can get to shelter or get up his tent and start a fire.—B. S. Rodey in Albuquerque Herald.

THE STUDY OF WORDS.

It's a Helpful Scheme to Use Your Dictionary Every Day.

Writing an article, "Treasure In Books," in the Woman's Home Companion, Laura Spencer Portor gives the following excellent advice about the advantages to be gained from the study of words:

"The study of words—it may sound to you a dry thing, yet I promise you it is not; very far from it.

"And this brings me to suggest that the habit of one of the great writers of studying carefully from a good dictionary five words each day is one from which we might all of us get a good deal of profit. Or take a good book of synonyms, for instance, and learn from it each day five words somewhat similar, comparing and weighing carefully the meanings and values of them.

"Notice the degrees of force in the following: To dislike, to hate, to loathe, to detest, to abhor. Each note struck is a little stronger, higher, we might say, like an ascending crescendo scale. So to instruct, to teach, to educate, are each quite different in meaning, with a great nicety of difference. So, rebuke, reprimand, censure, blame, are all of one color, but of how different shades of meaning. So, too, misfortune, calamity, disaster; so, weak, feeble, decrepit, and what delicate difference between fame and renown or feminine and womanly and womanish."

Kindness of the Boss.

Little Tommy, who was about knee high to a half pint, was employed by a busy broker. One afternoon the broker was sitting at his desk trying to collect his thoughts as well as some coin when he suddenly looked up and signaled Tommy to draw near.

"Tommy," said the boss, digging down into his jeans, "here's a fifty cent chunk of silver. Take it and hustle off to some vaudeville show."

"Thank you very much, sir," gratefully responded Tommy, freezing fast to the coin. "That's what I call being some good to a poor kid."

"Don't think that I'm being good to you," was the quick rejoinder of the boss. "I want you to learn a new tune. I can't stand the one you've been whistling for two months any longer."—Exchange.

Water Power.

Few would expect to find any connection between a modern hydroelectric plant and a prayer. The connection is indeed remote, but not undiscoverable. The first application of water power to mechanical purposes was made by Buddhist priests when they employed the energy of running streams to the work of turning prayer wheels. That, then, may be said to constitute the origin of the application of water power to perform man's labors, the foreshadowing of the great industrial development now in progress for the harnessing of the world's waterfalls, rivers and streams.

Sure of Herself.

"Do you think," asked the widower, "you could learn to love my children as you would if they were your own?"

"Oh, yes," replied the anxious maiden. "I think I should care more for them really than if they were my own, because I shouldn't have to worry so much about them if they got hurt or were sick."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not.

"Shall we marry, darling, or shall we knot?" was the short and witty line an ardent lover dispatched to the idol of his heart.

But, where the strangeness of the matter comes in, the girl replied: "I shall not. You may do as you please."

Malicious Hint.

"Can you tell me where I am most likely to get a good collection of fairy tales?"

"Ask any married man."—Baltimore American.

DUCKING A SCOLD.

Punishment a Long Tongue Used to Win In Old England.

It is interesting in these days of woman's rights and woman's progress to conjure up a picture of a "ducking" as practiced in England at the end of the eighteenth century.

When the "scold" had been properly tried and convicted she was escorted by a crowd of her neighbors—in fact, by the whole village—to the nearest pond, and the greener and slimier the pond the better. A long plank was produced, at one end of which was the ducking stool, and in this the screaming, struggling victim was securely pinioned.

The chair end of the plank was then pushed far over the edge of the pond, and at a signal it was tilted deep into the green ooze until the scold was completely immersed.

When the dripping, half drowned woman was raised to the surface again to the jeers and laughter of the onlookers it can be imagined that her tongue wagged to some purpose. After a second dose she emerged more subdued, and after a third or fourth she was as penitent a woman as the village contained and was allowed to proceed home, a sadder and wiser woman until the next time.—London Tit-Bits.

RENTED SCENERY.

It Was a Parisian's Idea, and It Suited the Thrifty Peasants.

M. Georges Moreau one beautiful day, in the course of a walk at Villiers-Saint Benoist, greatly admired three magnificent oaks which towered from the edge of a field.

"You'll not see 'em much more, citizen," growled the owner of the land. "They make too much shade. I'm going to cut them down."

"What a sacrilege! Cut down those magnificent trees! Better rent them to me."

"What'll you do with them?"

"I shall look at them as I pass by. Will you give to me for 15 francs a year the right to admire them?"

"Agreed! It's only a Parisian who could have such a funny idea!"

The story spread abroad, and now whenever M. Moreau takes a walk in that district the peasants hail him with: "Hey, citizen, will you rent those trees there of me? If not I'll cut 'em down. Yes or no? One, two, three"—

M. Moreau yields and pays to save the lives of the trees that delight his view. The little birds would be ungrateful did they not salute with their most harmonious roulades the preserver of their nests.—Cri de Paris.

Uncovered by the Wind.

"In the year 1793," says an old chronicle, "the waters of the Rio de la Plata were forced in the month of April by a most violent current of wind to the distance of ten leagues, so that the neighboring plains were entirely inundated, and the bed of the stream was left dry. A number of ships which had been sunk in the river for upward of thirty years were uncovered and, among others, an English vessel which was cast away in 1762. Several persons repaired to the bed of the river, on which they could walk without wetting their feet, and returned laden with silver and other riches, which had been long buried under the water. The phenomenon obtained for three days, at the end of which the wind ceased, and the water returned with great violence to its native bed."

A Good House.

Mrs. Allen was entertaining a caller one afternoon not long ago and was enthusiastically explaining the many advantages of concrete hollow block construction, of which the walls of her new home were built.

"The air spaces in the walls afford insulation against heat in summer and cold in winter," said Mrs. Allen. "And not only that, but such walls afford ventilation and insure a more healthful house."

The visitor nodded approval and paused reflectively for a moment, then replied:

"Well, our frame house must be quite as well built. Every night we lock the cat in the cellar and have to let her out of the attic in the morning."—Detroit Free Press.

Saving Trouble.

When Bobbie went to see his grandmother he was much interested in whatever went on in the kitchen. One day she said to him: "I'm going to make you a nice little pie in a saucer, all for yourself. Don't you think I'm pretty good to take so much trouble?"

Bobbie pondered. "Grandma," he said at length, "mother told me not to be a bother, and if it's going to be any trouble you can just as well make my pie reg'lar size."—Exchange.

His Distinction.

"William, are you ever going to get matters so arranged that we can afford to have an automobile?"

"I don't expect that we can ever afford one, but I hope to get matters so arranged within a few months that we can have one."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Between Girls.

Lou—I saw Ethel yesterday, and we had the loveliest confidential chat together. Luey—I thought so. She wouldn't speak to me today.—Judge.

Safe.

"Why do you always carry your umbrella even when it is not raining?"

"So some one else won't carry it when it is raining."—Houston Post

There is no substitute for thorough-going, ardent and sincere earnestness—Dickens.

ROD AND REEL

Grenwood Lake pickerel fishing promises some rare sport this summer, and judging from the reports received from that section, there are many large pickerel in the lake. We have had the best of advice on the matter in anticipation of the opening of the season tomorrow, and everything looks good. In order that our readers might have the advantage of this information, we publish all of the tips as given to us. In the cove at the southern end of the lake, from the Greenwood Lake station to Cooper's Hotel, on the west bank, big pickerel trout can be found by casting or trolling, especially in among the lily pads. Another good spot is along the east bank, between the Greenwood Lake Glens station and the Sterling Forest station, as the fish have gathered in Cranberry Marsh and between Storms Island and the main land. Big Horn Island for trolling is all right, but many bass are preparing their nests along the bank at that point and it is a shame to disturb them for a few pickerel. The Woodlands Hotel, on the east side of the lake and from there north to Sunken Island, will prove good as a trolling ground.

Everybody who has anything to do with salt water fishing is becoming worried because the fish are not coming as has been the case every spring. While it is true that we have had no spring of any account, still reports from Atlantic City, where they take the temperature of the water as carefully as a doctor takes the temperature of his patient, show that the water is not cold. Bluefish and weakfish should be in, but only a few stragglers have appeared so far. It was the same with the shad. A few fish appeared early and everybody thought there was to be a big year, but now the season has passed and there wasn't enough shad caught in the Delaware river or bay to supply a good-sized boardinghouse. If the same thing happens with the other fish, that is, if the season is a failure, we will have to go over to the aquarium in the near future to see what a bluefish looks like.

The smell of paint was in the air along the Shrewsbury river yesterday as all the boat owners were busy getting their craft ready for launching on Decoration Day. Some of the captains think of mounting guns forward in case of trouble with our Southern neighbors.

We saw several surf fishermen on the train yesterday morning bound for the fishing grounds with their special tackle. All we spoke to seemed to think they were going to get fish.

ELKS TAKE THE WHIP IN CITY TITLE RACE

Knights of Columbus Pinners Yield Three Games to Rivals for Championship.

Elk pin knights opened the series for the city championship with a flourish, last night, copping three in rapid style from the Knights of Columbus quintet on the latter's home alleys. The matches were a set of the interesting variety and the cohorts of the respective contenders who attended the affair were treated to some excellent entertainment. Rolling for the first time in a series of this nature the respective forces put up the prettiest demonstration of the alley sport ever staged by two local clubs and while a loser the Knights pushed their rivals in all three games.

A 121 pin lead rang up in the initial setto gave the visitors a confidence that could not be shaken and although the lead was cut down to seventy-one pins in the middle session the Elks held the upper hand in a masterly fashion. As the pinning progressed the home wood splitters appeared to warm up to the competition under way and by the time the third contest had been decided the advantage of the antlered tribe had been pulled down to thirty-seven markers. Consistent bowling by individuals was conspicuous on both sides and all eleven of the competitors appeared to be in their best form a feature so often lacking when a title is at stake.

No less than five double centuries were credited to the antlered tribe, while only one of the Knights was able to pass the high water mark, Shannon, the lead-off man, marking up a 247. In the initial match Nash had the honor of being the only 200 man, and in the second Kiely and Stout came back with a pair. In the curtain contest Shannon, Blatz and Kiely rose to the limelight with double deckers.

The average for the winners in the three games was 935 while the Knights set up a record of 855.

TEN LEADING HITTERS

Official Records of All Participants in the Run for the Silver Batting Trophy—P. H. S. Leading the League—Also Best Batter.

O'Leary continues to be the logical leader in the race for batting honors in the Interscholastic Baseball League, having held his position during the North Plainfield-Leal game of yesterday, when Frank Dunning, of N. P. H. S., fell to third place from a tie with Butler, of P. H. S., for second. Hebert, of N. P. H. S., got into the game yesterday for the first time and his hit gave him an average of 1,000 and Stahl's batting in two out of three games played by his team-makes him a runner-up. Neither of these players can be considered in the actual standing, however, because that have not played regularly.

Schneider is the only Leal man remaining in the list of ten leading batsmen. N. P. H. S. has five leaders and P. H. S. claims four.

FIRST SHUTOUT VICTORY FOR N. P. H. S. REGISTERED IN INTERSCHOLASTIC GAME

The North Plainfield High School baseball team scored its first shut-out yesterday afternoon, when the Leal School aggregation went down to defeat for the second time this year. The final score was 9 to 0. Stahl was master at all times and had his opponents at his mercy throughout the entire contest. Faber worked for the home team for five innings and then retired in favor of Stewart.

The boroughites played fine ball and made only one error, while there was eight chalked up against the Leal players. North Plainfield opened the first inning by getting three men on the bases with none down, but two bad plays kept them scoreless. The home team went out for the first three innings in one, two, three order. In the second Burner made his base on an error by Lyon, and stole second and went home when Dilts singled to center field. The third was a goose-egg period for both teams and in the next the visitors again started things. Burner fanned and Dilts doubled. Conroy walked and Smalley singled, scoring Dilts and Conroy. Stewart mussed up Abrams' hot one to short and the latter scored on Dunning's hit to right. Dunning scored when Townley singled, making the score six to nothing.

Leals were kept from third base until the last part of the game and then only once were they dangerous. With the second and third bases filled and only one down, Stahl made the batters hit high ones which were gobbled up by the fielders. One in the sixth and two in the seventh were enough for the "Canadians."

The feature of the game was the great catch of VanMater's in the seventh inning, when there was a runner on first and only one down. Stewart hit a line drive over second base, and VanMater ran from deep centre and caught the ball at his feet with one hand. He then threw it to Burner at first for a double play. Stahl gave one base on balls and so did Faber, while Stewart did not issue any free passes. Only four hits were made from Stahl's delivery and the boroughites gathered eleven.

SOMERVILLE'S ONE BIG INNING BEAT PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL AGGREGATION

The Plainfield High School baseball team dropped its second game of the season to Somerville High School yesterday afternoon, by a score of 3 to 2 on Parker Field. Somerville had one big inning and scored three runs which finally gave them the victory.

Kershaw was in fine form and pitched great ball allowing the local batsmen but six scattered hits, no two of which came in the same inning. Brick was also in good fettle, but allowed nine hits four of these coming in the disastrous third inning. There was only one two-base hit and that was made by Sminck, the first man up for Plainfield, in the ninth inning. He was advanced to third on Apgar's sacrifice hit, but Victorson and Kyle, a pinch hitter for Hirsch, struck out making sixteen strike outs during the game for Kershaw. Plainfield's lineup was badly weakened by the absence of Butler and Hetfield. Sminck replaced Butler in center field and Hirsch played first base, Victorson going to third. Somerville's three runs came in the third inning, Stryker singled and McHugh grounded out O'Leary to Hirsch. Kershaw flied out to Peacock. Hits by Schomp and Robson, an error by Sminck, and a single by DuMont netted the only runs Somerville got.

LOCAL GOLFERS ARE ENTERED IN TOURNEY

Metropolitan Championship Events Opens Tomorrow at Englewood Club.

Despite the fact that two noted Metropolitan players are absent in England, one the title holder, Jerome D. Travers, the class of the golfers within a radius of fifty-five miles of New York, have entered at Englewood with a thirty-six hole qualifying round. There are one hundred and thirty-one who are paired to start, two Plainfielders, W. T. Glenney and D. H. Parsons, being among those entered.

At 11:44 tomorrow morning W. T. Glenney will pair off with C. A. Pearson, of Greenwich, in the qualifying round, and D. H. Parsons will meet Frank Barton, of Dyker Meadow.

JACK MARTIN IS REGAINING HIS OLD TIME BATTING EYE

Substituting for Charlies Deal at third base for the Boston Braves Jack Martin is placing the chances of the regular in jeopardy by his consistent slugging in the series with the Pittsburg Pirates. Since being given an opportunity to warm up in regular competition Jack has been doing excellent sticking and his playing around the difficult corner has been of high order.

In yesterday's game with the Pirates Jack cracked out a two-bagger and a single and drew a base on balls. Fielding around third he had a brace of putouts and the same number of assists. He also figured in a double play with Jarmes the Braves' twirler.

WOODBRIDGE WIN A FLUKE OVER P. H. S.

Deciding Match for State Title Will Probably Be Played Between These Teams.

The Plainfield High School tennis team received a jar yesterday afternoon, in the race for the State interscholastic tennis title, when the team was defeated by Woodbridge High School. It cannot be said that Plainfield High School was wholly squelched although it was behind when play was stopped. Dall, of Plainfield, defeated G. Throckmorton, of Woodbridge; H. Throckmorton, of Woodbridge, interscholastic singles champion, defeated Noonan, of Plainfield; H. Throckmorton and Brown defeated Dall and Cottrell. This gave Woodbridge a lead of two matches to one.

Goodrich then played Brown. He lost the first set 5-7, but won the second set 7-5. By this time darkness was approaching and Brown announced that he could play no longer and so competition was stopped. The Plainfield players exhibited grit in the second set of the doubles match when they were behind 1-5. They then showed real championship form and won the set 7-5. A deciding match will be played with Woodbridge on May 28.

The summary of the sets follows:

C. Dall, P. H. S., defeated T. Throckmorton, W. H. S. 7-5, 6-3; H. Throckmorton, W. H. S. defeated J. Noonan, P. H. S. 6-0, 6-2; H. Throckmorton and Brown, W. H. S. defeated C. Dall and J. Cortrell P. H. S. 6-3, 5-7, 6-2; C. Goodrich drew with Brown 5-7, 7-5.

READY FOR CONFERENCE.

Secretary Bryan and United States Delegates to Mediation Meeting.

© 1914, by American Press Association.

READY FOR MEDIATION MEETING TOMORROW

Delegates at Niagara For the Peace Conference.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 19.—All is in readiness for the meetings of the men who are about to try to find a solution to the Mexican tangles tomorrow under the roof of the Clifton hotel, from the top of which proudly flies the union jack and around which will stand a guard of British soldiers. The A, B, C mediators will meet the delegates of General Huerta and the representatives of the United States.

Dr. Romulo S. Naon, minister of Argentina to the United States, and Senor Da Gama, ambassador of Brazil, and Dr. Suarez Mujica of Chile reached the Clifton hotel without incident, but their arrival created considerable stir on both sides.

Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, the United States representatives, will reach Niagara Falls at 12:09 tomorrow and will go to the Prospect House on the American side, where they are going to stop. Senors Rabasa, Rodriquez and Elguero, General Huerta's delegates, will also be here tomorrow.

The Canadian government will probably be represented here by George Pearley, secretary of state in the Borden cabinet, who will welcome the distinguished visitors officially. Evan E. Fraser, member of the provincial parliament for Welland county, telegraphed to Colonel Sam Hughes, minister of militia at Ottawa, requesting that a detail of troops be sent at once to guard the Clifton hotel during the negotiations and to patrol the surrounding grounds.

The request for a military guard for the mediators is said to have been prompted by mysterious reports being circulated of the presence here of a number of Mexican "spies" of all factions. There is evidently, however, no foundation whatever for these rumors.

MELLEN RESUMES TESTIMONY

Former President of New Haven Road Continues His Disclosures.

Washington, May 19. — Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, resumed the witness stand and continued his disclosures as to the acquiring by the New Haven of stock of the New York, Westchester and Boston Railroad company.

Solicitor Joseph W. Folk representing the commission, has secured lists of the stockholders of the Westchester and other information, from which he hopes to trace some of the holders of Mr. Mellen's "due bills."

It is expected that the testimony of Mr. Mellen will touch on other matters in addition to the Westchester deal. He probably will make some disclosures in connection with the indictment which was returned against him for having entered into a traffic agreement with the Grand Trunk railway in alleged violation of the anti-trust law.

Solicitor Folk said that the commission probably will send an examiner to Jekyll island to take the testimony of William Rockefeller.

FIRE DESTROYS UPTON, MASS.

Flames Sweep Unchecked Through the Town—Three Hurt.

Upton, Mass., May 19.—A fire sweeping over this town has already destroyed a dozen residences, seven barns, injured three people and done property damage estimated at $50,000.

The flames, with a light wind behind them, leaped from house to house with terrible rapidity. The fire was practically unchecked, as the town has no water power fire fighting apparatus.

Envoys Are Ready to Present His Terms.

DICTATOR HAS DEMANDS.

Wants a Promise of $400,000,000 Loan, Land Barons Are Ready to Sacrifice the Dictator—Huerta Will Act In Parks Case.

Washington, May 19.—A diplomatic mission in Washington has received from a corresponding mission accredited to Mexico advices that General Huerta has authorized his delegates to the Niagara Falls conference to promise his resignation should circumstances make the surrender necessary to a settlement of difficulties. It is understood, however, that General Huerta instructed his representatives to make this tender only as a last resort and to insist upon important conditions.

These conditions are briefly summarized as a reservation to General Huerta of some voice in naming his successor, an American loan to Mexico of $400,000,000 and a ninety-nine year lease of Magdalena bay for naval target practice at an annual rental of $1,000,000 gold.

It is understood that Huerta is suggesting that Asiatics shall be forbidden to colonize in Mexico.

Washington, May 19.—The conviction is growing in Washington that Huerta is to be sacrificed by the so called cientifico element in Mexico.

The big land proprietors in Mexico realize he is doomed, and they are concerned chiefly now in saving their own holdings out of the wreck.

Huerta also, according to reliable information from Mexico City, knows that he is lost when the wealthy land owning class in Mexico turns its back on him.

That is one explanation of the information now being received by European envoys in Washington from reliable quarters in Mexico City that Huerta is ready to step out, provided he has a voice in the selection of his successor.

To Act In Parks Case.

According to the dispatches from Mexico City, General Huerta has given to the Mexican mediation delegates to the peace conference at Niagara Falls authority to submit his resignation in case such a course should be found imperative to a settlement in the peace negotiations.

The report is further confirmation of a story to the effect that Huerta was ready to resign under certain conditions. The limitation then and since has been that his envoys were in a position to submit his resignation if necessary.

Huerta's conditions, as outlined to his mediation delegates, are said to be:

That Carranza shall not be chosen to succeed him, that Huerta have a voice in the choice of his successor, that Huerta be allowed to run for president in the July elections and that the Americans evacuate Vera Cruz.

Mexico has promised to avenge the death of Private Parks. The Brazilian minister notified the state department of the promise from Huerta's secretary of foreign affairs that he will punish the men guilty of Parks' murder if he finds the killing actually occurred in the Mexican federal lines near Vera Cruz.

This message, received by the secretary of state, was the first word he had in reply to his urgent demands of late last week on the Mexican government.

At the same time Secretary Bryan announced that the demand for Consul Silliman's release will be presented again to the Huerta government. The Brazilian minister wired that he would take this matter up again, saying that interrupted train service was the probable cause of the consul's delay in leaving Saltillo.

TWO AVIATORS KILLED.

This Makes a Total of Five In Prince Henry Meet.

Berlin, May 19.—Two more German army aviators were killed in the Prince Henry aviation competition, making a total of five killed and several injured since the contest began. There are several contests in the Prince Henry competition, the most important being a reconnaissance contest in two stages of 1,103 miles. Eighteen military aviators and thirteen civilians started and about thirty more yesterday.

In the contest the victims were Lieutenants Rohde and Kolbe. The former was killed when the monoplane was capsized by a sudden gust of wind, and Lieutenant Kolbe was so badly hurt that he died later in the day.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

DESIGN FOR A PILLOW IN DARNING-STITCH AND OUTLINE

Now is the time to embroider the porch pillows, so that they will be ready for the first hot days, which come upon us so suddenly.

Linen, rep, burlap, crafts canvas and Monk's cloth all make durable pillow-covers and the design, from pattern number 14383, is very effective and easy to embroider. Darning-stitch may be used for the background and the motifs should be outlined. If the embroidery cotton used is darker than the material, or of a contrasting color, the figures will stand out very effectively from the background.

This design is 25 inches square and is suitable for use on a pillow or table-cover

Guaranteed hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon the receipt of price. 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The new moires this season are particularly fascinating; instead of the old indefinite watermark, we have unusually effective designs. Rose moire in which the watermark forms a rose design, is one of the most favored; another shows a butterfly and there are numerous others. This material is no longer heavy and stiff, but as soft and supple as any of the other new silks. It seems especially suited to afternoon gowns and the more dressy suits. It is quite a fad nowadays to wear a lace blouse in which there is not a trace of the color of the skirt for afternoon; it is an economical fad, as one skirt may be made to serve with several blouses. In Number 7968 we have one of the popular peg-top effects; the lines of this skirt are straight and the fullness is laid about the waist in soft plaits. It is a design well suited to moire and combined with a lace blouse or one of chiffon, would make a very attractive afternoon dress. Moire averages 42 inches in width and may be purchased from $1.50 a yard and up. This skirt may be made in size 24 with two and seven eighths yards of 42-inch material. The pattern is cut in five sizes, 22 to 30.

THIS IS A PERFECT PATTERN.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15c in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SOUFFLES YOU WILL LIKE.

DINNER MENU.
Veal Souffle. Horseradish Sauce.
Baked Potatoes. Stewed Corn.
Lettuce.
Raspberry Cream.
Coffee.

FRUIT souffles are quite popular, but that they may be prepared of more substantial and nourishing viands is not so well known. Some suggestions for these are the following:

Served In Ramekins.

Fish Souffle.—Make a cream sauce of one large teaspoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of flour and one cup of milk. Have ready one cup of cold fish in small pieces, beaten yolks of two eggs and salt. After making the sauce add the fish and eggs. Let it cook a minute, cool and fold in the whites beaten stiff. Have ramekins or buttered dish ready, place in hot water in a pan and bake twenty minutes. These will be light and delicious.

Omelet Souffle.—Beat the yolks of three eggs until thick and the whites until stiff. Add yolks to whites with one-half teaspoonful of powdered sugar and the juice of half a small lemon. Put together carefully and heap by the spoonful into a buttered dish or into buttered paper cases, with powdered sugar, and bake in a moderate oven about twelve minutes, or until a golden brown. Serve at once.

Use For Cold Meat.

Veal Souffle.—Chop fine sufficient cold veal to measure one pint. Melt and mix together over the fire one tablespoonful each of butter and flour, add one teaspoonful of salt, a half teaspoonful of white pepper and, gradually, one cupful of milk. When smoothly thickened simmer for a moment, add the veal, stir well and set aside for ten minutes. Stir in lightly one tablespoonful of chopped parsley and the stiffly whipped whites of four eggs. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven for fifteen minutes.

Lamb Souffle.—Melt one-half tablespoonful of butter, add one-half tablespoonful of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of celery salt, a few drops of onion juice and a few grains of pepper. Then add gradually one cupful of scalded milk and one-fourth cupful of soft, stale bread-crumbs. Remove from the fire and add one cupful of finely chopped cold lamb. Add yolks of two eggs, beaten, and lastly fold in the whites of the eggs beaten stiffly. Bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Refused to Eat Without a Napkin.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Dog With The Perfect Table Manners.

DADDY had heard of a dog who had perfect table manners.

"Now, what would you think of a dog who insisted upon always having a table napkin?" he asked Jack and Evelyn.

"I wouldn't like that kind of a dog," said Jack. "I don't like dogs who are so fussy. One always thinks of them as being brave and above such things as table napkins."

"Well," continued daddy, "I do not really think it was the fault of this dog that he was fussy.

"You see, he belonged to a funny old lady. This old lady had the strange idea that a dog should behave just like a person, which is really very absurd, because it stands to reason that a dog should behave like a dog and a person like a person."

At this Jack and Evelyn laughed, and daddy joined in too.

"This old lady lived all alone in a very small house. The house had only one floor, and it looked so small you wondered how any one could ever get in it. But then, when you looked at the old lady, you were not a bit surprised, for she was the tiniest person.

"Now her dog was a great contrast to both the old lady and the little house. The dog was a very big one. He was black and white and looked just twice as huge as the old lady.

"But the funniest thing was that the old lady would never let this dog go out by himself. She always went out with him, and he was on a short leash.

"When mealtime came the old lady would put a napkin around her dog's neck, and they would both sit at a low table and eat together. And the dog would never try to eat, even if he saw food in front of him, until his napkin was put around his neck."

"That does sound funny, certainly," said Evelyn. "And to think that the dog liked it seems very funny indeed."

"Well, you see, he just got in the habit of being fussy like the old lady. And then, though he was so big, he was quite old himself.

"At night he would sleep on a sofa at the foot of the old lady's bed, and if any one should ring the doorbell of their little house at night—well, you should have heard the barking. So he did have some spirit, after all, and would not have let anything happen to the old lady for anything in the world."

"Well," said Jack, "I am glad you told us one good point the big dog had, for I wouldn't have liked him much, just hearing about his fussiness. After all, I don't believe there is ever a dog, no matter how strangely he is brought up, that hasn't something nice about him."

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

CHAPTER XXIX.

The Deacon's Waterloo.

MRS. MASON'S welcome to Waitstill was unexpectedly hearty, much heartier than it would have been six months before, when she regarded Mrs. Boynton as little less than a harmless lunatic, of no use as a neighbor, and when she knew nothing more of Ivory than she could gather by his occasional drive or walk past her door with a civil greeting.

Ivory made himself quickly at home and helped the old lady to get a room ready for Waitstill before he drove back for a look at his mother and then on to carry out his impetuous and romantic scheme of routing out the town clerk and announcing his intended marriage.

Waitstill slept like the shepherd boy in "The Pilgrim's Progress," with the "herb called heart's ease" in her bosom. She opened her eyes next morning from the depths of Mrs. Mason's best feather bed and looked wonderingly about the room, with all its unaccustomed surroundings. She heard the rattle of fire irons and the clatter of dishes below, the first time in all her woman's life that preparations for breakfast had ever greeted her ears when she had not been an active participator in them.

She lay quite still for a quarter of an hour, tired in body and mind, but incredibly happy in spirit, marveling at the changes wrought in her during the day preceding, the most eventful one in her history.

The image of Ivory had been all through the night in the foreground of her dreams and in her moments of wakefulness, both made blissful by the heaven of anticipation that dawned upon her. Was ever man so wise, so tender and gentle, so strong, so comprehending? What mattered the absence of worldly goods, the presence of care and anxiety, when a woman had a steady hand to hold, a steadfast heart to trust, a man who would love her and stand by her, whate'er befell?

Then the face of Ivory's mother would swim into the mental picture; the pale face, as white as the pillow it lay upon; the face with its aureole of ashen hair, and the wistful blue eyes that begged of God and her children some peace before they closed on life.

The vision of her sister was a joyful one, and her heart was at peace about her, the plucky little princess who had blazed the way out of the ogre's castle.

She saw Patty clearly as a future fine lady, in velvets and satins and furs, bewitching everybody by her gay spirits, her piquant vivacity, and the loving heart that lay underneath all the nonsense and gave it warmth and color.

The remembrance of her father alone on the hilltop did indeed trouble Waitstill. Self reproach, in the true sense of the word, she did not, could not, feel.

When she was thankfully eating her breakfast with Mrs. Mason a little later and waiting for Ivory to call for them both and take them to the Boynton farm, she little knew what was going on at her old home in these very hours, when, to tell the truth, she would have liked to slip in, had it been possible, wash the morning dishes, skim the cream, do the week's churning, make her father's bed and slip out again into the dear shelter of love that awaited her.

The deacon had passed a good part of the night in scheming and contriving, and when he drank his self made cup of muddy coffee at 7 o'clock next morning he had formed several plans that were to be immediately frustrated, had he known it, by the exasperating and suspicious nature of the ladies involved in them.

At 8 he had left the house, started Bill Morrill at the store and was on the road in search of vengeance and a housekeeper. Old Mrs. Atkins of Deerwander sniffed at the wages offered. Miss Peters of Union Falls, an aged spinster with weak lungs, had the impertinence to tell him that she feared she couldn't stand the cold in his house; she had heard he was very particular about the amount of wood that was burned. There was not another free woman within eight miles, and the deacon was chafing under the mortification of being continually obliged to state the reasons of his needing a housekeeper. The only hope, it seemed, lay in going to Saco and hiring a stranger, a plan not at all to his liking, as it was sure to involve him in extra expense.

Muttering threats against the universe in general, he drove home by way of Milliken's mills, thinking of the unfed hens, the unmilked cow, the unwashed dishes, the unchurned cream and, above all, of his unchastened daughters, his rage increasing with every step until it was nearly at the white heat of the night before.

A long stretch of hill brought the tired old mare to a slow walk and enabled the deacon to see the Widow Tillman clipping the geraniums that stood in tin cans on the shelf of her kitchen window.

Now, Foxwell Baxter had never been a village Lothario at any age nor frequented the society of such. Of late years, indeed, he had frequented no society of any kind, so that he had missed, for instance, Abel Day's description of the Widow Tillman as a "regular syreen," though he vaguely remembered that some of the Baptist sisters had questioned the authenticity of her conversion by their young and attractive minister. She made a pleasant picture at the window. She was a free woman. She was a comparative newcomer to the village, and her mind had not been poisoned with feminine gossip—in a word, she was a distinctly hopeful subject, and, acting on a blind and sudden impulse, he turned into the yard, flung the reins over the mare's neck and knocked at the back door.

"Her character's no worse than mine by now if Aunt Abby Cole's on the road," he thought grimly, "an' if the Wilsons see my sleigh inside of a widder's fence so much the better. It'll give 'em a jog. Good mornin', Mis' Tillman," he said to the smiling lady. "I'll come to the p'int at once. My youngest daughter has married Mark Wilson against my will an' gone away from town, an' the older one's chosen a husband still less to my likin'. Do you want to come and housekeep for me?"

"I surmised something was going on," returned Mrs. Tillman. "I saw Patty and Mark drive away early this morning, with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson wrapping the girl up and putting a hot soapstone in the sleigh and consid'able kissing and hugging thrown in."

This knowledge added fuel to the flame that was burning fiercely in the deacon's breast.

"Well, how about the housekeepin'?" he asked, trying not to show his eagerness and not recognizing himself at all in the enterprise in which he found himself indulging.

"I'm very comfortable here," the lady responded artfully, "and I don't know's I care to make any change, thank you. I didn't like the village much at first, after living in larger places, but now I'm acquainted it kind of gains on me."

Her reply was carefully framed, for her mind worked with great rapidity, and she was mistress of the situation almost as soon as she saw the deacon alighting from his sleigh. He was not the sort of a man to be a casual caller, and his manner bespoke an urgent errand. She had a pension of $6 a month, but over and above that sum her living was precarious. She made coats, and she had never known want, for she was a master hand at dealing with the opposite sex. Deacon Baxter, according to common report, had ten or fifteen thousand dollars stowed away in the banks, so the situation would be as simple as possible under ordinary circumstances. It was as easy to turn out one man's pockets as another's when he was a normal human being, but Deacon Baxter was a different proposition.

"I wonder how long he's likely to live," she thought, glancing at him covertly out of the tail of her eye. "His evil temper must have driven more than one nail in his coffin. I wonder if I refuse to housekeep whether I'll get—a better offer. I wonder if I could manage him if I got him. I'd rather like to set in the Baxter pew at the orthodox meeting house after the way some of the Baptist sisters have snubbed me since I come here."

Not a vestige of these incendiary thoughts showed in her comely countenance.

"I'd make the wages fair," urged the deacon, looking round the clean kitchen, with the breakfast table sitting near the sunny window and the odor of corned beef and cabbage issuing temptingly from a boiling pot on the fire. "I hope she ain't a great meat eater," he thought, "but it's too soon to cross that bridge yet awhile."

"I've no doubt of it," said the widow, wondering if her voice rang true, "but I've got a pension, and why should I leave this cozy little home? Would I better myself any—that's the question? I'm kind of lonesome here. That's the only reason I'd consider a move."

"No need o' bein' lonesome down to the Falls," said the deacon. "And I'm in an' out all day, between the barn an' the store."

This, indeed, was not a pleasant prospect, but Jane Tillman had faced worse ones in her time.

"I'm no hand at any work outside the house," she observed, as if reflecting. "I can truthfully say I'm a good cook and have a great faculty for making a little go a long ways." (She considered this a master stroke, and in fact, it was, for the deacon's mouth absolutely watered at this apparently unconscious comprehension of his disposition.) "But I'm no hand at any chores in the barn or shed," she continued. "My husband would never allow me to do that kind of work."

"Perhaps I could git a boy to help out. I've been kind o' thinkin' o' that lately. What wages would you expect if I paid a boy for the rough work?" asked the deacon tremulously.

"Well, to tell the truth, I don't quite fancy the idea of taking wages. Judge Dickinson wants me to go to Alfred and housekeep for him and named $12 a month. It's good pay, and I haven't said 'No.' But my rent is small here, I'm my own mistress, and I don't feel like giving up my privileges."

"Twelve dollars a month!" He had never thought of approaching that sum, and he saw the heap of unwashed dishes growing day by day and the cream souring on the milk pans. Suddenly an idea sprang full born into the deacon's mind. (Jed Morrill's "Old Driver" must have been close at hand!) Would Jane Tillman marry him? No woman in the three villages would be more obnoxious to his daughters; that in itself was a distinct gain. She was a fine, robust figure of a woman in her early forties, and he thought, after all, that the hollow chested, spindle shanked kind were more expensive to feed on the whole than their better padded sisters. He had never had any difficulty in managing wives and thought himself quite equal to one more bout, even at sixty-five, though he had just the faintest suspicion that the high color on Mrs. Tillman's prominent cheek bones, the vigor shown in the coarse black hair and handsome eyebrows, might make this task a little more difficult than his previous ones.

"If you'd like to have a home o' your own 'thout payin' rent, you've only got to say the word an' I'll make you Mis' Baxter," said the deacon. "There'll be nobody to interfere with you, an' a handsome legacy if I die first, for none o' my few savin's is go-in' to my daughters, I can promise you that!"

The deacon threw out this tempting bait advisedly, for at this moment he would have poured his hoard into the lap of any woman who would help him to avenge his fancied wrongs.

This was information indeed! The "few savings" alluded to amounted to some thousands, Jane Tillman knew. Had she not better burn her ships behind her, take the risks and have faith in her own powers? She was getting along in years, and her charms of person were lessening with every day that passed over her head. If the deacon's queer ways grew too queer, she thought, an appeal to the doctor and the minister might provide a way of escape and a neat little income to boot. So, on the whole, the marriage, though much against her natural inclinations, seemed to be providentially arranged.

If Jane Tillman became Mrs. Baxter she intended to get the whip hand and keep it, but nothing was further from her intention than to make the deacon miserable if she could help it. That was not her disposition, and so, when the deluded man left her house, he had made more concessions in a single hour than in all the former years of his life.

His future spouse was to write out a little paper for his signature; just a friendly little paper to be kept quite private and confidential between themselves, stating that she was to do no work outside of the house; that her pension was to be her own; that she was to have $5 in cash on the first of every month in lieu of wages, and that in case of his death occurring first she was to have a third of his estate, and the whole of it if at the time of his decease he was still pleased with his bargain. The only points in this contract that the deacon really understood were that he was paying only $5 a month for a housekeeper to whom a judge had offered $12; that, as he had expected to pay at least $8, he could get a boy for the remaining $3, and so be none the worse in pocket; also, that if he could keep his daughters from getting his money, he didn't care a hang who had it, as he hated the whole human race with entire impartiality. If Jane Tillman didn't behave herself he had pleasing visions of converting most of his fortune into cash and having it dropped off the bridge some dark night, when the doctor had given him up and proved to his satisfaction that death would occur in the near future.

All this being harmoniously settled, the deacon drove away and caused the announcement of his immediate marriage to be posted directly below that of Waitstill and Ivory Boynton.

A "spite match," the community in general called the deacon's marriage, and nearly a man and many a woman, too, regarding the amazing publishing notice in the frame up at the meeting house, felt that in Jane Tillman Deacon Baxter had met his Waterloo.

Spring Beauty Hints.

The hands require special attention in the early spring. The sudden changes are apt to leave their hallmarks of chapping and redness on the hands. It is essential first of all that they should be kept comfortably warm.

The question of gloves has to be considered carefully. Every woman who goes out much should be provided with several pairs of varying degrees of thickness and should change her gloves to suit the weather. The heavy ones she has been wearing all the winter must be discarded as soon as a warmer day comes. Some very good authorities on the subject say that to keep our hands too hot is prematurely ageing. Our thick gloves should be kept in a convenient place until the decided warmth comes. They may often be required on odd days when winter seems once more to assert itself.

Some girls are very much bothered with cracked lips in the spring. They probably possess an unusually delicate outer skin which is affected by all changes in the weather.

It is a wise precaution to rub a little cold cream on the lips before going out when it is particularly cold. If this warning comes too late and some poor sufferers are already smiling agonized smiles on account of cracked lips treat with boracic ointment to heal them.

First, about the complexion, which suffers most from the vagaries of spring weather. Great care must be taken to avoid exposing the tender skin of the face directly to the cold north and east winds.

A little very good face cream or skin food should be rubbed gently into the skin before going out of doors when cold winds are blowing. The skin food is preferable because when it is properly applied no greasiness or shine is perceptible.

The cream serves as a protection against the strong air. A very little powder may be added. It helps too.

A veil is an indispensable article when the keen winds are blowing. A wise girl knows that she must make a careful choice of her veil for this purpose. It must not be one of those delightfully thin gauzy things which can be worn with impunity when the warm weather comes. Chiffon is a particularly suitable substance for the purpose. It forms a very good protection for the face. Shetland veils are very much recommended for the out of door girl, who has to face the elements in all their moods.

Waving the Hair.

Are you one of those troubled with hair that is quite straight? Every woman cannot help noticing when she changes the style of her coiffure that the hair does not take easily to the new order of things. In fact, it takes a good deal of dressings in the new way before it settles down comfortably.

The present fashion for simple hair-dressing makes training essential, for it may be "plain Jane-ish" to a degree, or it may be extremely artistic.

If you hair needs a wave try this method, which cannot spoil your hair as hot irons are apt to do. It is quite easy and you will be delighted with the result.

Part your hair in the center and again lower down on each side. Take the hair between the partings on each side separately, damp it and pin it up in an even line with hairpins placed at short intervals. Leave the hair like this until it is quite dry. Remove the pins and the pretty wave in it will remain for several days.

Sparkling Eyes.

Most persons have a great admiration for sparkling eyes and would love to possess them. Here are a few simple directions about the care of the eyes which will produce good results in an entirely natural manner. The eyes should always be well bathed in a good lotion after they have been exposed to dust. Girls are so apt to neglect this little matter, and it is really very important. The dust has an injurious effect on the eyelids and lashes and effectually takes away the bright, healthy appearance of the eyes. Then you should be careful not to overstrain your eyes in any way. Reading or fine needlework should be done only in good light. Of course the main thing to remember is to keep healthy and well in yourself. Take plenty of exercise in the fresh air, eat lots of good, nourishing food and sleep well if you can. Your eyes will then reflect the sparkle of health and vigor.

Preventing Blackheads.

If you are troubled with blackheads your blood must be in a poor state. You should take some simple corrective mixture for about a week or so. Plenty of exercise is essential for keeping fit. You should drink plenty of water between meals. These general precautions should improve the state of your blood and help to prevent the blackheads from putting in an appearance. To remove those that are there steam your face over a jug or basin of hot water and press out the blackheads with the tips of the fingers. Rub a little boracic ointment on the sore places. This treatment should be done once a week. Avoid all rich, fatty foods or anything likely to cause indigestion. It is a frequent cause of blackheads and unhealthy skin.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite reasonable, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't make the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the messy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Adv.

AERONAUTS OF FIFTEEN NATIONS TO ENTER GREAT AIRSHIP RACE AROUND THE WORLD.

As quickly as an echo from every nook and cranny where humanity dwells has come the world's acclaim for the announcement by the Panama-Pacific International Exposition that a prize of $150,000 will be given for the circum-aviation of the globe, this sum to be increased by the cities of the world to surpass a total of $300,000. Rene Quenten has sent word that the purse should be increased to $1,000,000 and if the present spirit is shown until the date of the start that sum may be reached. From 7,000 aviators and 400 aero clubs of the world come unanimous encouragement. "Look up" is to be the liberal watchword translated into every tongue for the 120 days of the race. President Moore of the exposition has deposited the $150,000 nucleus of the prize. Arnold Kruckman, exposition aeronautics chief, has started on a world tour to choose the exact route. In America, he has visited Salt Lake City, Denver and Cheyenne and from these the first stop or control center is to be chosen. Representatives of world navies have promised the seas will be patrolled. The Federation of International Aeronatique has signified tentative approval. The Aero Club of America has appointed contest committees on which are such men as Vincent Astor, Cornelius Vanderbilt, George J. Gould, Harold F. McCormick, Ralph Pulitzer, F. A. Munsey, and Charles J. Glidden. William B. Howland, chairman of the committee for celebrating the hundredth anniversary of peace between English-speaking races, has written the most prominent American men, headed by President Wilson, asking them to help make the flight an arrow for peace. It is pointed out that aeroplanes in the Balkans tended to preserve life, for their use as scouts gave warning of the enemy's moves. After the first gasp, the world has begun to see that the race is practicable even with the inventions and skill of today, not to include the strides that will be made in the twelve months to come. The longest lap of the 20,285 miles will be 1,850 miles and the longest water jump will be 670 miles. Bob Fowler, the only living man who has crossed America by air, says circum-aviation is practical. Lincoln Beachey is abroad studying for his own benefit and to give data to the exposition for use in arranging the race. The flight across the Atlantic need not be made at all if the flier will submit to nationalization for shipping his machine across. But the 67 mile flights will provide no great fears. M. Fournay in France flew 673 miles in 13 hours and 18 minutes; Brindejonc des Moulinais made 1,000 miles in stormy weather in less than 11 hours. Whether the aviators will want to carry a passenger to be used as mechanician has not been considered by the rules committee. Another feature has been added by the announcement that dirigibles will enter. More than 50 of the world's most famous aviators are expected to enter, representing 15 nations. Orville Wright is now working on a stabilizer which he announces will soon be ready. Rodman Wanamaker is having a $100,000 aeroplane prepared which will make its first flight for the Lord Northcliffe prize across the Atlantic, which will prove an excellent qualifying round for the race around the globe. The prize money for the round-the-world flight will be so distributed that winners of certain laps of the race who are later caused to drop out will receive compensating sums.

ROOSEVELT IS BACK FROM HUNTING TRIP

Rousing Reception Is Planned For Colonel.

New York, May 19.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will arrive in New York harbor late today on the Booth liner Aidan.

The colonel will be taken off the liner at quarantine by the tug John B. Dalzell, on which will be the members of his immediate family only, and will go direct to Oyster Bay.

W. Emlen Roosevelt, speaking for the family, said it had been decided not to change the plan of taking the colonel off at quarantine, thus avoiding a public welcome at New York.

This was done, he said, because the colonel had sent word by cable that he wanted to be alone with the family before he saw any one.

The only member of the party on the tug beside the Roosevelt family will be Lawson Sanford, general manager of the Booth line.

Although the former president will escape a reception in New York, Oyster Bay is prepared to give a rousing welcome. Houses and buildings have been decorated with bunting, and the entire population is ready to turn out to greet the colonel when he arrives home.

When Mr. Roosevelt arrives at the village a salute of twenty-one guns will be fired. The old custom of saluting him with an anvil has been abandoned and a real gun is substituted. The colonel's motorcar will have a guard of honor composed of citizens, led by Robert W. Duvall, the grand marshal of the parade. The colonel may make a short address.

Captain Alexander, commander of the Dunstan, said Colonel Roosevelt was brought down to the ship on a stretcher in a motorcar and was perceptibly in a weakened condition when he came aboard.

During the four day trip from Manaos to Para the former president did not appear on deck, taking his meals in his stateroom. He did not have to be assisted when the transfer to the Aidan was made, Captain Alexander said, but he had fallen off much in weight and looked worn.

TALES OF HORROR FROM SURVIVORS

Columbian's Crew Died Insane From Thirst.

WERE DRIFTING FOR DAYS

Survivors Are In Critical Condition After Enduring Untold Hardships. Companions Dying In the Ravings of Delirium an Added Terror.

Halifax, N. S., May 19.—A thrilling story of hardship in an open boat in midocean, a tale of heroic toilers of the sea facing the torments of hunger, thirst, bitter cold and dire peril of wind and waves, was brought to the city by Captain E. J. Johnston of the American revenue cutter Seneca, which rescued the four remaining surviving members of the crew of the Leyland liner Columbian, burned at sea on May 5.

After cheating death in every form for fourteen days the four men are now lying in a private ward of the Victoria General hospital here fighting the battle for life all over again. The four are emaciated wrecks, little better than so many parcels of skin and bone, but they are the sole survivors of the fifteen men.

When rescued by the United States revenue cutter Seneca they were all at the last stage of utter exhaustion. Not one drop of water or a crumb of food remained in the boat, and the four, who had just sent the body of their eleventh companion to sea burial, were without hope of surviving the day when the rescue ship hove in sight.

They collapsed when taken on board the revenue cutter, but stood the journey from the ship to hospital fairly well. Once safe ashore, however, they relapsed again, and all four are critically ill. Robert Tiere, the youthful second officer of the Columbian, who commanded the boat, was in the most critical state of the four. Cold and exposure had so swollen his feet within his heavy sea boots that gangrene set in, and he probably will have to lose both members. Peter Belanger, a French Canadian seaman, who was the most exhausted of the quartet, when rescued was also critically sick. Oscar Kendall and Michael Ludwigsen, other survivors, had big temperatures and were much exhausted.

Trying Experience.

Hunger, thirst, cold, exposure, tempestuous seas, insane companions dying in the raving of delirium and trying to murder them, the frequent alternation of hope and despair and the knowledge that they were hopelessly lost and depended for rescue purely on chance, were some of the factors that have combined to bring them to the last gasp of utter prostration when the Seneca sighted them Sunday.

All hope had been abandoned then. The eleventh man had just died. For three days six of them had lived on five biscuits and a pint of fresh water. This was now all gone. Less than a handful of moldy crumbs remained in the biscuit tin, and death hovered nigh when the Seneca's smoke was seen. That cloudy pillar, with its message of cheer, spurred the exhausted men to one last despairing spurt of energy. Oars were got out and laboriously they pulled to cross the cutter's path. For a time it seemed as if she would pass them. The boat was seen by the watch on the Seneca and taken for a fisherman's dory, but Captain Johnston, who was on ice patrol duty 600 miles away when the Columbian was destroyed, had followed all wireless reports as to the missing boat and that morning had discussed the chances of sighting it with some of his officers. So when a "fisherman's dory on the port bow" was reported to him he altered the cutter's course and steered down on it.

Quickly it became apparent that this was no fisherman's dory laboriously rowing toward the Seneca. From a mast swayed a tattered oilskin coat, a mute appeal for aid. Three haggard forms painfully toiled on the oars, while in the stern sheets, commanding his craft to the last, sat young Tiere, shaping the boat's course for the Seneca.

ARRESTED GOV. JOHNSON.

Now California Executive Will Be Tried For Auto Speeding.

Stockton, Cal., May 19.—Speed Officer C. A. Fisher of Lodi swore to a complaint before a justice of the peace asking that Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California be tried on a charge of exceeding the automobile speed limit.

Fisher arrested the governor near Lodi yesterday. He says the executive was going so fast that, riding a motorcycle, he overtook him with difficulty.

No date has been fixed and the statements concerning the matter are "wild guesswork," it was announced.

Classical Statuary For the Courts of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, 1915, Shown For the First Time.

SEVERAL groups of statuary typical of the best work in American sculpture have been enlarged in the studios of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition and now are displayed for the first time. The figures are majestic in size and are distinguished by the imagery and vigor of the first models for the exposition which were shown to the public.

Three famous sculptors—Frye, Jaegers and Roth—have each contributed additional figures to the Exposition sculpture. Frye has modeled the figure of the cartouche over the entrance to the Festival Hall and the two reclining figures on the pylons. Jaegers, in addition to executing the "Harvest" group, has sculptured the group "Nature," the statues of "Rain" and "Sunshine" and the figure of the bull, all in the Court of the Four Seasons. Several of the freizes and spandrels in the same court are also his work. Frederick G. R. Roth, besides sculpturing "The Alaskan" in the Nations of the West group, collaborated with Leo Lentelli in the execution of the group of the Nations of the East that will surmount the opposing arch in the Court of the Universe.

The two great groups that surmount these lofty arches, each rising 160 feet above the earth, are the most imposing sculptural features of the entire Exposition. In the "Nations of the East" the central figure is a huge sculptured elephant with a howdah and on either side are horsemen of the Orient and camels with their riders. Tall falconers march beside them. In the "Nations of the West" the central figure is appropriately a "Prarie Schooner," with plainsmen and Indian outriders. The figures are powerful and virile and exemplify the indomitable courage and will of the Men of the West—the spirit that made the completion of the Panama Canal, which the Exposition is held to celebrate, possible.

DUFFY NAMED TO REVENUE POST

Paterson Man Is Given Soft Federal Plum.

PROTESTS AGAINST HIM.

A Number Opposed His Nomination, Which Is Confirmed by Senate—Senator Martine Indorsed Another Candidate—Senator Hughes Is Duffy's Sponsor.

Washington, May 19. — The senate confirmed a number of nominations, including that of Charles V. Duffy of Paterson to be collector of internal revenue for the fifth district of New Jersey. Mr. Duffy's nomination was reported favorably from the senate committee on judiciary. Senator Hughes was sponsor for Mr. Duffy.

A number of protests have come to Washington about the Duffy nomination, and Senator Martine had indorsed another candidate, but Mr. Martine interposed no objection to the confirmation of Duffy.

Among the other nominations confirmed were the following:

Charles Warren of Boston to be assistant attorney general, to succeed Jesse C. Adkins.

Henry A. Skaggs, to be United States marshal for the northern district of Alabama.

There were a large number of nominations of postmasters confirmed, including appointees in New York and New Jersey as follows:

New York—East Aurora, Arthur E. Hammond; Fillmore, Bruce M. Sweet; Fort Totten, George P. Martens; Genesee, James M. Dwyer; Lima, Mark J. Lockington; Livonia, Thomas H. Kavanaugh; Livingston Manor, William J. White; Mount Vernon, Stephen Van Tassel; Northport, Charles T. Sammis; Saugerties, Lawrence M. Kenney; Webster, Philip J. Smith.

SHOT MAY REUNITE COUPLE.

Bride Attempts Suicide After Quarrel. Husband Seeks Reconciliation.

Weehawken, N. J., May 19.—Anxiously waiting for his bride of several months to regain consciousness at the North Hudson hospital, where she was brought after she had shot herself, Paul D. Macy, a New York jeweler, has been constantly at his wife's bedside since that day. Although the doctors at the hospital hold out little hope for the recovery of the young woman, Macy is in hopes of effecting a reconciliation with her.

A quarrel between the young couple is said to have been the cause of Mrs. Macy's attempt to end her life. Shortly after her husband had left for his place of business Mrs. Macy rolled herself into a blanket on her bed to deaden the shot and then fired a bullet into her head. The bullet lodged in her head in such a manner that the physicians fear they will be unable to locate it. If she recovers an operation will probably be performed.

WATCHING FOR SPEEDERS.

New Jersey Auto Inspectors to Arrest Law Violators.

Trenton, N. J., May 19.—Commissioner Job H. Lippincott of the department of motor vehicles completed the details of the system of patrolling during the summer the roads most used by automobilists in New Jersey. Particular attention will be paid to the White Horse turnpike between Camden and Atlantic City and the main roads used by autoists traveling between New York and Asbury Park.

All of the inspectors on this work will be provided with high powered machines and will be on duty on Saturdays and Sundays throughout the summer. They will be instructed to cause the summary arrest of automobilists from other states who may be caught violating the speed laws. Commissioner Lippincott said that the most flagrant violations of this kind are now committed by tourists from other states.

BRIEF STATE ITEMS.

Robert L. Bremer, twenty-three years old, who says he lives in Charleston, S. C., is under arrest in Newark charged with attempting to pass a worthless check for $8.86 on Captain Frank W. Tuite of the detective bureau.

Samuel Richards of 227 East Sixty-third street, New York, is in St. Mary's hospital, Hoboken, and may lose the sight of an eye. Theophilus Winter, cook of the Hudson river boat Greenport, threw three gallons of hot coffee on him. Winter was held in $1,000 bail.

The barn of William Titus, near Trenton, was burned. Three horses and several calves and pigs were destroyed besides about 200 bushels of corn, wagons and valuable farm machinery. The loss is put at $10,000. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Electric Power Saves Your Plant Investment

If you are a manufacturer and have your own power plant you have a certain amount of capital tied up in boilers and engines.

If this capital were not so invested you would be able to use it in other ways in your business, possibly with better results.

If you could buy power to meet your needs at less cost than you could produce it with a plant of your own you would have no sound economic reason for investing money in a power plant.

If you give us an opportunity we can convince you that Central Station Electric Power is more economical than any other kind of drive, all factors considered.

If we could study your power problem—without cost to you—we could give you specific facts and figures which, we believe would make you consider electric power favorably.

If you mail a card or telephone our representative will call.

Certified Pure Natural Ice

Dr. WILLIAM T. SEDGWICK

Lecturer on Sanitary Science, Mass. Institute of Technology, says:

"As to the comparative unimportance of ice as a vehicle of disease I feel even more strongly * * , that ice supply in comparison with water supply, milk supply and oyster supply is of only trifling importance. I am unable otherwise to interpret the significant fact that, while thousands of tons of ice have now for many years been annually consumed by all sorts and conditions of people, not a single epidemic of infectious disease has hitherto been satisfactorily fastened upon any ice supply."

In concluding his address on "NATURAL ICE AND THE PUBLIC HEALTH" Dr. Sedgwick says:

"Let me congratulate you upon dealing with a food product * * which is useful as a harmless and agreeable summer beverage and stimulant, and which, taken by and large, is one of the purest of the food materials of our time."

WAYSIDE PARK WILL OPEN DECORATION DAY

Wayside Park will be opened on Decoration Day. This park is located in the Borough of Middlesex, opposite the Dunellen car barns, one mile west of Dunellen. It has a frontage of 1,000 feet on the trolley and is laid out with five acres of large trees, baseball diamond, tennis, croquet courts and running track. The rest of the tract is laid out in lawns decorated with flowering shrubs and flowers. Several pagodas made of silver birchwood adorn the front lawns and a large silver birch cabin on the front dispenses refreshments.

A dance pavilion accommodating two hundred couples is located in the grove with a restaurant, ice cream stand and cook-house for picnics, nearby. The park is equipped with free swings, tennis, croquet, baseball, quoits, see-saws and other free diversions, the proprietor securing his revenue from the sale of eatables. The Watchung mountains, Washington Rock and Green brook are only one mile distant. For four years the proprietor, T. W. Sisty, has maintained a policy for this park which has differed somewhat from that of the ordinary inland amusement place and has endeavored to avoid the pitfalls which have led to the decline of some of them. No games are allowed on Sunday, and nothing but meals, ice cream or soft drinks are sold on that day. Dancing is held every Saturday and holiday from 8 to 11:30 with fine music.

This park has been largely patronized by Sunday-schools, churches and moral societies as well as secular organizations. The proprietor is trying to find out if it pays to be good, believing that it does not pay to be bad.

THRIFT is NOT miserliness, stinginess or avarice, nor is it the mania for money which makes hoarding it the first aim in life, but

Now that the summer time is nearly here, when you leave all windows and doors open as much as possible, you should place your valuables out of the reach of "second-story workers" and burglars.

It is foolish to run unnecessary risks when you can rent a Safe Deposit Box in our burglar and fireproof vaults for as low as $5 a year.

And it is particularly unwise to keep more money in the house than is necessary for your immediate needs, for you tempt others to steal it and yourself to spend it. Put it in this strong bank and let it earn interest.

DUNELLEN BORO TO OIL STREETS

Council Awards Contract at One and One-quarter Cent Per Square Yard.

P. S. C. TO SHARE COST

Improvement of Sidewalks to Be Made Soon—Elwood Gary Appointed Dog Catcher—New Fire Hydrant Ordered.

When the Mayor and Council of Dunellen held an adjourned meeting in the upper room of the borough hall last night, they found a modern Council chamber, separate desks being provided for the officials and other improvements which will facilitate the work of the body were discovered.

The Council decided to do away with the former practice of sprinkling the streets of the borough, and instead they will be oiled. The contract was awarded to the Standard Oil Company at 1¼ cents per square yard, the cost not to exceed $378. The thoroughfares to be oiled include North avenue, from Jefferson avenue to Gallagher's corner, which will receive two applications; Grove street, from Madison avenue to New Market road, one application; Washington avenue from the railroad tracks to Third street; Prospect avenue from North avenue to Center street; Jackson avenue from North avenue to First street; Lincoln avenue from North avenue to Third street; Madison avenue from North avenue to First street and Front street and Dunellen avenue from Jefferson to Madison avenue, all to receive one application.

The Public Service Corporation through a letter addressed to Chairman Castner, of the street committee, agreed to give the borough a check for $75 on account of oiling that part of North avenue and Bound Brook road covered by its tracks through the borough. As this amount would not even cover the cost of one application of oil, Mr. Castner was ordered to take the matter up with the company again at an early date.

The Council also discussed the question of crosswalks in various parts of the borough. It was the opinion of the members that the borough should shortly commence this work and have at least ten or twelve laid each year, especially where they are needed the most.

Councilman Neighbour called his colleague's attention to the fact that some of the tenants of the borough are emptying cesspool matter upon their gardens and it was moved that Clerk Deering notify Health Inspector W. N. Apgar to that effect with the idea of stopping the practice.

A petition was received from J. P. Fenner, A. J. Hawley, C. W. Blaine, Wayne Burns and Paul Reusch and others requesting that Third street be scraped between Lincoln and Madison avenues and the petition was placed in the hands of the street committee with power to act.

Elwood Gary was appointed assistant pound-keeper and the Council ordered a hydrant placed on Whittier avenue about 300 feet south of Walnut street.

ONLY SIX CANDIDATES WANT TO BE POSTMASTER

According to the latest information there as no less than six candidates who want to succed Henry C. Garretson as postmaster at Dunellen, although the term does not expire until January 1. Among the aspirants are John Peters, the assessor; George Day, editor of The Weekly Call; William Apgar, former Mayor Harry Swackhamer, John Fenner and Frank Farrell.

Those who take a lively interest in the matter are sincerely hoping that the appointment will be made more promptly than in the case of Plainfield, where the time limit has been exceeded. Many wagers have already been made as to the successful appointee, but there has been no intimation from Washington as to who is likely to get the plum.

LUNCHEON AND SALE.

A luncheon was enjoyed yesterday afternoon by a large number of the members of the Missionary Societies of the First M. E. church. The luncheon was made possible through the courtesy of several manufacturers, and was under the personal direction of Robert W. Rollins. A lecture on many problems confronting the missionaries in Mexico was given by Miss Esty, a returned missionary to that country. A social hour and sale of fancy articles followed in the rooms of Vincent chapel.

NETHERWOOD CHURCH GETS THE BANNER

Its C. E. Society Has 81 Per Cent. of Membership at May Rally.

Combining the regular May rally with the annual election of officers, local Christian Endeavor workers gathered at the Trinity Reformed church last evening, when Rev. R. E. Vale, pastor of the Second Reformed church, of Somerville, was the speaker of the occasion. Clarence B. LaRue conducted the service of song, while Howard Parry and Herbert Cubberly conducted the devotional exercises.

The reports of the various officers for the year were presented. The secretary's report showed that the local union was composed of twelve societies, and that many activities had been inaugurated during the course of the year, among which is the work in connection with Rescue Mission. The treasurer's report indicated a substantial balance on hand.

Rev. Mr. Vale spoke in an encouraging way of the work of the Christian Endeavor movement throughout the world, taking for his subject "The Efficiency Test in Christian Endeavor Work." He said in part: "When a young man or woman steps out into life, it is not a question of education or of college diploma, but rather 'What can you do?' The same question is asked of organizations as of individuals. Whether or not Christian Endeavor has reached the heighth of its power depends entirely upon its vision. One must have a vision, know what he is to do, and how he is to do it."

"Morse had his vision, and after knocking on the doors of Congress for years, he was enabled to send the message over the wires, 'What has God wrought.' The man or the organization that has a program mapped out is the man to follow. The successful man is the one who, having drawn his plans, is able to point to definite conclusions. After the securing of a vision, men must have vigor and a mind to labor with which to back the vision. There is no excellence, nothing gained worth having, without labor and work. The man that labors shall stand before kings, for the greatest blessing of earth is labor. The visions, the vigor of life, and labor lead us to believe in the ultimate victory of the kingdom of Christ upon earth."

The following officers were elected for a term of one year: President, Arnold E. Finkle; vice-president, Theodore Day; recording secretary, Miss Lucie Corriel; treasurer, Miss Flora Crouse; junior superintendent, Mrs. Clarence B. LaRue. The chairmen of the various committees will be named at a later meeting. The banner for the largest percentage of members present was awarded the Netherwood Reformed church, that society having 81 per cent. of its membership at the gathering. In point of numbers, Trinity church had the largest attendance, fifty-one being present.

UNION MEN TO HOLD A RALLY AND SMOKER

A rally of union men of all trades will be held Friday evening at the Building Trades Council Hall on West Front street, the affair being in the nature of a fraternal smoker and social time. The program of the evening has been arranged by the International Association of Machinists, Local No. 167. The purpose of the gathering is to widen the scope of the fraternal spirit among the union men of the city, increasing the usefulness of the various organizations of the city. It is also desired on the part of the men to make Plainfield a one hundred per cent. city.

Men who are prominent in the organized labor field of the State are expected to be present and address those gathered in the interests of unionism. There will be no business or executive session, and the committee desire that it be understood that all union men of all trades be present. Hugh B. Reilly, of Newark, is announced as one of the speakers.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF.

Mrs. Alice A. Pfister, who was represented by Harry C. Runyon in the case tried at Elizabeth, Monday afternoon, won a verdict over Contractor Davis Steinman, also of this city, in which he tried to collect $1,087 claimed to be due on a building contract. Evidence showed that the work had not been done in a satisfactory manner, and was not in accordance with the contract. William Newcorn represented the plaintiff.

FAMOUS AUTHOR IS TAKEN AS SUSPECT

Saumus MacManus Arrested by Patrolman Thomas Flatley on Suspicion.

Saumus MacManus, who bears an international reputation as an author and lecturer, was arrested on Crescent avenue, last night, by Patrolman Thomas Flatley who claims he found him acting in a suspicious manner in that section early in the evening. According to the policeman, MacManus was hiding behind a tree in a way that excited his suspicions. When queried the policeman says that MacManus told him to mind his own business and refused to tell where he lived or what brought him into that section of the city.

It is alleged that the prisoner acted disorderly until brought to police headquarters where he was araigned before Mayor Stewaret this morning. The case was adjourned for one week pending the return of City Judge William G. DeMeza.

MacManus recently came to this city from Chatham where he has been spending the spring months, and has been stopping at the Waldorf, 134 Crescent avenue. He is a native of Donegal, Ireland and has appeared in this city as a lecturer before the Monday Afternoon Club.

PLAINFIELDERS TO SPEND SUMMER IN DENMARK

The new Scandinavian-American liner, "Frederick VIII," which will sail from New York for Copenhagen, Friday, will include a party of Plainfielders in her passenger list. They will be the Misses Anna Sorenson and Clara Hansen, Mrs. Chris. Lundbach, Mrs. A. Jensen, F. Goldman, J. Morgansen and Christopher Rasmussen. All the members of the party will spend the summer months in Denmark, returning to Plainfield in the fall.

Chris. Rasmussen, who is one of the best known of the tourists, was given a farewell dinner party by a number of friends at Melvin's restaurant, last night, covers were laid for ten. All wished him a happy voyage and a safe return. Mr. Rassmussen has been employed for several years in the Woodhull & Martin bakery.

A large delegation of friends will be at the pier on sailing day to wish all the members of the party bon voyage.

BENEFIT DANCE IN CLUB WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

There was a large attendance at the reception and dance given by the Knights of Columbus in their clubhouse on West Front street, last night, for the benefit of the library fund and a thoroughly enjoyable evening of terpischore entertainment was given to the guests. The committee in charge of the event supplied refreshments during the evening and other forms of indoor amusement were supplied for those who did not dance.

The interior of the clubs large auditorium was appropriately decorated for the occasion and a full orchestra furnished the program of music.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

The regular monthly meeting of the Republican County Committee was held at Elizabeth on Monday evening when many matters of a routine nature were discussed. The signs of spring were present and plans for the annual outing were announced. The G. O. P. "boom feast" will be held this year at Witzel's Grove, Saturday, August 15. Early predictions made by prominent local Republicans state there will be a great absence of booms for any office. The rank and file of Plainfield Republicans are already planning to keep this date open for the big event of the year outside of election day night, when a celebration is planned.

CAPTAIN DALL BARRED.

Curtis Dall, who was recently elected captain of the Plainfield High School tennis team, has been forbidden by the physician to play tennis. His loss will be keenly felt by the members of the team as he usually brought a victory for the aggregation in any match in which he took part. He may be able to play in a few weeks, but it is probable that he will be out for the rest of the year.

TO KEEP TAMPICO OPEN TO TRADE

Secretary Daniels Gives Fleet Orders Not to Permit Mexican Navy to Close Port.

CLEANING UP THE TOWN

American Sanitary Experts Guiding Mexicans in the Work—No Consuel Parks by Mexican Federals. clusive Proof of Execution of Sam-

Washington, May 20.—Reports that the Mexican "navy" had taken to sea again, and was about to undertake to blockade Tampico led Secretary Daniels to send orders today to Rear Admiral Mayo to prevent closing of that port. Admiral Mayo was given discretionary powers in handling the situation, but was cautioned not to employ force. It is understood that demands made by Great Britain and Holland that the Port be kept open led to the issue of the order.

The Mexican gunboats, which escaped from the Panuco river on the taking of Tampico, are said to be on their way back from Puerto Mexico to the captured town. The closing of the port would work hardship on the great oil interests in the territory along the river and would prevent also, the proper care of foreigners and Americans.

The town of Tampico is being put into good sanitary condition, according to advices and the Constitutionalists are welcoming the assistance of Americans. Sanitary experts now are on their way from Vera Cruz to assist in cleaning up the town.

Dr. Aureliano Urrutia, General Huerta's former Minister of the Interior, who fled to Vera Cruz, will sail for Galveston.

There is no conclusive proof of the execution of Private Parks by Mexican Federals and the subsequent burning of his body, Secretary Garrison said today.

MEDIATION MEETING OPENS AT NIAGARA

Delegates in Conference on Peace Plans—Length of Session in Doubt.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 20.—The mediation conference arranged by the A, B, C group of South American powers between the United States and Mexico opened this afternoon. Senors Elguero, Rabasa and Rodriguez, the three delegates of General Huerta, met Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann in the presence of the ambassador of Brazil and the ministers of Argentine and Chile in the solarium of the Clifton House, which will hereafter be known as the conference room. The meetings will continue thereafter twice a day, in the morning and in the afternoon.

No one of course can tell at this time how long the conference will last, but well informed persons in the direct entourage of the mediators agree that the arguments to be threshed out and the intricate problems to be discussed may require one month.

Another proof of the great interest which the other republics of the American continent are taking in the mediation proceedings was found in the arrival here of Senor Gonzalo S. Cordova, minister of Ecuador to the United States. Senor Cordova announced that he had been instructed by his government to proceed to the scene of the mediation conference and to be prepared to offer his good services should they be required.

The famous Church of Our Lady of Peace, built atop the rocks on the Canadian side and overlooking the falls, will probably be the scene on Sunday of a special invocation service for the successful outcome of the mediation proceedings. Father James O'Neill, rector of the church, is now making arrangements for the service, at which all the delegates to the conference are expected to be present.

DEMOCRATS PUT IT UP TO MARTINE

Senator Severely Criticized for Delay in Naming Postmaster.

Members of the Plainfield Democratic Club met in their headquarters on North avenue, last night, to discuss United State Senator Martine's action in the postoffice matter and after a heated argument in which certain methods were condemned it was unanimously decided to "put the whole thing up to the Senator." Following last night's meeting the Democratic Club, heretofore, so active on the subject, will retire from the limelight and the Senator will be thrown on his own resources.

Considerable disproval of the tactics employed by the Senator and the delay in making the appointment were expressed by members and it was the consensus of opinion among those present that too much time and energy had already been wasted on the proposition by Plainfield Democrats. It was thought likely that the club would take some action in endorsing one of the three most likely aspirants, but after sentiment had been expressed pro and con it was decided to discontinue all activity in the matter.

LOCAL DANCERS HONORED AT NEW YORK RECEPTION

ELKS HAVE SUPPLY OF HITS IN STORE

Annual Minstrel Show Promises to Be Bigger and Better Than Ever Before.

Those who enjoy first-class mintrelsy will be given their annual opportunity to enjoy an evening of mirth and music at the Plainfield theatre tonight when certain talented members of the local Elks' Club appear before the footlights as blackface comedians. A half dozen end men will disperse topical hits of the side-splitting variety from behind a veil of burnt cork and demonstrate to the public what a couple of months of rehearsing can produce in the line of entertainment.

Harry Webber and William N. Runyon, who are the promoters of the 1914 affair have acted as producers in former successes of this nature and their appearance in the same role again is an assurance in itself of the calibre of entertainment the antlered performers have in store. As is the annual custom this show presents to the public the humorous side of the city's life and the black faced artists have corralled a plentiful supply of the laugh producing stuff for tonight. It will be repeated in the theatre tomorrow night and those who intend to purchase seats will have to do so at once as the supply is fast diminishing.

TAKES GLASS OUT OF BODY AFTER BEING THERE A YEAR

A slight operation performed by Dr. W. H. Anthony has relieved Wilbert Pennington, of Liberty street, of a triangular piece of glass, fully an inch long, that has been traversing a portion of the latter's body for more than a year. While working at his trade as a carpenter in Miami, Fla., fourteen months ago, Pennington accidently broke a large window as it was being put in place. Several pieces struck him on the right knee with force enough to pass through the clothing and enter the flesh. He had them all removed by a physician, as he thought, but evidently one remnant was overlooked.

For the past few months Pennington has been troubled with sharp pains in his right thigh. They became so acute he visited Dr. Anthony's office and the physician discovered a foreign substance just under the skin. A slight incision enabled him to pull out the Nomadic piece of glass which had worked along the way from just below the knee to the point of removal.

Physicians and the public are familiar with cases where a needle has worked along in a body but the glass episode is very much of a novelty.

CONTRACTORS ARE MAKING REPAIRS TO FIRE HOUSE

Work was started yesterday on the repairs to fire headquarters on East Second street by Alexander Milne and W. C. Smith, the contractors. The plans call for the widening of two doors and the removal of one of the arches in the front portion of the structure.

The doors on the extreme east of the building are too small for the apparatus housed there and considerable difficulty has been experienced by the drivers in getting the big engines in and out of the place. The improvements will provide for several inches of space on each side of the engines as they come through the door and eliminate any possibility of delay in getting the aparatus out. During the alterations the big Knott engine and the hook and ladder are being kept in the yard of the headquarters under a canvas cover.

DISLOCATED HIS ELBOW.

ESTIMATE BOARD APPROVES BUDGET

The Sum of $109,130 Agreed Upon to Maintain Schools for the Year.

EXTRA EXPENSES CUT

Only Increase Allowed is in Salaries of Teachers Needed to Care for Big Enrollment of Children in the Fall.

The Board of School Estimate at a special session, last night, which lasted beyond midnight, finally passed on the school budget, amounting to $109,130.00, which amount will be certified to the Common Council to be incorporated in the annual tax ordinance for the coming year. This amount was agreed upon after careful consideration. The board met at the High school, with Mayor Percy H. Stewart presiding and Dr. B. Van D. Hedges acting as secretary. All of the members were present and the budget was taken up item by item and fully discussed.

It had been recognized by the Board of Education that this was not a year in which any, but the most necessary school expenses should be asked for, and so carefully had they prepared the budget that the fullest investigation by the members of the common council failed to disclose any point where the expenses could properly be cut down. The budget was accordingly passed as prepared within a dissenting vote.

The item of repairs this year is particularly low, only $6,000.00 being asked for in spite of the fact that a recent ruling of the Board of Health will throw on the schools an expense of about $1,000.00 for putting new toilets in the Lincoln School. This has been due in no small degree to the very efficient work of Ben. W. Evans during the past year who has made a record for economy as superintendent of buildings and developed an esprit de corps among the janitors which has saved the schools a lot of money in repair bills.

Many of the items in last year's budget were reduced and the only increase of any size was in the salaries of the teachers who will be needed to take care of the increased number of children entering the schools this fall, and the additional janitors required to take care of the new high school addition which Contractor Dahl is pushing to an early completion.

Linemen employed by the Public Electric Company have started the work of changing the electric lights along South Avenue so that they will follow the road since the double "S" turn was straightened. As it is now they follow the old road and are misleading to persons not familiar with its turns. It will take about a week to complete the job as the poles have to be set and the large feed cable from Cranford will have to be brought across the woods which are between the old and new road.

This place is becoming more and more of a summer village for New Yorkers. Although there is not any large body of water or any amusements people who need rest and quiet come here and spend several weeks while there are many who have summer homes and bungalows along the foot of the mountains. The "Homestead" on Martine avenue is a very popular summer resort, accommodating some three score boarders during the season. One reason that people come here during the summer is because although it is a country place the forty odd trains a day over the New Jersey Central makes it possible to commute to New York at any time of day and in three-quarters of an hour.

Stout's pair of victories registered at the expense of the fast traveling crew on the Elks' alleys last night, brought the No. 1 aggregation up to a tie on the top rung with the Waldorf pinners and the tournament race has now narrowed down to a scrap between these two rivals. Stout's players annexed the opening two games and dropped the third last night. The opening pair were unusually closely contested the first being won by fourteen pins and the second by twenty-nine markers.

The last game went to the Waldorf clan by 102 points. Waldorf's 190 set up in the final game was the high individual score of the evening.

LOCAL TEAM IN FIRST SUNDAY BALL CONTEST

South Plainfield Stars Due to Take on the Royal Colored A. C. Sunday.

Tommy Mullin's organized South Plainfield Sunday baseball club will meet the Royal A. C., of this city, in the opening contest at the village Sunday afternoon. Four auto buses have been chartered to convey the fans to and from the place and it is expected that the South Plainfield diamond will become a mecca for the baseball enthusiasts who have been crying for the Sunday pastime.

Mullin has signed some of the best ball tossers in this section of Central New Jersey to cavort about the South Plainfield lot and the local colored combination will have its hands full trying to keep in the running. Captain Mullin will play short for the team and has a quartet of hurling stars to pick from. Lou Slocum and Otto Frederickson of this city, are the most likely candidates for the opening day job while Lou Dixon, another Plainfielder, will handle the shoots at the receiving end of the battery.

Billy Coyle will hold down the keystone sack while Jack Garretson will hold the fort at first. "Tuts" Jaeger, a Plainfield youngster, will cover third. In the field will be the old reliable "Katz" Miller and several of the best outfield gardeners in this part of the State.

The colored ball tossers have been practising regularly for the opening game and expect to put the strongest colored team Plainfield has ever been represented by on the diamond. It will be composed principally of local talent.

NEW LINEUP FOR THE PUBLIC SERVICE NINE

Team Has Been Treated to a Shakeup Since Last Game —Lineup Indefinite.

The Public Service baseball team has been completely rejuvenated since the last ball game and when the aggregation takes the field on Clinton avenue Saturday afternoon against the Monroe Avenue Sunday-school Leaguers, it will be composed of many new faces. Among those enlisted in the cause are some of the stars who have performed with other teams in the city and borough in other years and the new material has added considerable strength to the gas workers combination.

Among the most prominent of those who recently signified their intention of geting back into the sport in Public Service uniforms are Jack Fritts, formerly of the Plainfield baseball team; Compton, formerly of the Rushmore team in the Manufacturers League, and Eddie Montross, another Manufacturer League performer of two years ago. The remainder of the team has also been trying for the open berths on the nine and many of the former players will retain their positions in the infield and outfield. Schroeter and several others are among the remaining.

Saturday is an off day for Monroe Avenue in the league race and as a result the independent game has been booked with the Public Service clan.

SOPHS DEFEAT SENIORS IN CLOSE CLASS GAME

The sophomore class team of the Plainfield High School Interclass League defeated the senior class team yesterday afternoon, on Parker Field, by the score of 5 to 4. The game was closely contested throughout and it was not until the last man was out in the ninth inning that the winner was decided. Both teams' pitchers were in fine form, Mann, of the sophomores, allowing four hits and Lounsbury and Cottrell, of the seniors, five hits. The feature of the game was Lounsbury's steal home in the ninth inning.

The seniors big stanza was the sixth, when they scored three runs, but fell one run short of tying the sophomores.

MUNICIPAL PROGRESS IN NEW JERSEY

Senator Hennessy's Topic for People's Forum a Popular One.

State Senator Hennessy, who will make an address at the meeting of the People's Forum on Thursday, was the author of the bill to enlarge the use of the schools as social centers at the session two years ago. In his work for this bill he was encouraged by members of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and by Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, who was interested in the measure while her father was yet governor of the State. It seems especially appropriate that the author of the bill providing for the opening of the schools for such purposes should be enthusiastically welcomed at a Forum meeting in a Plainfield school. These open discussions of civic questions were instituted this winter in this town by a special committee of the Public Recreation Committee and bid fair to become a more and more useful and valuable department of the work.

Senator Hennessy has an interesting article in the American City for May, on Municipal Progress in New Jersey. This will be the general topic on Thursday evening. As the editor of the American City says, "He is well known through his service for two years in the lower house of the New Jersey legislature as a consistent promoter of legislation to enlarge the powers of municipalities. He was the author this year of Senate bills to simplify and enlarge the power of municipal government municipalities." The bill that has attracted more attention than any other passed at the last session was known as the Hennessy Home Rule Act. The constitutionality of this law is now being tested in the courts. If it is sustained it will give to commission government municipalities in New Jersey the largest measure of home rule enjoyed by any municipality in the East.

Thursday's meeting will be held in the Washington School, Darrow avenue and Fourth street, at 8 p. m. Local democrats will be especially interested in this meeting. Mayor Percy H. Stewart will preside.

WOMAN'S ASS'N HAD PROSPEROUS YEAR

Mrs. C. L. Goodrich Elected President of Congregational Society.

The election of officers, presentation of encouraging reports comprised the chief business at the annual meeting of the Woman's Association of the Congregational church, held in the parish house, yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of members and considerable interest shown in the work of the society, and especially in the reading of the reports. The treasurer's report showed total receipts of $1,123.18, which was most gratifying, and the secretary's report showed a lively interest in all activities.

The nominating committee presented the following report, the officers being elected unanimously: President, Mrs. C. L. Goodrich, vice-president, Mrs. H. F. Hubbard; recording secretary, Mrs. Thomas F. Hylan; treasurer, Mrs. Philip Suffern; corresponding secretary Mrs. Charles A. Rice.

The following heads of committees were named:

Program, Mrs. John M. Whiton; music, Miss Elsie Suffern; afternoon teas, Mrs. Frank A. Weeks; entertainment, Miss Jessie McIntosh; house, Mrs. A. C. La Boyteaux; communion service, Mrs. Alonzo Weseman; literature, publicity, Mrs. C. L. Goodrich; Missionary magazine, Mrs. S. W. Dunning; choir vestments, Mrs. A. N. Nielsen; junior lookout, Mrs. D. Foster Updyke; golden and gift committee, Mrs. J. M. Whiton, Mrs. L. B. Morgan, Miss Margaret Weseman; work committee Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. Harold, Mrs. F. A. Weeks, Mrs. Joseph Fuller, Miss Ethel Millar, Miss Bessie Millar, Miss Jessie Millar.

Following the business there was an exhibition of work by the primary department of the Sunday-school, under the direction of the superintendent Mrs. D. Foster Updyke. During the past year Mrs. Updyke has been giving a five minute talk to the department each Sunday and the children have collected and made many articles which were exhibited yesterday.

PUBLIC BAND CONCERTS.

Plainfield has an excellent amateur band in the Dutch Arms organization of Trinity Reformed church. The strides made by the musicians in the few months that it has been in existence have been remarkable, and its fame has spread beyond the borders of the city. At Atlantic City, where they accompanied a local fraternal organization last week, they received high praise, both for their appearance in the parade, and for the music provided.

With such an organization in the city it should not be a great problem to arrange for free public concerts during the coming summer. With encouragement from the city officials and perhaps for a very small fee, none of which would go to the members of this organization as individuals, provision could probably be made for many delightful evenings of entertainment for those of our residents who seldom get a chance to enjoy good music. Nearly every city in the country has its public band concerts in the heated months, and there is no reason why Plainfield should not do the same thing.

Directly intended to lend a moment of pleasure and recreation to those who seldom get it because of inability to pay, such a movement would be closely allied to all that go to make up the human welfare of the people, and the community welfare which makes better citizens. The matter is well worth a little investigation and serious thought, for few methods offer a better opportunity to brighten and lighten the lives of the city's least fortunate. It is safe to predict that the members of the band would meet the recreation committee or any other civic body, more than half way in completing arrangements.

NATIONAL GOOD ROADS DAY.

Resolutions asking President Wilson to set aside a day by proclamation to be known as a National Good Roads Day, when everyone throughout the nation will be expected to abandon regular tasks to spend a day working on the highways of the country, were adopted a few days ago by the National Old Trails Road Association meeting in Indianapolis, Ind. It is proposed to conduct the national road holiday after the fashion of state good roads days which have proven remarkably successful in a dozen different states during the last twelve months.

The action taken by the National Old Trails organization is the first official step by those favoring a National Good Roads Day, which already has the endorsement of several governors and is attracting the united attention of good roads advocates over the country. From the Old Trails convention, it is to be laid before other national conventions interested either directly or indirectly in good roads.

The benefits of a National Good Roads Day are three—the work actually accomplished during such a day on the roads everywhere without a cent's cost; the publicity given the good roads movement by such a holiday in which the pepole personally indulge, and the better feeling of fraternity resulting between farmers and the city people when they work side by side for a single purpose.

It is estimated that something like half a billion dollars worth of work would be done on the roads on such a national holiday. The figures are based upon the actual work accomplished in states which have had such days set apart for road work. This immense amount of work would be in the way of repairs, maintenance or new work, systematically conducted under supervision of the regular township, county or state road officials. Work, implements and teams would be donated and the only cost would be for material used.

The project of a National Good Roads Day has so many good qualities and offers such great possibilities that it merits success and is promised it.

---

Whether or not the picture play stopped by the Mayor on Monday was bad morally, it was based on a filthy and obscene book, and undoubtedly hundreds would have been attracted to see it because of it's title. No attempts should be made in a city like Plainfield to cater to the depraved mind that will be drawn by such exhibitions.

WANT WIDOWS' CASES HEARD IN PRIVATE

Newark Conference Adopts Resolutions Favoring Such Action.

A conference to discuss the Act to Promote Home Life for Dependent Children, commonly called Widows' Pensions, was held at the Public Library, Newark, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander, President of the New Jersey State Board of Children's Guardians was chairman of the meeting and representatives were present from Charity Organization Societies and Children's Aid Societies all over the State. Miss Phillips represented the Charity Organization Society of Plainfield. A very interesting discussion took place regarding the provisions of the Act and the co-operation of Charity Organization Societies was pledged to the State Board of Children's Guardians in this work.

A resolution was passed stating that it was the sense of the conference that the hearings of widows' cases should be held previously and not in full court as is customary in most counties at present and that publicity regarding these hearings should be limited to the spurious and unworthy applications under the Act. The meeting felt that it was an injustice to a worthy and self respecting widow to publish her name and circumstances as the whole purpose of the Act is to maintain the widow's self respect.

It was realized, however, that when a widow applied who could afford to maintain her family or had relatives in a position to assist her and the court refused her application that publicity should be given to the facts so that the county and State should know that the resources were not being imposed upon. The delegates present were asked to give publicity to the resolutions passed.

GAVE INTERESTING TALK ON MEXICO

Lecturer Exhibited Many Views of the Conditions in the War Section.

Thomas Wilbor, for twelve years a resident of Mexico and an eye-witness to the bombardment of Mexico City, delivered an interesting talk on his personal experiences in Mexico before an appreciative audience in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, last night, illustrating his talk with numerous stereopticon views. The lecturer gave a vivid description of the scene of turmoil and kept his listeners interested from start to finish.

The views thrown on the screen were of exceptional interest to the audience coming at a time when the Mexican situation is a current topic of discussion. The slides depicted the bombardment of Mexico City, showing the methods of fighting employed by the "snipers" and the maneuvers of the American forces in the harbor.

WALTER P. SWAIN WEDS MISS BARLOW

Ceremony Performed by Rev. George H. Hubbard at Enfield, Mass.

Miss Alice R. Barlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Barlow, of Enfield, Mass., and formerly a teacher in the North Plainfield public schools, and Walter P. Swain, son of Philip Swain, of the borough, were married yesterday afternoon in the church at Enfield by Rev. George H. Hubbard, of Wellesley Hill, Mass., a former pastor of the bride.

Miss Barlow was gowned in white charmeuse, trimmed with shadow lace. She wore a tulle veil with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She also wore a crescent of pearls, the gift of the groom. Miss Arline Barlow, a sister, was the maid of honor. She wore white shadow lace over pink taffeta, with shadow lace trimmings. Miss Stella Swain, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid, and her gown was similar to that of the maid of honor. Both wore black hats and carried apple blossoms.

The best man was Henry M. Barlow, of New York, and the ushers were Dr. B. F. Leonard and Raymond Dickerson, of this city; James Hageman, of New York, and Seth Barlow, of Sprinfield, Mass., a brother of the bride. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Amanda W. Ewing, organist of the church.

After the ceremony a reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where a large number of relatives and friends gathered to congratulate the couple and enjoy the hospitality of the host and hostess at an elaborate supper. The bride received a large collection of handsome and costly gifts. After a wedding trip the couple will make their home in this city. Mr. Swain is associated with his father, Philip Swain, in the art goods business on West Front street and both he and his wife have a large acquaintance here.

INTERCLASS EVENTS TO START TOMORROW

Plainfield High School Athletes Will Get Into Action on Parker Field.

According to announcements coming from Alfred Day, manager of the Plainfield High School track team, the annual interclass athletic meet of the school will be started on Porker Field tomorrow afternoon and will be concluded with a second session of competition on Friday afternoon. It was necessary to establish a precedent this year by making the meet a two-day affair because of the fact that the freshmen do not get out of school before 4 oclock, and there are several of the lower classmen who are planning to compete in the various events.

The events will be open to every youth in the school and the principal object of the meet is to single out the most promising talent to represent the school in the annual field and track carnival of the Union County Athletic Association to be held on Pingry Oval, Elizabeth, May 30. There will be no entry fees attached and the class scoring the highest number of points will be awarded a point banner.

The meet will commence at 4 o'clock and there will be eleven events—the 100 yard dash, junior and senior; the 220 yard dash, the 440 yard and 880 yard runs, the pole vault, high jump, broad jump, mile run, mile relay and shotput.

BAND AT AUCTION SALE.

The Dutch Arms Concert Band paraded through the business section of the city this afternoon in the interests of the auction sale of real estate which opened at Hudson Terrace, the borough, today. The sale is to continue through Saturday afternoon.

FREEHOLDERS TO MEET COMMISSION

Tentative Plans for Bridge and Twin Tunnels to Be Discussed.

Representatives of the Boards of Freeholders of the counties of Hudson, Bergen, Essex, Passaic and Union, will meet for a conference with the New Jersey Inter-State Bridge and Tunnel Commission at the latter's office, 115 Broadway, New York city, tomorrow afternoon. There will be an informal discussion, during which the tentative plans for the construction of a bridge across the Hudson river and twin vehicular traffic tunnels beneath it connecting New York and New Jersey will be taken up.

In the invitation sent to the Freeholders the Commission made it perfectly plain that the conference would in no way bind their counties to join in putting into effect the provisions of Chapter No. 245, of the Laws of this year, by which a bridge and tunnel commission appointed by the Governor is made public. The Commission desires to meet the Freeholders for the sole purpose of canvassing the situation, and the ready responses from the five Boards show the interest they are taking in the matter.

Estimates made by expert engineers on bridge and tunnel construction place the entire cost of a bridge and twin tunnels at $53,000,000, of this $42,000,000 going for the bridge, its approaches, etc., and $11,000,000 for the tunnels. It is planned to have the five northern counties of New Jersey already named to bear one-half of this expense, the other half to be borne by New York.

Under Section 5 of the Act passed by the New Jersey Legislature this year it is provided that, should the work of construction be eventually begun, the total cost to the counties taking it up shall not exceed to each three per cent. of the tax rateables of the real and personal property of such counties for the last preceding year. Using this as a tentative basis and without attempting to arrive at official figures an estimate of the total cost to each has been reached using the assessed valuation of 1914 as a basis.

The total cost to the five counties, it is believed, would be, approximately, $26,500,000, and a proportionate share to be assessed on each of the counties is given as follows:

Hudson—Valuation $527,948,180; bridge, $8,000,000; tunnels, $2,000,000—total $10,000,000.

Essex—Valuation $606,478,552; bridge, $6,000,000; tunnels, $1,500,000—total $7,500,000.

Bergen—Valuation $140,729,673; bridge, $4,000,000; tunnels, $1,000,000—total $5,000,000.

Passaic—Valuation $176,183,742; bridge, $2,000,000; tunnels, $500,000—total $2,500,000.

Union—Valuation $158,761,263; bridge, $1,000,000; tunnels, $500,000—total $1,500,000.

COLONEL BACK; DENIES REPORTS

Repudiates Alleged Interview on 1916 Candidacy.

IS STILL WEAK FROM TRIP

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 20.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt arrived from the South American jungle, still weak from fever and limping from injuries received on the River of Doubt, which he and his party "put on the map of South America." Although he was not wholly well and showed the strain, there was the same snap in his talk and the same set of the jaw as he paid his respects immediately to the remarks of Secretary of State Bryan and of Henry Savage-Landor, the British critic of the colonel's potamology.

The colonel walked with a cane and had a noticeable limp on account of abscesses. His complexion was yellow, due partly to tropical sun and partly to malarial fever.

His first word was to repudiate the "interview" published a few days ago under a Barbados date line wherein he was alleged to have said, "If I run in 1916 it must be upon a Progressive platform which must be indorsed by the Republicans."

"I never said anything like that. I never mentioned 1916 at all," declared the colonel.

"You were also quoted as saying you would not run for governor next fall, colonel."

"That's right," he shot out. "Nobody's asked me to run."

"And if any one asks you to run?"

No Criticism of Wilson—Yet.

"Then I'll tell 'em no. Now, I can't answer any questions. I know nothing about the political situation."

He was next questioned as to whether he had criticised President Wilson's administration on account of its Mexican policy.

"No," the colonel snapped. "I have not. I have expressed myself in regard to the Panama canal situation and the Colombia treaty, but that is all."

"Colonel, Mr. Bryan has said in reference to the report of your discovery of a new tribe in Brazil that you regard any person who has not heard of you as belonging to an unknown race."

The colonel clicked his teeth and drew in his breath.

"Well," he bit off, "did he say that as an interlude between the trombone solo and the yodlers?"

"We have had stirring times, I tell you," he added. "It is an extraordinary thing to put on the map a river as long as the Rhine."

Collector Malone called attention to Henry Savage-Landor's criticism of the colonel's geography. The lower lip curled and the teeth clicked again.

Sarcasm For Savage-Landor.

"When I am accused of inaccuracy by Savage-Landor then iron does enter into my soul."

Colonel Roosevelt had a chill, but according to physicians that was to be expected as a consequence of malarial fever. As to the condition of his health the colonel said:

"I was pretty sick, but I'm worth several dead men yet. I had jungle fever and malaria. The boils bothered me some, but they're pretty nearly well now.

"I have offered to talk before the National Geographic society at Washington next week and tell them about my trip. At that time I will answer any question that any reputable man with any knowledge of geography may wish to ask about it."

Mme. Nordica's Body on Way.

Batavia, May 20.—The body of Mme. Nordica left here on the steamship Van Cloon.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

Queries, Comment and Answers

D. W. M.—Your letter concerns matters about which it would be best to consult a lawyer. We cannot advise you in the matter through the columns of the Daily Press.—Sporting Ed.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When was the present Home Rule bill introduced into the English parliament? When was the anti-home rule demonstration by Ulstermen at Dublin? What is the situation concerning Home Rule at present? K. R. P.

Answer—The present home rule bill was introduced into the parliament in 1911 and has twice passed the house of commons in 1912 and 1913, to be rejected both times by the lords. Under the British laws any bills other than a money bill, that has been passed by the commons three times in three successive years, shall on the third occasion receive the royal assent and become a law.

The anti-home rule demonstration was held November 4, 1913.

The situation now is that if the bill passes the commons at the third session it becomes a law, or that a settlement of some kind will be effected before the bill passes. Sir Edward Carson, the leader of the Unionists, claim to have 100,000 volunteers and threatens to resist its operation and set up a provisional government to administer the affairs of Ulster while the Nationalists on their part claim to have 45 per cent. of the total population of Ulster.

Sporting Editor:

Query.—Does the Western Union use the old wire that is taken from the poles? For instance, that blown down during the recent storm. Or is it sold for junk? V. F. R.

Answer—The wire is melted over again and used by the Western Union in restringing the poles.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Would like to know if a party has left some money and jewelry in a friend's house for safe keeping and somebody has gotten away with all of it who would be responsible for the loss? N. D. L.

Answer—Your question is not clear and the best thing for you to do is to consult a lawyer.

PRINCETON GAME CANCELED.

Manager Charles Beckman, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, has canceled the game with Princeton High School that was to be played at that place tomorrow. The boroughites go to New Brunswick today and two long trips in two days was thought too much for the team. The local team owes Rutgers "Prep" a return game and so this one was called off. North Plainfield has never met Princeton in athletics and the players are disappointed at not getting a crack at the college city aggregation.

MRS. BLUMENTHAL FIRST.

Mrs. Henry Blumenthal, Fairview Club, yesterday won the one-day tournament of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association at the North Jersey Country Club Paterson. Her card was 98—8—90. Mrs. Lawrence Swift, the association secretary, took the gross prize with 97.

RAHWAY LOSES CLOSE ONE.

Orange Park was the scene of an interesting baseball contest yesterday afternoon between the Orange and Rahway High School teams, Orange winning by the close score of 3 to 2. For seven innings Pitcher E. Durand blanked the Orange team but in the last two innings the Orange lads scored enough runs to win by a one run margin.

PENN.—W. VIRGINIA LEAGUE.

McKeesport, Pa., May 20.—The new Pennsylvania-West Virginia baseball league began its first season today, with games scheduled in Connellsville, Clarksburg and this city. Connellsville had Uniontown as an opponent, while Fairmont appeared at Clarksburg and Charleroi in McKeesport. The scheduled agreed upon by the magnates calls for a season of 100 games, closing September 7.

TENNIS TITLE PLAY FINISHED AT P. H. S.

Winners Will Receive Trophies and Represent Red and Blue.

The final matches in the girls' tennis championship tournament of the Plainfield High School were played yesterday afternoon. The doubles title was won by Miss Esther Phillips and Miss Florence Alpaugh. They defeated Miss Florence Nielsen and Miss Dorothy Butler in two straight sets.

The semi-finals and finals in the singles championship were also played yesterday afternoon. In the semi-finals Miss Lillian Fountain defeated Miss Marion Blanchard two sets out of three.

Miss Fountain then played Miss Philips for the singles championship of the school. Miss Philips won two straight sets. A cup will be presented to Miss Esther Phillips by the Girls' Athletic Association for her victory in the singles. Miss Philips and Miss Alpaugh will receive medals for their victory in the doubles matches.

Miss Philips will represent Plainfield High School in tennis singles against South Orange this afternoon and Miss Philips and Miss Alpaugh will cross raquets with South Orange in doubles.

The summary of matches played yesterday afternoon follows:

The Misses Alpaugh and Philips defeated the Misses Nielsen and Butler, 6-1, 6-3.

Miss Fountain defeated Miss Blanchard, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Miss Philips defeated Miss Fountain, 6-3, 6-0.

LUYSTER A LEADER.

"Flick" Luyster, who played with the Plainfield Pets last fall, leads the Lawrence team in fielding with a percentage of 1,000. Luyster also heads in three-base hits. Frank Bruggy is batting .226 and Luyster .219. Bruggy's fielding average is .920.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

The bitter feeling that has cropped out between the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools following the regrettable incidents during the interscholastic league game last Saturday afternoon have caused many to fear for the safety of interscholastic competition in the future. The feeling that has come to the surface is one of the bitterest animosity and seems to be centered around individuals. It is to be regretted that conditions of this nature exist among schoolboys, especially between forces that have heretofore been friendly rivals in all branches of athletic and social endeavor, and the faculty of the respective institutions should take a hand in quelling the disorder. The need for some timely move is urgent and unless the two factions get together and settle their differences there will undoubtedly be a lull in the competitions so dear to the heart of everyone connected with the Plainfield and North Plainfield institutions. For some time past there has been a noticeable degree of hard feeling exhibited, but nothing serious came to the top until Saturday afternoon when a near riot was staged on Parker Field. Each side has its supporters and to take any definite stand in the matter would be folly on our part. We have been approached by leaders of both schools to advocate a settlement and take this opportunity of placing the circumstances before those interested. It would be mere folly for us to side with one school or the other as in our estimation one is as much at fault as the other.

The way that Plainfield High School tennis team is cleaning up this year indicates that the court game has entered the local institution's sporting department as a pretty healthy infant. Although this is the first season when interscholastic competition has been tried by the local schoolboys, they have started off by taking the measure of many old hands and if the youngsters representing the red and blue continue in their present form indications are that Plainfield will have a State champion in a new line of athletics. Trimming such rivals as Montclair and Battin High Schools is no mean accomplishment and the fosterers of the tennis move in P. H. S. are to be congratulated on the manner in which they have inaugurated the sport.

What has become of all these feminine baseball teams that somebody was talking about a month or so ago? As is their annual custom the High School maidens come to the fore with the announcement that they will enter the field of masculine sporting endeavor, but when the time comes for real action the girls are among those who have sent in their regrets. Although we fear the result of such competition among the feminine sex we would like to see them put their threats into action once in a while. There's a whole lot of difference between playing "catch" and executing the "hook-slide."

It's pretty nearly time someone came to the fore with a prediction concerning the outcome of the Sunday School League race this year. With only three contenders the dopesters' work will not be so difficult this season and after the first round of play has been rolled off we expect to hear from some of the wise guys. For our part we predict that either Hope Chapel, Monroe or First Baptist will win the title barring injuries or bankruptcy.

Plainfield will open the baseball season for semi-pros on Parker Field Saturday afternoon according to Chief Mogul Dorflinger. The personnel of his outfit is yet a mystery and those who have followed the diamond frolic since "father was a boy" are trying to dope out just how the Plainfield promoter is going to place a representative fighting force on the battle ground without a preliminary tryout. It seems to be a case of wait and see for the hungry fans.

And our home bred ball tossers are trying to figure out where they come in on the tryouts for our representative ball nine.

Moral—If you want to play semi-pro baseball go to Dunellen, Bound Brook, Scotch Plains, Somerville or in fact any old place, only don't stick around the Queen City or you will become mired in some of its mud.

While Plainfield High School has been able to reap a harvest in its interscholastic battles on Parker Field this year North Plainfield has been "up against it" as the result of the horde of spongers who take to Hyde Oval in a natural manner and are barred when they reach the gates of Parker Field. There are some people who "wouldn't give a nickle to see an earthquake" and it seems unfair to see one team pulling in all the loose change and a worthy rival running around half starved. Inasmuch as baseball has become recognized as a financial proposition we might suggest that these local league games be settled up on a fifty-fifty basis.

Have you had occasion to lamp Jack Martin's signature in the Boston Braves' lineup? Playing for Deal on the difficult cushion Jack is fooling them all into believing that he is a genuine Georgia Peach. Go to it Jack, as long as you're getting a "Deal" it's all right.

And Morris Brokaw is still contending that it is more profitable to warm the bench and let someone else be buffeted around in the umpire's box. There's little difference between officiating and criticising the official when the coin rolls in anyway. Yougottagivehimcredit for getting away with the Federal stuff.

ROD AND REEL

Shedder crabs are beginning to arrive in the market. They make good bait for eels, but it is expensive feeding to the wrigglers.

A few kingfish have been caught in the surf at Belmar since the warm wave struck in. Channel bass will next be heard from along the shore at Corson's Inlet.

When a man can catch a hundred pounds of fish in two hours with a handline the fishing must be good. One local fisherman did that yesterday while fishing from one of the Sheepshead Bay boats.

The pickerel fishing season opened yesterday morning and, while it is something, it is not the real sport that comes with the opening of the fresh-water bass season on June 15. Pickerel is a dispised fish in many States, but we of New Jersey think considerable of it, as it has furnished food and sport for many people for years. The only reason that the opening day has not been boosted is because of the damage done to the bass between today and June 15. Many anglers refuse to fish at all until the bass season opens, but they will be in the minority this year, as the boys are just itching for a chance to get off for a day and wet a line.

Greenwood Lake, Lake Hopatcong, Budd Lake and Green Pond have been especially popular with the anglers. Branch Brook Lake, in Newark, which was stocked well last year with pickerel, has also been a mecca.

Water closets without vent from crown of bend are not allowed more than four feet from a ventilating soil pipe. All additional closets over four feet from ventilating soil pipe shall have a two inch vent.

(q) No safe under any fixture shall be provided with any drip, waste, or notice pipe. The waste pipe from refrigerators shall in no case be connected directly with any soil or waste pipe or with any drain or sewer, but must in all cases discharge into a receptacle properly trapped before entering sewer.

(r) The connection of sediment pipes from kitchen boilers with the sewer is prohibited.

(s) Water closets must never be placed in an unventilated room or compartment. In every case the compartment must be open to the outer air or be ventilated by means of a shaft or air duct with an area of not less than 144 square inches. Water closets will not be permitted in cellars unless ventilated as above.

(t) All water closets within the house, of a type requiring a tank, must be supplied with water from a separate tank or cistern, the water of which is used for no other purpose. Provision shall be made for amply flushing each closet whenever used. A group of closets on the same floor may be supplied from one tank. Water closets that do not contain a sufficient amount of water to cover the center of the bowl with an area of water at least six inches in diameter are prohibited, also pan and plunger closets.

(u) All outside water closets shall be supplied with water and so arranged as to be conveniently and adequately flushed and all water supply pipes and traps of such water closets must be protected from freezing. The compartment of such water closets must be properly ventilated.

(v) Earthen or iron water closets or slop sinks having traps above the floor, using lead connections must have a brass floor flange not less than an eighth of an inch thick, soldered to the lead bend and bolted to the trap or slop sink, the joint made air-tight with red lead putty.

(x) Rain water leaders must never connect with sewer pipe, nor be used as soil, waste or vent pipe, nor shall any soil, waste or vent pipe be used as a leader.

(y) No steam exhaust, blow-off, or drip pipe from a steam boiler, engine, or radiator, shall connect directly or indirectly with the sewer.

(z) No person shall place or deposit in any water closet, or waste, soil or ventilating pipe, refuse materials, large pieces of paper or other substances likely to clog the pipe or trap.

(aa) All pipes provided for in this article shall be measured by their inside diameter, and all measurements given in this article shall refer to inside diameters.

(bb) All lead pipes and bends provided for in this article must be of the same thickness and weight as their corresponding pipe branches.

Sec. No. 10. In cases where a building is found to be in an unsanitary condition through defective plumbing or otherwise, the directions of the Board of Health concerning changes and repairs shall be complied with within such reasonable time as may be designated, under a penalty of ten dollars a day thereafter until such work is done, not exceeding one hundred dollars in any one conviction.

Sec. No. 11. Any person who fails to comply with, or who violates or offends against any provision of this article or any section thereof, shall on conviction, pay a penalty of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each and every offense.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

AN EFFECTIVE DESIGN FOR USE ON A SERVING-TABLE-COVER

14527 14478

Nothing mars or improves the aspect of a room so quickly as does the condition of the covers used on the tables, side-board and bureau. They should always be kept fresh to maintain the neat tidy appearance.

Fine white round-thread linen is appropriate for making a serving-table-cover like the one illustrated here. The conventional flowered border is from transfer pattern 14527, which contains two designs for lingerie pillows for 15 cents. This border is one and one-half inches wide and may be developed in heavily padded solid work and eyelets, combined, or used separately. Fine white mercerized cotton should be used in developing this design for both the flowered border and the scalloped edge.

The scallops are from pattern 14478, which contains six yards and four corners of one-half-inch wide border for ten cents. This pattern may be used for finishing the edges of small household linens, underwear, neckwear, and children's clothes. The scallops should be firmly padded with either a running-stitch or chain-stitch. The padding should be done close together so as to make an even foundation for the covering.

There are many times when one wishes to use scalloped borders on curved lines, as for finishing the neck of a garment or collar. This may be done very easily by clipping the paper on both sides of the design, close to the pattern itself. The transfer pattern should be basted along the outline of the desired curve, spreading the paper on the outside curve and overlapping the clipped sections on the inside.

Guaranteed hot-iron transfer patterns will be supplied to readers upon the receipt of price.

Some Cookery Suggestions

WHEN TROUT IS AVAILABLE.

TROUT is at its very best now, and lovers of this delicious fish are happy. Some simple ways of preparing trout are suggested here:

With a Piquant Sauce.

Boiled Trout.—Prepare fish as for baking. If an oblong kettle is at hand, lay the fish on a small old platter. If it must be cooked in a round kettle use a plate and curve the fish by tying a broad band of muslin around it. Now slip a piece of cheesecloth or clean muslin under the plate and tie or pin into a loop. Through this slide a long handled spoon or a stick, which must rest on the sides of the kettle and keep the fish hanging under the water, but so as not to touch the bottom. The kettle must be large enough to have the fish well immersed and the water be boiling briskly, one tablespoonful of salt for about six cupfuls of water, and either one spoonful of vinegar or two slices of lemon can be added. This makes the flesh firm. Allow about ten minutes for each pound. Test as for baking after lifting from the kettle. If the flesh does not flake easily apart return it once more. Serve with piquant sauce.

Highly Seasoned Fish.

Spanish Trout.—Scale the trout and remove the head. Then split and remove the center bone. Cut away the small bones along the edge on top of the fish. Wash and dry between pieces of cheesecloth. The fish must never remain in the water after it has been scaled and washed. Brush a bake pan with drippings, put the fish in, skin side down. Pour over the sauce and bake in a hot oven twenty minutes.

To make the sauce take one cupful of tomatoes, one large tablespoonful of cut onion, one teaspoonful of salt, a dash of white pepper, a dash of paprika, a small bayleaf, three whole cloves, three whole allspice, one teaspoonful of cornstarch, one tablespoonful of dripping or butter, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley and one tablespoonful of caramel. Put the drippings and onion in the pan and cook until the onion is tender, not brown. Add the tomatoes and seasonings and cook ten minutes. If the tomatoes are firm add one-half cupful of water. Strain, then add the parsley and the cornstarch, wet with a little cold water. Cook one minute, then pour over the fish.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Colony Of Starlings Give a Ball.

They Took Little Flying Trips.

THE birds gave concerts early every morning and sometimes, too, they would give an extra one just after the sun went down in the afternoon. Jack and Evelyn loved to hear the birds sing, and they told daddy that they were really learning to know the various songs of the different birds.

"I have meant for some time," said daddy, "to tell you a story about a ball the starlings gave some time ago. Now the starlings are not singers. They can only chirp and twitter, but they love music and enjoy hearing all the other birds. They are great friends with the robins, and when they suggested giving a ball the robins were at once ready to help them with it."

"I don't believe we know what starlings are. We may have seen them and not have known what they were," said Jack.

"Starlings," continued daddy, "are about the same size as robins. They are black, or they appear to be black. In reality their feathers look different colors in different lights. But they usually appear black as, of course, they don't come so very near to people. They are not nearly so tame as the robins. They have yellow beaks. And another thing about them is that they are very fond of their own kind. They travel always in huge flocks, for they all love to be together.

"But to continue about the ball. The starlings said that they would love to give a party, and the robins thought it was an excellent plan.

"So invitations were sent out to all the other birds around. And they all accepted with great pleasure.

"Ever so many were invited. There were the chickadees, the song sparrows, the chipping sparrows, the orioles, the thrushes and even the catbirds were asked.

"Of course great preparations were made for the ball. The robins said that they would give the music, for, of course, the starlings couldn't have a ball without music.

"And you should have seen the birds dancing. They danced until they were completely out of breath. The robins sang lovely waltzes and they whistled for the jigs.

"Then, when the starlings thought that their guests had had enough of the dancing, they suggested that they should all have some supper. They had their supper served in little moss cups for each bird, and it did taste so good out of such a dainty, pretty cup."

"I suppose they had little worms, didn't they?" asked Evelyn.

"Yes, indeed," said daddy, "but that is what they think is delicious."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

The Paterson league has been most successful of late. At the National Suffrage Association rally given in Paterson with the league's valuable assistance, $300 was cleared; half of this goes to the campaign States, the other half will be given to New Jersey for summer work at the various resorts.

The suffrage shop run by the league for one week before Suffrage Day proved so successful that the league will open such shops from time to time in different parts of the city. Since February last this league has distributed about ten thousand suffrage flyers.

Through the courtesy of the editor of the Passaic Daily News, the Passaic Equal Suffrage League and the W. P. U. of Passaic, will edit a special suffrage edition of that newspaper on Saturday, June 6. Mrs. A. Swan Brown, president of the Equal Suffrage League, is to be editor-in-chief and Mrs. Elbert McCleese, of the Woman's Political Union, will be assistant editor.

The Bound Brook Equal Suffrage League will give a tea at the Country Club tomorrow afternoon. There will be music, a short talk on suffrage and then—sociability.

Mrs. C. B. Seabury has been elected chairman of the publicity committee of the Boonton Equal Suffrage League.

Lewis Dawson received the first prize of three dollars, offered by the Boonton Suffrage League to pupils of the school for the best suffrage essay. Other prize winners were the Misses Jane Wilson, Mary E. Wilson, Francis Weinard, Edith Mallaby and Gladys Davies.

At the annual meeting the DeHart Equal Suffrage League, of Jersey City, elected the following officers: President, Miss Margaret L. MacNaughton; first vice-president, Mrs. James J. Billington; second vice president, Miss Cornelia Bradford; recording secretary, Miss Helen Hamilton; financial secretary, Miss Barbara MacGowan; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frederick T. Kellers; treasurer, Mrs. F. A. Hoar; auditor, William H. Richardson. The work of the retiring president, Mrs. Charles L. Garrick was warmly commended and a vote of thanks extended to her for all she has done for the suffrage cause.

The Madison Equal Suffrage League is about to begin a house-to-house canvas of the town of Madison.

The Elizabeth Equal Suffrage League has engaged a speaker for street meetings during part of the month of June under this leadership canvassing will be done; later in the month and during the summer street meetings will be conducted by members of the league.

At a recent anti-suffrage meeting in Elizabeth, Miss Lucy Price referred to political corruption in Colorado: The newspaper report of Miss Price's remarks was forwarded to Senator Shafroth by Mrs. R. S. Huse, press chairman of the Elizabeth Suffrage League, who has received the following from the former Governor of Colorado:

United States Senate,
"Washington, D. C.,
"May 7, 1914

"Mrs. R. S. Huse,
"Elizabeth, N. J.

"Dear Madam:

"I am in receipt of your letter enclosing a clipping which says that 'there is no State in the Union politically more corrupt than Colorado yet it has been woman suffrage for twenty-three years.'

"That statement is absolutely unfounded. Whatever corruption exists there is by virtue of men politicians instead of women.

"I enclose you a presentation I made before the Senate committee some time ago, which describes the situation in Colorado.

"With best wishes, I am
"Yours truly,
"JOHN F. SHAFROTH."

THE FORUM

ANTIS MUST BE GUARDED.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:—

In my letter of May 6th, I "had ma doots" that Mr. G. M. Puller was a "Government Statistician," and Mrs. Goodwin, of Westfield, explains that he "is not directly in the employ of the government, but in the employ of the Anti-Suffrage Association," which not only corrects Miss R. A. Lawrence, but is a distinction with a decided difference. I did not question his statistical "facts" which are within the reach of all students, but the facts, and the arguments deduced therefrom were so inextricably confused that no reader could tell what belonged to the "Government Statistician" and what to the local authority, but now that we know that both emanated from the anti camp we can give them proper credit, and as I anticipated in my last letter, take them for what they are worth.

It is interesting to note that in the Congressional Rcord of May 13th, Hon. J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, printed in the "Record" "upon the request of Mrs. George B. Puller" practically the same article "by Miss Mary B. Smith" who gives no credit to Mr. Puller for fact or fancy.

In the Puller-Lawrence-Smith article we have the following about Pasadena: "For many years—in fact, practically for its entire history—had been a dry city, but soon after women were given the franchise (note the date) the sale of liquor was legalized." The California women got the vote in 1912; now hear what the commissioners of that fair city have to say about liquor selling there. They write me by their Secretary, and it is confirmed by frequent visits::

"Pasadena has no saloons, and has not had for years. About three and a half years ago two amendments were submitted to the people; one to allow the large hotels and restaurants to serve liquors with meals, and during certain hours only, the other to prohibit the sale of liquors at all. The latter was defeated. When application for a license is presented to the City Commissioners the matter is investigated carefully before the license is issued, and if the ordinance is not complied with, the license is revoked. The streets of Pasadena are free from intoxicated persons. There is probably no city the size of Pasadena where the betterment of the city, etc. Very truly yours, Anna M. McGrew Secretary to the Commission." If she is a reliable Secretary, then Pasadena has no saloons, and the license system for hotels and restaurants was adopted by the male voters about a year and a half before equal suffrage was granted! I was in one of the best restaurants last October, which had no liquors, and it is a fact well known to tourists that the fine hotels in that city cater to the tourists who chiefly come from the east and south.

All of the above confirms my observation that when the average antis, especially including Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, of New York, enters the realm of facts, they are hopelessly lost, and doubtless for the reason that the facts are against them, although leaders like Mrs. George and Mrs. Goodwin laboriously strive to convey the opposite impression. Observe how carefully they avoid the marvelous results obtained by the women voters of Illinois within six months after getting the ballot. Not one of the dozen of hard facts shown by other suffragists and myself has been impeached, and cannot be, because they are true. One of Miss Smith's "facts" is that "12" counties were added to the "dry" column. The Chicago papers have stated 22, and never less than 17. This proves "as we have always contended" (to quote an anti "chestnut") that some women are not fit to exercise the ballot.

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

CHAPTER XXX.
Two Heavens.

AT the very moment that Deacon Baxter was starting out on his quest for a housekeeper, Patty and Mark drove into the Mason dooryard, and the sisters flew into each other's arms. The dress that Mark had bought for Patty was the usual charming and unsuitable offering of a man's spontaneous affection, being of dark violet cloth with a wadded cape lined with satin.

Waitstill in her plain linsey-woolsey was entranced with Patty's beauty and elegance, and the two girls had a few minutes of sisterly talk, of interchange of radiant hopes and confidences before Mark tore them apart, their cheeks wet with happy tears.

As the Mason house faded from view Patty waved her muff until the last moment, turned in her seat and said:

"Mark, dear, do you think your father would care if I spent the twenty dollar gold piece he gave me for Waitstill? She will be married in a fortnight, and if my father does not give her the few things she owns she will go to her husband more ill provided even than I was. I have so much, dear Mark, and she so little."

"It's your own wedding present to use as you wish," Mark answered, "and it's exactly like you to give it away. Go ahead and spend it if you want to. I can always earn enough to keep you without anybody's help." And Mark, after cracking the whip vainglariously, kissed his wife just over the violet ribbons, and, with sleigh bells jingling, they sped over the snow toward what seemed Paradise to them, the New Hampshire village where they had been married and where their new life would begin.

So a few days later Waitstill received a great parcel which relieved her of many feminine anxieties, and she began to shape and cut and stitch during all the hours she had to herself. They were not many, for every day she trudged to the Boynton farm and began with youthful enthusiasm the household tasks that were so soon to be hers by right.

"Don't waste too much time and strength here, my dearest," said Ivory. "Do you suppose for a moment I shall keep you long on this lonely farm? I am ready for admission to the bar or I am fitted to teach in the best school in New England. Nothing has held me here but my mother, and in her present condition of mind we can safely take her anywhere. We will never live where there are so many memories and associations to sadden and hamper us, but go where the best opportunity offers and as soon as may be. My wife will be a pearl of great price," he added fondly, "and I intend to provide a right setting for her!"

Ivory was right. Waitstill Baxter was indeed a jewel of a woman. She had little knowledge but much wisdom, and after all knowledge stands for the leaves on a tree and wisdom for the fruit. There was infinite richness in the girl, a richness that had been growing and ripening through the years that she thought so gray and wasted.

Those lonely tasks, too hard for a girl's hands, those unrewarded drudgeries, those days of faithful labor in and out of doors, those evenings of self sacrifice over the mending basket, the quiet avoidance of all that might vex her father's crusty temper, her patience with his miserly exactions, the hourly holding back of the hasty word—all these had played their part; all these had been somehow welded into a strong, sunny, steady life wisdom, there is no better name for it, and so she had unconsciously the best of all harvests to bring up dower to a husband who was worthy of her.

These were quietly happy days at the farm, for Mrs. Boynton took a new if transient hold upon life that deceived even the doctor. Rodman was nearly as ardent a lover as Ivory, hovering about Waitstill and exclaiming: "You never stay to supper, and it's so lonesome evenings without you! Will it never be time for you to come and live with us, Waity, dear? The days crawl so slowly!" At which Ivory would laugh, push him away and draw Waitstill nearer to his own side, saying, "If you are in a hurry, you young cormorant, what do you think of me?

"We can never wait two more days, Rod; let us kidnap her! Let us take the old bobsled and run over to New Hampshire where one can be married the minute one feels like it. We could do it between sunrise and moonrise and be at home for a late supper. Would she be too tired to bake the biscuits for us, do you think? What do you say, Rod, will you be best man?" And there would be youthful, unaccustomed laughter floating out from the kitchen or living room, bringing a smile of content to Lois Boynton's face as she lay propped up in bed with her open Bible beside her. "He binds up the broken hearted," she whispered to herself. "He gives unto them a garland for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness."

* * * * * * *

The quiet wedding was over. There had been neither feasting nor finery, nor presents nor bridal journey, only a homecoming that meant as deep and sacred a joy, as fervent gratitude as any four hearts ever contained in all the world. But the laughter ceased, though the happiness flowed silently underneath, almost forgotten in the sudden sorrow that overcame them, for it fell out that Lois Boynton had only waited as it were for the marriage and could stay no longer.

* * * There are two heavens * * *
Both made of love—one, inconceivable
Ev'n by the other, so divine it is;
The other, far on this side of the stars,
By men called home.

Lois Boynton found hers first. After a windy moonlit night a morning dawned in which a hush seemed to be on the earth. The cattle huddled together in the farmyards and the fowls shrank into their feathers. The sky was gray, and suddenly the white heralds came floating down like scouts seeking for paths and camping places.

Waitstill turned Mrs. Boynton's bed so that she could look out of the window. Slope after slope, dazzling in white crust, rose one upon another and vanished as they slipped away into the dark green of the pine forests.

Then,

* * * there fell from out the skies
A feathery whiteness over all the land;
A strange, soft, spotless something, pure as light.

It could not be called a storm, for there had been no wind since sunrise, no whirling fury, no drifting, only a still, steady, solemn fall of crystal flakes, hour after hour, hour after hour.

Mrs. Boynton's book of books was open on the bed, and her finger marked a passage in her favorite Bible poet.

"Here it is, daughter," she whispered. "I have found it, in the same chapter where the morning stars sing together and the sons of God shout for joy. The Lord speaks to Job out of the whirlwind and says, 'Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow, or hast thou seen the treasures of the hail?' Sit near me, Waitstill, and look out on the hills. 'Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow? No, not yet, but please God I shall, and into many other treasures soon," and she closed her eyes.

All day long the air ways were filled with the glittering army of the snowflakes, all day long the snow grew deeper and deeper on the ground, and on the breath of some white winged wonder that passed Lois Boynton's window her white soul forsook its "earth lot" and took flight at last.

They watched beside her, but never knew the moment of her going. Her face was so like an angel's in its shining serenity that the few who loved her best could not look upon her with anything but reverent joy. On earth she had known nothing but the "broken arcs," but in heaven she would find the "perfect round." There at last, on the other side of the stars, she could remember right, poor Lois Boynton!

For weeks afterward the village was shrouded in snow as it had never been before within memory, but in every happy household the home life deepened day by day. The books came out in the long evenings; the grandsires told old tales under the inspiration of the hearth fire; the children gathered on their wooden stools to roast apples and pop corn, and hearts came closer together than when summer called the housemates to wander here and there in fields and woods and beside the river.

Over at Boyntons', when the snow was whirling and the wind howling round the chimneys of the high gabled old farmhouse, when every window had its frame of ermine and fringe of icicles and the sleet rattled furiously against the glass, then Ivory would throw a great back log on the bank of coals between the firedogs, the kettle would begin to sing and the cat come from some snug corner to curl and purr on the braided hearth rug.

School was in session, and Ivory and Rod had their textbooks of an evening, but, oh, what a new and strange joy to study when there was a sweet woman sitting near with her workbasket—a woman wearing a shining braid of hair as if it were a coronet; a woman of clear eyes and tender lips, one who could feel as well as think, one who could be a man's comrade as well as his dear love! Truly the second heaven, the one on "this side of the stars, by men called home," was very present over at Boyntons'.

Sometimes the broad seated old haircloth sofa would be drawn in front of the fire, and Ivory, laying his pipe and his Greek grammar on the table, would take some lighter book and open it on his knee. Waitstill would lift her eyes from her sewing to meet her husband's glance that spoke longing for her closer companionship and, gladly leaving her work and slipping into the place by his side, she would put her elbow on his shoulder and read with him.

Once Rod from his place at a table on the other side of the room looked and looked at them with a kind of instinct beyond his years and finally crept up to Waitstill and, putting an arm through hers, nestled his curly head on her shoulder with the quaint charm and grace that belonged to him.

It was a young and beautiful shoulder, Waitstill's, and there had always been and would always be a gracious curve in it where a child's head might lie in comfort. Presently with a shy pressure, Rod whispered: "Shall I sit in the other room, Waitstill and Ivory? Am I in the way?"

Ivory looked up from his book quietly shaking his head, while Waitstill put her arm around the boy and drew him closer.

"Our little brother is never in the way," she said, as she kissed him.

On midsummer evenings the windows of the old farmhouse over at Boynton's gleam with unaccustomed lights and voices break the stillness, lessening the gloom of the long grass grown lane of Lois Boynton's watching in days gone by. On sunny mornings there is a merry babel of children's chatter, mingled with gentle maternal warnings, for this is a new brood of young things, and the river is calling them as it has called all the others who ever came within the circle of its magic. The fragile harebells hanging their blue heads from the crevices of the rocks; the brilliant columbines swaying to and fro on their tall stalks; the patches of gleaming sand in shallow places beckoning little bare feet to come and tread them; the glint of silver minnows darting hither and thither in some still pool; the tempestuous journey of some weather beaten log, fighting its way downstream—here is life in abundance, luring the child to share its risks and its joys.

When Waitstill's boys and Patty's girls come back to the farm they play by Saco water as their mothers and their fathers did before them. The paths through the pine woods along the river's brink are trodden smooth by their restless, wandering feet. Their eager, curious eyes search the waysides for adventure, but their babble and laughter are oftenest heard from the ruins of an old house hidden by great trees. The stones of the cellar, all overgrown with blackberry vines, are still there, and a fragment of the brick chimney, where swallows build their nests from year to year. A wilderness of weeds, tall and luxuriant, springs up to hide the stone over which Jacob Cochrane stepped daily when he issued from his door, and the polished stick with which three-year-old Patty beats a tattoo may be a round from the very chair in which he sat, expounding the Bible according to his own vision. The thickets of sweet clover and red tipped grasses, of waving ferns and young alder bushes hide all of ugliness that belongs to the deserted spot and serve as a miniature forest in whose shade the younglings foreshadow the future at their play of home building and housekeeping. In a far corner, altogether concealed from the passerby, there is a secret treasure, a wonderful rosebush, its green leaves shining with health and vigor. When the July sun is turning the hayfields yellow the children part the bushes in the leafy corner and little Waitstill Boynton steps cautiously in to gather one splendid rose, "for father and mother."

Jacob Cochrane's heart, with all its faults and frailties, has long been at peace. On a chill, dreary night in November all that was mortal of him was raised from its unhonored resting place, not far from the ruins of his old abode, and borne by three of his disciples far away to another state. The gravestones were replaced, face downward, deep, deep in the earth, and the sod laid back upon them, so that no man thenceforward could mark the place of the prophet's transient burial amid the scenes of his first and only triumphant ministry.

"It is a sad story, Jacob Cochrane's," Waitstill said to her husband when she first discovered that her children had chosen the deserted spot for their play, "and yet, Ivory, the red rose blooms and blooms in the ruins of the man's house, and perhaps somewhere in the world he has left a message that matches the rose."

HUERTA ADMITS FATE UNCERTAIN

Dictator Weakens as Mediation Meeting Opens.

PARKS SHOT BY SQUAD.

Urrutia, Huerta's "Secret Executioner," Says Dictator Killed All of His Political Foes—Many Uprisings In Mexico City.

Washington, May 20.—The downfall of General Huerta has never seemed so imminent as it does at the present time. There is reason to believe that the A, B, C envoys expect the conference at Niagara to terminate soon, and it will terminate only with the collapse of General Huerta.

The strongest evidence that this conviction is being borne in on the reluctant mind of General Huerta himself is his dispatch in response to an inquiry about his retirement:

"Nothing is positively determined."

A week ago he was asserting that he would never resign. But whether he resigns or not, his position is regarded as untenable and his fall at best as a matter of weeks.

Death of Parks.

Vera Cruz, May 20.—The two thoroughbred horses belonging to Lieutenant Colonel Taggart, with which Private Samuel Parks disappeared into the Mexican lines on May 6, were returned by a Mexican lieutenant of rurales, who is reported to have admitted that he executed Parkes and said he did this under orders from his superiors.

He stated that Parks died bravely, facing the firing squad with his eyes unbound and without a sign of flinching.

Vera Cruz, May 20.—"I didn't keep count of them."

This was the reply of Dr. Aureliano Urrutia, refugee from the wrath of General Huerta, when asked how many men had been put to death in Mexico City in the last twelve months.

The Vera Cruz police authorities filed charges against Urrutia with General Funston, accusing him of every crime, from cutting out the tongues of his enemies to incendiarism.

General Funston was asked to order the prosecution of Urrutia. This, of course, is impossible.

The "removal" of countless Mexicans of high and low degree in the rule of Victoriano Huerta was calmly discussed by Urrutia, once minister of the interior and credited with being Huerta's "secret executioner."

He admitted that many were summarily killed, but denied all personal responsibility.

Many Killed.

"How many Mexican leaders have been assassinated?" Urrutia was asked.

"I do not know," he answered. "I was blamed for them all, but I did not order them."

The former minister spoke bitterly, mindful of the deep resentment still manifested against him by the Mexicans of Vera Cruz.

Even as he talked in the Hotel Diligencia a muttering crowd could be heard in the plaza outside, but American marines kept them moving. Urrutia fled within the American lines, he said, to save himself and his family from the wrath of Huerta. He is under the protection of General Funston.

"Were many killed secretly?" he was asked.

"Yes, but I do not know how many," was the cautious reply.

"Is it true that Dominguez, the senator who arose in his seat and criticised Huerta, saying that the criticism was his last will and testament, was killed?"

"Yes; he was killed."

"Is it true that he was taken to your sanitarium before he was shot and his tongue cut out by Huerta's orders?"

"That is a lie!" vehemently replied Urrutia. "That was started against me by jealous cabinet members."

"Were you not minister of gobernacion and responsible for executions when Huerta ordered them?"

HUNGARIAN PREMIER FIGHTS.

Tisza In a Duel With Rapiers—Is Slightly Wounded.

Budapest, Hungary, May 20.—As a result of a dispute in a committee room of the Hungarian parliament on May 14 Count Stephen Tisza, the Hungarian premier, and Stephen Rakovsky, one of the members of the lower house, engaged in a duel here.
